"I trust that this booklet, used to provide material for lessons and studies in connection with observance of Commonwealth and Citizenship Day, will be helpful in increasing our appreciation of our priceless heritage.

I should like to take this opportunity to remind teachers that the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway by Her Majesty the Queen, and the subsequent tour of Canada which the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will make, afford a chance which should be utilized to the fullest extent for a series of preparatory lessons. Geography related to the event and to the economic importance of the Seaway, the early history of the region and the significance of the steps in international co-operation which have made the construction possible; these are topics from which every age or grade can derive something of importance. The constitutional position of Queen in this and in other undertakings is a topic which merits frequent mention and emphasis."

Donald McKinney, president of the Belleville Fire and Casualty Insurance Agents Association, presents cheque for $300 to Police Chief Walter Probert. The money will be used to provide tables and chairs for the new traffic school.

Sgt. Cecil Cook, officer in charge of the new city police traffic school, gives two Kinsmen Club "students" a blackboard demonstration in proper driving at intersections. Showing keen interest in the instruction are Mac White, Kinsmen Club director, and Don Bacon, past president.

Water Safety Council Active

The Quinte Water Safety Council's work has been progressing on several fronts, all designed to promote water safety for this area's adults and children. Learn-to-Swim classes have been organized for grade eight students in all public schools, through the co-operation of the Public School Board and the YMCA's physical education committee. There are 30 boys and girls currently entered in this program. It is hoped that this program will be extended to cover non-swimmers in grades six and seven by this fall.

A number of pamphlets and brochures on water safety have now been selected for distribution. The Kiwanis Club of Belleville has contributed the money necessary to acquire these items.

Four films have also been selected for showing to groups interested in water safety. These have been selected to provide coverage for all ages and for most water sport activities. Mr. Lloyd Doran at City Hall will be able to acquire these films when required.

The St. John Ambulance Association is now conducting artificial resuscitation classes and will be sponsoring a "Save-A-Life Week" in the future. Work is presently underway on publicity for Water Safety Week from June 14th to June 20th under the chairmanship of Mr. Jack Devlin. The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club is planning an open meeting during this week and will present displays of safety facilities available and how to use them. Demonstrations and films will also be available on this occasion.

City's Police Department To Operate Traffic School

Thanks to the co-operation and financial assistance from the Belleville Kinsmen Club and the Belleville Fire and Casualty Insurance Agents' Association, who have contributed funds toward the purchase of equipment for a new traffic school is shortly to be put into operation by the city police department.

Specialized equipment for the traffic school is now on order and classroom lectures are expected to start about the first of June. Organization of the traffic school has been under the direction of Police Chief Walter Probert, while Sgt. Cecil Cook will be in charge of instruction and class room lectures.

The traffic school will be held once a week in the second floor court room at the city police station. In the main attendance at traffic school lectures will be voluntary, the exceptions being persons under 16 years of age applying for drivers licence, and taxi drivers.

Also in the case of some traffic offences the magistrate may direct the person charged to take the traffic school instruction in safe and proper driving.

Police Chief Probert today paid tribute to the Belleville Kinsmen Club and to the Insurance Association for the financial assistance in setting up the traffic school. He noted that specialized equipment to be used in the school would cost Kinsmen well over $2,000, while the Insurance Association has contributed $300 for special tables to be used in the traffic school. Matching seating chairs are also being provided.

"When approached on the matter the Kinsmen Club readily agreed to support this very worthwhile project," noted Chief Probert.

Kinsmen Club president Jack Hamill noted the Club was very happy to assist in the project and were counting it as one of their principal community projects for the year.

Among specialized equipment to be used in the operation of the traffic school is an auto trainer which operates on much the same principal as the Link Trainer used in pre-flight training for air crews during the last war.

In other words, the auto trainer enables the student to practise starting and stopping a car, shifting gears, steering and parking, all inside the classroom and without the danger of learning the rudiments of driving under actual traffic conditions. The machine has conventional controls, including gearshift, accelerator and starter.

Included on the machine is a simulated traffic light system controlled by the instructor who at the same time notes the manner the student is doing with his driving.

Another machine to kee classroom use is a driver evaluator which tests a driver for field of vision, color vision, distance judgment, visual acuity and reaction time, while a night sight meter tests the three important phases involved in night highway driving.

These are glare vision, vision under dim illumination and glare recovery.

Also part of the classroom equipment will be a movie projector provided by the Kinsmen Club and a department owned slide projector.

The movie projector will be used for showing of films on safe driving, while the slide projector will show shots of driving dangers which may crop up under local conditions and which may cause accidents.

Although pointing out that the traffic school was in the main voluntary, it was hoped that teen aged students and others learning to drive would take advantage of the traffic course.

"It is the young people learning to drive who are involved at most and it is these people who can be expected to benefit most," the chief said. "We don't expect big results immediately but the benefits will be evident in a few years time."

He noted that many traffic schools are being operated with success in Oshawa, Hamilton, Ottawa, Toronto and other Ontario centres. A traffic school is also scheduled to be opened in Trenton this year.

At the outset the traffic school will see lectures given by Sgt. Cook once a week. The course will consist of two lectures of two hours each, spaced about two weeks apart.

This will give persons taking the course the opportunity of digesting the first lecture before returning for the second. Pamphlets on safe driving and driving regulations will be provided students.

Kinsmen Club President Jack Hamill, and Lin Johnston, president-elect, with Police Chief Walter Probert are seen with the movie projector which is part of the equipment being supplied by the Kinsmen Club. Belleville Kinsmen for the city Police Traffic School to be opened next month. The Local Kinsmen Club is contributing over $2,000 for equipment purchase as a community project.

400 Kinsmen, Kinettes Here For 1959 Spring Convention

Over 400 Kinsmen and Kinettes are gathering in the city this weekend, starting Thursday night, for their annual spring convention. Registration hall marked the beginning of activities with a welcome party following close on the heels of the first arrivals. The renewing of old acquaintances and the launching of new friendships increased as the evening carried on and as more members to the convention arrived on the scene.

The serious work of the convention started this morning at 7.00 o'clock with a Wakie-Wakie session followed by further registrations of new arrivals. Dalton, president of Carling Breweries, will be the main speaker this evening.

Saturday morning one of the main events of the business session, the election of the district governor, will take place. This will be followed by a stag luncheon for the Kinsmen to meet the members of the World's Hockey Championship team. In the evening the Governor's Dinner at the Hotel Quinte, followed by the Governor's Ball at the armouries, conclude the convention's highlights.

While ladies are enjoying their stag luncheon and business sessions, the ladies will be having a mixed luncheon with their own schedule of events.

A coffee party, Friday morning, and a tour of the Corbyville Distillery in the afternoon, will precede their attendance at the mixed dinner to hear Col. Dalton on "Carling's. On Saturday they will hold a business meeting in the morning and have lunch at Rickarton Castle in Picton prior to the parade in the afternoon. Then their presence will grace the proceedings at the Governor's Dinner and Ball Saturday evening.

The Buildings of Parliament

The main building with its tall Peace Tower in front and its circular Parliamentary Library behind stands on the edge of a high bank of the Ottawa River. This is the building which contains both the Senate Chamber and the House of Commons, together with committee rooms, and offices for the Senators and members of parliament.

The original Parliament Building on the same site was destroyed by fire in 1916 and the present building was completed in 1920. The Library of Parliament was saved when the rest of the building burned in 1916, but the Library itself was badly damaged by fire in 1952.

Behind the Parliament buildings the Ottawa River can be seen, with floating logs beside a great paper mill, and across the river the city of Hull, Quebec. In the river at the far left can be seen the rapids coming from the Chaudiere Falls. At the right there are eight locks of the Rideau canal by which small boats can be raised from the river to the higher level of the canal. Beside the canal is a large hotel, the Chateau Laurier. In the foreground, the National War Memorial commemorates those who served and died in the First World War.

By GLADYS WARD

Faced with rising costs and ever - increasing responsibilities the National Council of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church W. If the church is to be a vital example of Christianity we must recognize our individual responsibility. We are bridged as a service unit to the Lord. The church is honored when we pray, when we fast or speak. We must begin locally and extend to the whole world. Wedding

ALLEN — KELLAR

Arden Standard Church was the setting on Saturday, May 9, at 2.00 p.m. for a pretty spring-time wedding when Phyllis Doreen Kellar, of Arden, R. R. No. 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kellar became the bride of Alvin Franklin Allen, of Picton, Ontario, son of Mr. Erwin Allen, and the late Mr. Allen. The Reverend A. Slater, of Belleville, assisted by the Reverend N. Peters, of Arden, officiated before a background of palms and white streamers, white wedding bells, daffodils and pastel-tinted tulips.

Miss Joan Matson, of Arden presided for the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Marion Matson, who sang "A Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Oscar Kellar, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white nylon lace with net trim over satin, fashioned with fitted basque and matching bolero having long sleeves. Petal Pac and lar outlined with seed pearls and sequins. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of shimmering sequins, seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Jack Knight, as matron of honor was gowned in ballerina-length blue nylon lace with matching net trim over taffeta having a bolero with long sleeves. Her headdress was in matching color and material, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Joanne Parks, as bridesmaid, wore blue nylon lace in ballerina-length over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves, and carried a bouquet of pink mums.

The little flower girl, Elaine Godfrey, cousin of the bride, was demure and sweet in her pink nylon frock with pink gloves and headdress, and carrying a basket of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Ivan Allen, of Picton, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman; while Messrs. Walter Jackson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Jack Willmott, cousin of the bride, both of Arden, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was profusely decorated with pink and white streamers, daffodils and tulips for the occasion. The bride's table, placed beneath cascading pink and white streamers, was centred by the traditional wedding cake, tall, pink candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets of the attendants.

The bride's mother wore blue nylon lace over taffeta with white hat, gloves and shoes, and pink carnation corsage. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother who was gowned in blue taffeta, with navy hat, gloves and purse, with pink carnation corsage.

For the wedding trip to Peterborough and Windsor, the bride chose a light blue ensemble with black fleck, white shoes and hat, and carried white purse, with pink carnation corsage. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Allen will reside in Belleville.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, at a shower held at the home of Mrs. Jack Knight, and on the return of the bride and bridegroom on May 15, there will be a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Archie Tyron.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DUTIES OF MASTER AND MISTRESS OF CEREMONIES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's niece is to be married in early July. It is to be a large, afternoon wedding in church, and the reception is to be at their home. My husband and I have been asked to be host and hostess, and we assume this is the same as Master and Mistress of Ceremonies. They of course will have things in mind they would like to have us do, but we would like to have you give us general directions also. — A.C.

The first duty of a Master of Ceremonies and a Mistress of Ceremonies is to have a very definite consultation with the bride-to-be and her mother and father, or whoever is planning the wedding for the bride-to-be, as to the general pattern of the proceedings. They may have ideas that should be, so uncertainty about this. Customarily the Master of Ceremonies is asked in preside over the procedure for the toasts and the cutting of the wedding toasts.

He should, of course, be told whom he is to call on for the first and most important toasts . . . that is, the toasts that are customarily made before any impromptu toasts which may be proposed afterward. For example: the toast to the bride or, more usual, the toast to the bride and groom (the groom responds to this toast); the toast to the bride's attendants; toast to bride's mother, the hostess of the wedding, and to bride's father, host of the wedding; toast to groom's mother, woman guest of honor at the wedding, and to groom's father, man guest of honor; and any other of the customary toasts at the beginning.

It is, of course, important and considerate for the master of Ceremonies to inform, before the wedding, each one to be called on . . . certainly no one wants to be called on without some opportunity to prepare "a few well-chosen words."

When the traditional toasts have been proposed and responded to, the Master of Ceremonies must be alertly prepared to direct any impromptu toasts that anyone wishes to propose. These do not necessarily have to be responded to, usually aren't.

The Master of Ceremonies usually is asked to make the plans for when the bride and groom should cut the cake, to summon the guests to the table where the cake is to be cut, and he may be the one to lead the group in singing, "Th Bride Cuts the Cake!"

The Mistress of Ceremonies should be informed what responsibilities she is to have to supplement the responsibilities of the Master of Ceremonies. She may be asked to take over the duty of the over-all directing of the reception, or perhaps only the directing of the formation of the receiving-line. Undoubtedly she will be asked to supervise the proceeds of the Guest Book, making sure everyone signs it. She may also take over the cutting-and-serving of the wedding cake after the bride and groom have cut and shared the first slice. Occasionally she is asked to help oversee the serving of the refreshments. Occassionally, too, she is asked to supervise the taking of the photographs.

The ideal Master and Mistress of Ceremonies are the gracious and poised and alert directors and guides of the occasion.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two teachers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Pearl S. — I love to play bridge — and he won't learn.

Harold S. — Cardplaying is an obsession.

* * *

Pearl S. — My husband and I have been married a year and are quite happy except for one problem. It may sound silly, but it has been causing a lot of trouble.

It is simply that I love to play bridge and Harold refuses to learn. Bridge is my one great relaxation. I would rather spend an evening over the card table than any other recreational activity. I begged Harold to learn, but he thinks it's a waste of time and says he was never good at card games anyway.

I gave up the game for a while, but now none of my old friends have been calling me to be a fourth. One of the men is a bachelor I used to go out with before I was married. The game often breaks up pretty late and this man takes me home. I always want to invite him in for supper, but my husband is so rude and resentful it's awful.

* * *

Harold S. — I told Pearl that I wouldn't mind if she played cards with a group of women, but she says she doesn't enjoy that as much. To me this means only one thing — that she enjoys the company of this particular man. She has admitted that they were serious at one time.

Hi amors me the way this man or Pearl's married friends call and ask for her as though she were a single woman. They never think of inviting me just to sort of hang around. I am left alone all evening.

To me cardplaying is just an obsession and people should try to cure themselves of it. There are much better things to enjoy — like reading or listening to music. When I try to get Pearl to do a little of that, she just starts to yawn. But she says she would like to play cards every night of the week.

* * *

The Council: Many married couples have widely different interests, yet this never becomes a cause of dissension between them.

Pearl and Harold seem to use their interests to hurt one another and drive a wedge in their relationship. They make a point of insulting one another by expressing disdain for the other's interests.

Pearl knows that Harold will be left out of her cardplaying evenings, yet she expresses the desire to play every night of the week. Harold is completely unreasonable when he complains of being left alone, yet refuses to make an effort to find some interest in Pearl's activities. He makes the assumption that his highbrow interests are far better, but we believe that if he enjoyed them with real enthusiasm he would be less resentful of his wife's interests.

Harold's jealousy of the other man appears to be part of this whole picture. He feels somewhat cast off and neglected by Pearl and the reasons for this undoubtedly go deeper than her cardplaying. Pearl's rather over intense interest in cardplaying suggests that she feels she is missing something that would give her life a little more meaning and excitement.

The answer here cannot be concerned with playing or not playing cards. Pearl and Harold must seek and find a warmer, more meaningful life together. M. and the card problem will disappear — whether or not Pearl continues with the game.

QUESTION:

Please help me . . . my little boy will make his First Holy Communion. Everybody who wishes him well is invited to Breakfast after Mass. We are expecting about 25 guests. The first year, we had such a celebration I had French fried chicken with potato salad. Result: I slaved in the kitchen 'til near exhaustion. For my second child's Big Event, I had sliced ham and egg. I still found that I spent a lot of time at the stove while everyone enjoyed themselves. I don't especially care for potato salad. I just wish you could help me think up an easy breakfast that would do for children as well as grown-ups. Incidentally I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your recipe for rhubarb conserve and chutney. Last year I had bushels of rhubarb that was too tough to freeze so I followed your two recipes and received much praise on these two goodies. We have seven children and they take a lot of planning to keep their appetites happy . . . Mrs. H.

ANSWER:

I agree with you 100%. Buffet Menu follows which may all be prepared in advance. Have the table all set in advance including butter and jams.

BREAKFAST BUFFET MENU:

Fruits, pitchers of orange juice, chilled bowls of preserved figs, glazed baked ham, scalloped eggs, sticky cinnamon buns, assorted jams and jellies including your rhubarb chutney, milk, coffee.

The ham and casserole of eggs may be almost cooked but left in the oven at 185 deg. Fahr. while you see at Church. The buns will have to be served at room temperature unless you have a warming oven which can be regulated to stay at "low" with the buns in it while you are absent.

Ask your husband to carve the ham. Invite the guests to serve themselves. Serve yourself and sit down and enjoy the party, having instructed your older children in advance how to do all the passing necessary.

SCALLOPED EGGS:

(To serve 25). One and one-half cups butter or margarine, 6 cups finely diced celery, 3-4 cups each chopped parsley and chopped onion, 1-3 cup chopped green pepper, 1 1-8 cups flour, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 cups milk, (3 quarts less 1 cup), 3 dozen hard-cooked eggs, 6 slices of bread with crusts on cut into 1-4" dice, 3-4 cup melted butter or margarine. Melt the first amount of butter in a large saucepan; add celery, onion and green pepper and gently saute for 5 minutes. Blend in the flour and the salt. Stir in the pre-heated milk until thick and just beginning to boil. Add the parsley. Arrange the eggs which have been cut in halves lengthwise in the bottom of 2 or 3 large casseroles. Toss the bread cubes in the melted butter (second amount). Pour the sauce evenly over the eggs. Sprinkle evenly with bread cubes. Bake at 400 deg. until gold and bubbly, (in your case bake at 185 deg. during churchtime.)

Stirling W.I. Commemorates Mother's Day at May Meeting

The May meeting of Stirling Women's Institute was held Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Earl Lucey, John St.

President, Mrs. Blanche Reid occupied the chair, conducting the business part of the meeting.

Mrs. E. Luery presided as pianist in the absence of Mrs. R. Williams who was attending the Women's Institute conference at Guelph as delegate.

Three membership fees were paid for the new year.

Secretary, Mrs. Duncan Montgomery, read the correspondence including a message of appreciation for fruit which Institute members had sent with gifts also for kind words of sympathy and comfort from Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman in the loss of their son. The members are pleased that Mrs. Bateman is much better in health. She was missed from the meeting.

Treasurer Mrs. W. C. West gave the report also the day's receipts, $10.25.

"Food and Nutrition" was the short course decided upon by this Institute but the final one will rule the majority at the District meeting which will be held in Stirling, May 28th, with River Valley W.I. as hostess.

Mrs. B. Reid was appointed as the voting delegate to this district annual to represent Stirling W.I.

The pleasure trip was further discussed, agreeing that the president contact Miss McDonald, agricultural representative, as to the most interesting places to see on this trip.

DONATIONS

Generous donations were voted to be given to the following: Music Festival of Sacred Praise for prizes; Stirling Horticultural Society and Stirling Boy Scouts, the latter two for beautification of the village of Stirling.

The president announced the June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. D. Montgomery, Henry Street, with Mrs. W. C. West as program convener.

Mrs. Lucella Bronson presided for the program which included all singing a verse and chorus of "Home On the Range", "Spring Cleaning", a reading by Mrs. E. Lucey, part of which is:

"There are hundreds of little things that willing hands might do. Don't forget, the human brain gets dull and dusty; we need to make our spiritual lives airy, sweet and new; we need to turn our old ideas, old grudges behind, fling wide the windows and admit the sun's refreshing love and light into the secret places that are dark with hate and fear. Let love rule your home and life and there evils will disappear. The aim of religion is not to get us into Heaven but to get Heaven and the good things in life into us."

Mrs. Lucella Bronson, president of the Stirling Horticultural Society, gave an illustrated talk on plant growing, miracles to be had, with the proper soil, ingredients for good growing of flowers. Also stating the care to be given plants to obtain the best results and blooming. Several of these plants and slips and leaves were given the ladies to take home and pot.

A Mother's Day paper was given by Mrs. E. Luery in part: "The Bible, the greatest book ever to be published by man, telling the stories of creation, and healing of compassion all intermingled with love Divine. Jesus sacrificing His life for mankind how much in comparison is a good mother's life as that of Jesus' life, — true mothers get weary, many times, but their love is not in vain, doing good for others, this seems to be God's plan of a mother's role to play in life, which, when well done, makes her a little lower than the angels.

Fame is only a passing gesture; it fades then disappears with time. To be a good mother, this must be lived from day to day for reality, a Mother's Day in every day. You who practise this good habit, will get the greatest happiness; show gratitude to God. For including you as a mother, on Mother's Day.

God could not be in every place with loving hands to help erase the tearstrops from each baby's face and so He thought of mother.

He could not send us here alone and leave us thus to fate unknown without providing for His own the outstretched arms of mother.

God could not watch us night and day, and kneel beside our crib to pray for us our little aches away and so He sent to us "A Mother."

A 'Name and Number' tray contest followed with the honors going to Mrs. Ketcheson, Mrs. Averhart, and Mrs. P. Brennan, each receiving a hand crocheted doily for their efforts.

Refreshments were served and a social chit chat was enjoyed.

Mrs. W. C. West expressed thanks to the convener and to the educational program and refreshments.

Woman Directs Busy Centre of Transit System

VANCOUVER (CP) — Every month, 35,000 questions pour into the B.C. Electric Company's transit information centre here—and Mrs. Florence McConnell has an answer for practically all of them.

Mrs. McConnell, who has spent 16 years in the bus and trolley transportation business, is chief of a staff of 12 who answer inquiries about everything from weather conditions to lost tie clips.

She directs this busy centre of Vancouver's transit system from a glass-enclosed office overlooking 15 acres of parking space for buses and trolley coaches.

"Any other job would be dull after this," she says.

Lights dazzle on the switchboard, buzzers and phones ring and police calls are monitored in the office around the clock.

At the other end of the telephone line is a woman who has forgotten where he was going, lost a pet, mislaid a parcel or become confused by a route change.

When fires or collisions snarl up the bus and trolley coach schedules the telephone switchboards blaze with calls from anxious customers. The staff at the centre have a knack for giving a clear picture of the problem from which help may be heard over the police radio.

It's the odd questions that keep the centre's staff interested. Such as the query: "How old does my dog have to be before he's allowed to ride on a bus?"

Age doesn't matter, so long as someone's looking after him.

Kingston Resident Heads Ontario Council of Women

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Council of Women of Ontario has called on the provincial government to extend its cancer treatment services for women.

A resolution passed by the council Thursday asked that cancer detection clinics be set up. Additional research in the field of postgraduate work in the field of cancer research and detection were also sought by the council in the resolution, passed at the closing session of the annual meeting here.

Mrs. John C. Duff of Kingston was re-elected president of the council. Mrs. J. H. Cutt of Orillia was chosen a vice-president.

Other officers include: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ross H. Wilby of Kingston, and treasurer, Mrs. Leo Leivers of Brantford.

Eastminster W.F. Enjoys Quintebelles

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Federation of Eastminster United Church was held on Monday evening in affiliation with the Explorers' Group.

After the president, Mrs. Williams, had opened the meeting and extended a welcome to all, she turned the meeting over to the Explorers' Group under the leadership of Miss Barbara Williams, and Mrs. Adamson, who conducted a devotional period, the theme of which was "Sharing our Gifts with God's Other Children".

The business meeting followed with the secretary and treasurer reading their reports.

Mesdames Gardner and Knowlton were in charge of the devotional period.

Mrs. June Hutchinson led in prayer and Mrs. Booth read the parable of "The Good Samaritan" from St. Luke's gospel.

Mrs. Gardner closed this period with prayer.

Mrs. Knowlton introduced the "Quintebelles", the newly formed Lady Barbershop chorus. They delighted the group with several numbers.

Thanks were extended to the chorus by Mrs. Knowlton.

Refreshments were served to all at the conclusion of the meeting.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — The May meeting of St. Peters' W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. George Alvey. Mrs. Alvey opened the meeting.

A business period followed: several announcements were made with special mention of the rally which will be held in Picton on May 27th.

Mrs. McIntosh had charge of the program, entitled "The People of Canada." Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Alvey sang a beautiful duet, "Mother's Hands," accompanied by Mrs. Johnston at the piano.

Mrs. Alvey assisted Mrs. McIntosh in presenting the topic which proved interesting. This included a report of the work being done in all the larger cities of Canada; vans in the west and the responsibility of the church to provide leaders in the church schools to give a Christian witness. The W.M.S. sends regional secretaries to do this work in the different departments. Grants are given to supply literature which can be read by all as it is one of the many languages.

Thanks are given to the women of the church for the work they are doing in all these places.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

WEST HUNTINGDON — The W.M.S. of the United Church held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Glenn Elliott.

The program was presided over by Mrs. Russell Sills. Mr. George Dyson led in prayer and Mrs. Dan Cooke read a portion of Scripture. Due to illness, Mrs. Ted Pollock was unable to be present.

Helpful readings were given by Mrs. George Dyson and Miss Sarah Wilson.

Following the business period and benediction, refreshments were served and a social hall hour enjoyed.

Formosa Girls Being Used as Forced Labor

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—About 20 per cent of the 190,000 girls bought under Formosa's foster-daughter system are being used as forced labor or sold into prostitution, Formosan officials have told for minister charges.

Vice President Chen-chih told a forum recently it was ironic that, while Nationalist China was a signer of the world anti-slavery pact, thousands of girls are traded on this island each year.

The system originally provided a way of taking care of unwanted daughters of poor families. Wealthy families would buy them and give them a chance in life.

More than 36,000 of the foster-daughters now on the island are treated by their new families. Ten declared.

The system became sold more than 2,000 foster-daughters had been freed with the aid of a non-governmental organization formed in Taipei seven years ago.

BLAMES OCCUPATION

Tien blamed the Japanese occupation of Formosa from 1895 to 1945 for making a slavery system out of the former practice of wealthy families caring for orphan girls.

Two former foster - daughters told the meeting they had sought refuge with the civic organization set up to help them in Taipei after their foster - fathers had sought to force them into prostitution.

Formosa's foster - daughters were described as falling into four classes:

1. The fortunate ones adopted by childless couples who treat them as their own daughters.

2. Those adopted by poor couples to become their future daughters-in-law.

3. Those adopted by well-to-do families to serve them as unpaid domestic help.

4. Those adopted to be sold to brothels.

It was noted that July 1st is opening day at Camp Conneson and all ladies would be welcomed who can lend to assist with preparing the camp for summer use.

World Temperance Sunday is the first one in November and the following quotation was thought to be appropriate:

"The world has enough women who know how to hold cocktails, who have lost all their illusions and their faith, the world has enough women who know how to be smart, it needs women who are willing to be simple, the world has enough women who know how to be brilliant, it needs some who will be brave."

Miss G. Campbell, the new field secretary, reminded the members of the W.C.T.U. plaques that could be placed in schools with 100 per cent participation in essay work. These are presented by the county. She stated that there are four big distillers, Seagrams in Montreal; Hiram Walkers in Windsor, and two in the United States. There is one large brewery in Canada which is the third largest brewery in the world and two large breweries in the States. They do five million dollars, worth of advertising each year; using fictitious publishing houses in Quebec and United States to produce alcoholic advertising.

She stated that one quart of gin or vodka costs nine cents to produce but via cocktails, it may realize $14 per quart. The alcoholic industry may produce considerable amounts of revenue for the government on one hand but with the other hand it exacts far greater sums from the government for upkeep of alcoholics, hospitals, accident cases, and mental hospitals for alcoholics or for those forced to live with alcoholics and who break down under the strain of such abnormal living, also for welfare agencies and their services for the families of alcoholics.

The W.C.T.U. believes that every child has the right to know the truth about the destructiveness caused by the consumption of alcohol and we do not believe that the personal opinions of school boards or teachers who may be alcoholic consumers themselves, have the right to deny the child the privilege of such education.

LUNG CANCER

Miss Campbell drew to the attention of the members the article heeded "Cancer By the Carton," in March issue of Reader's Digest magazine which depicts the growing horror of lung cancer caused by smoking. She also recommended a new film entitled "The Dope On Dope." There are 350 registered dope addicts in England and of this number, half of them are doctors. Selling for $10 per shot, the dope actually costs only eighteen cents for a similar amount obtained through regular medical channels. "A Manual of Alcohol Studies for Schools," costing 50 cents, may be obtained from the Manifold Text Book Bureau, 146 Notre Dame Ave., Winnipeg, Man.

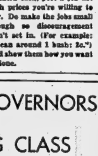
The memorial service was conducted by the Belleville Union with Miss M. Barnum, Mrs. E. G. Coulter and Mrs. W. H. Vandervoort taking part. "My Task Ended" was sung by Mrs. L. Wright. It was suggested that each member put ten women on her prayer list in for new members — Luke 14:23.

NEW OFFICERS

The new officers for 1959-60 will be as follows: past president, Mrs. Alex Fleming, Brighton; president, Mrs. Donald Wellbanks, South Bay; first vice - president, Mrs. George Finlay, Strathcona; second vice-president, Mrs. E. G. Coulter, Belleville; third vice-president, Mrs. E. Langford, Napanee; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. M. Rutton, Picton; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. Wright, Picton; recording secretary, Mrs. B. F. Dennison, Selby; assistant recording secretary, Miss M. Mitchell, Newburgh; treasurer, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, Belleville; Y.T.C. secretary, Miss M. Barnum, Belleville; L.T.L. secretary, Miss M. Mitchell, Newburgh; secretary-treasurer, camp committee, Mrs. C. McCookey, Consecon; camp manager, Mrs. Alex Fleming, Brighton; assistant camp manager, Mrs. L. White, Wellington; and press secretary, Mrs. H. Langford, Napanee.

The banquet was held at 7.00 p.m. in the Sunday School room with about one hundred guests in attendance. Greetings were brought by Reeve D. Bond and different church groups. The guest speaker, Miss M. G. Campbell, gave various reasons for modern drinking habits which are increasing so alarmingly. In Canada, 75 per cent of the people 15 years and over drink alcoholic beverages; in Ontario 85 to 70 per cent in the same age group. In Canada 64 per cent of the women drink alcoholic beverages compared to 46 per cent in the United States.

DESTRUCTIVE OUTLET



Drinking releases inhibitions and makes one feel self - important and falsely independent. It fills a primitive demand for relief and a modern need for relaxation and social companionship and a form of artificial escape from life's problems. Alcohol provides a destructive outlet for emotions which could be obtained healthfully through books, theatres, dramatics, sports, dancing and religious interests.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ian Fleming sang two duets — "Jesus and I" and "Jesus is My Friend", Mrs. F. Whitney sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul", accompanied by Mrs. Walters at the piano.

Mrs. R. G. Coulter presented the report of the Courtesy Committee thanking all who had cooperated in making the convention such a success and thanked the ladies of the W. A. for the bountiful banquet, which they provided.

The meetings were closed with the benediction pronounced by Mr. E. V. Cook.

Mother's Helper

SOME of the spring clean-up work in your yard can be done by your children. If they're anxious to earn a bit of extra cash, post a job list with prices you're willing to pay. Do make the jobs small enough so discouragement won't set in. (For example: "Clean around 1 bush: 5c.") And show them how you want it done.

Workbench Just Like Dad's

Scaled to size, this portable bench for simple saw and hammer projects is a present that will bring a boy hours of practical fun. The parts go together as shown, with simple joints that can be screwed and glued for added strength.

The workbench is quickly cut and assembled from a 4x4 foot piece of ¾ inch fir plywood. In addition, one piece of ½ inch fir plywood 36x18½ inches is needed for the back.

Handy feature of the fir plywood box is that it can be picked up by the rope handles and stored away or be taken out in the yard on sunny days. If left out in the rain the water will not affect the plywood.

To equip the bench a small vise, hammer screwdriver and saw will be needed. It's best for safety sake to provide a hacksaw or fine-toothed back saw.

Tools can be hung inside or placed on the shelves. There's room for storage of bits of plywood and lumber too.

Give your young carpenter some fir plywood pieces to work on and some elementary projects to make. You'll be surprised how quickly he'll learn to saw and nail and how much fun he'll get out of learning.

Natural Wood In Decoration

If you want to know what kind of wood to use for certain interior decorating effects; here's how the National Lumber Manufacturers' Assn. classifies natural color tones: Light to medium colors include ponderosa pine, southern pine, Douglas fir, Idaho pine, sugar pine, Eastern spruce, west coast hemlock, Sitka spruce, white ash, birch, black gum hackeberry, hickory, pecan, magnolia, soft maple hard maple, red oak, white oak and yellow poplar.

For wood running medium to dark in color use western red cedar, southern cypress, California redwood, larch, brown ash butternut cherry, chestnut, red gum, American walnut and mahogany.

Home Project Often Needs Expert Touch

In deciding how much, if any, of the work involved in a home improvement project should be done by the home-owner, it is important to make a realistic distinction between the type of jobs that may be well within his scope and others which had better be left to the professional.

Included in the latter category are replacements or repairs of columns which support roofs or canopies, work on window or door flashings, footings, etc. as well as such hazardous operations as roof, gutter or chimney work.

Plastering is another job that the amateur should hesitate to tackle. The proper technique of spreading plaster, especially on ceilings, is one that usually requires long years of experience to master.

WIRING IS "PRO" JOB

Wiring is definitely "out as a do-it-yourself project. There are so many factors, such as local building codes, safety codes and insurance regulations involved, to say nothing of the element of danger to family and home, that this type of work should be left to the licensed electrician.

Major plumbing projects, too, are not for the amateur. Getting skilled help in the beginning will usually save him money in the end.

Same thing goes for heating. The proper repair or installation of a heating plant calls for so much specialized knowledge and experience, that the services of a competent heating engineer afford the only sound assurance of safety, dependability and operating economy.

Among the projects that many homeowners can reasonably undertake are interior paint jobs; attic insulation; simple repairs in screens or storm sash; minor repairs to exterior walls, such as can be made by reseiling wood siding or refilling masonry joints with prepared mortar, patching holes and filling cracks in interior walls and ceilings; laying concrete walks which can be built a square at a time.

On many remodelling jobs, a sensible division of the work between the professional and the home-owner works out well. The former takes care of the structual changes while the home-owner supplies the finishing touches.

FINGER PROTECTION

Using a hobby pin as a miniature pliers to hold small brads makes it easy to drive them without hitting thumb and finger in the process.

New Switches Have Lights in Handles

New mercury switches that operate silently without the usual on and off clicks are now being equipped with lighted handles clearly visible in the dark. A tiny neon light in the toggle handle glows when the switch is off.

This is a handy idea for bedrooms, bathrooms and children's rooms. The glowing handle also serves as a reverse pilot light for basement circuits, indicating when the basement lights are off.

The neon handle is supposed to be good for 10 to 15 years and its current cost is figured at about 2 cents per year average rates.

Modern Furnace Gives Basement a 'New Look'

A lot of imagination, considerable thought and long hours of planning were needed for home owners of the early twenties if they wished to give a "new look" to the old basement. In those days, most basements were a hodge-podge of storage and cumbersome old furnaces. Such was accepted living and there was nothing much could be done about it.

But that can all be changed today. Where most homes, years ago, actually wasted one third of their space with a cluttered basement, today it is the whole, due to the availability of modern, compact, good-looking heating plants, to make the basement as attractive as useful and as warm as any other room in the house.

Much can be done with the basement to promote greater family enjoyment and convenience, says the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. Much of the furnace's new respectability has been brought about to make more living space available in Canadian homes. Modern heating plants are so quick-acting, so attractive and so compact that they can transform the lower floor completely.

Modern heating units require a minimum of space and most of the basement area is left for the home owner to make use of as it suits his wish or requirements. To some it gives an opportunity to create a hobby room or workshop. To others, it means a recreation room where members of the family can share their fun or where friends can be entertained.

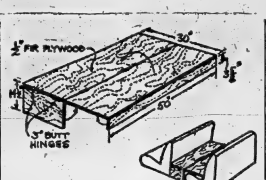
Every owner of an older home owes it to himself to at least investigate what the makers of modern heating equipment have made available. Many a householder has found that the replacement of his old furnace has resulted in fuel saving sufficient to pay the cost over a comparatively short space of time. In addition, modern heating plants offer all the obvious advantages of cleanliness, compactness, greater convenience and greater comfort.

It is advisable to consult an expert when planning to modernize the heating plant. Your local heating contractor will be able to give valuable help. Usually it will be found that the cost is less than anticipated. Easy financing may also be arranged through a government-sponsored Home Improvement Loan. Terms of repayment are generous and carrying charges are low. The manager of any branch of a Canadian Bank will be glad to explain all details of such a loan.

A "new look" to an older basement not only adds to the enjoyment of family living but, in most cases, effects real economy on fuel costs while giving greatly increased comfort.

Insulation Is Low-Cost Comfort Item

How much does year-round comfort cost? Practically nothing when you insulate your home, because insulation pays for itself in just a few years! You get a yearly dividend in the form of lower fuel bills and increased comfort. Insulation of the well-spend your house in summer and seal in heat in winter.



There are many types of insulating materials to suit your needs and your budget. Reflective aluminum sheeting is easy to install in attic rafters. There is a lightweight mineral wool insulation which is poured, or blown, into walls and ceiling. Batt or blanket type insulation is used in sidewalls and attic rafters.

Insulation board — in panels, planks or tile sizes — is an inexpensive way to shut out cold and reduce noises.

Insulation can be effectively used in old as well as new homes. Call your local insulation expert today for a free estimate on insulation for your home this winter!

CHEAT THE TERMITES

Keep all soil around your foundation from touching wood at any point and you will go far toward keeping termites out of your house.

Fir Plywood Emergency Car Bed Folds Up Flat When Not in Use

A useful accessory for the family car is a portable car bed. It can be folded flat for storage when not in use.

Top of the bed is simply two pieces of half-inch fir plywood hinged along the centre line so that they fold flat when not in use.

Smaller pieces of the same thickness fir plywood are hinged at each end, making "legs" to support the part of the bed that spans the car floor.

To some extent, the dimensions of the family car will determine the actual size of the folding bed. The figures given in the diagram are for the average automobile.

If the finished car bed is primed and painted, and provision is made on the underside for temporary legs, it can serve the double purpose of a camp table when not being slept on.

Two-Headed Nails Are Saving Lumber

Two-headed scaffolding nails have settled a feud between the turpentine and lumber industries. Workers who nailed metal spouts on pine trees to direct the flow of gum for turpentine used to leave stumps of 3 to 8 feet of the best part of the log because that much lumber was not worth the damage the nails caused to saw in the mills.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 kegs of two-headed nails are now being used yearly by turpentine farmers. Driven in snugly to the first head, this nail holds the spout, still is easy to remove by its second head.

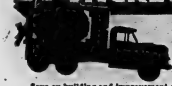
Gas Heater Can Banish Cold Spots

Where's the cold spot in your house? Is it the living room you created by enclosing the porch for year-round use? The room you finished off by yourself in the attic? A clammy basement room, perhaps?

Nearly every home has one and it presents a serious problem. It's too chilly to use, yet you can't afford to waste perfectly good space; and if you send up enough heat to make that room comfortable, the rest of the house is too hot to bear.

If this describes your situation, the solution, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturer Association, is a gas space heater. And in case you haven't seen the latest models on the market, you're in for a big surprise. They look more like the console models of the new television sets and are as individually styled, to fit present-day decor.

Of course you're interested in performance, as well as appearance. On this point, GAMA says the modern gas space heater is engineered for quick heat recovery and is equipped with a temperature control. This means that you get instant results when you turn on your heater and can maintain or adjust temperature as desired.



To be sure you're getting the right heater for your individual needs, GAMA advises consultation with your gas company or any local dealer who handles gas space heaters.

JUNIOR BATHROOMS

Miniature toilets for children are made by plumbing fixture manufacturers. Other fixtures for a child's bathroom are about the same as any. Lavatories are hung closer to the floor for youngsters and can be raised later. Small-sized bathtubs are common. You've probably tried them in hotels.

ONE OF THE WATCHDOGS of a zone fire alarm system is installed in an attic... If fire breaks out, this thermostatic detector sets off an alarm in the master bedroom. A light on the master panel also lights up, indicating which section of the house the fire is in.

Safety Weapon

Home Alarm System Spots Fires Quickly

The holiday season of 1957 was a tragic time in Quincy, Mass. A series of fires took the lives of 13 people.

In the aftermath, the city fathers adopted a unique building code. It requires that every new home constructed be equipped with an approved automatic fire alarm system. The idea is likely to spread.

In the United States last year, fire killed 10,000 people.

Fire is a simple phenomenon. Firemen know what it will do and where it will go. The trouble is that most deaths occur before firemen arrive.

MINUTES COUNT

The majority of the people killed by fire are never touched by the flames. Fumes and superheated air are the killers. Paul W. Kearney, a fire prevention authority, says two breaths of air at 800 to 1,000 degrees sears the lungs and causes immediate death.

Early detection of fire is crucial. And this is the outstanding feature of automatic fire alarm systems, particularly since more than half of all residential fires break out between midnight and dawn.

After consulting with his electrical contractor, Bryan chose a zoned alarm type of system that provides protection by not only warning of fire, but by locating it as well.

Automatic detectors were placed in the basement, attic, garage, kitchen and other sections of the home. The control panel was placed in the master bedroom.

When fire hits a detector, wherever it is, a signal is sent to one of four zone lamps on the control panel. At the same time, a warning bell sounds.

EMERGENCY POWER

The system also contains a secondary power source — dry cell batteries — which automatically go into operation when power fails. If the electrical system is knocked out, as happened in the Bryan fire, complete protection is still maintained. Tests buttons are provided for each zone so the system can be tested from time to time to make sure it is functioning.

THIS IS THE MASTER panel of a zone fire alarm system. If fire breaks out, an alarm sounds and one of the four lights flashes, indicating which part of the house the fire is in. Buttons are for testing the alarm system.

One of the most complete systems on the market, the zone-type alarm costs about $250, including installation, for a seven-room house.

One new alarm uses a door chime as a signalling unit. In addition to front and back door signals, the chime has a third one. Thermostatic detectors can be wired to this third signal. When fire breaks out, the chime sounds a continuous vibrating tone.

HANDY LITTLE ROLLER

Canadian Garden Service

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

GARDENING TOPS

Few recreations or hobbies can give anything like the satisfaction one derives from gardening. Golf is a lot of fun and so is fishing and bird watching. But reward of gardening, as one Canadian writer has so well expressed it, "are surely among the most, satisfying that men can enjoy." To pick up a handful of rich soil in the spring, to plant some tiny seed, and then a few days later watch the tiny shoots appearing; to see a picture of color and beauty gradually unfolding throughout the season, this is real and full living indeed.

And from a practical standpoint there is another great advantage. One doesn't have to spend large sums of money on equipment, or long hours of practice. There are no green fees, no clubs to join. With a few dollars for tools and less than that if necessary for seeds and plants, one can produce beauty out of what was a broken patch of soil, and vegetables that "have a flavor incomparably superior to anything we can buy".

FIRST PLANTINGS

It is much too early in most parts of Canada yet to think of actual planting. But it will do no harm to make plans and it is always advisable to order early, while stocks are ample and quality is highest. Conveniently, most flowers and vegetables divide themselves into three broad groups — hardy, semi - hardy and tender.

In the first are those things that can be planted just as soon as the soil is fit to work. They don't mind a bit of frost, in fact they prefer to get a start while the weather is really cool. In this category will be grass seed, sweet peas, cormos, and other flowers that normally seed themselves in this climate. The sooner the first of there go in the spring the better. In the vegetable line in the same group will be the first plantings of garden peas, lettuce, onions, radish, spinach and perhaps just a few hills of extra early potatoes. Normally, of course, potatoes are tender and the tops will freeze. But it takes them quite a while to come through the ground, and in the meantime the weather will be warming up.

BE CAREFUL WITH THESE

In the semi-hardy group, there is a much wider range and with these in both flowers and vegetables there is no hurry about planting at all. Most of them will stand some cool weather and even a nip of frost. But they prefer both warm soil and warm air and there is nothing to be gained in planting them until we are pretty sure there is no danger of serious frost. In this group will be about half the flowers and vegetables listed in most Canadian seed catalogues.

Finally we come to the really tender things, those that will not stand any frost at all. Among the flowers are zinnias, petunias, dahlias and begonias and several more. In vegetables are melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, corn, peppers and others.

SPREAD THEM OUT

And right here at the start of a new gardening season it should be emphasized that with the hardiest or the most tender, the gardener who gets most satisfaction never plants all the seed of any flower or vegetable at the same time. He spreads out the plantings making at least two and sometimes three or four from 10 days to two weeks apart. In this way he is covering his bets so to speak for if the first plantings gets frozen or washed out or trampedn on, he will still have one in reserve. More important, he will have something coming on all the time, fresh corn and peas not just for a few days but for many weeks and bouquets of beautiful flowers too. With plantings well spread out the garden should be blooming and producing abundantly from late in June until snow and with a few special tips and short cuts which you will be hearing about in our next article, we can add several weeks to the normal season as well.

Why Make Own Wood Fillers?

Modern wood fillers and filler-sealers are so easy to prepare and use that it is no longer worth while to roll your own out of sanding dust and varnish. The old-fashioned practice might not often work out satisfactorily with the wide variety of modern varnishes containing synthetic resins.

Risky to Build Without Survey

More than once a house has been built on the wrong lot. Houses often are built closer to land boundaries than the law allows. Trouble results. An Atlanta, Ga., lawyer tells of a man who bought a lot on a curving streets where lots wer 70 feet wide and 350 feet deep. After his house was finished, he found he had used the front corners of his own lot but the rear corners of the next door lot. He was forced to buy the adjoining land.

From A Crystal Ball

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — This is the age of space, a time of horizons unlimited, of wide-eyed wonder and an ebbing skepticism, of playing guessing games on the future.

The nation's watchwords are science and research. Scarcely a wedge of the economy escapes them.

The home building industry is no exception.

Since it was opened in mid-1957, more than 2½ million people have inspected the house. Many builders, particularly prefabricated housing firms, have sought permission to market it.

A POINT OF VIEW

But the house was built to back up a point of view. Monsanto Chemical Company's belief that plastic is the construction material of the future. The firm isn't interested in seeing its experimental house reproduced. How well its point has been proved isn't known. Company engineers, busy now on a performance report, will say only that they are well satisfied.

Four years ago, Monsanto went to the Department of Architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and asked for a design for a plastic house. Simply substituting plastic for steel and wood was not enough. It asked for a design which would get the most out of the strength, flexibility and design features peculiar to plastics. Where traditional materials would do a better job, the instructors were to use them.

To get a full range of imagination, 12 other firms were asked to cooperate: Crane Co., Bell Labs, Kelvinator Division of American Motors Corp., Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., U.S. Gypsum Corp., Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Armstrong Cork Co., Yale and Towne Manufacturing Co., National Lead Co., and two partial subsidiaries of Monsanto Mobay Chemical and Chemstrand Corp.

The design eventually chosen was that of MIT architects Richard Hamilton and Marvin Goody. The interior was designed by Victor Canseni, group of Pratt Institute.

SHAPE OF WINGS

It's an airborne house. Only a 16-foot square hub touches the ground. Four wings extend from the hub. Each wing is made of four preformed "modules" of reinforced plastic, 8 feet wide by 18 feet long, with curved outer surfaces and a level end.

The square hub has a concrete foundation, which contains plumbing, water heaters and air conditioning unit. This is where the two bathrooms and the kitchen are located.

In one wing is a girl's bedroom and a boy's bedroom, separated by vinyl panels. The girls room is furnished with bed, mattress and pillows of plastic products, a suspended vanity, a cylindrical floor lamp with a dial which dims the light.

The boy's room, designed for a youngster of 2 to 5, has a plastic chair and desk. Light comes from a floor fixture that projects light into a cone-shaped reflector overhead. A speaker and transmitter mounted in the wall allow Mom to keep tabs on Junior from any room.

THE MASTER BEDROOM HAS its own bath (right) in which walls, tub and wash basin were molded together. There is a second bath for the children. Vanity has a built-in wash basin and special controls enabling the woman making up to simulate the lighting in which she will be seen.

THE MASTER BEDROOM

An oversized double bed with foam mattress and pillows and a translucent headboard has been placed in the master bedroom. Behind the headboard are two banks of fluorescent lights, divided at the middle of the bed. The two banks are on separate dimmers. The phone on the plastic night table resembles a jewel case and has push buttons instead of a dial. The vanity table has a built-in wash basin. Special controls enable the woman making up to simulate the lighting in which she will be seen.

The family room, or dining room, occupies a third wing. A coffee table, the cabinets, dining table and benches are made of plastic and upholstered with plastic. A color television telephone with a built-in speaker and transmitter is mounted in the wall.

In the fourth wing is the living room, where comfortable seating room, where floor covering, furniture and upholstery are plastic. This room has a fireplace, but a very modern fireplace. The overhead lighting fixture resembles a mobile. It has no bulb but draws its light from a projector aimed at it from the floor. The fixture can be moved to any of several small hooks mounted around the curved ceiling.

The bathrooms are located back to back in the centre section. The bottom halves of both, including the bottom of the shower, the tub and lavatories, are molded in one plastic piece. The children's bath has a wash basin that moves up and down to accommodate any size youngster. Dimmers make lights bright enough for shaving or dim enough for night lights. Cabinets have built-in plastic-toothbrushes on retracting cords.

NOVEL APPLIANCES

In the kitchen, a button-controlled refrigerator drops from the ceiling. A microwave stove pops up from knee level and can cook roast beef and apple pie at the same time in a matter of minutes. The entire ceiling is lighted through plastic diffusing material. In the centre of the floor there's a work table, which conceals an ultrasonic dishwasher that shakes the dirt off dishes with sound waves.

SMOOTH FINISH

When working open-grained woods remember that to achieve a smooth finish you must first close the pores with a wood filler.

Dispossess That Skelton He's Taking up too Much Room

Time was when the family skeleton in the cupboard was an essential part of any self-respecting household. But in these days of Freud, psycho-analysis and the modern novel, when to "reveal all" is considered the royal road to mental stability, skeltons are having a tough time to retain possession.

And this isn't altogether a bad thing, according to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating. Their investigations into the subject reveal that Canadian families are now finding much better use to which cupboards can be devoted. In many houses of the older type, ofr instance, they are being used to make up deficiencies in the planning of the house when it was built.

Among the amenities that were overlooked in houses built three or more decades ago, but which are considered a "must" today, are a second bathroom, or powder room, to take care of the family's requirements in toilet facilities. These days it is all evident that one bathroom in a growing family leads to a condition known as "bathroom queues," a disease that can develop into all kinds of family squabbles.

Fortunately, designers in Canada's plumbing industry have devoted time and energy to just this problem. Such fixtures as miniature washbasins, the square bathtub measuring no more than 42" by 31" and similar bathroom equipment make the installation of a second bathroom, or a powder room easy in a very limited space. A powder room equipped with a toilet and wash basin can, for instance, be quite readily planned in an area no greater than 3' 6" square. And many a hall cupboard will provide that much space in which to put it.

Hall cupboards, and particularly those under the main stairway, are favorite locations for a powder room. This is because they not only provide an extra facility on the lower floor for the family's use during the morning rush, and also save many trips upstairs during the day, but they are a very welcome courtesy to guests on party nights because of their convenient location.

Another useful piece of equipment to help in planning extra washing amenities is the shower cabinet. This compact unit, which measures no more than 3' 6" square comes complete from the factory, and being watertight in the base requires no special flooring for installation. And what a boon it is especially to the young athletes of the family, who can come in from their outdoor activities and have a quick shower in a small shower room built in the corner of the basement or on the ground floor of the house.

And so skeletons have given way to bright new powder rooms, shower rooms or extra bathrooms in many Canadian homes, thanks to energetic house planners who were

B.C., Beset By Labor Strife, Advised That Profit-Sharing Might Be Solution to Woes

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia industry, sorely beset by labor disputes in the last year, has been told to consider profit-sharing as the solution to its troubles.

The suggestion was made by two men whose word carries a lot of weight in the province's industrial circles — Charles N. Woodward, president of the expanding department store chain of Woodward Stores Ltd., and Bert M. Hoffmeister, B.C. agent-general in the United Kingdom.

Mr. Woodward, whose company has stores in B.C. and Alberta, announced a "banner" profit of $3,723,000 for last year and paid $1,000,000 in anticipated capital gain—a record—was distributed to employees under the company's profit-sharing policy.

"We believe that any success of the firm should be shared not only by management and shareholders but should be shared by employees as well," he told the annual meeting.

It was time that industry and labor leaders "thought a little less of themselves and a little more of the people who work for them or who are guided by them." The alternative was "industrial chaos and more restrictive labor legislation."

Mr. Hoffmeister, former chairman of the board of the giant timber interests of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., said at an industrial and trade conference at the University of B.C. profit sharing and incentive plans are lowering costs in Europe and should be considered here.

"The wedge separating B.C. labor and management is hindering co-operation on problems and shaking European confidence in B.C." he said.

The United Kingdom and Europe were digging in for an economic war and B.C. should do the same.

European laborers were eager to work, turned out quality goods and were on excellent terms with management. In the opinion of the British, B.C. had one of the worst records for strikes and work stoppages.

Meanwhile, Rita Stephens, a secretary of the Union of Post Office Workers in Glasgow who has studied the Canadian labor movement for seven months said an interview the majority of Canadian employers regarded themselves "as industrial empire builders" who can't afford to accept unions.

That was part of the trouble in Canadian industrial relations.

Another factor was the much labor legislation. Britain has found the less legislation the less labor trouble.

Canada's industrial relations were unsatisfactory outgrown need for legislation. She blamed the unions for the serious trouble in B.C. on legislation which increased the possibility of stable bargaining relations and led to a dispute from which it was hard to extricate.

In an answer to Mr. Woodward and Mr. Hoffmeister, Pat O'Neal, provincial federation of labor, British Columbia Federation of Labor, said profit-sharing would be method of profit-sharing would be for employees to have a share in management. Trying to make this said department stores have vigorously opposed any such organization.

"We find in the labor movement that five-year pens and 25-year gold watches and similar methods of profit sharing employees a lot of money."

Reds' Devotion to Procedure Would Not Faze Old-Timers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Western foreign ministers at Geneva may be a bit confused by the seemingly childish devotion of the Soviet delegation to procedural matters, but it wouldn't faze such old hands as Dean Acheson, Allen Foster Dulles, Anthony Eden or George Brown.

The new hands will just have to get accustomed to trying to extract some substantial meaning, if any, from the gyrations of the Communists.

Andrei Gromyko, hearing of President Eisenhower's assessment of the Soviet mood so far as a Russian effort to make propaganda, might well have let out a yip of surprise and ask "well, that's what we called it for, last time."

There are no other reasons, too. It's a good guess now that the Soviet bloc is not going to pass a chance to talk their way out of Khrushchev's ultimatum, the unilateral action designed to get the Allies out of West Berlin or, if not that, to get Communist forces in.

But one of the facts of the world's current life is that the Russians are fundamentally strange to the West. If a Western wants to create the impression that he is trying to save the world, he's willing—and may deliberately choose to work in a neckcloth and sit in ashes. But only one to receive hear.

Reds are particular about where they sit, lest someone think they are being placed in an inferior position. Trying to squeeze in the East German foreign minister, Otto Grotewohl, the sole reason for the square table-round table argument.

Gromyko does seem to confuse himself, just as Molotov and Khrushchev before him, and not infuse themselves either, by reversals of form.

But the general Soviet attitude toward small countries is that they are entitled to the equipment of the Canadian army and air force units in NATO Europe.

Canadian Scholarship Funds Commemorate Queen's Visit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Governor - General Massey, in his second day of a tour of Southwestern Ontario, said Thursday night he hopes many communities will commemorate the Queen's visit this summer by setting up scholarship funds.

Mr. Massey was speaking at Barrie, his last stop of the day after putting in appearances at Owen Sound and Georgetown. He was greeted by thousands of children and adults in all communities.

The Queen has made it known, said the governor-general, that if any community wants to make a gift to her that "manner it should be something, "that will help young Canadians."

Mr. Massey referred to a $500,000 scholarship fund which the Ontario government has set up as a gift to the Queen.

"I would like to think that a similar donation may be made to aid in numerous local communities," he told the Barrie Canadian Club.

Often spoken of as Canada's most-travelled governor general, Mr. Massey showed he's keeping an eye on Canadian architecture during his journeys.

"We have not yet learned in Canada the cost of ugly buildings and ill-planned towns," he said, banks.

NATO Prevents War by Mistake States Norstadt

TORONTO (CP)—NATO's frontline forces are designed to force a pause in the event of a clash or attack and to prevent a war by mistake in Europe, General Lauris Norstad says.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe said that during the pause "we must compel the aggressor to make a conscious decision as to whether he is going to war or not."

"We must force him to weigh the total costs of aggression. . . . To consider the whole cost which might involve the use of heavy retaliatory forces as well as the military strength of the immediate opposition."

He told a joint luncheon meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto Thursday:

"The heavy striking forces available to the West make the consequences of aggression so great that the Soviet leaders will not, could not, deliberately provoke a great war."

POSSIBILITY OF ERROR

But "a great danger of war stems from the possibility of a mistake, an error in judgment—a border incident deliberately created or a probing operation designed for political advantage."

For the free world, the Atlantic community, particularly the forward area of Europe, was a partnership in deterrence.

NATO had the physical means to deter war but "we must not permit no limit on the weapons used to compel a pause in the event of a clash. . . . Only weapons could be used if necessary.

"The fundamental fault of NATO military thinking was a new-weapons concept. The fundamental fault was the principle of the deterrent.

DETERRENCE

General Norstad said the deterrent includes retaliatory forces — the strategic air command, army, navy and air force units deployed on the forward line of defence in Europe and European waters.

"The men and units of the Canadian contribution (to NATO) are second to none," the United States Air Force general said.

The Canadian contribution had a definite role to play in strength and unity.

The luncheon was the first in a Canadian visit which includes a conference with members of the government in Ottawa where they stad will meet the full cabinet on Monday.

The Ottawa discussions are expected to involve matters concerning defence equipment

Urge Agency For Farm Credit Service

OTTAWA (CP) — Establishment of a new agency to ensure Canadian farmers have "a complete and co-ordinated farm credit service" is urged by the Interprovincial Farm Union Council.

In a brief sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and cabinet members, the council said Canada's farm credit service should be "comprehensive, simple and unco-ordinated" for many years.

The brief said the new agency should be given power to supervise all farm credit programs, including the Canadian Farm Loan Act, Farm Improvement Loans Act and recent legislation providing advance payments on non-stored crops.

It said the agency also should provide credit services to supplement loans under the Veterans Land Act.

NATO Keeping Boom Under Control Now Main Problem for Gov't.

OTTAWA (CP) — Somewhere during the next few months, the Canadian economy appears to have changed courses—from recession to boom, in a new form.

There is evidence now that the problem of the government and the Bank of Canada—despite continuing unemployment — will be to slow down, not to shout the recession but how to keep the gathering boom forces under control.

One way is to clamp the lid on the money pot. This has been done, beginning about last Oct. 1.

During the 12 months preceding that date the money supply increased by an unprecedented 12 per cent, to a record of about $13,000,000,000. But since Oct. 1 it has remained pretty well unchanged.

There are no indications that either the government or the central bank plans any early action to increase the money supply further.

The new condition of Canada's economy is reflected in the latest increase in the Bank of Canada interest rate. It reached an all-time high of 5.30 per cent Thursday compared to 5.16 a week earlier and the all-time low of 1.12—set only last Aug. 2.

No one has yet explained why, with a new boom evidently in the making, there should still have been 250,000, or 8.6 per cent of the working force, out of work at the latest report (mid-March).

Figures within the next week are expected to show an improvement in employment.

In a speech Thursday night, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said there now is a good possibility that the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—will rise even higher than the $34,500,000,000 forecast for this year.

"All signs," he said, "point to there being a banner year of economic achievement for Canada."

In Montreal meantime, Ulric Poberge, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, issued a statement saying demand for credit has been "unusually strong" for some time now and that loans have been showing "steady and large increases since late last year."

"During the same period, however, the supply of money—the M1 figure—has responsive to central bank monetary policy—has remained practically unchanged, reflecting the desire of the national monetary authorities to contain inflationary forces."

He said the increased bank loans has been provided by the banks selling their holdings of government bonds. But purchases could not be continued indefinitely to meet an "unstated" demand for loans.

Until some further increase in the money supply was permitted, the banks would have no alternative but to avoid any "significant" further increase in the over-all total of loans.

But he added that "within these limitations, a special attention will be made to look after the essential credit needs of small borrowers."

Says Quebec Ready to Act If Bonds Illegally Re-sold

QUEBEC (CP)—Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec's solicitor - General says that if an offence has been committed in the Bonin province, in connection with the resale of bonds sold by Quebec last year, "We will take the necessary measures."

He was referring to a statement in Toronto Thursday by Marian Lamarche, Quebec assistant attorney - general, that those who engineered the resale of bonds made a sentimental journey back to their former base at Scampton near here Wednesday.

Wearing medals awarded for the raids, they visited the Lady Mother present new standards to the Elf Dambuster Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

In her speech, the Queen Mother recalled that she visited the base with King George VI 18 years ago to congratulate the crews on their return from their successful raid and helped them paint the squadron badge and motto: "Apres moi le deluge"—"After me the flood."

'Dambusters' Journey to Former Base

LINCOLN, Eng. (Reuters)—A small group of men, including six Canadians, took part in the historic RAF "dambuster" raid on the Mohne and Eder dams in Germany in a sentimental journey back to their former base at Scampton near here Wednesday.

Wearing medals awarded for the raids, they visited the Lady Mother present new standards to the Elf Dambuster Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Predicts Changes In Canadian Penal System

WASHINGTON (CP)—Thomas George Street, chairman of Canada's national parole board, predicted Thursday that there will be "some significant changes" in the Canadian penal system as a result of plans now being formed.

"We are hopeful eventually it will provide more efficient and practical means for obtaining the proper modern correctional system," he said in a speech to the United States board of parole.

Agreement was reached in principle at that conference that the federal government would eventually take over responsibility for all prisoners sentenced to a year or more, instead of two years or more as now.

SEVERAL STEPS TAKEN

Subsequently the federal justice department established a correctional planning committee to "plan a system of diversified institutions in accordance with modern correctional principles."

The national parole board also had been created to take over duties previously handled by the provinces and has been so constituted.

With a modern correction system "we will reform as many offenders as is humanly possible," Mr. Street said.

"We want to make citizens out of criminals."

Only about eight per cent of the parolees granted in Canada during the last four years have had to be revoked because they were violating, he reported.

Last year 1,000 paroles were granted and only 76 were revoked.

CBC Accepts Board Report On Wages

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC accepted Thursday a federal conciliation board report and a recommending progressive wage increases and other benefits for 1,273 operation technicians. The report recommended a two-per-cent raise retroactive to last Aug. 1, a three-per-cent increase on present rates effective May 1, 1960, and a three-per-cent increase next Feb. 1 on then-present rates.

The CBC said that if the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CLC) accepts the report then 64 per cent of the technicians in the NABET unit, excluding trainees and assistants, would earn more than $78 a week in basic wages plus fringe benefits.

In Toronto Monday the union's negotiating committee rejected the conciliation board report and called for a strike vote.

NABET's 1,268 members in 28 CBC locations are voting on the recommendations. Voting will be completed May 21.

Seaway Makes Small Lakers Like Model T on Throughway So Firms Quit Using Them

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The small lake vessel sailing the seaway today appears to be the same as a Model T Ford on the highway—the car's not fit for the road.

That's why three of Canada's largest steamship companies have decided that the lakers have outlived their usefulness.

In Montreal Thursday a Canada Steamships Lines spokesman said the company will remove 10 to 15 of its lakers from service. Five have become economically obsolete.

The Upper Lakes Transportation Company has only nine of 16 ships operating and one has been sold.

Scott Misener Steamships Limited has eight of 23 small ships still in operation and the company believes it will probably be the last before all its canallers disappear.

They want to see how the trade pattern develops once the operations on the seaway become smooth," says Capt. Scott Misener, president of the firm. "There may still be a place for the little ships."

A CSL spokesman said getting rid of the lakers is part of natural business evolution which has been speeded up by the seaway's opening.

"It is sound business practice to remove your least efficient units," he said. "But this does not mean that we are in any way de-emphasizing operations.

"In fact we anticipate greater business volumes with the seaway."

The John E. F. Misener, drawing 26 feet inches, because carries a Model T load of 740,805 bushels of grain in its holds, was expected to reach Montreal today with its record haul.

Besides the record cargo made possible by the seaway, the vessel's time of five days and five nights from Lakehead to Montreal will also be a record.

On the Welland Canal Thursday the 10,000-ton George S., a Liberian freighter, broke her steering gear and veered out of control as it left lock one, but the vessel was under way again within 30 minutes.

The oil tanker BA Peerless ran aground Thursday in the St. Mary's River, but was not damaged. Built to carry 325,000 oil barrels, the vessel was stuck in the river bank three hours until freed by the Laurent C. Turner, an American tug.

In addition, a London journalist said the seaway is "a big question mark" to many European shipping companies now using it. None of them was likely to make money for a year at least.

T. R. Lloyd, who represents a number of British trade papers and magazines, said "there are quite a few people on the other side who are pretty keenly interested" in the seaway.

"All the companies who are serious about this seaway are not going to make money a year or two . . . but I don't think any of them can stand it for five years without a lot of weeding out in the process."

Railway Brotherhood Winner In First Round of Fight to Represent Seaway Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) has won an important first round in the three-way tussle for bargaining jurisdiction among St. Lawrence seaway workers.

But more rounds were scheduled today before the Canada Labor Relations Board, which helped the brotherhood's cause Thursday by deciding that the certification rights for the 900 maintenance and operating employees of the seaway will be decided on a system - wide basis rather than locally.

The brotherhood was the only one of three competing unions to apply for the whole seaway. The Seafarers' International Union of Canada also applied and the Dominion Canals Employees Association.

SWITCH APPLICATION

When the board decided to consider only the whole seaway, the DCEA promptly switched to follow that principle.

The board said it would at least hear the SIU and DCEA on a divided application, although brotherhood counsel asked that it be heard from exclusively as it was made.

The board's decision to regard the seaway as a single entity tied in with brotherhood claims that interests of the workers, the seaway authority and the public would best be served by having one union for the whole.

And the board concurred with a brief Seaway Authority statement which said that while the authority has "no preference" it did regard itself as a single unit for operation purposes and that it essential to be able to move personnel about freely as required.

SIU WILL CHALLENGE

The SIU said it will challenge the membership that the 25,000-member brotherhood claims among seaway personnel.

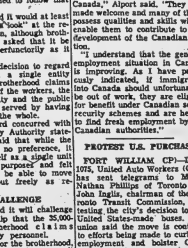
Spokesmen for the brotherhood, an all-Canadian union, say it has about 500 and 800 men involved and national vice-president Hilary Robson, urging certification without the preliminary procedure of a vote among seaway workers, said there is "substantial majority."

The Dominion Canals Employees Association claims about 500.

Press Wrong About Canada Says Briton

LONDON (CP)—Britain's undersecretary of state for Commonwealth affairs, Lennox-Boyd, Alport, has told the House of Commons that press accounts of economic distress in Canada were given an inaccurate impression.

Alport, replying Thursday to a request from a Labor MP for a statement on Canada's unemployment problem in the light of the reports, said it was important to encourage migration to Commonwealth countries.



"What is striking is the success of the overwhelming majority of United Kingdom immigrants in Canada," Alport said. "They are made welcome and many of them have established good jobs which enable them to contribute to the economic strength of Canada."

He understand that the general employment situation in Canada is improving. As I have previously said, the flow of immigrants into Canada should unfortunately be cut off unless they are eligible to benefit under Canadian social security schemes and are helped to find employment by the Canadian authorities."

PROTEST U.S. PURCHASE

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Local 1075, United Auto Workers (CLC) will send telegrams to Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto and John Inglis, chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission, protesting the city's decision to buy 190 United-made buses. The union said the move is contrary to Canada's efforts to curb unemployment and bolster Canadian industries.

The Seduction of Success

By ROY L. SMITH

Scientific magazines, the public press, and conferences of learned men, are all concerned in the question of what happens to the individual who finds himself in an unfortunate situation. The court records are replete with stories of juvenile offenders who have come out of broken homes. Educators have much to say about the conditioning of children inside their own homes.

The total story is, of course, very impressive and altogether alarming. But so, also is the hazard that attends the man who suffers from success.

SON OF HIS FATHER

In spite of the fact that at times Solomon exhibited rare qualities of mind and soul, it must be said that he suffered all his life from the fact that he was the son of his father — he had grown up in the midst of the luxury he had known in the household of David king of Israel.

David, quite fortunately, had known the advantages of having lived under the restless spur of necessity. Though many years the shepherd boy had lived by his wit, constantly in competition with an environment that was both ruthless and generous. He earned his rights and won his place, very largely by the application of his own powers to the facts with which he was surrounded.

In bequeathing his throne to Solomon, David had chosen him from among all his offspring for the most delicate and difficult task to which any young man could have been assigned. And in doing so he gave him every advantage it was within the power of a father to give. But there was one hazard for which he did not prepare him — the seduction of success.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 17: "Solomon's Reign", 1 Kings 3; 7; 51 through 8:66; 9:1 through 11:8.

MADE OVER-CONFIDENT

Through much of his life Solomon benefited by circumstances he did not create, but he lived as though he were responsible for them. He came to accept his throne as if he had created it. He looked upon his power as something he had built up by the merits of his own genius. He thought to himself as a self-made man. He paid lip service to his father David, but he did not really believe the old gentleman had done much for him that he had not done for himself.

Throughout much of his life he enjoyed the good fortune of success and prosperity, as a result of a series of external circumstances that prevailed in the great powers, Egypt and Assyria. As a consequence, he thought that the glory of his reign was the product of his own cleverness. And, being sure of his cleverness, he could not doubt the permanency of his power.

In a single word, Solomon was sure of himself and sure of the future he had made for himself. He ceased to look outside himself for wisdom.

INFALLIBILITY OF SIN

If we are truly scientific, and if we believe in the infallibility of the law of cause and effect, we are compelled to believe in the inevitable effects of sin.

Sin in the realm of morals is identical with a defiance of the natural law in the field of chemistry. For sin is a defiance of the moral order, in which law is as surely operative, the offenses against the law are as surely punishable.

The author of the two Books of Kings in the Old Testament was a firm believer in the doctrine of sin as an offense against there is a moral authority in. No engineer can hope to build a bridge by any process which ignores the law of gravity. And neither can a politician hope to build an enduring state by any philosophy that ignores the authority of God.

Karl Marx believed that the economic laws of life were the final and determinative authorities in the world, and he demanded that his disciples should be strictly loyal to those laws. Christianity goes farther back, and says the thing that Marx refused to say, or believe; that the moral order of the universe, this world that endorses economic laws and makes them effective.

Marx says the laws are final; Christianity says that God, who stands behind all law, is the final authority, and that He is exactly like that which Jesus of Nazareth was. No economic law, in Jesus' opinion, had or has any effectiveness except that with which it is inversed by the Spirit of God.

Occasionally it happens that the immoral success causes some concern among moral people. They seem to fear that its success is eternal. It would be well for all such to remind themselves occasionally that God is never through until the right has prevailed and justice has been done. Even though Solomon was a very clever, and a very adroit individual, he never succeeded in outwitting the moral law, in spite of his success as a showman.

"Inside Story" of the year!

Crosley is the word for Ford interiors. Seats are upholstered in the newest, most durable materials. They wipe clean in a jiffy, keep their original beauty longer. The instrument panel and trim are finished in the same high style as the car.

The interior shown above is standard in Ford's lowest-priced [illegible] Custom 300's. Fairlane [illegible]

Let's talk about what's behind the new Ford. More and more people are finding that the key to comfort is the first letter in the word. Ford cars are built so you can get in and out without losing either your dignity or your hat. The foam-cushioned front seat is high enough to give you needed support under the legs and it's shaped to cradle the small of your back. That's why 100 miles are just as comfortable as 10 in a Ford. The low driveshaft tunnel and full-width seat padding provide real riding luxury for six big people. And the roofline you admired outside gives extra headroom inside.

You can get the complete "Inside Story" at your Ford Dealer's, inside a new Ford.

Judy Holliday Makes Good With Show in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

Bells are flinging with Judy Holliday is exceeding its Broadway grosses at the Philharmonic Auditorium. The two main legit houses are alight—the Huntington Hartford with Once More with Feeling (Fernando Lamas-Marjorie Lord) and the Biltmore with Two for the Seesaw (Jeffry Lynn-Ruth Roman).

But the challenge of Los Angeles as a show town comes next Wednesday with the opening of the Russian Bolshoi Ballet for a two-week engagement. The only other stars in the U.S. outside of New York are brief appearances in Washington and San Francisco.

Ticket sales for the company's appearance here are reported to be excellent, especially considering the cost ($25 top opening night, $12.50 thereafter).

Hollywood is puzzling over the failure of Diary of Anne Frank to do business. It has drawn the best notices of any movie in recent years. Yet its showing here has been a failure. Why?

Some say the roadshow prices are too high for a movie—$2.20 for loges, $2.20 for orchestra on weekends. But I think there is another problem, too.

Despite the acclaim for the work as a book, play and movie, there is still some resistance to the subject as a piece of entertainment. I felt that myself, knowing the tragic nature of Anne Frank's life.

But people have to be sold to see it. Twentieth Century-Fox realized the public wasn't sold by the ads that proclaimed the film's greatness. The company began selling it as a human story. But the change in approach still didn't help. If the film ever does draw crowds—and there is no justice if it doesn't—it will be because those who do see it tell others what a wonderful experience it is.

CHECK ON SUBWAY EFFECT

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government may refuse the Toronto Transit Commission permission to run the spur line of the planned east-west subway under the Legislature Building, it was reported Thursday. Public Works Minister Connell said government engineers will make an "exhaustive" check of the effect the Yonge Street subway has had on buildings as old as the Legislature Building, built in 1892.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It's old. It's corny. And it's true.

Point Anne is going to officially open the senior softball season with a "bang." Literally, that is.

On Monday next good ole Point Anne will be the Cape Canaveral of the Bay of Quinte with a pyrotechnic display that will light up Kingston.

'Tis said the Joint Union Safety Advisory Committee under chairman Pat Callaghan has poured some seven hundred dollars into the fireworks pot — and that is a lot of crackers. Working with Pat to make the evening one of the best holiday fiestas yet are Earl Anderson, Ross Weese, Harold Ellis, Don Burshaw, Ezmond Ellis, Frank Insley and Morley Akey.

If it's music you like there will be the fine drum and trumpet band of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. If it is dancing and strutting majorettes that captures your fancy, the Barbara Diment School of Dancing and its pretty artists are ready to perform.

The big fireworks display will get under way somewhere around nine o'clock or as soon as it is dark enough for the boys to light the fuses.

The highlight of course is the opening game of the Belleville and District Softball League which sees Belleville's Bobcats and Point Anne clash promptly at 6.30.

And seeing the slab in the season's opener for the Ox Foniers will be Old Faithful, Pat Marsele, now starting his 5th season with the home squad and who will be opposing the Bobcats southpaw ace, Bobby Green.

Reports from Ox Point have it that "Ole Satch" is all bone and muscle except his arm and that's rubber. He is said to be in excellent shape after playing hockey in the Belleville Industrial League all winter.

He does a job of writing at the cement plant, then goes home and puts in a stint of farming. Between chores he plays a little baseball with the back fifty-nine and takes time out for a softball job with his own team. His practices throwing occasionally just to keep his flipper up to par.

He is looking forward to another duel or two this summer with the famous Mormon hurler, Ray Judd who is playing with a Peterborough team, or is it Lakefield? Exchanges have been Judd's squad and Point Anne's Ace in the making, and fans will remember the red-hot masterpieces these aces came up with before.

The Ox Foniers have lost little of their strength of a year ago, according to their line up. Coach Phil Lott will use either Pete Green or Claude Carr behind the plate. He has Chuck Kingston at first, Johnny Batchelor at second, Doug Hall at short and Jackie Whitehaigh at third. For outfield duties he has father-and-son Jackie Elliotts, Doug Soule, Cary Goyer, Cam Bazkard. Pat Gilmour will not play this year. Pat, it is reported, injured a shoulder playing hockey with Napanee last winter.

Marne Bob Temple won't be fielding a crew of weaklings either. Earl Cousins will be catching Bobby Green with Bert Faulkner holding down first base. Floyd Crawford will be at second, "Whisco" Brown at short, while holding down the hot corner will be Jean Paul Lamlronde. He has named Fleet Goegan, Johnny Casey and Len Earns for outfield duties while in the managerial spot is Bill Old.

The chief tabby also has Dave Walker and Dick Clapp in reserve. Clapp can catch or play the outfield,. Turk Barclay, it is understood, will turn out later with the Cats.

So it looks like a hot time in the ole Ox Point Monday evening what with gals, music, dancing, fireworks and topflight softball. We hear the fireworks display alone is worth the price of admission, so look at what you're getting for nothing.

The fuh starts at six-thirty with the softball game and continues through until the pyrotechnics.

Bruins Whip Rangers 6-4

ESSEN, Germany (AP)—Boston Bruins built up a four-goal margin in the first period and then coasted to a 6-4 victory over New York Rangers in an exhibition hockey game before 2,000 spectators Thursday night.

Larry Leach, Don McKenney, Leo Labine, Jerry Toppazzini and Larry Hillman connected for the Bruins in the opening period. The Rangers' only reply was a goal by Bobby Hull.

The Rangers picked up two more in the second period on shots by Hank Ciesla and Gus Mortson. Bill Sweeney tallied for New York in the third before Dude Lewicki netted with the final Boston goal.

Within Half-Game of Tribe After Winning Six in Row; Burdette Wins in Relief

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Every game's a big one in that National League pennant race, where the stretch run began opening day. The Milwaukee Braves proved it Thursday night, using no less than Lew Burdette in relief for a 11-game lead—the largest anybody's managed this season.

Burdette, the Braves' top winner with a 5-2 record, got Stan Musial on a game-ending double play that put down a three-run St. Louis rally and gave Milwaukee an 8-7 victory.

It also halted the defending champs into that "big" edge as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated second-place Los Angeles 7-6 on Dick Stuart's ninth-inning homer.

GIANTS CLOSE IN

Third - place San Francisco closed within a half-game of the Dodgers with an 8-0 victory over Philadelphia on the three - hit pitching of Mike McCormick. Cincinnati, just a half-game behind San Francisco, beat Chicago Cubs 7-0 as Joe Nuxhall cast - dueled Dave Hillman with a three-hitter.

Burdette came in when Don McMahon, ordered in two runs after relieving Bob Trowbridge in a bases-loaded situation, Burdette forced the third run home by walking Gino Cimoli, but then nailed the Braves' fifth victory in six games by getting Musial.

It was the 12th one-run defeat of the season for the last-place Cards, whose last eight losses have been by that margin.

TOP WINNER

Pittsburgh relief ace Roy Face (4-0) became the major's top winner and stretched his two-season streak to 11. He preserved Vinegar Bob Friend as the Dodgers tied it 6-6 with a run in the eighth.

McCormick won his first in three decisions for the Giants. The young lefty's first complete game was backed up by homers from Willie Mays, Leon Wagner and Daryl Spencer.

The Reds were shut out on two hits by Hillman (2-2) until the fanned six.

No Bisley For Canada After 1960

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada may no longer send Bisley teams to Britain after next year.

Reason for the possibility is that the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association is gradually replacing the armed forces' new rifle—the 7.62 mm FN—while Britain's National Rifle Association—so far—is sticking with the .303-calibre weapon.

DCRA secretary A. G. Switzer said Thursday night Canadian team will go to Bisley in 1960 but nobody knows what will happen after that.

The DCRA has used the No. 4 .303-calibre rifle since it was adopted by Canada's armed forces before the Second World War.

But one FN match will be fired at this year's annual DCRA meet at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa this August.

Mr. Switzer said the FN may be used next year in all service ammunition matches—a large part of the week-long shoot.

Mr. Switzer said the NRA now is discussing the possibility of adopting a .303 rifle with an FN-Browning barrel.

Meanwhile, the 1959 DCRA team leaves Montreal by ship for Bisley June 12 — carrying .303 rifles.

Canada has sent a team to Bisley every year—with a few wartime exceptions—since 1870.

CHANGE TEAM NAME

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP) — The New Westminster entry in the Inter-City Lacrosse League has dropped one of the oldest team names in Canada—the Salmonbellies — and will henceforth be known as the O'Keefes. The team, last year's national champions, is the third to change its name this season. Vancouver Nationals became the Carlings and Nanaimo Timbermen became the Labatts.

Has No Financial Interest In Swede, Says Cus D'Amato

NEW YORK (AP) — Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, denied today he has any financial interest in Ingemar Johansson even though he recommended an American manager for the Swedish flighter.

D'Amato said he recommended Harry Davidow, Brooklyn luncheonette owner, while negotiations were going on for a title fight between Patterson and the unbeaten Swedish scrapper. The fight is scheduled for the Yankee Stadium June 23.

Patterson's manager made his statement after a published report quoted Johansson as saying he was forced to sign a 10-percent contract with an American manager to land the fight. Johansson, who has shifted his training quarters to Ferndale, N.Y., was not available for comment.

Davidow, a former associate of D'Amato in the management of fighters, was brought into the picture last January according to D'Amato after Ingemar asked Patterson's pilot to recommend a man.

D'Amato said Ingemar was represented by his own attorney when the contract was drawn up in Sweden late in January.

Two Rochester Players Share MVP Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Two members of Rochester American—centre Rudy Migay and right winger Billy Hicke—must share the honor of being the most valuable player in the American Hockey League during the 1958-59 season.

In an unprecedented result, the linemates tied for the Leslie Cunningham award in the voting of sports writers and broadcasters. Each received 10 of a possible 20 points.

They will be given duplicate plaques and will receive bonus awards of $300 each. Hicke, who won the league scoring title, recently was placed on the all-star team and named the outstanding rookie of the year.

Migay, a Toronto Maple Leaf veteran, previously had been named an all-star team member. He captained the Americans.

Steve Kraftcheck, another member of the Americans, almost made it a triple tie when he received nine points.

Others receiving votes were goaltenders Marcel Paille of Buffalo Bisons and Bobby Perreault of Hershey Bears, eight each; Ivan Irvin of Buffalo, 6; Eddie Mazur of Cleveland Barons, Lorne Davis of Providence Reds, Bill Sweeney, all-Buffalo and Harry Pidhirny of Springfield Indians, one each.

Preakness Purse Is Richest Dangled Before 3-Year-Olds

BALTIMORE (AP) — Horse trainers fled into the old offices at tradition-soaked Pimlico today for the formal entry of their prize colts in Saturday's $150,000-added, Preakness.

Eleven were expected to hand over their slips and $500 fees for the 43rd running of the 1 3-16-mile race, in which Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer was rated the probable favorite. If all start, the gross purse will be $190,300—richest ever dangled before three-year-old thoroughbreds.

Besides the Dancer, runnerup by a nose to Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, the others were First Landing, Royal Orbit, Massass Mauler, Dunces, Open View, Our Dad, Rico Tesio, Sundown II, Marauder and Festival King.

HOW THEY RANK

With Tomy Lee shipped back to California after his May 2 Derby conquest, Pimlico racing secretary Charles J. McLennan and trainer-manager Bob Odom have tabbed Sword Dancer as the top contender.

Observers figure the race shapes up as an early contest between Sword Dancer and First Landing, with Royal Orbit and Massass Mauler coming from off the pace.

Willie Shoemaker, who practically bigged Tomy Lee across the finish line in Kentucky, will ride Sword Dancer in this one. A victory would give him the only rider ever to win the Derby and Preakness with different horses in the same year.

Clear weather with temperatures in the 60s is forecast for the race, scheduled to start at 5:45 p.m. EDT. It will be televised by CBS.

International League Teams Cut Rosters

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings, Miami Marlins and Richmond Virginians all pared their rosters to get within the International Baseball League's 20-player limit Thursday.

Havana sent pitcher Candido Andrede to San Antonio of the Texas League and dispatched outfielder Miguel Fernandez to a team in the Mexican League.

Miami's cuts—three pitchers left the first-place Marlins with 19 players, one under the limit. Lefthander Ron Moeller was optioned to Amarillo of the Texas League, subject to 24-hour recall. Wilson Parsons and Ted Abernathy will be reassigned elsewhere.

The Virginians disposed of two pitchers. Southpaw Jim Post, who had been with the Vees four seasons, was sold to Atlanta of the Class AA Southern Association and John Gabler was optioned to Denver of the American Association, where he won 19 games last season.

Richmond will have to drop two more players when Zack Monroe and Darrell Johnson, recent acquisitions from New York Yankees, arrive.

Toronto Maple Leafs cut down to the limit Wednesday by placing righthander Rudy Minarcin on the inactive list. Minarcin has been plagued with a sore shoulder on his pitching side since spring training.

Inter-County Opens Season This Weekend

By LEN TAYLOR
Kitchener-Waterloo Record

KITCHENER (CP) — Eight teams will open the Inter-County Baseball League's senior series schedule this weekend. They'll go at the post without a defending champion.

Oakville Oaks, who went broke winning the 1958 title, are out of competition this season.

Their departure is likely to enhance the prospects of at least two other teams. Heirs to the Oakville talent, on the I-C milage chart covering eligibility, are Hamilton Beavers. The Hamilton club, which wasn't much of a baseball town last year, appears to be the club to beat.

Dan Lewandowski had 75 players on hand for Hamilton's opening drill. There is almost unbounded joy in his wealth of material.

OTHER EXTREME

The other type of discomfiture which would be welcomed by Listowel Legionaires who have barely enough men on hand to form one team in their slow pitch league, is always the case in Listowel, the smallest senior baseball town in the province. The club will pick up some U.S. college players and become a power threat, as usual, in the opinion of its rivals.

Brantford Red Sox, whose business manager Art Holman admits they must make the play-offs this year or fold, look a bit stronger. They have picked up Bob Salvisburg, one of the Oakville stars, as a playing manager-coach, and may land veteran Ross Paton Oaks' star southpaw pitcher.

Galt Terriers, who claim to have sold 1,500 season tickets, appear stronger and could be the financial giants of the circuit.

FIRST SACKER QUITS

Frank Colman, London owner-manager, claims to have solved the catching problem that haunted his club last season. But he has another at first base where Dale Creighton has hung up his spikes in favor of football. Creighton, a Kitchener-Waterloo gridder, will try out with Montreal Alouettes.

The Dutchmen will depend pretty much on homebrewers. They look a bit short on pitching but could be coming up with a real prospect in Junior - age right hander Gerry Denomme.

St. Thomas Elgins under Tommy White, have lost smooth-fielding shortstop Herm Mason but have most of their other veterans on hand.

Guelph Merchants have a new skipper in Hugh McGillivray, a former Stratford and Kitchener infield star of many years. He has one distinction not boasted by any rival managers. He's a member of the I-C executive.

HAPPY WITH SWITCH

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — American Baseball Association president Joe Ed Doherty is enthusiastic over the 10 - club experiment going on in his circuit. The league added three Texas cities —Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth—this year and Doherty says attendance is up about 25 per cent. George M. Trautman, president of the minor leagues, also in Dallas, says the association may serve as a model for a 10-team major league.

Moyer Still Tops Bowlers

TORONTO (CP) — Red McQuaker of Toronto led 71 of this city's best bowlers Thursday night in an unsuccessful attempt to dislodge John Moyer of Waterloo from top position in the O'Connor Open men's five-pin tournament.

McQuaker finished with a 10-game total of 2,630 to move into seventh spot. Tom McBurnie, runner - up in the 1958 Open, bowled a total of 2,544 for 11th place.

Gord Langarhi's 353 took the $25 prize for the night's high single game.

DODGERS LOSE CATCHER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers' bid for the top position in the National League suffered Thursday with word that catcher John Roseboro will be sidelined for 10 days or more. The No. 1 backstop body split the middle finger of his right hand catching a foul tip Wednesday night off the bat of Pittsburgh pitcher Ron Kline in the third inning. Three stitches were required.

Pan-American At New High

CHICAGO (AP) — The third Pan-American Games unofficial list of entries reached a new high today with six Latin American countries still to be heard from.

Fred Dickens, 25-year veteran of physical education and sports in Argentina, said the provisional list of athletes who will attend the games here is 2,500.

Of 25 countries questioned only the Bahamas, British Guiana, Colombia, Guatemala, Paraguay, Haiti and Peru have not answered.

Walker Play Starts Today

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)— The United States opened defence of the Walker Cup today over the links of a club whose members once wore red coats for golf — and were fined if they failed to do so.

Host for the two-day matches between the top amateurs of Britain and the U.S. is the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers.

"The company has a recorded history that goes back 215 years," club secretary Col. Brian Evans-Lombe said Thursday.

The U.S. has won the Walker Cup 13 times and Britain only once—in 1934.

The first nine holes at Muirfield measure 3,450 yards; the second nine 3,356 yards. Par for the links, judged on U.S. standards of distance, is 36-36—72.

Scottish golfers argue that there is no such thing as a correct par at changeable Muirfield. It could be 70 on a calm, sunny day but could jump to 78 once the wind whistles in from the waters of the Firth of Forth.

Major Leagues Meet Frick To Discuss TV

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Organized baseball will meet here today to settle its radio - television troubles and map out a policy.

An eight-man committee will meet with Commissioner Ford Frick and Will Harridge, chief, and George M. Trautman in what the latter says "could be the most important meeting ever held on this matter." The sessions are scheduled for today and Wednesday.

Representing the majors will be Walter Cabbreath of Pittsburgh Pirates, Robert M. Carpenter of Philadelphia Phillies, Dan Topping of New York Yankees and Gerald Mann, manager of Cleveland Indians. The minor league committee is Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, Frank Horton of the Three I and Ray Wings, Bob Howsam of Denver, Colo., and Donald Walker of Shreveport, La.

Trautman today asked the "legion of baseball fans everywhere to consider why it is necessary for some restrictions to be imposed on major league television in certain areas."

Trautman said "hundreds of cities in America have been deprived of major league baseball because of the hopelessness of trying to compete with radio and television broadcasts of big league games."

Royals Trim Toronto 8-6; Marlins Beaten

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dave Pope of Toronto Maple Leafs can equal the 1950 International Day & Night baseball game hitting streak of 18 tonight if he connects safely against Rochester Red Wings.

The 29-year-old Cleveland Indians farmhand hit his 17th straight game Thursday night. He got three hits as Leafs lost 8-6 to Montreal Royals. Miami Marlins' Foster Castleman had his string broken at 18 Wednesday night against Columbus Jets.

The strings have put both among the top 10 in the league batting statistics. Castleman is second with .361, a point behind Montreal's Bobby Wilson. Pope is third at .349.

Pope began his streak April 23 against Columbus. At the time he was batting a meek .243. Since then, he has 30 hits in 80 at-bats. He has also collected six home runs and 26 runs batted in.

Last year with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, the lefthanded slugger hit .368 with 19 homers and 96 RBIs.

In other pro news Thursday night, Richmond whitewashed Havana 9-0, and Columbus beat Miami 7-2. Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Red Wings were rained out.

Wilson and Dick Teed led Montreal. Wilson had three hits and Teed had 4-for-5 and five runs batted in. One of Teed's hits was a three-run homer. Montreal's two - run eighth inning brought them from a 6-5 deficit and gave reliefer Jackie Colum (2-0) the victory over Frank Funk (2-3).

Lefty Ed Dick pitched hitless ball for five innings against Havanas, gave three over the next two innings before tiring and was relieved by Eli Torba. Milner Shantz double sparked a four-run second inning that iced it for the Vees.

Columbus jumped on Joser Harry Byrd for four hits and in the second inning on five straight singles and Jim McDaniel's sixth homer clinched it in the third. McDaniel added homer No. 7 in the seventh off Byrd (4-1) held Miami to five hits.

Coming Royal Tour Lends Special Interest to Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The coming Royal Tour lends special interest to Canada's celebration this year of Victoria Day, on Monday.

The first warm-weather holiday of the year, it is the Canadian observance of the birthday of the reigning Queen as well as of Victoria's birthday.

Still known to older folk as "the 24th of May," the holiday now has settled down to wider recognition of the official designation, made in legislation passed in 1952 that the first Monday immediately preceding the 25th of May shall be a legal holiday under the name Victoria Day.

MONDAY HOLIDAYS

The original May 24 date for observance of Victoria's birthday was dropped a few years ago in line with the trend of fixing Monday as the day of the week for national holidays. The legislation fixing the Monday preceding May 25 for celebration of the birthday of Victoria and also Queen Elizabeth became effective in 1952.

Before 1953, the holiday was always celebrated on the calendar date of May 24. Now it is only by the progression of the calendar that the actual date may fall on Monday, Next year, it will come on Monday, May 25.

Queen Victoria was born on May 24, 1819, and succeeded to the throne in 1837 on the death of William IV. She had the longest reign of any British sovereign, giving 63 years later in 1901.

Queen Elizabeth's actual birthday is April 21. She was born in 1926 and succeeded to the throne in 1952 on the death of her father, George VI.

PERMANENT FIXTURE

Until 1957 in Canada the celebration of the birth of the reigning Queen was fixed annually by proclamation. Then, permanent dates were set, the legislation providing that the sovereign's birthday celebration would coincide with Victoria Day.

Victoria Day and the Dominion Day holiday on July 1 are the only two Canadian holidays on which fireworks get an official blessing. The Monday holiday will see celebrations in cities and towns all across the nation, with official salutes fired by detachments of the armed forces and military parades at many centres.

But many Canadians will be at the seashore, lakes or country spots for the holiday.

4 CITY MEN DROWNED IN LAKE OPEONGO

TWO WINNERS — A victory handshake is exchanged by Premier Duff Roblin and successful candidate W. O. Baltzley after the Progressive Conservative win in the Manitoba election Thursday. Frost Talks of Canal Plans While Opposition Heads Duel

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Opposition leaders threw arrows at each other Friday night in the Ontario election campaign while Premier Frost told a Niagara Falls audience about plans to let contracts this year on overhead bridges for the Welland Canal.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald accused Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer of "flagrant political thievery" in adopting CCF platform planks which the Liberals could not adopt because they were controlled by big business.

Mr. Wintermeyer talked about "suspicious circumstances" surrounding the sale of Indian reserve land near Sarnia to the Ontario Hydro and said the Liberals knew about the matter "for some considerable time" before it was disclosed two weeks ago by Mr. MacDonald.

The CCF leader's attack on Mr. Wintermeyer took up most of his time in an address to 60 people at a nomination convention in London for Middlesex North riding.

"I challenge the Liberal party to open its campaign funds list and show how much Mr. Douglas Ambridge, president of Abitibi Power and Paper Company, has contributed," Mr. MacDonald said.

He charged that Joseph Jeffery, president of the London Chamber of Commerce, dictated much of Liberal policy and was opposed to labor and other groups to a degree that shocked many Liberals.

Mr. Wintermeyer, claiming the Sarnia land issue was a Liberal one, said:

"It is most extraordinary that two days before the deal was completed the federal cabinet moved to let the tribe sell to Dimensional Investments Limited and then changed their minds."

The Toronto firm bought 2,100 acres of land for $6,500,000 or $2,100 an acre from the Chippewa Indian band and then sold 10 acres to Ontario Hydro for $1,200,000 or $6,000 an acre.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the suspicious circumstances in the deal were the fact that the Indian chief was unaware Hydro wanted the land; that Hydro needed fill; that cheaper land was available nearby and that 60 of the 2,100 acres were under lease for high-tension wires.

Premier Frost, addressing 400 people at a hotel-ballroom rally, said engineering plans now are being undertaken and first contracts will be let this year for bridges which will remove highway bottlenecks along the Welland Canal.

The premier also said: "I think it is a mistake to tell the Welland Canal. The tolls are comparatively low but the principle is wrong and the justification is that it could be discriminatory against industries in Ontario." He said the first of the new highway bridges would be built at St. Catharines and would be finished in about 18 months.

Fishing Tragedy Claims Lives Of All Members Of Algonquin Park Party

Overturned Boats Found on Shore After Party Missing All Night

Four members of a Belleville fishing party have been drowned in Lake Opeonge in Algonquin Park, 100 miles north of here, it was learned this morning.

At noon press time none of the names of the four drowned men had been released pending notification of next of kin, but it was reported all four lived in the city or immediate vicinity.

The two boats in which the four men left the landing at Opeongo Lodge last night at seven o'clock, were said found overturned in the lake this morning five miles north of the landing. Search for the men still missing was being headed by Cpl. Proctor of the Killaloe Ontario Provincial Police detachment office.

Mr. Richard Passmore, former Department of Lands and Forests head at the Tweed office, who happened to be at Lake Opeongo Lodge, told The Ontario Intelligencer Friday the four men had been seen to leave the landing Friday evening in two cedar strip boats powered by outboard motors.

Don McNevin and Jim Matthews, two members of another Belleville fishing party who went to Opeongo Lake Friday, said they had returned home without going out on the lake because the water was so rough.

One body was recovered off Windy Point early today. Search continued for the three other members of the two-boat expedition. The four men are believed from the Belleville area.

He also found the oars, body, contrary to earlier reports that the discovery was made by Tom Regan, lands and forests officer from Algonquin Park.

The accident is believed to have occurred Friday night or early today.

Mrs. Joe Avery, manager of Opeongo Lodge, said that when the men didn't arrive this morning searchers set out to look for them.

"The others could have made it to shore," Mrs. Avery said. "But it doesn't look good. It was pretty cold last night."

Dr. G. C. Post of Whitney, provincial coroner for the area, said he had been telephoned by someone in the lodge and told one body had been recovered.

"The probability is that there will be an inquest," Dr. Post said. "There is no identification yet and I have been told to have everything undisturbed until I arrive."

Mrs. Avery, the lodge, who refused to identify herself, said she had been told to say nothing until Provincial police arrived. She said there were "two or four persons" involved but she could not be sure.

"I don't know who they are exactly," she said. "I'm sure from Belleville," she added.

Jap Defeated In Election by Part of Vote

Running for the Yokosuka city assembly, Kobayashi received 1,701 votes. The winner, Chisaki Nakaiju, was credited with 1,701.852.

It happened this way:

The voters had to write in the names of their choice. And two Nakajimas—Chokaichi and Takao—entered the race.

The local election board ruled the total of all ballots would be divided between the two in the same proportion as the total ballots bearing the full names of each.

Kobayashi filed a challenge with the election board Thursday, but not against the decision of the Nakajima ballots.

He claimed one ballot clearly marked for him had been invalidated, and that he had won by 1/2 of a vote.

CARNIVAL RIDE CRASH

McPHERSON, Kan. (AP) — A spinning tub broke loose from its track at a carnival here Friday, flipped 25 feet across a busy street without being struck, and hit a parked car, which was overturned, throwing out four women. All four suffered cuts and bruises, one suffered a nose fracture. The ride is known as an octopus.

PCs Ask CBC Disclose Losses On TV Programs

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of Progressive Conservative MPs Friday sought to crack the long-standing practice of secrecy in competitive commercial dealings of Crown corporations.

Four of them at a meeting of the Commons broadcasting committee demanded that the CBC disclose its losses on some of its big television programs.

The issue was opened by Art Smith (PC—Calgary South), who said costs of some shows are reported to be "tremendous" with payments by sponsors falling far short of covering production costs. The committee should have information to show whether the programs were being produced with any regard to cost.

E. L. Bushnell, CBC vice-president testifying for the publicly-owned corporation, demurred. He said it would not be "ethical" to give information on production costs and sponsors' payments. The CBC and its sponsors were in "a highly competitive business."

He flatly denied a suggestion by Mr. Smith that commercials in excess of some TV productions cover only 20 per cent of costs.

Frost Increases Hospital Grants

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has announced increased grants to Ontario hospitals costing the province $1,500,000 this year.

Speaking at the opening of a new Toronto General Hospital wing Friday, he said the grants would boost contributions per bed to $4,400 from $3,600.

The grants would be based on the formula of an additional $2 for for every 300 square feet of floor space not previously covered by grant—operating rooms, delivery rooms, supply rooms and dietary departments. The increase is for cost above the previous grant total.

Canada Honors Two Queens With Statutory Holiday Mon.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada honors two queens Monday with a statutory holiday but not all of the country is sold on the idea.

For instance, Premier Bennett of British Columbia told reporters:

"Victoria Day should be celebrated on May 24 instead of always a week in advance as it is being done this year."

And in Quebec, the big holiday which traditionally welcomes spring is celebrated May 7 and 8 as Ascension Thursday. In Quebec City all newspapers are publishing special editions and schools are open Monday. Banks and provincial and federal government offices are closed.

Traditionally, Victoria Day was instituted to celebrate the birthday of Queen Victoria. Later, it was decided to celebrate the birthday of her grandson Elizabeth II on the same date although she was born on April 21.

FEDERAL EDICT

In 1957, the Canadian government decreed that Victoria Day always fall on the last Monday before May 24—this year the holiday is one of the high points of the spring season. Thousands of pools open and stores cease to employ employees to help the staff weight of the German Army in 1942, or even in 1943."

Montgomery returned to his theme that American blindness to the dangers of communism cost the West the opportunity of strengthening its position in Europe at the end of the war.

In Winnipeg, the stay-at-homes will see a Chinatown fireworks display. Those interested in travel will be aboard special trains running to the edge of the province in advance of extra bus trips to Minneapolis and Kenora.

NEWFOUNDLAND HOLDS OFF

Newfoundland will not celebrate Victoria Day until May 24, when Governor Campbell leaves St. John's on a cross-Newfoundland run, stopping at 20 of the world favorite fishing spots. However, federal government employees will have their holiday Monday.

No special functions are planned for Vancouver, although there will be soccer and baseball for sports fans. Several Vancouver Island communities plan drowning the queen, parades and dances and soap box derbies.

NATO PREVENTS RED NIBBLING NORSTAD SAYS

Each Member Must Maintain Its Arms

MONTREAL (CP) — North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces have been a deterrent that keeps communism from trying "to nibble away at us by small acts of aggression," Gen. Lauris Norstad, USAF, says.

The NATO supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, told members of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association Friday night the West "would be in very grave danger of being piecemealed" to death" if it relied only on massive retaliation by the NATO forces he commands, the United Kingdom Bomber Command and naval forces.

"If our strength lay only in the heavy strategic forces—essential as these forces are—we would be a rigid policy of all or nothing," the 50-year-old general told the association's annual banquet.

"In the case of a clash—or act of aggression large or small—we would be forced to make the decision of using the awesome power of the retaliatory force or of making no response at all."

Gen. Norstad said there can be no compromise between the NATO arms at full effectiveness.

He said the fact that "not a single foot of NATO soil has failed to aggression" since the treaty was signed 10 years ago is proof of the validity of the alliance's belief "that the aggressor would not risk a major war if he is convinced that the cost to him would be too great to be

Discussing Berlin As Side Issue Is West Proposal

Would Be Effort To Break Deadlock

GENEVA (AP) — "The West was reported today willing to discuss Berlin apart from the package plan for Germany in an attempt to break the deadlock with the Russians.

The Big Four foreign ministers conference recessed for the weekend with the Soviets still insisting on the signing of a peace treaty with the two German states above everything else.

But hope persisted among Western diplomats of finding a formula for agreement on the future of divided Berlin.

Russia has so far stood firm on its demand for demilitarization of West Berlin and the western powers are standing pat on their refusal to abandon the Communist-encircled city.

State Secretary Herter is flying to Rome today for a two-day goodwill visit. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville is going to Paris for consultations with President de Gaulle. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd are staying in Geneva.

Gromyko and his advisers—presumably in long-range consultation with the Kremlin—were reported preparing a point-by-point reply to the Western package plan. Gromyko has already turned down the package as a whole, denouncing it as a tangle of unrelated issues which would make any progress here impossible.

Western officials say he may pull various points out of the package and seek to discuss them individually. Berlin is one such issue, even though Communist spokesmen have rebuffed the specific Western proposal for demilitarization of West and Communist East Berlin into a single city under four power guarantees.

Another possibility foreseen by Western experts is that Gromyko may try to extract further concessions from the Western powers regarding direct negotiations between the West and West German representatives.

In their plan outlined Thursday the Western ministers proposed beginning the unification of Germany by making Berlin a "united city" and tying into the 30-month unification plan a series of steps which would lead to global disarmament and a new European security system.

Britain Vetoed Invasion Plan In 1942--Monty

OXFORD, England (CP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery says that British vetoed a U.S. plan to invade Europe in 1942 on the ground that available American troops were too green to face the Germans.

Montgomery said Friday any such invasion that year would have been an Allied disaster.

He told Oxford University the dents early in 1942 military planners in Washington, among them Gen. Eisenhower, prepared for a cross-channel operation. He added:

"In my opinion the American plan would have involved the Allies in a disaster which would have prolonged the war for years. Churchill and the British chiefs of staff knew better, and they were right.

"When the American Army went into battle for the first time in the European theatre — in North Africa in 1942, one year after they had entered the war — the troops were found to be very green.

"Churchill and his advisers knew they could never be sufficiently battleworthy to play their part in Europe against the full

Timiskaming Banker Heard Noise So Crept in, Jumped Gunman, Died

TIMISKAMING, Que. (CP)— A bank manager was shot dead Friday when he jumped on a gunman during a holdup attempt in this Northern Quebec paper town.

Alexander W. Heron, 45, thwarted the robbery but fell with two bullets in his head.

Ontario Provincial Police caught two men in a roadblock within 30 minutes and took them to North Bay, 60 miles west of here, to await the arrival of Quebec police.

Teller Jacques Trembley arrived at the 8:45 a.m. to unlock the bank's front doors. A man from a nearby parked car approached, shoved a gun in his ribs and told him to get inside and unlock the vault. A second man remained in the car.

In the struggle Mr. Heron was shot in the head and died.

James Lyna, a garageman fixing a tire 20 feet from the bank, saw a man run out of the bank, jump into the car and drive off with the accomplice.

Seconds later, Heron staggered outside in pursuit, fell to the pavement and died.

A half-hour later a car was stopped and two men arrested at the roadblock set up at Feronia, 30 miles west of here on Highway 65.

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey says he's going to revoke his public life for 60 days to follow doctors' orders in recuperating from a lung cancer operation.

The CBS radio and television star left Columbia Presbyterian Hospital Friday.

Although aides tried to hustle him into a car, the New York apartment, the red-haired personality stopped to chat briefly and asked that reporters convey his thanks to so many well - wishers who have inquired about the results of his surgery.

Godfrey had told reporters that "I got a break—the (malignancy) got it out, under circumstances so trying that one slip of the scalpel and I wouldn't be here talking to you."

In his statement he said:

"I know why I got the break. I got it because so many people prayed for me. I'll have to admit that I didn't pray for it, because I never had the ability to pray for myself and besides, I have already had too many breaks. I only ask the Lord for whatever is wanted."

Godfrey's statement concluded: "I also want to thank the wonderful nurses who performed this miracle of surgery and have given me such care."

"What are your orders?" they answered 'No conferences, no business, no interviews, no tiring endeavors of any kind for at least 60 days. For two months you are to lie on the beach. If you do that you will make a complete recovery.'

"So, ladies and gentlemen of the fourth estate and, through you, my wonderful friends throughout the land, I say au revoir. I will not bother you again for 60 days . . .

"But look for me after 7 get. I'll be back on the air 25 to 1 mean it when I say I am grateful for the prayers and love that poured upon me."

According to generalized figures from the American Cancer Society, the chances are 25 to 1 and 30 to 1 against Godfrey's survival. There is no immediate way of knowing whether cancer cells in the left lung spread from the lung before the operation.

'Must Lend Ourselves Out' Arthur O. Pigott of Toronto Tells Kinsmen of Convention

Yesterday several hundred Kinsmen heard Arthur O. Pigott, Toronto businessman, present a challenge to their clubs' activities and purpose. "We must lend ourselves out", stated the speaker as he explained the changing society in which Canadians were living. The age of specialization of jobs, he said necessary to an industrial way of of life, has changed the character of one's neighborhood which used to be centred on an agricultural way of life. This is a major difficulty which must be overcome to create a better environment and atmosphere in which to develop the greatest natural resource Canada has — her people. Where job specialization cannot provide a basis for everyday meeting and conversation with one's neighbor, where this specialization can lead to boredom and frustration because it provides for little or no use of a person's creative talents, and when the people take no mere spectator activities to let off steam by shouting at an active participant, there is created a situation where the service club can do some constructive work in better community life he said, by providing opportunities for people to get together, and do something useful, for themselves and the needs of the community for a better environment by providing through its aims and activities a rich outlet for people to gain a proper emotional maturity the service club can overcome this void in our life.

"The strength of the individual comes from his fellowmen, neighbors", stated Mr. Pigott, a University of Manitoba graduate. Today the functions of the family and its people have changed. The children used to have to live as a part of the family, contributing to its life and well being through their chores and duties. Life has changed through the past few years however. Now there are few jobs for responsible people the youth as automatic gadgets and a higher level of living have substituted idle time for what previously were active hours.

The children in some instances, are actually discouraged from doing anything about the home for fear that they might damage or mar some of the automatic wonders and the specially landscaped lawns of today's expensive houses.

REQUIRE ACTION

Today, children require action to give them something to be useful at or in. The child's hereditary trails have no effect on the type of person he will grow up to be. His environment or community atmosphere which he can control, create, do affect him, stated the head of the Canadian Mental Health Association. Whatever a person is stimulated by in his early development from the things around him which he can see, hear, touch, or feel (emotionally) affect his development into a mature human being. Economy of action is the result of a person's maturing and which will usually seek the most economical way to get the most in life he desires. The method used to gain satisfaction will vary according to the individual and the whole child was brought up. Since the youth or child cannot control his environment it is the responsibility of the adults to do so.

"You have a place to make for your special order", advised Mr. Pigott, stating that there are a few thousand things which can stunt the growth of the greatest natural resource, our youth, and pleaded for more organized in the bread and butter things to realize this. We are never too busy to do constructive things", continued the speaker. Indicating that four times the amount spent on educational needs was required for the detection and punishment of crime, surely it is only a matter of deciding what can a service club do first to provide a better environment before this situation can be changed through the personal creative efforts of its members.

The speaker was introduced by Don Bacon and thanked by Frank Lang and given a long ovation by his audience.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde welcomed the delegates to Belleville in both French and English, much to the delight of the Kinsmen from Quebec province, who loudly acclaimed His Worship with cries of "more" sounding throughout the room. Chairman of the meeting was Jack Hamill, president of the host club.

Two Youngsters Struck by Cars

TRENTON — Two youngsters were injured slightly yesterday afternoon when they ran out into the busy main streets of town and were struck by cars.

At 5.55 p.m. when Leonard Kormos, 12, of R. R. 3, Trenton ran out from the north curb on Dundas Street West near Vic Auger's Men's Wear into the path of a car being operated by Ralph L. Beck, R. R. 7 Pacific Boulevard.

Car Hits Diesel On Front Street Damage Slight

TRENTON — A car and a diesel locomotive tangled in Trenton yesterday at 6:45 p.m. and at least the driver of the car suffering no damage and inflicting an estimates $200 damage to the front end of the vehicle of the highway.

The operator of the car, Hassnah Feather of 4 Bishop Blvd. Batawa, told police she was going north on Front Street when she approached the tracks she heard the train whistle and saw the wig-wag going.

She said she had stopped the car and looked up the wrong line of tracks, the ones leading into the rubber of the cold storage plants, not seeing no train, had started the car moving again, only to hit the diesel which had just reached the centre of the level crossing on Front Street.

The car was unable to stop in time because of the wet and slippery pavement.

Luring Pickerel Is Cold Work

TRENTON — Chilled to the bone, but still grimly fishing, Trent River anglers yesterday had hard work to land the pickerel at the start of the pickerel season.

First reported lucky fisherman was Eddie Weeks of Princess Street, with a fine four-pounder. His groups was topped later by D. J. Denton, who caught a 23-inch five-pound pickerel, the heaviest fish recorded so far.

Toronto Twp. Council Rejects Schools' Budget

TORONTO (CP) — A budget clash between Toronto Township council and the South Peel board of education may have to be resolved by the Ontario Supreme Court.

Thursday the council, administrative body for the township west of Metropolitan Toronto, rejected the education board's $4,450,000 budget for the second time in two weeks.

Council members have threatened to go to jail before passing the school levy. If approved, it would make the township's rate $3 mills.

A spokesman for the' department of municipal affairs says the board could take the council to court with a writ compelling the council to act.

Elmer Wright, the education board's chairman, said that if teachers' salaries weren't in line with those in Metropolitan Toronto, the Ontario Teachers' Federation would "pink list" the board — that is advise federation teachers not to apply for jobs there.

Mr. Wright said $317,000 of the $778,000 budget increase is caused by increased salaries. The school boards could have avoided the increase if they had presented a "united front" to the federation.

Reeve Mrs. Mary Fox and the other six members united unanimously to return the budget to the education board with strong requests for reductions. Council has no authority to reduce the school budget.

The council meets again Tuesday to consider the matter and the school board will meet immediately after.

Urge Caution On Change in Redistribution

OTTAWA (CP) — Government supporters advocated caution about placing the job of redistributing election districts boundaries in the hands of an independent commission.

Speaking briefly on a private member's bill to provide such a method of redistribution, Nesbitt Macquarrie (PC-Queens) said any move to transfer redistribution from responsible, elective body like Parliament to an appointed and unresponsible body should first receive very careful consideration. Historical and economic considerations had to be considered as well as population.

The bill, introduced by Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur), calls for redistribution by an independent commission on the basis of population. Debate continued until the 6 p.m. adjournment hour without a decision and the bill drops to the bottom of the list of similar private measures.

J. J. Martel (PC-Chapleau) took much the same position as Mr. Macquarrie, urging particular care before any action is taken.

Mr. Fisher said the MP is becoming more and more a kind of "information and welfare officer" in his constituency. The pressure on MPs therefore was related directly to the size of the riding.

No Fishing Boats Can Interfere With Moon Talk

LONDON (AP) — Britain's huge radio telescope at Jodrell Bank has started bouncing messages off the moon sown to the U.S. Air Force research centre at Cambridge, Mass.

An announcement from Jodrell Bank said the first message was sent in morse. It read:

"Jodrell Bank to air force Cambridge research centre, Massachusetts. Well have no trouble with fishing boats on this circuit."

Jodrell Bank is the world's largest radio telescope. It is used to track space satellites and the American moon shots.

1st Sea Scouts' S.S. 'Tweed' Launched

TWEED — Stoco Lake, Ontario's big little lake, was the scene of the launching for the 1st Tweed Sea Scouts' "S.S. Tweed," a 23-foot diesel operated cabin cruiser, which was purchased from Ron Colcock, employee of Tweed Hydro, by the Scout group committee in April of this year. Since then the Sea Scouts and leaders have spent many hours of spare and odd pains for a new coat of blue and white Sea Scout colors.

FATHERS ASSIST

On Monday evening most Scout fathers showed up for loading of the launch onto a trailer, the fathers who experienced all walks of life from banking, businessmen to policemen, farmers, railwaymen, put their shoulders to the load to give their sons the initial send-off by the launching which will mean many days of pleasure, training and instruction in boating, water safety and seamanship for the leaders. The idea of changing Tweed Boy Scouts into a Sea Scout troop came into discussion while on their annual camping trip at Bon Echo Rock Camp in the summer of 1958. Tweed, with its abundance water facilities, possibly the finest harbour and Stoco Lake, is ideally located for such Sea Scout operations.

Scouting projects for financial funds in Tweed have always been well received by its citizens and surrounding Tweed shoppers and can be set as an example to other municipalities. Outstanding projects previously are Scout Apple Day, soil drink refreshment booth at the fall fair, hot dog bun sale, Mother's Day flower sale and summer auction sale of used furniture, another project during the summer months is the sale of pop cans from a vending machine turned over to the Scouts by the Tweed Kiwanis Club.

LAND DONATED

Mr. A. B. Collins, Q.C., well known Belleville lawyer, who operates an office in Tweed, has generously turned over to the Tweed Sea Scouts for their summer pleasure a large tract of land which fronts on the Moira River and Stoco Lake. The Sea Scouts plan to erect their meeting hall to this new area shortly. They are greatly indebted to Mr. Collins for his very kind offer.

Stoco Lake will be the site of a weekend regatta in July of this year in which surrounding Scout troops will be invited to compete in water sports and many other events, arrangements are now being made by the Tweed Scout group committee and every visiting Scout will be assured a wonderful weekend.

Fire Destroys Ottawa Building

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-storey building in west-central Ottawa housing Canada's electronic equipment owned by the transport department was destroyed Friday night by fire.

No injuries were reported in the blaze and an estimate of damage was not immediately available.

Flames for a time threatened a nearby plant and warehouse of the Valley Paint Works. Firemen from six stations managed to prevent the fire from spreading to the highly volatile stores of paint.

The building was located on Booth and Broad Streets.

The Governor-General

This is the Senate Chamber in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa on May 12, 1958. The occasion is the opening of the first session of the 24th Parliament of Canada. The Governor-General of Canada, the Right Honorable Vincent Massey, is about to read the Speech from the Throne.

In October, 1957, Her Majesty the Queen, accompanied by Prince Philip, opened the session of Parliament, and for the first time in Canadian history the Queen herself read the Speech from the Throne. On other occasions the Governor-General performs this duty, just as he performs all his other duties, as the Queen's name and as her personal representative.

If this picture is compared with the colored photograph sent out last year, showing the Queen and Prince Philip, it will be seen that many of the details are the same. The Justices of the Supreme Court are in the same places, the aides-de-camp are there, the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Senate, and Black Rod. The senators' seats are occupied by visitors. The members of the House of Commons do not appear in the photograph but are standing at the Bar of the House.

This is the 24th Parliament; there have been 24 general elections since Confederation. This is its first session since the election of March, 1958.

This is the second in the series "Commonwealth and Citizenship Day" which started on Friday. The Editor.

Canada Must Take Full Advantage Of Seaway Dalton Tells Kinsmen

Charles O. Dalton, president of the Carling Breweries, was the guest speaker at Friday evening's main gathering for the first day of Kinsmen activities, commenting on the peculiarities of Canadians, the speaker stated "this has only bothered others, who were not Canadians, and that this country's endless controversies concerning flags, national anthems, and such were but a part of the Canadian character, and "were humorous as well.

People can expect Canada to be an extraordinary place because the people who make up the population have, since the beginning of Canadian history, come to Canada under extraordinary conditions, and these conditions have resulted in the building of a nation in a wilderness.

"Canadians are capable of doing great things. The St. Lawrence Seaway is testament to this initiative which Canadians can display. But what will we do with it now that we have it", queried the speaker? Quoting the London Times as referring to the Great Lakes as the "New Mediterranean", Mr. Dalton stated that Canadians must come to grips with the problem of utilizing this advantage and not letting it die on the vine. To date no port along the Canadian side of the Great Lakes has proper cranes or unloading facilities to handle ocean going vessels, some of which are to be commonplace on this waterway. Communities along the Great Lakes should develop their seaway facilities as fast as possible.

"We need a zest for getting things done . . . we must initiate things," commented the former Canadian Army officer, he described the position of much of the world which was going hungry whilst North Americans were throwing food away as waste. These hungry people will soon be moving to get things done for their benefit, as they become more aware of our luxurious conditions," warned the speaker. "We must make use of the surpluses and advantages which we have and develop a leadership in settling the more important problems in the world today."

Mr. Dalton concluded by complimenting the Kinsmen on the activity which they showed in the business sessions of their convention. The presence of a great number of people at these sessions indicated the vitality and seriousness of those present although they were also capable of having a very good time.

Mr. Dalton was introduced to his audience, which filled the Pinnacle Room and the Club Room of the Quinte Hotel to capacity, by Cliff Simmons, chairman of the dinner. Mr. Ian Johnson, president-elect of the Belleville Kinsmen Club, thanked the speaker and presented him with a pair of hand some bookends as a reminder of the occasion.

Won't Consider Locks Doubling At This Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Government officials say it is too early to the doubling of locks along the Welland Canal to speed traffic tarough this section of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

They said Friday night that such a construction program could not be based on a few weeks of operations under new seaway conditions. It would have to be based on experience during an entire shipping season.

Transport Minister Hees said earlier this week that the government feels that the canal—made up of three twinned locks and four single ones—is capable of handling traffic for many years.

Transport department officials said it now appears that congestion at the Welland Canal is all but cleared up and there will be no delays by next week.

One official said that one reason for the congestion is that a number of foreign ships that would not normally use the seaway are there "to show the flag."

John Dulles' Condition Is Said Worse

His family has gathered here. In addition to his wife and daughter Allen, who heads the central intelligence agency, they include his three children and a brother.

The former state secretary, 71, weakened to the point that has spread through his body, contracted a mild case of pneumonia over the weekend. Friday, state department press officer Lincoln White said:

"Mr. Dulles' pneumonia has not completely resolved. There has been some further decline in his general condition."

Dulles, 71, entered Walter Reed Army Hospital last Feb. 12 for radiation treatments in an attempt to check a cancerous condition.

Seaway Will Not Add Greatly to Lamprey Menace

TORONTO (CP) — The St. Lawrence isn't going to make much difference, one way or the other, to the menace of sea lamprey, a hazard in the Great Lakes fisheries.

"The upper Great Lakes are in our main concern and Lake Erie still presents quite a barrier for the lampreys," K. H. Loftus, head of the fisheries research branch of the Ontario lands and forest department said Friday. "The seaway won't make much difference.

The lamprey, a blood-sucking parasite inhabiting in the Atlantic Ocean, was first reported in the Great Lakes in 1946.

Mr. Loftus said divers in the Welland Canal had found that lampreys attach themselves to the hulls of ships but it takes a long time to multiply into the pest which kills commercial fishing in the upper lakes.

After limited success with electric nets across streams, the fisheries board now is using a chemical developed last year to kill lamprey larvae without harming other fish.

Upbound Ships Wait for Pilots

PORT WELLER (CP) — About 15 upbound ships were anchored off Port Weller Friday night waiting to enter the Welland Canal.

Officials said the holdup was caused by the lack of pilots to take the vessels through canal and up to Sarnia. Other lake shipping is moving normally.

Port Weller authorities reported that during the period from midnight to 8 p.m. Friday night, 15 upbound ships and 13 downbound passed through the canal.

New College Hill Pharmacy Operated By Harold Little

A new drug store in the north end of the city serving residents of College Hill and adjacent areas saw its official opening Friday morning.

The new outlet is Little's Pharmacy, operated by Harold Little, formerly with Latimer's Drug Store for 14 years. The address is 164 North Front Street.

Compact in its appointments the new drug store features open self serve fixtures where customers may browse and choose many of their own requirements. Personalized service is there for the asking, however. In addition to Mr. Little the pharmacy staff consists of Mrs. Little who will double as bookkeeper, Alice Hall, and Miss Eleanor Clarke. Free motorized delivery is offered.

A 1930 graduate of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Mr. Little was born in nearby Brighton and received his public and high school education in that centre.

Following high school he took his druggist's training in Toronto and during the last war served six years overseas with No. 2 Canadian Army Casualty Clearing Station.

Following demobilization he went to Latimer's drug store.

Speedy work on part of carpenters and decorators meant completion of the new North Front Street drug outlet sooner than was anticipated with result the Friday's official opening was advanced two weeks.

All store fixtures were manufactured in the city, a fact of which Mr. Little is proud.

Approximately 500 customers were served at the Friday morning opening at which time free coffee was dispensed. During the afternoon "Miss Neilson" was on hand handing out ice cream treats.

The store opening is being featured by a draw for door prizes with lucky tickets to be drawn on Saturday evening.

DIEFENBAKER ACTS

At the moment of writing we do not know how the Toronto Globe and Mail will view the situation, but we suspect that most Canadians received with approval the news that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will attempt to persuade Canadian auto builders that they should make small cars in Canada if their competitors in the U.S. decide to produce such models.

It appears likely that the Prime Minister is acting as the result of a brief presented to the government April 20 by a delegation of the United Automobile Workers headed by George Burt, Canadian UAW director.

At the time that Mr. Burt first expressed the desires of Canadian auto workers for some assurance that small cars would be built in Canada if parent companies in the U.S. undertook their manufacture, the Globe and Mail inquired sharply as to what business it was of the union what the companies did.

We suspect that, in taking this stand, the Prime Minister evidently thinks that it is the business of the government to try to make certain that the needs of Canadian consumers are supplied by Canadian workers where facilities for doing so exist.

We fancy that most Canadians, of all political faiths, will sympathize with Mr. Diefenbaker's view. "Let me emphasize," he said in the House, "that if small cars are manufactured in the United States by these companies we want the same situation in Canada." The government, through its tariff policies, would appear to be in an excellent position to assure that the desires of Mr. Diefenbaker in this regard are met.

At the same time, we ought not to overlook the fact that the automobile companies may face some serious financial problems in this regard, because of the comparatively small size of the Canadian market. Here again, appropriate tariff regulations may provide the required key.

CENSUS CONTROVERSY

Announcement that census officials plan to test public reaction to a list of additional questions has provoked considerable comment in newspapers, most of it unfavorable.

The main theme of critics appears to be that these questions, of a highly personal nature, constitute unnecessary prying into the private life of the person questioned.

Comment by the Vancouver Sun is fairly typical. "Most honest, hard-working citizens," it declares, "will question the right of any government, even one that thinks it has to know all about the fertility of the nation's women." This is in reference to a planned query about the mother's marriage age and number of children. The Sun, we think, made an unhappy choice of the particular question on which to base its protest; we can think of several reasons why a government might be interested in the fertility of the nation's women. The relationship to what the Sun calls "the orderly conduct of good government" of some of the other planned questions is not so clear, but information is like the "junk" which the average householder keeps in his cellar - - one never knows when it will come in handy, nor to what purpose it may be put.

This, of course, will not be considered an adequate defence of the prying census takers by those who regard these questions as an invasion of privacy. We ought to remember, though, that the census man is not interested in relating particular answers to particular persons - - for all he cares the person answering could be nameless.

The difficulty is that in many instances the person answering the question will not be a mere statistic to the person asking the question. Information given during a census is supposed to be confidential, but if it is given to a neighbor or acquaintance the person questioned cannot be blamed for feeling that they have been exposed to an invasion of their privacy.

If the census officials feel it essential to ask highly personal questions, they may have to devise means of keeping these queries as impersonal as possible by making certain that the census taker works in a district where he or she is unknown.

Shuffling census takers in this manner could be expensive. Would the information obtained be worth the cost? That question, rather than any theory about the government lacking the right to pry into the private affairs of citizens, is the one which needs an answer.

SPRING FEVERISH

By EDGAR A. GUEST

If I could write a deathless lay
That would perpetuate my name,
If I knew I could pen my way
This minute to eternal fame,
I'd still lean back within my chair
And spurn the summons to my pen;
The lasting "poesy," and then
I'd yawn and mutter, "What's the use?"

If opportunity dropped in
On me this morning with a call
To buckle to my work and win
Life's greatest honors, I should still

Instead of jumping at the chance
I'd merely offer some excuse,
And in the present circumstance
I'd yawn and mutter, "What's the use!"

This morning, from the way I feel,
There is no work I want to do;
Money and fame make no appeal;
The sun's too warm, the sky's too blue.
But if a friend should come and say:
"Get busy. They've begun to Let us go fishing in the bay!"
You'd not see me again till night.

ARTICLE 18

While the Stewart House in 1919 occupied the same corner as the O'Connor Hotel, where Senator Frank O'Connor, who made his millions in the sand and gravel business later, was born, that does not necessarily mean that the building was the same. Old pictures show this to be true.

Another prominent business report of the town, issued in July, 1895, George Stewart was proprietor of this "house" or "hotel" at that time. Upon his death he was succeeded by his brother, Thomas (Tommy) who was a cripple. Tommy and his wife (a sister of Tommy Brown, late of York and Toronto baseball and Senator, both natives of Mount Pleasant, between Marysville and Napanee), raised two nephews, the Watson brothers.

The elder became a good horseman-driver and won many races with his uncle's fine pacer, "The Jay". Apparently at that time there was a half-mile track in the west end of the town, probably where Camp Summerside buildings stood during the First World War. The elder Watson boy left for the States to join his uncle, Theodore Harold or Ted as he was called "Buster" married Miss Eva Kingsbury, well-known musician and singer of Napanee, a robbery which took place in the hotel or store. At that time the Dominion Bank was robbed of a large sum of money.

Eventually two men, Pare and Holden by name, were taken into custody. Since there were two in those days, bars in Canada were not as plentiful as they are today. It was during World War 11 — 1916 during World War 11 — that Deseronto had been hanging around Deseronto for some time before the robbery. They had been in the hotel or store apparently had made many friends. It is not known why they were arrested (but where or how we have not yet found out) and taken to the jail in Napanee. It appears that Deseronto folks, attending to the business, were in receipt of them as former drinking pals.

EVIDENCE DISPROVED

The evidence was false before but it bears repeating, that the defence did everything possible to prove their innocence. The jailer had been in league with these men, had indeed, provided them with the combination of vault or safe. However this was disproved by Crown Attorney Gravelle of the Renfrew Journal who without any trouble, got into the vault or safe before opened it without any trouble.

Pare and Holden were found guilty and sent up for trial in the Belleville court. For the nonce they would be incarcerated in the county jail at Napanee. But these men had friends. One of them picked the locks of his cell, freed the jailer, locked him away, and then the jail lock and then...it was just a matter of crossing the jail yard and scaling the wall.

There was a nation-wide hunt for the escaped men and with not little or no success and then, on Thursday, July 6, 1899, a lone constable patrolling a newly-constructed freight train at Campbellford, New Brunswick picked up the two men who were stealing a ride. Alone and unaided, he locked them in the jail and found that he had made a prize catch until the chagrin with Ontario police circulars received some time before. He at one wired Toronto, and Chief Constable Greer was at once on his way east. Pare and Holden, from Deseronto and Napanee, were sentenced to long terms in Kingston Penitentiary and then, New Brunswick.

It was during our Deseronto days that Charles Stewart and his estimable wife died and from then on the Stewart House was known as the Tommy House. After all there was no bar to keep up the business and there was hardly sufficient floating population to make ends meet with meals and bed alone. As we recall it, Jack Freeman ran it for a while and so did Alec Foote among others, but as we recall it, too, not for any great length of time.

The Arlington Hotel, further west on Main Street, and opposite the CNR station, was somewhat off our beat. We do recall that at one time Alex Storms was its manager and we might add that some years later we found the same Alex Storms, then known as a gigantic proportions physically holding down a desk at the Elliott House in Toronto. There was also McVicker House but except that it was owned by Mr. James, McVicker we cannot place it location.

But then back in 1895 there were several hotels and a liquor store in Deseronto in addition to the Arlington Hotel and Stewart House. Among the hotelmen of that day were John Callaghan, Willis Ham, William Cummings' son, P. O'Connor, Robert Adams and his son Robert, Jr. Deseronto too, George Stewart at that time was in business at a site other than the present Post Office where he died, and a business man by the name of Lindsay to this day.

We are during our time in Deseronto that Deseronto secured its first "liquor store" liquor in this instance meaning beer and wine. We cannot recall the name of the first manager but Mr. Lindsay was in charge for a while, adding to his many duties of conducting a drug store, undertaking and telephone office. Another manager was William Cummings, who prior to his appointment was in the garage business on the upper or Napanee side.

And there was to be a liquor store robbery. It was reported a large supply of beer and wine went out the back door to a waiting car. The robbery had been entered by borrowing tools from Bill Ham's hardware/grocery shop nearby. And so cleverly was everything oiled that no finger prints, under dust, could be found to identify the culprits, were ever found and the police suspected either was the stolen beer or wine.

If you have any business report of the town, issued in July, 1895, George Stewart was proprietor of this "house" or "hotel" at that time. Upon his death he was succeeded by his brother, Thomas (Tommy) who was a cripple. Tommy and his wife (a sister of Tommy Brown, late of York and Toronto baseball and Senator, both natives of Mount Pleasant, between Marysville and Napanee), raised two nephews, the Watson brothers.

Long Words Winning Out

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Ever since the French-speaking Normans conquered England and spoiled the Saxon tongue, there has been rivalry in the English language between short and long words over which is to be the victor.

The factor of snob appeal has given the edge to the latter longer word — generally derived from Latin or Greek by way of William and his conquerors. But the cost of paper and typewriter ribbons is a powerful deterrent able to use shorter words when they can get by.

Writers of news stories favor "approximately" over "about" by 2 to 1. Most of the broadcast news are often victims of long-winded writers. Instead of getting over occur after dinner, but you should see the list of events scheduled for Centennial Year.

Nor does any condition exist in which the public currently finds things are in a bit of a mess.

Police are fond of long words, too. Reporters never watch a suspect — it looks so much better if they keep him under surveillance. Nobody ever breaks into a store but lots of crooks burglarize business establishments. Detectives never try to learn anything by questioning the suspect but they attempt to ascertain his guilt through interrogation. They suspect him of additional violations, never simply of more crimes.

In automobile accident, no one ever suffers a cut or broken scratches or broken bones. They've always lacerations, contusions, abrasions and fractures—in that order.

Legal eagles are just as bad. No self-respecting lawyer would ever say that a meeting to talk about it, but they'll summon the witnesses first.

Perhaps it is impossible to discourse sufficiently about this, but it should be apparent when enough has been said. This piece will never be concluded, but it ends right here.

Returns are still being received by the Red Cross Society in connection with their annual appeal for funds, and while the objective has not been reached, the branch is very pleased with the response so far, the president informed the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Faulkner of Central Butte, Saskatchewan, and formerly of Belleville, are spending a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carence Vermilyea of Sidney township.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gist spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lindsay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Doyle have gone on spending a few days in the city.

Mrs. T. H. Dredge, Bridge Street East, is visiting friend in Ottawa.

Mayor Alderman has returned from New York where he attended a conference on Mosquito Extermination.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Frost and family of Niagara Falls, N.Y., spent the weekend with the parents of Mr. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frost, of Foundry Street.

Mr. Ed Burn, Foster Ave., is making satisfactory recovery at his home following injuries received as the result of a fall.

Water in the bay continues to rise and conditions are distressing along the bay where area. Besides the distress caused the people who reside near the water's edge, the effect upon property values will be bad. High water will prevent the use of the lunches. High water is damaging the fresh fish business this season. Hoop cod fishing was a failure; though the season was extended fifteen days the catch was small. Many fishermen made hardly enough to pay for their licenses. Smelting in the creeks and rivers is not up to average owing to the high water.

Metropolitan Stores Limited, the pioneer five and ten cent business block on Front Street formerly occupied by Lattimer-Lewis Shoe Store, Conway Ashley and F. S. Anderson coal offices, has been taken out a building permit for $20,000 and will make extensive alterations and improvements to the property before opening for business.

A fast baseball game was played on Queen Mary School grounds between the Red Sox and the Scouts of the YMCA Junior League, resulting in a win for the Red Sox by a score of 9 to 7. THE COMMAND TO WITNESS

It is amazing as we read the Bible to discover that Jesus left the command for providing much of an organization to continue His work and teachings. To be sure, He left twelve disciples. They were the nucleus about whom all future effort was to be carried on. The church He built was not the highly organized body we know today. It was just a group of consecrated, set-aside people. One of the most amazing statements our Lord ever made was as what the Book of Acts tells us was His last statement. "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." (Acts 1:8). Not a happen to be.

word about ways and means or organization. Just a group to go out and witness — tell others what Christ had meant to them. And it was while the witnessing went on during the first three Christian centuries that the church had a vigor in the faith greater even than it has today. Those Christians witnessed to neighbors, merchants fellow merchants, travellers to other travellers. The word grew and multiplied through witnessing.

The church is highly organized today, but it is not the witnessing body it should be. We serve the Lord best by being witnessing members of His Forever we

To Your Good Health

DON'T HAVE TONSILS REMOVED UNLESS THERE'S A GOOD REASON

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that children "outgrow" enlarged tonsils and adenoids? If so, at what age? Three doctors have told me it is unnecessary to remove my 7-year-old's tonsils and adenoids.— G.W."

Yes — I suppose "outgrow" is as good a word as any. Anyway, it is true that tonsils and adenoids may become smaller and cause caudate undesirable symptoms. The age is usually in the teens, but it can be later.

After three doctors have seen your son — and his tonsils — I'd say you had a definite reason to leave the tonsils alone. Nobody, not even three doctors, can give absolute assurance of what will happen in the future, but in the case you mean — surely have reason to wait and see, and the probability is that the operation will not be necessary.

Certainly not all tonsils and adenoids have to be removed. If there is some definite, clear reason, then go ahead, but don't do it "just because." I believe that the following are the main reasons recommended:

1. Repeated colds with frequent sore throat, and enlarged glands in the neck.

2. Continuous drainage from the nose which interferes with obstruction interfering with normal drainage. The probable risk of chronic sinusitis and otitis in such cases.

3. Any attack of acute infection of the ears, if tonsils and/or adenoids are enlarged. Repeated attacks of tonsillitis, of recurring ear infection subside after removal of tonsils and adenoids.

4. Fever that cannot be explained. Tonsils need not be necessarily large to harbor focal infection.

CAN AFFECT LATER LIFE

Of all the above, I would lay the most emphasis on the tonsil and mastoid infection. The chronic draining ear and impaired hearing can be very serious. However, a focal infection in the tonsils may be a factor in arthritis or kidney trouble later on in life.

The immediate consequences, however, are likely to be the ones we notice most — namely, the "sickly child," one who is a poor eater, pale and lacking in youthful vigor. He may also need to come out, the removal of tonsils and adenoids improvement in eating habits and a gain in weight and growth.

As I've said so often before, I positively do not condone the indiscriminate removal of tonsils. Either have a definite reason for removing them, or don't remove them. There are good reasons for having tonsils, and keeping them. The reasons for removing them must be real and concrete.

So how long it takes a child to "outgrow" enlargement of tonsils, or to see the shrinkage of tonsils that comes as we get a bit older than grade-school age — well there's no positive limit.

I will say this: Recently I had occasion to examine a young man of 23. All the available tests showed no specific cause for the chronic fever which afflicted him. His tonsils were large, red and had crypts.

Getting rid of the tonsils was the logical step — and other known cause) the only remedy else step that remained. It proved to be the answer.

So I can't give you any specific advice. I can only point out people that at 23, or even much later in life, sometimes the tonsils ought to be removed. Here are ways for good reason. Always!

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is is possible for menopause to begin at age 30? And should it have more severe effects on a person suffering with an enlarged heart? — Mrs. R.S."

It's possible, but very unusual. Otherwise I can't say. I should have any effect on a person with an enlarged heart.

Note to Mrs. J.V.: Repeated treatments sometimes are necessary to get rid of tapeworm. Side after removal of tonsils that you must get rid of the head of the tapeworm, too. Otherwise it will continue to grow.

Are you considering the removal of your child's tonsils? If you are, you should have carefully considered them for a purpose, and you will find many in the pamphlet, "Don't Trifle With Tonsils." To receive your copy, send your name and address to Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, Box Dept. 58, Dearborn, Illinois, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT IS LIFE ABOUT?

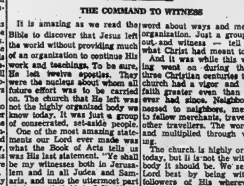
Over and over again I have heard the question asked what is life about? Is it just a game to people one to answer. Life is about birth, childhood, youth, manhood, defeat, disappointment, thrills and joy, it's about babies, and birds, and flowers, and blue skies and storms and beauty.

It's about growth, change, business, friends, books, nations and ruins. We know what life is about. Our knowledge stops with the grave. Through the eyes of faith and faith alone we look beyond. Secreted within the heart is the treasure of Heaven, and the knowledge of that country from which no traveller has yet returned, to tell.

Ever being wound about our every thought and the thread of experience, and into this woven fabric enter every thought, deed, and idea that ever went out on venture, and there is no need for us to specialize Heaven. He who calls the birds at dawn to sing, and the flowers of the field to open their fragrance to the most deserted land, will take care of the rest.

Life is about work, about the building of the soul, the harvesting of crops, about tending gardens and running errands for others — to make them happy. Life is about the people that call up one to answer. Life is about the world, the world's work.

Life is about doctors, and lawyers, store-keepers, and people coming out of mines and factories, about experiments and inventions, and discovery. Life is about everything that touches the consciousness of the mind, the heart, or soul of man.



Life is about you and about me. We are here, and why we should not leave this world better off because we have been privileged, through Providence, to be here.

AS SHADOWS CAST BY CLOUD AND SUN

As shadows cast by cloud and sun
Flit o'er the summer grass,
So, in Thy sight, Almighty One,
Earth's generations pass.

And, while the years, an endless host
Come pressing swiftly on,
The brightest names that earth can boast
Just listen and are gone.

Yet doth the Star of Bethlehem shed
A lustre pure and sweet,
And still it leads, as once it led,
To the Messiah's feet.

O Father, may that holy Star
Grow every year more bright,
And send its glorious beams afar
To fill the earth with light.

Whenever the roll of America's greatest poets is called, the name of William Cullen Bryant comes out near the top of the list.

Most folks, hearing it, think at once of his magnificent poem, Thanatopsis, and then of his other writings, but few are aware that Bryant also turned out beautiful religious poetry and that some of his verses are widely used today as hymns.

"Look From Thy Sphere of Endless Day" is one of these hymn-poems, and "As Shadows Cast By Cloud And Sun" is another. The latter hymn was written by Bryant in 1875 as a Christmas hymn to be sung at the semi-centennial of the Church of the Messiah in Boston, Mass., but because of the sentiment in its opening stanza it was considered appropriate for use at the poet's funeral when he died in 1878.

wake us up to the full life. He helps to lead us up to this fulness of living. Just to hold counsels of perfection before people is not enough. It is all very well to set up ideals as our goals. But if the ideal goals seem too far away, man fall into cynical doubt and often give up hope of reaching them. We need standards as well as ideals. An ideal is something to aim at; a standard is something to take hold of. And unless we have something to take hold of here and now we only even lose our aim.

The Chinese have an ancient proverb to the effect that even the longest journey starts with the first step. Jesus recognized the same truth. He showed His followers how to take the first steps toward the goals which He gave. He said, "Be ye perfect as your Father in Heaven is perfect." But He also brought that counsel of perfection down to the next steps of duty — things which His disciples could do the next day, deeds of simple kindness, acts of personal forgiveness, attitudes of respect toward foreigners like the Samaritans. The Master of Life saw that the ultimate goals of the full life must be approached by way of immediate and intermediate goals.

Thomas Carlyle told us to do the duty next to us and then the duty next to that and we would discover how the light begins to break on the ultimate duty. This is a sound principle which needs constant study. We are puzzled almost to despair about the complex problems of world peace, brotherhood, juvenile delinquency. But while the diplomat and experts are holding conferences, you and I can make our contribution by doing the duty nearest to us.

We cannot see very far along the road ahead, but each of us knows which is his better foot to put forward. And remember, God's Word is "a light unto our feet" to show us the next step.

A Lift for Living

Doing Duty Nearest to Us

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Did you ever watch a butterfly in a garden? I do not know how life looks to a butterfly, although I sat next to a flighty young lady at dinner some years ago and since then I feel that I know more about what a butterfly sees and thinks. Watch the little fluttering thing as it flits over the garden, first in this direction and then in that, starting toward one flower then suddenly distracted by another.

Somehow I feel that a butterfly's view of the world is far less satisfying than that of the eagle whose flight sweeps in mighty swings from crag to crag. The eagle gives the impression of going some place and yet his eye must revel in gorgeous vistas on the way.

Christ imparts to His followers the viewpoint of the eagle not the butterfly. He counselled singleness of eye, but that does not mean narrowness of outlook. He said, "If thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light." He Himself was bent on a divine mission with only a few months given Him to execute it. And yet Jesus, though His face was steadfastly set toward Jerusalem, enjoyed scenes on the way. He ate the guest at weddings; He took time to make friends with little children.

The follower of Christ is not meant to be a narrow fanatic hurrying through this world on his way to Heaven. But he should have an eye single to the essentials of life, so that he does not miss the truly great things in reaping at the trifles.

FULLNESS OF LIFE

For, remember, there is a fullness of life which comes with simplification. Several years ago I heard a noble man tell his views of life on reaching his eightieth birthday. He said that things that once worried him no longer really counted; but he was finding the fundamentals counted far so much that life was growing richer, Growth is more than mere "moreness."

Some people seek fulness of life by merely adding to their collection of experiences as a stamp collector adds to his album. They think that every new pleasure or thrill, however questionable, gives them richer experience. They forget, as C. E. Montague tells us, that some experiences carry a minus sign. They subtract from life rather than add.

To live the full life we must be selective in our values. We must organize our interests on higher levels. If we seek first the Kingdom of God, as Christ said, we shall find that our other concerns fall into their proper places.

But Christ does more than

The Bible Today

"Before I could read, I was taught to fear Jehovah," said a woman in an Egyptian village. "Now I can sing, and I can read the Bible for myself. I do not know the stories the Minister tells in the sermon. I am part of this service, I am a person."

The increase in literacy throughout the world challenges the people of the more literate countries. The Bible is the supply books worth reading. Books are so precious to the new literates that the woman quoted above keeps her Bible in her breadbox so that it will never get away.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

This weekend Belleville is the host city to a convention of Kinsmen and their Kinette wives. T and T hopes that their visit is a happy one and that their deliberations productively rewarding for Belleville, Kinsmen and Kinettes to our friendly city.

We predict, and we refuse to admit that such prognostication trespasses on the field of the pundit, that Belleville will become more and more a convention city. There have been more conventions here throughout the past few years and more and more may be expected. From a point of view of geographical location, Belleville is centrally situated for eastern Ontario gatherings and beautifully located on the Bay of Quinte. Besides the accidental advantages of nature and geography, our facilities are improving steadily. Then, too, there is a tendency today to look at cities in terms of decentralization. One club we know of has discovered that it's convenient for it to meet in some advantages such as fewer distractions as fewer facilities on hand. Also we understand that one organization will be approached shortly to hold its next provincial convention in Belleville in the next year. And why not Belleville?

The subject of visitors to the city is one that we consider pertinent significant, yet ignored. Recently in the Toronto Telegram that the new seaway may not be able to cope with the influx of tourists that it is expected to accommodate. Why not, long before the seaway is ready, turn to us about a subject T & T has referred to several times before? Belleville is a natural area. She was deploring the lack of public washroom facilities and the fact that government at the municipal, provincial or federal level is not providing them. Belleville's vital position, T & T thinks, should be revised to the traversal or political topics. Certainly if lack of interest, indifference and apathy are not cured. Nobody seems to care.

We do know that in our limited sphere there appears to be more concern amongst the women of Belleville that the announcement or declaration of intention for a seat or even a interest is offered as to why Belleville is being absolutely passed by. Every time a ship comes into Belleville harbour, a seaway pilot becomes a seaway pilot because Belleville is absolute everything, but it is equally certain that Belleville is unrestricted. We have discussed it with members of the Chamber of Commerce and many citizens.

We have yet to hear a single opinion that didn't believe that the city stands to lose seriously if the seaway is opened by. T & T feels that if anything, the city should endeavor to repudiate a deep channel to Belleville, the public would respond to its appeal. We would support every effort. This is no political football, personal interest or personal benefit matter. It is. It would avoid it like the plague. It is a local matter affecting all of us, men, women and children of Belleville and district.

For our weekend thought we have another quotation from Gandhi T and T doubtless will return to this theme. Gandhi T and T doubtless will return to this theme. Gandhi T and T doubtless will return to this theme.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"He that revels-in a well-conducted business, and all of admirable flavor."—William Godwin.

"It said: Life is full of irony.

"And I came upon an admirable example the other day," mused a Belleville lady. "I had gone into a store to buy something and become engaged in conversation with the young sales lady about a book. 'Have you read it?' I asked.

"No—I've never read a book through in my whole life."

"Surely you must be joking! Didn't you have book reviews to write in school?"

"Fay chum always wrote them for me to hand in. I never read the books, ever."

"What about the movies, re-ally, T.V.?"

"Are you interested in anything?"

"Sewing." She spoke with enthusiasm. "I make all my own clothes and I've saved up to buy a sewing machine. That's why I'm working here."

"Oh," I answered. Though I really didn't see at all. Only a second ago at the end-less rows of books that filled the shelves in this place, she also worked — a book store.

Ironic indeed. But, while I'm reading this story I hope this is not a pleasure and there is very general advice to be given than Shakespeare's—no profit is, where is no pleasure taken. Well, I shall say what you most affect."

Yes, that's delightful. Even though she be, is, nevertheless unwise, according to John Milton writer in the purposes of Reading," says: "The human race, in its progress, has been the writing of its experiences. What fools we should be to try for our-selves, without any guidance and inspiration of the govern-ment that has gone before. For literature is simply life re-lected and condensed into books."

The truth, he states, in words, is strong and timeless enough like the oldest books of the Old Testament. Untouched by the years, it is forgotten. "The expression of truth, the trans-mission of ideas, the relation of between man and man and generation to generation these are the purposes of liter-ature. Not to read books is like being shut up in a dungeon while life rushes by outside."

It seems to me private collections of books have always existed. Men were known to exchange hand for a manuscript. Horace Silly built his library in his gar-den where silence was perfect. First editions are sought after, due to the fact that they re-present the author's first thought, the type he chose and the pec-ularities of form, as he decid-ed to do justice to his creation. Little points are found often which never occur again in the preceding editions.

But, we are told public libra-ries are a comparatively new in-stitution in our modern way of life. Three hundred years ago, there were only three: The Am-brosian at Milan, Italy, dates from 1606. The Bodleian, at Ox-ford, from 1602. In Rome, Angelo Rocca established in 1620.

The Bodleian Library, it is related, was founded by Sir Thomas Bodley, a retired diplo-matist — and despot. It is said, he insisted upon important gifts from all donors. All were then thanked in terms according to the worth of their benefaction. He made those who gave volumes pay for the binding as well.

To outwit theft, he ordered all books and manuscripts chained to the shelves. Books too small for this treatment were kept locked behind wire grating. All un-der-graduates, even B.A.'s were barred at first. Only senior doc-tors and foreign students of po-sition were admitted. He inform-ed his assistant, Dr. James, who wished to read the books that he was a most trustworthy an-son in a librarian"!

Bellevignette: Speaking of li-brarians and since this has been Library Week, this column would like to acknowledge its indebted-ness and express its sincere grat-itude to Miss Delaney and her splendid staff for the unfailing co-operation and assistance so gladly and freely given on any subject at any time. Belleville is fortunate to have such library service. .

Alpha Lambda Holds Two Fine Meetings

The meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi sor-ority was held recently at the home of Mrs. J. Heyman in the form of a "come-as-you-are" affair.

All the ladies were called unexpectedly that morning and asked to come as they were dressed at the moment. Prizes was given for the most unusual outfit, which was won by one of the members who was paint-ed when the phone rang. The outstanding feature was her "hat." Instead of the usual ker-chief to protect her hair which she seems to wear, she had put on a man's handkerchief on top of her head and held it down with a hair net. An in-teresting tip for home decora-tors.

Mrs. F. Brady was in charge of the program and showed an interesting film, "Confluence of Canada." It illustrated events from ancient to modern times and showed how the settlers from different countries brought their own style of architecture, crafts with them — weaving, pottery, woodwork, wood-carving, and painting — so that all these arts have been handed down to the present generation. It is interesting to note that these ancient arts are becoming quite popular and that most people try a few of them as a hobby.

A short business meeting was followed by delicious refresh-ments served by the hostess, Mrs. J. Hayman, and co-hostess Mrs. F. Bradley.

After a short business meeting Mrs. C. Thompson introduced the guest speaker, Miss Kay Hannah, who is a past president of the Junior Farmers' Asso-ciation, and who recently was appointed as the women's and girls' secretary of the local A.M.C.A.

Miss Hannah gave an extreme-ly interesting commentary on her many scenic, historic and educational slides taken during her two-month tour of the United Kingdom. Miss Hannah also showed some of her souvenirs and spoons from different pla-ces and answered many interesting questions about her travels.

Mrs. W. Simpson thanked her on behalf of the sorority.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. J. Snetsinger, and co-hostesses Mrs. C. Ryan and Miss M. Gilmour.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

FIANCE'S PARENTS SHOULD NOT GIVE ENGAGEMENT-ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because my daughter is becom-ing engaged, and his fiancee apparent-ly has her heart set on having a party to announce the engage-ment. We know the girl very well, we are delighted to have she has been a guest at our house very often, and we are very much pleased about the engage-ment.

Because of circumstances in her home, it is not at all possi-ble for her mother to provide the kind of engagement-announce-ment party she would like to have, and our son told me today that they had talked it over to-gether, and that he had suggest-ed that we give this engage-ment-party in our home, I to be the hostess, and his mother to be the toast to make the announce-ment. It is a perfectly convenient for us to do this, but I have nev-er heard of this being done, and I just feel that it is right. Do you think it would be right?

Planet's Hostess.

No . . . definitely no. Your point of view is right and sound judgment. The announcement of an engagement is the honor and re-sponsibility that rightfully belong to the girl's mother and father, and neither the girl, your son, or you and your husband should think of taking this traditional honor from them. Such a proce-dure certainly would not show proper regard and respect for the girl's parents, and couldn't get the relationship between the two families off to a right start.

As a matter of fact, no engage-ment-announcement party is necessary. The girl's parents may make the announcement in the simplest way, for example, sending the formal announce-ment in the newspaper (after, of course, close relatives and inti-mate friends have been told per-sonally or by notes). Then, after they have made the announce-ment in their names, it would be entirely proper for you and your husband to give a party to cele-brate the engagement.

The important point is that sig-nificant distinction between en-gagement and the engagement celebration.

HOW TO REFUSE DINNER WINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When wine is being served at a dinner table, whether in a pri-vate home or in a restaurant, and you do not wish to drink wine, how should you indicate this to the one serving the wine? Is it correct (as I've often seen done) to put your hand over your glass or (as I've also seen done) to turn your glass upside down?

— Joe C.

These two gestures are crude and rude, unnecessarily ostenta-tious. All you need to do is to say "No, thank you" to the server, as you make a small gesture of refusal in the direction of your glass.

UNUSUAL BUT PROPER WEDDING RECEPTION INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Perhaps you won't approve of my plan for my wedding, but if you do, Mrs. Beeckman, I would be much appreciate your sugges-tion about the reception invita-tions. I have very particularly liked a wedding reception, and neither has my bridegroom-to-be. We both would like to have a church wedding, on the formal side, inviting the very relational and friends of both our families. In order to have all the emphas-sis on the sacred ceremony, we don't wish to have any social side after the ceremony, no reception of any kind. My mother and father are very understanding

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gall F. — He finds fault with me all the time now.

Gall A. — I am terribly, terribly confused. I am engaged in a man I've known for two years, but I'm beginning to wonder whether I've ever really under-stood him.

Mike is in his last year at col-lege and we were not planning to marry until next year when he is settled in a job. After we became engaged he began to pressure me to have relations with him, but I believe in having extramar-ital relations, but I was so much in love with him that I was afraid that he might go to some-one else if I didn't give in.

Ever since our relationship has been on this more intimate basis, Mike seems to have lost his zest for fun with me. We never quarrelled before, but now we sometimes do. Sometimes I'm afraid to go ahead with our plans for getting married at all. I feel there is more resistance than ever why we must get married soon.

Michael A. — In the first place, I don't see that there is anything that was so much against her conscience. She says that she has always felt bad about this thing. I thought she was getting over her feelings of resistance. I didn't know she would go around brooding over the whole thing.

In the second place, I haven't been finding fault with Gail. Our quarrels usually come about as a result of her insisting that I do something which she knows I don't feel comfortable about. She answered many questions about her tra-vels.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. J. Snetsinger, and co-hostesses Mrs. C. Ryan and Miss M. Gilmour.

Mike appears to be willing, but not eager to fulfill his commit-ment to her. In marital life, not a promising beginning for an enter-prise that lasts for a lot of years, thereafter.

There isn't any easy answers to this problem. Marriage is an atmosphere of blame and uncer-tainty doesn't stand much chance of success. But that doesn't mean that a relationship is hopeless. Gail and Mike became engaged after having known one another for a long time. There must be much that draws them together. They could probably rediscover-ons another and find new happi-ness if they made the effort to arrive at a more complete under-standing of the value and mean-ing of the marital relationship. This calls for study and thought, possibly while with the help of a clergyman and doctor.

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — The month-ly meeting of the W.A. of St. An-drew's was held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Lavender on Tuesday eve-ning of April 30th with Devo-tions acting as hostess. Mrs. G. Upson assisted in the devotions.

A special prayer was given for the prayer partner, Mrs. Purdy. The Scripture lesson, tak-en from the reading of the Fifth Sunday After Easter, was read by Mrs. W. Davern.

Mrs. Collier read an interest-ing letter from the prayer part-ner, who is leaving the Lytton Residential School after 11 years of service.

Mrs. Blower, the delegate, gave an interesting report of the W.A. annual at Brockville. The April Board letter and was read by Mrs. Murphy's name was read out as life members and Mrs. C. F. Heaven's name has been entered on the Memorial Roll. Mrs. Springings told of the needs of Camp Hyanio and ex-pressed her regret that she is unable to go this year.

The corresponding secretary read the April Board letter and war asked to send cards to Mr. and Mrs. A. Gaffey and Mr. Matthews.

It was decided that Mrs. Blower be paid her transporta-tion to Brockville, also that the W.A. hold a tea and sale on the 27th on Mrs. Davern's lawn.

Mrs. Rogers read the interest-ing chapter from the study book, "He Cares," after which Mrs. Upson thanked the hostess and Mrs. Lavender for their hospitality.

The next meeting in the form of a potluck supper will be held June 3rd in the town hall at 6.30 p.m. The Deanery pre-sident, Mrs. Watson, expects to be present.

Mrs. Upton close dbs meet-ing with prayer after which a social half hour was enjoyed.

QUESTIONS

. . . I'm going to oblige you with questions: 1) What can I do about the crust which forms on yeast dough when put to rise? 2) Why is any portion of bread dough be kept in the ice box till ready for baking? 3) Would you recommend a special-ity for deep fat frying for doughnuts. 4) What would hap-pen if I made bread with a sponge (2 cups flour) as in your recipe for Hot Cross Buns, which I made today. They were ready in a few hours while bread takes all day. 5) Have dough after it rising and punching down should be shap-ed into a ball, put on foil-covered cardboard and slipped into a polyethylene bag with room to swell a little and stored in freezer. Allow extra thawing and rising time when ready to bake. 3) Try peanut oil. 4) If you omit the salmon and fruits and reduce the sugar by half you would have a fine bread. 5) See answer Friday May 23. 6) The dough would rise faster and taste a little yeasty. Intellectual, Social Leaders Lost To Country Through Alcohol States Prov. WCTU Field Worker

The Afternoon Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church, W.M.S. was held recently with the president, Mrs. McArthur in the chair.

After the regular opening exercises, Mrs. Wright, secretary, gave a splendid concise review of the "Tropical Tour", the subject for study for the April meeting.

Mrs. Finkle, in her treasurer's report, informed the Society that the "Dessert Luncheon", had netted a profit of $173.75.

Mrs. Davis, as stewardship secretary, told a short story of a 13-year-old boy who defined 'stewardship' in an unforgetable picture. "Stewardship means that life is a great ship loaded with the cargo of many things to be delivered to many people in many places.

God is the owner of this ship and its cargo, but I am the captain, the one with the responsibility to deliver the goods."

Mrs. Massey, card secretary, wrote a letter during the month to 13 of those for new babies, showing that Bridge Street congregation continues to grow; while Mrs. Franklin has written several letters of sympathy to those who have been ill or bereaved.

DONATIONS NEEDED

Mrs. MacDonald, supply secretary asked for donations of garmet or books for Christmas gifts for boys. Since next month's study is on New Canadians, the Society is having a shower to be sent to the Port workers, so that they will have a gift for new comers to make them feel welcome and add to their comfort.

Mrs. Fletcher, who had become a life member, was presented with the life membership pin and certificate.

Mrs. Farnsworth, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, had posters that were made by the school children depicting different phases of alcoholism, and its effects on those who became its victims. She also said several more posters had been sent away for exhibiting. Each child receives a prize and these are given by the local society. Eighty-two posters were received.

Mrs. Clapp's group conducted the devotional, which opened with a thoughtful meditation, entitled, "Guidance." From earliest years on from the cradle to the grave, mankind requires guidance. Different means contribute guidance. In early years parents watch over and direct a child's life. As he progresses, parents, churches and societies give direction. The Bible is the greatest "Guide Book". There it we meet the greatest Teacher of all time, Jesus Christ, the Lord."

Mrs. Davis continued with the story of the woman who anointed Jesus with the expensive ointment from the alabaster box. All, through devotion to the highest type of living, by selflessness, thoughtfulness and Christian example, anoints Jesus today.

SPECIAL SPEAKER

Mrs. Myers introduced the special speaker, Miss Gertrude Campbell, of Leamington, provincial field worker of the W.C.T.U., graduate of Toronto University, and a social worker with 20 years' experience. Miss Campbell also studied law for three years.

Last August she attended the school of alcohol and narcotics in Saskatoon, the only school of this type in Canada. She travels throughout Ontario visiting schools, and addressing many kinds of meetings. Miss Campbell also visits Tweed, Cornwall and Pembroke. She had spent three days at the Prince Edward Convention.

Miss Campbell approaches the liquor question from a scientific research standard. Her statements are based on facts, found from thorough research by trained personnel. One drop of alcohol to one thousand drops of blood enters the blood stream in five minutes and starts to affect the brain, with five drops to 1,000 the consumer is drunk.

RESEARCH FOUNDATION

The government of Ontario was first in Canada to institute a research foundation. Seventy-five percent of the population of 15 years of age and over, use alcohol; 64 percent of women in Canada use alcohol; a 40 percent in the United States drop in the use of alcohol is attributed to the influence of the Evangelical Church in the Southern States.

Miss Campbell says every child has the right to know the truth about alcohol. That is the reason she tries to reach them through the schools. She can only visit a school if the board of directors of education gives her permission.

Canada has five treatment centres for alcoholics: Windsor; Hamilton; Ottawa; Toronto, and London.

She gave great credit to the work of the A.A. which was founded 25 years ago by two men who were victims of alcohol.

The public's attitude toward drunkenness is conducive to its increase. People treat it as a joke when they see those under the influence of liquor. Others think it is a social objection serving cocktails. Italy uses alcohol but frowns on drunkenness.

Miss Campbell expressed the fact that even though today, temperance workers are a minority, but looking ahead 20 years, they are the means of saving the country from this dreadful evil, that diseases body, mind and spirit, and is robbing it of some of its most intellectual and could be social leaders.

Miss Campbell was thanked for her informative and authoritative address.

Mrs. Clapp and her group served light refreshments.

SCOTT'S W.A. — W.M.S.

6th SIDNEY — A good crowd was present for the May dinner in the church hall on Wednesday noon with Mrs. Ed Sine as hostess. In the afternoon eight ladies convened for the meeting.

Mrs. Edison Sine reported satisfactory returns from the sales' barn day. Plans were started for a new carpet and new seat covers for the church.

Mrs. A. Martyn and Mrs. Carman Frost will be hostesses for June. Mrs. C. Copeland reported on the parsonage committee meeting held recently in the parsonage.

The president of the W.M.S. opened the missionary meeting with an invocation asking for guidance as to what to do and how to do it.

Mrs. A. Martyn took the chapter on the study book on "Hawaii". This group of islands form the 50th state in the United States of America. It contains all races and religions. Some American G.I.'s married and settled there. There is a blend of the old east and the newer west. Missionaries of various denominations are busy.

Mrs. Edison Sine will take the last chapter on the "Caribbean Area" next month.

For the worship service Mrs. Copeland opened with a call to worship and the prayer was a plea for guidance, truth, peace and brotherhood.

Mrs. K. Faul read the Scripture lesson from Luke 19:25-37. Mrs. Copeland commented on the Scripture: men and nations will be judged on the basis of their response to human need — caring for the naked, sick and imprisoned. Even enemies are to be loved and forgiven because God loves them. There are no restrictions to being a neighbor because here are no limitations to human need.

Mrs. R. McMullin closed with a prayer from the church in Germany.

QUINTE W. I.

The monthly meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held at the Institute Hall on Tuesday evening with a large attendence of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. R. Atkins, opened the meeting.

Many of the ladies are attending the district annual at Empey Hill on May 26. After the business and letters were read, the secretary-treasurer called the roll which was well responded to.

The motto, "One good mother is worth 100 school masters" was given by Mrs. C. Woods. She said in part "The love and prayers of our mothers and her understanding follow us all our lives and as we look back we see and know the real meaning of mother."

As it was International day, Miss Betty Grills showed her pictures of their trip to Prague and other points of interest with the McFarlands Hockey team and gave a wonderful talk explaining the pictures.

Betty was given a hearty vote of thanks and presented with the gift of a lovely cup and saucer as a token of appreciation. Betty thanked all and said it was a pleasure to show her pictures.

The district president, Mrs. C. Reid, invited the past president, Mrs. K. Vivian, to come to the front and presented her with a gift of appreciation for the splendid service of the past two years. She also presented the Institute pin to Mrs. Vivian, for which Mrs. Vivian responded thanks to the ladies for lovely gifts, and said she would always remember her term of office.

Refreshments were served by the committee and a social hour was spent.

The Experts Say

Married Women Make Up Half Female Working Force

THE EXPERTS SAY

— By CAROLYN WILLETT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Married women working in larger numbers than ever before, make up roughly half of Canada's female working force.

But it's not necessarily a case of wives forsaking housework for office or factory. Many have never held the "housewife" title anyway.

The women's bureau of the labor department says in the current issue of the Labor Gazette, the department's official publication:

"The basic change is in the marriage pattern of the whole population . . . married working women have come in large numbers from the ranks of single working women."

CONTINUE TO WORK

In other words, experts say that many women get married and keep on working. They change their marital status without changing their labor force status.

There also is evidence that in some cases, if marriage appeared as a bar to employment, some weddings would have been postponed.

Experts in the women's bureau, headed by Marion Boyce, find statistics on the working married woman interesting and significant.

But they are hard put to predict whether the high proportion of married women in the female working force will grow larger.

Much, they say, will depend on economic conditions.

There also is the fact that the marriage rate now is lower than it has been for some time. And soon the large number of Second World War babies will be teenagers old enough to work and increase the number of single working women.

Combined, these factors are likely to prevent any phenomenal rise in the proportion of working married women during the next few years, says the women's bureau.

LATEST STATISTICS

The latest available statistics on women with jobs—for March 31—show that of 1,453,000 working women, 638,000 were married, 657,000 single and 157,000 widowed or divorced.

Compared with February, there were 7,000 fewer working women, 6,000 more single workers and 20,000 fewer working married women.

The largest number of married women workers are in the trade industry. Many are in department and grocery stores and clothing shops. The smallest proportion is in the professions, although since 1951 the proportion there has nearly doubled.

Nursing and teaching, which now have no bar to married women, have drawn heavily on wives continuing or returning to work.

Although working wives and their single sisters are almost equal in number, most of Canada's married women stay home. By the end of 1956, eight out of 10 married women were fully occupied with home and family.

"However," says the women's bureau, "many of them would probably take employment if the opportunity for suitable work presented itself or if a national emergency made it necessary."

Try to Promote Sale of Pork; Surplus High

TORONTO CP)—To promote the sale of pork to Canadian house-wives, the federal department of agriculture is distributing this week nearly 1,000,000 copies of a booklet titled, Pork: How to buy, how to cook.

Copies of the book, in French and English will be available free of charge at food stores across Canada.

Ralph K. Bennett, chief of the merchandising section of the livestock division of the department of agriculture, said Thursday at a press luncheon the agricultural stabilization board now holds about 78,000,000 pounds of pork cuts in cold storage. This compares with normal storage at this season of approximately 18,000,000 pounds, he said.

"An increase of five pounds per capita would wipe out the stock on hand, and 10 pounds would eliminate the surplus for the year," he said.

CAMPBELLFORD

Col. D. F. MacRae Addresses C of C on 'Evolution of Science'

CAMPBELLFORD — "Although advances in research have been tremendous, the greatest advance of all will come when man learns to get along with man." These remarks concluded an address on Tuesday night when Col. D. F. MacRae addressed the first annual 'ladies' night banquet of the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce in St. John's United Church auditorium.

Col. MacRae is director of Industrial Research Service, Department of the Ontario Research Foundation. In introducing him, W. A. Kingston, of Campbellford, told the audience that the speaker was also a professional engineer and a Fellow of the Chemical Industry of Canada.

Col. MacRae gave a word picture of the evolution of science which he termed the adoption of nature's laws, from the simplest of horizontal sucks as the wheel, to the breath-taking scientific accomplishments of the 20th.

ALL TECHNICIANS

He predicted that the day will come when there will be no laborers, and when all workers will be technicians, pressing buttons to accomplish tasks which are now performed manually.

"The chemical industry puts nature's laws to work for us as we learn them," he said, and added that before too long plastics will replace all metals, pipes and fittings in the home. New synthetic fibres developed now will soon be obsolete as more and more wonderful materials are discovered.

"In physics, progress has been great. Pasteur discovered microbes through his microscope. This led to a long list of medical advances for the benefit of man, physically, to fight disease and to make surgery safe. Now we take for granted such things as immunization through vaccines, and our safety in hospitals."

"Fuels also have changed," said the speaker. He claimed that Alberta has almost unlimited coal reserves which we cannot afford to harvest. We now have oil and gas in abundance. The HEPC of Ontario some years ago had more power than they could sell, whereas today they are searching for ways to meet their requirements. Several years ago, a man in industry required one and one-third horsepower to do his job, whereas today, the same man requires five horsepower. Hydro would soon be unable to develop further energy from water power, and that the next source of power would be uranium.

ATOMIC POWER

Col. MacRae said Canada could be proud of its efforts in the development of atomic power for peaceful use. He said that at a recent exhibition in Cleveland, there were nine reactor designs on display, five of which were Canadian.

Canada is also working on the problem of how safely to dispose of atomic waste. The speaker said atomic energy will ultimately replace water power, and that the new form of energy should be cheaper.

Although atomic energy is great, the speaker said that the greatest of all sources of energy has not yet been tapped. In explaining, he said that Hurricane Hazel, in an area between Port Credit and Brampton, unleashed more energy than all of the gun powder and all of the atom bombs yet exploded. "Solar energy," he said, "is the ultimate in power. Its limits are so vast that one cannot begin to imagine them."

At this point, he said that the greatest advance of all would come when man learned to get along with his fellow man.

Mr. MacRae was thanked by T. H. Burgis.

Mayor F. M. Rutherford brought greetings from the town council and congratulated the Chamber on its work. He said he believed the banquet, which was open to all town officials and citizens, was a step in the right direction, and should help to promote a spirit of co-operation and understanding between the chamber and the citizens, and the town council.

During a short business period, reports of various committee heads were received. Entertainment was provided by Marshall Sills with his merimbe accompanied by Carolyn Towns as pianist.

BELT OF GREEN FOR CAPITOL — An area of green around the centre core of Ottawa is the dream of the National Capital Commission, a 20-member group administering a $300,000,000 plan to make the city one of the world's most beautiful capitals.

The commission already has 95 per cent of the land required for the 37,500-acre green belt (shaded area on map). The city lies within the belt, except for a small area on the east bank of the Rideau River which dips into the ribbon of green. Map also shows main highway routes into the city, No. 17, the Trans-Canada Highway; No. 15 to Perth and No. 31 to Morrisburg.

BOOK FOR QUEEN

ORILLIA (CP) — The Queen and Prince Philip will receive a copy of Stephen Leacock's Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town in lieu of a visit to the writer's home here July 4. The royal couple will meet town council members and their wives during their estimated half-hour visit.

SOME CANADIAN "FIRSTS"

What is said to be the only monument in the world ever erected to a tree, commemorates the discovery of the McIntosh apple in Dundas County, Ontario, by John McIntosh. "But the fact is", says one of their descendants, "it was really Grandma McIntosh who found it, though Grandpa always gets the credit for it."

The first engine broke in the world was invented by W. A. Robinson in the Grant Western Railway shops at Hamilton, Ont., and a model of his invention may still be seen in the Dundurn Museum nearby.

Joseph Scriven, of Port Hope, wrote that beloved and world-famous hymn, "What a Friend we have in Jesus", as a poem, for his mother. A stone on No. 28 Highway, near Bewdley, is erected to his memory.

The world's biggest cheese was made at Perth, Ont. Called "The Canadian Mite" it was shown at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1892. It took the milk of 10,000 cows for one day, and was later sold to Sir Thomas Lipton.

Another "first" is the "Klean-Pack" system which Fox Cartage and Storage Limited were the first people in Eastern Canada to adopt. More People, Industry, Jobs, Pay, Productivity, Revenue Frost Formula for Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's future lies in the development of both her material and human resources to foster growth, expansion and employment, Premier Frost says.

In a pre-election radio broadcast Friday night, he outlined a "dynamic economic creed" involving "more people, more industry, more jobs, more wages, more opportunity and then more productivity and more revenue with which to do the great jobs is hand."

The Progressive Conservative record had kept a reasonable balance between the development of human and material resources, he said.

On the material side, electrical energy has been increased 3½ times in the last 10 years and the electrification of rural Ontario accomplished. Natural gas had brought even greater improvement and changed the economic pattern of southern Ontario.

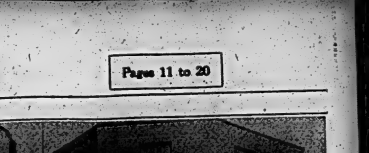
On the farm front, the government is developing policies in connection with farm marketing and in farm price supports designed to give farmers a decent price for their goods.

Premier Frost said "we must proceed with the undoing of the mistakes of 150 years and clean up our forests and our streams and bring industrial and domestic water from the Great Lakes system to the heartland of our province."

A Great Lakes policy should be initiated to attract the 30,000,000 people "who have taken our border to see Ontario's countryside. Particularly important is the expansion of the lakehead ports as the gateway to the West and the channel of communication to the great northern and Arctic basin.

"Ontario's economic prospects of both Southern and Northern Ontario.

"Ontario was first among the 10 Canadian provinces with 1,110 deaths in 1956, 304 of them in the first quarter. In 1957 there were 1,279 deaths and in 1958, 1,196. Registered vehicles in 1959 totalled 1,868,903.



Quebec was second with 821 deaths; 117 in the first quarter. In 1957, 876 died and in 1958, 802. Registered vehicles in 1959 totalled 1,000,000.

Alberta was third, with 305 deaths; Saskatchewan fourth with 282 dead.

Traffic fatalities in March on Canadian highways increased to 177 from 172 a year earlier, the Bureau of Statistics reported in Ottawa.

The death toll for Ontario in March was 67 compared with 72 last year. The quarterly death toll was 204 compared with 213 last year.

BANK MANAGER SHOT — A. W. Herron (inset), manager of a branch of the Bank of Montreal at Timiskaming, Quebec, was fatally shot by two men, who apparently held up the building May 15. Police said Mr. Herron was shot as he grappled with one of the men before opening time. He died on the street in front of the premises. Police have apprehended two men near North Bay, Ont., about 40 miles west of Timiskaming. (CP Photo).

Predict 35 to Die on Roads In First Holiday Weekend

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians are entering their first long spring weekend faced with the knowledge that if they travel on the highways they may become statistics in the fearful record of traffic fatalities.

Recent moves have been aimed at halting the slaughter, and the Canadian Safety Council is apparently is optimistic about the results. However, it predicted that 35 persons will likely be killed in weekend road accidents compared to 37 for the same holiday weekend a year ago.

The mounting highway toll has been bouncing up and down in the last four years. In 1955 there were 3,164 deaths. In 1957 a record 3,216 were counted and in 1958, the total fell to 3,134.

The safety council said it takes heart from the decrease and because 82 fewer deaths were recorded despite a 6½ per-cent increase in road mileage. And the council predicts the trend will continue down this year despite a predicted further five - per - cent increase in total mileage travelled.

LAUD NEW SYSTEM

Ontario where 19 persons died last Victoria Day weekend the new driver demerit system has been lauded by government officials as responsible for a 30 per-cent decrease in traffic accidents.

Traffic fatalities in March on Canadian highways increased to 177 from 172 a year earlier, the Bureau of Statistics reported in Ottawa.

The death toll for Ontario in March was 67 compared with 72 last year. The quarterly death toll was 204 compared with 213 last year.

Nation Goes as Steel Goes Thus U.S. Wage Negotiations Of Interest to Everybody

NEW YORK (AP) — As steel goes, so goes the nation.

That's what captains of United States industry, finance and labor were telling each other this week as steel company and union chiefs settled down to two-dated bargaining on a new wage contract.

President Eisenhower, on a trip to New York, met briefly with president David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers but gave every indication the White House is still maintaining a "hands off" attitude toward the steel wage talks.

Still unanswered at week's end were three key questions:

Would the contract talks result in another year of labor peace? Would they produce a new inflationary round of steel price boosts? Or would they bring on a strike that could stifle the nation's industrial comeback?

Wall Street didn't know the answers, but the guessing was that if it came to a strike, the walkout might not be as long or as severe as some steel executives had expected.

Whatever course the steel bargaining might take, most experts think of the nation's business kept rolling along as if there was nothing but cloudless skies on the economic horizon.

But banks called a "go-slow" signal—and lifted their prime interest rates — those charged to top borrowers with top credit ratings. Starting Monday, blue chip corporations borrowing in New York will pay 4½ per cent on short - term loans instead of 4. States charged other borrowers are scaled upward from that figure.

Meanwhile the Federal Reserve reported Thursday that the U. S. industrial output last month climbed to a record 149 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Housing starts in April were the highest ever for that month.

Employment climbed to an April high of more than 65,000,000.

Auto output this week climbed just short of the 1959 weekly high of 137,000 cars set in January.

Three Parties Agree Attacks on Labor Overdone

OTTAWA (CP) — The three political parties in the Commons are agreed that attacks on organized labor may have been overdone.

Anyone in the 30th century who does not feel that we need labor unions "has got an unbalanced mind," Labor Minister Starr said Friday.

He said he agrees with CCF House Leader Hazen Argue that there is a "growing tendency" to be critical of labor. He did not identify the source of the criticisms.

"I have been dealing with men in the labor movement who are honest, decent and sincere", said Mr. Starr during discussion of his department's spending estimates.

DOING BEST

"They are doing their best to get a square deal for their members. I have also met with the same kind of people in management."

Progressive Conservative minister thus broadly aligned himself alongside Opposition Leader Lesage and Mr. Argue on the issue.

In Commons statements May 7, Mr. Argue said there seems to be a "hysterical amount of campaign against organized labor." Mr. Pearson said there is perhaps a tendency to blame labor "too much" for contributing to inflationary tendencies through wage demands.

Mr. Starr said most of the criticism is provoked by working men and women in North America and indeed in the whole free world arose from organized labor's activities.

Fight to Control Labor on Seaway Nearing Finish

OTTAWA (CP) — A battle for control of labor along the Canadian section of the St. Lawrence seaway is nearing a finish.

Three unions are involved, with the final say in the hands of the Canada labor relations board. The workers involved are maintenance and operating personnel on locks and canals.

All three unions started out as rivals, but Friday two of them suddenly severed strategy and joined up against the third.

In the alliance are the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) and the Dominion Canal Workers' Association, not affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress.

The lone hand is being played by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), largest all-Canadian union with some 40,000 members.

JOIN FORCES

The SIU and the association merged forces Friday after it appeared the brotherhood was on the way to winning out in the fight to get certification as bargaining agent for about 925 seaway engineers.

This came about when the board ruled it should grant certification for the whole seaway, as sought by the brotherhood. The other two had asked for piecemeal representation for different sections.

Both factions claim a majority of the workers on their membership lists. The combined two say they have 691. The brotherhood says it has around 600. The board will have to sort out the claims, possibly ordering a vote of those in the bargaining unit.

Friday's closing session of a two-day hearing was acrimonious. The SIU tried to prove that the brotherhood handed out membership cards without collecting dues, a violation of board rules. The brotherhood contended it had not done this, and accused the seafarers of "chicanery" and mud-slinging in trying to prove the point.

With Sad Shake of His Head Fulton Hopes Common Sense To Prevail in Newfoundland

OTTAWA (CP) — With a sad shake of his head, Justice Minister Fulton said that all he can hope is that "Common sense will finally prevail" in the tangled relations between the Newfoundland and federal governments.

After his peace mission to the island province collapsed Thursday night in a welter of charges by Premier Smallwood that the justice minister seemed to be declaring war on Newfoundland, Mr. Fulton called a press conference Friday to give his side of the story.

All he did, he said, was tell Newfoundland, apparently for the first time, the full facts about federal aid to the provincial government. He had tried to emphasize in a St. John's speech that they would be treated fairly and equitably as all other provinces when special financial needs of $8,000,000 a year to Newfoundland expires in 1962.

That was no reason, he said, for Mr. Smallwood to accuse him of declaring war. Apparently the Liberal premier was "deeply disturbed" that his people had learned the full facts for the first time of the aid given by the Progressive Conservative administration at Ottawa.

The Thursday peace pilgrimage appeared to be part of a federal effort to relax strained relations with the island government which has criticized the amount and duration of special financial aid under the terms of Confederation.

MUCH THURSDAY

Mr. Fulton met Mr. Smallwood privately about noon Thursday, both mentioned the cordial atmosphere and friendly discussions.

The federal minister's speech to the Newfoundland board of trade came that evening. Mr. Smallwood's declaration of war statement followed.

When Mr. Fulton flew home early Friday, he left behind a suggestion in the Commons that the outcome of his trip may have killed his chances of succeeding Sidney Smith as external affairs minister. His peace mission to Fleming have been regarded as the likeliest candidates for the post made vacant by Mr. Smith's death March 17.

In the Commons, Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) asked the prime minister whether the declaration of war had helped him at all in "making a selection for the external affairs portfolio". Mr. Diefenbaker made no reply.

SPEAKER STOPS TALK

But Mr. Fulton was given a chance shortly afterwards to say his St. John's address dealing with federal aid provided Mr. may reach $200.

Smallwood no justification for his charge. Speaker Roland Michener stopped that line of comment but Mr. Fulton called the press conference to amplify.

Both in the Commons and at the press conference he admitted an error in his St. John's address. He had said in St. John's direct payments to the Newfoundland government from Ottawa totalled $10,284,000 in the year ended March 31 compared with $55,341,000 under the Liberals in the fiscal year 1956-57.

The correct comparison, he said, was $55,341,000 in 1956-57 and $24,411,000 in 1956-57. Inadvertently he had lumped payments to individuals and institutions with those to the provincial government in the first set of figures.

Mr. Smallwood said Mr. Fulton visited Newfoundland only "to repeat the empty excuses and evasions of the prime minister" about financial assistance.

Canada Has Basis for Space Research

KINGSTON (CP)—Canada has established the basis for space age research.

It is a Canadian permanent joint committee on space research, on which government agencies and interested universities will be represented.

Establishment of the planning committee was announced Friday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker who said in a convocation address to the Royal Military College:

"I believe that Canada should maintain its status as a scientifically advanced nation and continue a sound program of research into the phenomena of outer space."

Mr. Diefenbaker received the college's first honorary degree, a doctorate of laws. This year graduates are the first to receive degrees from the college since it was only recently given the right by the Ontario government to award them.

EMBARASSING MOMENT

The cadets held a ceremonial parade in the morning at which Defence Minister Pearkes, president of the college, had a momentary embarrassing moment.

Mr. Pearkes, who held the rank of major-general during the Second World War, stiffened and shoke hands with a cadet officer, only to find the cadet was saluting with his sword in his right hand.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada would be glad to discuss with the United Kingdom a British proposal for a Commonwealth naval training establishment and reiterated that jurisdiction over outer space should be held by the United Nations, with all nations—big and small—having equal rights.

The research committee, he said, is being established by Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council, and A. H. Zimerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board.

Same purpose of the committee would be to ensure that universities will have an opportunity to work in the field of outer space.

Eric G. Taylor Named Mediator At Sarnia Plant

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Starr has appointed Eric G. Taylor of Toronto as mediator of the strike of 1,700 employees of the Crown-owned Polymer Corporation in Sarnia.

In a telegram to the parties involved, Mr. Starr asked the "full and unreserved co-operation" of the disputants in renewing the negotiations for a settlement of the strike that began March 19.

Earlier Friday, the Canadian Labor Congress, to which the strikers' union is affiliated, asked the government to appoint a new mediator.

In his telegram to C. Reimer, Canadian director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC), Mr. Starr said "I must express my keen disappointment at the failure of the union negotiating committee to meet with representatives of Polymer Corporation to resume negotiations in accordance with my request."

'Joke' Backfires Girl May Be Blinded for Life

DENTON, Tex. (AP)—A college boy threw a powerful chemical into a pretty fellow student's face Thursday night, possibly blinding her and changing her for life. He told the girl's mother Friday that it was "a joke that backfired."

The powerful concentration of silver nitrate was flung into the face of 20-year-old Sheila Rene Wallace. Her doctor said "silver nitrate in that high concentrate just cooks flesh."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hayne Nelms, saw their daughter Friday—and young Lester.

"He told me it was a joke that backfired," Mrs. Nelms told reporters. "I met him for just a moment. It was unintended. I know."

The police chief said the disfigurement occurred as the climax of a party in an apartment.

Charges of aggravated assault, a felony, are expected to be filed against Lester, an advertising art major.

Protection Sought In Use of Fireworks

TORONTO (CP) — The province should step in to protect children against the "indiscriminate use" of fireworks, if health and welfare agencies have recommended at a child-safety conference sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association.

F. J. Wheeler of the Canadian Fire Marshals' and Fire Chiefs' Association said Thursday that during Fire Prevention Week last year in one community "firemen had to pick hundreds and hundreds of 000 doors a-afternoon in their faces."

Plan Copper Smelter

VICTORIA (CP) — Bethlehem Copper Corporation has announced plans for a $40,000,000 copper smelter in the rich Highland Valley area near Ashcroft in south-central British Columbia 150 miles northeast of Vancouver.

P. M. Reynolds, Bethlehem's secretary-treasurer, said in an interview the company plans open-pit operations at the smelter, a concentrator and a townsite.

Boy Friend of Erring Wife Lambasts Woman Private Eye

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons progress report on two Commons women detectives who have engaged in matrimony divorce evidence business said Friday both are doing well, but that "the man puts the foot in the door" got a drubbing for his part in being a friend of an erring wife.

"Apparently she was badly deceived," reported Robert Mc-Cleave (PC—Halifax), chairman of the Commons committee. "In every case in which she has appeared before the court she has been at pains to go to the police station first and make her whereabouts known on the particular evening."

He presumed that is on the theory that if she does not commit the police with a view to her detection, they will not do it and why it was done," suggested Mr. McCleave, chairman.

"I mention this merely to illustrate that women who engage in these kinds of shady detective activities now are doing should remember the good old days when occupied a privileged position in society."

Mr. McCleave's light - hearted references to the two women—"these charming creatures"—had the second this month.

He reported May 1 that a new corporate developments in the practices of divorce testimony, two women detectives appeared before the first time.

Mr. McCleave made Friday's report to the Commons gave 13 divorce bills second reading—approval in principle.

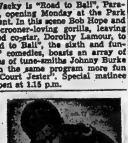
At the Belle



"A Place in the Sun" and "Stalag 17" Double-Featured On Belle Theatre Screen

A double feature show to make any movie fan drop everything and streak to the Belle Theatre, will be offered to Belleville and district citizens entertained beginning on Monday, when those two memorable Academy Award productions, "Stalag 17" and "A Place in the Sun," appear on the same projector.

Every fan worthy of the name remembers both these films as being high spots in the year each appeared — "Stalag 17" brought William Holden his first Academy Award, and "A Place in the Sun" did the same for the producer, George Stevens. To have them both made available on the same bill is a bonanza for big screen quality fare few, if any, entertainment seekers will want to miss.

"Stalag 17," produced and directed by Billy Wilder, is the powerful comedy melodrama concerning American prisoners of war in Germany during World War II, which was cheered and honored as a Broadway stage play for three solid seasons. The film stars William Holden, Don Taylor and Otto Preminger, and features a cast containing many of the original stage actors.

"A Place in the Sun," starring Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Shelley Winters, is one of the screen's masterpieces of all time. It tells the dramatic story of a poor but ambitious boy working in his wealthy uncle's mill, who has a love affair with factory girl Shelley Winters but is soon attracted to beautiful socialite Elizabeth Taylor. After a whirlwind courtship of Elizabeth, they plan to marry but Shelley reveals she is pregnant and demands that he marry her. The ultimate destinies of the trio are expounded in scenes filled with rare impact and suspense, and great emotional pull.

other two, each about 125 feet above the waterway, are to be constructed at Welland and Port Colborne.

A new international bridge was planned over the Niagara River above Queenston to make a third entry point into the province in this area. It was part of the province's plan to attract more American tourists, a plan which would "put more money into the pockets of the people of Ontario."

Mr. Frost also spoke of plans to create a park system "second to none in North America" which would stretch from the Manitoba to Quebec borders.

Mr. MacDonald's attack on the Liberals stressed farm marketing plans and labor relations.

URGES CAUTION

He warned against being fooled by the Liberal promise to set up a department of co-operation to support producer-controlled marketing plans — a proposal stolen from the CCF.

Not only did Mr. Wintermeyer misunderstand the purpose of marketing plans but during the leadership campaign last year he "expressed his deep misgivings about the compulsory aspect of farm marketing."

The CCF leader also said Mr. Wintermeyer had taken a stand against labor in the legislature.

The report of a select committee on labor was the most dangerous move to face labor in many years, yet Mr. Wintermeyer had "overawed the government for not implementing the report."

"The voice is the voice of Mr. Wintermeyer but the words are the words of Joseph Jeffery of Doug Armbridge, staunch supporters of the-Liberal party in this election."

CHARGES DISHONESTY

Mr. Wintermeyer "cocked down the CCF criticism on the Sarnia issue and then went on to accuse the Frost government of "political dishonesty" in promising trucks paid bridges, shifting the burden from railway tracks and provide government jobs in order to get re-elected.

He said the government was borrowing 32 cents for every dollar it spent and called upon the premier to explain how the deficit happened before criticizing the Liberal platform.

The Liberal leader hit back at the premier for accusing him of "abysmal inconsistency". He defended the premier's contention that Liberals had compromised their criticism of boards and commissions by advocating a highways commission.

"My basic criticism has been over control of commissions, not the commissions themselves" he said. "And he knows very well we're not suggesting a highways commission — we're suggesting a highway authority within the highways department, under the highways minister."

He said the government was dishonest in making promises to gain votes. "Your job is not to let contracts and then ask for money back so you can finance an election."

Garden Notes

Annuals That Bloom Quickly

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A cold spring has given us a late start in the garden. To make up for this delay we are looking for annuals that get into bloom quickly. There are several that will bloom in one month or six weeks from time of planting.

Zinnias and marigolds are fast workers. Now that both of these plants have such a wide variety of types we could plant a whole garden of one kind and have a wide choice of color and form. In the zinnias you can find mixed or solid color lilliput double pompoms, California giants, cactus flowered, picotee and many others. Marigolds start with the tiny tagetes, single bright gold through the French types in creams and frilled lemon, orange and mahogany reds. These range from six inches high to fifteen inches. The African types are large and medium size with double and Chrysanthemum in nearest-white, lemon and deep oranges. Both these flowers have been greatly improved. Do include some of the new dwarfs.

Five to ten days will be enough to germinate the following plant seeds: sweet alyssum (white, pink and purple) cosmos, try the new early variety, Sonata; dwarf morning glory colors make good bushy plants, celosia, also called cock's comb or prince's feather, batchelor's buttons or corn flower, nasturtium, annual phlox and portulaca. Most of them will bloom in 30 days or six weeks.

PREFER FULL SUN

All annuals prefer full sun, but like the protection of a wall, fence or hedge behind them to temper the winds. There are a few annuals which will tolerate light shade these are batchelor's button, annual lupine, (these like acid soil) nasturtium, pot calendula and annual anchusa, which has a pretty blue flower.

The soil should be worked to a fine "tilth" that is very fine. If the soil is heavy clay, or sand, plenty humus should be added in the form of peat moss or sawdust. If you use sawdust add some extra nitrogen. For 100 square feet you will need four pounds of sulphate of ammonia or one cup of ground lime stone. Work all these up well together.

Mark off in rows if you are planting a cutting garden, or in lopping half-circles if you are planting a border of mixed annuals. This gives a more natural effect than straight rows. The different kinds appear to grow in rounded clumps. Use the tall plants for the back and work down in height to low edging material for the front of the border.

Hard seeds such as lupine and morning glory can be nicked to hasten germination, or soaked in warm water over night. Soak the soil before planting the seed and keep it damp with a fine spray until germination takes place. Do not have the soil soggy wet. Water in the morning before the sun gets too high. The soil will tend to bake. Late watering leaves the soil very damp just when the temperature falls. This encourages fungus growth which may cause damping off.

Pinch out the centre of the growing tip when the plants have four leaves to encourage branching. The new tips can be pinched but too when they have six leaves. This will make a compact plant with plenty of bloom. Remove faded blooms picked off and feed once a month.

est hit for the holiday weekend. Sudbury had two inches of snow and several central Canadian points recorded near - freezing temperatures.

Showers and cold weather were predicted for the Maritimes. In Quebec, the story is generally cloudy with possible snowflurries.

Anglers in Ontario braved blustery squalls and snow which hurled plug baits back into their faces as the pickerel fishing season opened at midnight Thursday.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

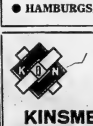
By WINIFRED WILSON

UNUSUAL NESTS

May is the month for nest building in Canada. He think of all bird homes as being bowl shaped, fashioned somewhat on the pattern of the robin's — but this is far from the truth. Nests are made not only for a specific purpose, but also for the use of certain residents with definite habits. For instance, the fish hawk requires a site not too distant from water, a home large enough to hold a 23-inch parent with three youngsters, and sufficiently substantial to support them for at least three months. But a killdeer needs nothing for the welfare of its offspring because they are able to leave home and fend for themselves immediately after birth.

One of our earliest spring arrivals, the meadowlark, obtains food for both itself and its nestlings from a field — beetles, grasshoppers, and similar insects. Consequently, the prime requisite for the home is the ground. Last year's grass is gathered in some slight hollow and fashioned into a nest. Because vegetation is seldom far enough advanced to hide the home, a covering of old grass and stems is made to partly conceal it from prying eyes. Sometimes it is reached by a short, winding path.

USES CAMOUFLAGE



The ovenbird is also an early comer, with the forest floor, free from undergrowth, its home. Its camouflage must be used, dead leaves and flowers are built right into the ground, the nest lined with grass and hair, and completely arched over so that the entrance is at the side instead of on top. Only a very knowing person ever finds an ovenbird's nest.

The water-thrush (not really a thrush but a water loving warbler) cleverly chooses a cavity in a bank beside a log, or the upturned roots of a fallen tree, or even a hole in the side of some old stump close to a lake. Moss, interminglied with a few dead leaves and twigs, makes a comfortable home near a spot where aquatic insects, tiny molluscs, worms and so on may be caught.

It is well nigh impossible to detect the lichen-covered cup of the rubi-throated hummingbird, needs to be just large enough to hold Mrs. Hummer, who is but 3½ inches long, and two diminutive nestlings hatched from eggs that have been likened to white beans, about ½ inch by ¼ inch. On a small, sloping branch about 15 feet from the ground the nest is made of bud scales and plant down sewed together with spiders' silk. Its rim rolls inward so that the tiny babies will not roll out. (c-7669).

TV TIPS
by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Most authorities agree that television viewing will not harm your eyes, but there are several conditions which can cause eye fatigue.

For example, an improperly focused television set may cause headache as the eye continually tries to adjust to the blurred image. Although this is probably won't actually injure your eyes, it certainly overworks them and is very unpleasant.

Restoring sharp focus to the picture is more than a simple adjustment and should never be attempted by the amateur. "The experienced technicians at CIRCLE TV SERVICE 364 Coleman St., have the training and equipment to quickly down sewed together with spiders' silk. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

To those of you boxing fans who want to wager the life expectancy of your mother-in-law, your income tax rebate, or your chances for the hereafter, on the outcome of the forthcoming heavyweight title bout between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson, the Swedish challenger, lend an ear.

We have the "dope" direct from a very authoritative source.

If it were not contrary to the sports editors' code of ethics we could "make book" on this, but being honorable, over twenty-one, married and spares of late—and some times broke (we beat you to that one) we're going to pass it along—gratis.

Floyd Patterson is going to retain his world title—but he is going to have to go the route to do it. And the decision will rest with the judges.

That is what the "authority" told us. And after listening to his reasoning, backed by decades of heavyweight battles and boxing in general, besides being an ex-pug himself, we have placed a modicum of confidence in his prediction.

What gives us a little bit of faith in the "authority's" prediction is the fact that we sat with him at a judge's table at "the inaugural of the Belleville Boxing Club a week or so ago. That was before the Patterson-London musical.

Between bouts, the "authority" said, "Tomorrow night, Floyd Patterson will keep his world title. Ike Patterson don will extend him. It will go ten or eleven rounds. I think the eleventh."

That is what Harry Robinson, that retired old warhorse of the CNE, ex-lightweight and a bloke who has seen more world championship bouts than any two men in Ontario.

Harry knows the boxing rack—whoops—profession from Alpha to Omega. You can count the heavyweight' title fights he has missed, on one hand. When he couldn't get ringside seats, he hopped the radio and lifted to the nearest theatre showing the scrap on television.

With a greater respect than ever for his wisdom following his prediction of the Patterson-London waltz, we humbly requested his selection in the forthcoming battle between Ingomar and Marse Floyd.

Harry cocked his head, and waggled a finger under the resuscitated nose. "The Swede is said to have a terrific right hand. He admits it himself. I believe if there is a knockout it won't be the champion who throws it. It will be Johansson. I do not think Patterson has a heavy punch, and he has shown he can be hit."

"The Swede's right hand leaped into the sports headlines when it levelled the up-and-coming Eddie Machen in the first round of their fight. Machen had never been licked and the lanky-like speed of Johansson's right hand had the sportswriting boys in a tizzy. Whether it was a lucky punch, or not, should be proven in his fight with Patterson," Harry said.

"The champion hit Rademacher and that Cuttenhoost guy with a right hand he had, and they took him well into the last rounds before he could tuck them away. It was not the punishment of his punch that won for him as much as it was his wearing them down over a number of rounds."

"However, I think he will win, but he'll have to go the whole route to do it." Harry said thoughtfully. "He knows or has heard about the famous right-hand punch of the Swede and he will be on the lookout for it. He is a fine boxer and very fast on his feet. I do not think he has the punch to put Johansson away in the early rounds, and as I said before, I believe the fight will go the route and the champion's hand raised in victory when the cease-fire sounds."

So there you have the opinion of an old ring veteran whose "guess" rating is approximately 95 per cent. You can take it or leave it.

Southpaw Six-Hits Champs For Chisox' Seventh-In-Row; Big Hurler Sparks Redlegs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

At 32, Pierce has only a 21-30 lifetime record against the Yankees, but he gained his fifth victory in his last six decisions against the Yankees, but he gained his fifth victory in his last six decisions against them Friday night, blanking New York on six singles for a 6-0 Chicago victory that gave the suddenly hot White Sox a seven-game streak.

The seven-game streak—longest in the majors this season—kept the second-place White Sox within a half-game of the American League leading Cleveland Indians, who won 4-3 at Boston. Baltimore also is within a game with a 21-1 victory over Detroit. Kansas City edged within .002 percentage points of fourth by shutting Washington by beating the Senators 4-2.

A BREEZER

Pierce got his second shutout of the season in a breeze, walking but two and striking out seven. The White Sox collected six of their nine hits off Whitey Ford (5-3).

Rookie Jim Perry, making his second start for the parent club for Cleveland, retired Dick Gernert, Pete Daley and Bill Renna in order after Jackie Jensen's two-run homer had chased Modesto Grant in the fifth inning. No. 3 for Jensen, who now has hit at least one against every club in the league.

Rocky Colavito hammered his ninth for the Indians with two on, run second and Minnie Minoso cropped it up with his fourth, a two-run shot, in the third. Both were off starter - loser Tom Brewer (2-3).

LATE COMEBACK

Bob Nieman's fourth homer, following Bob Boyd's leadoff single, won it in the ninth for the Orioles, who had been shut out on three hits by Don Mossi 1-2). Billy Loes (3-1) was the winner with 1 1-3 innings of relief after Jerry Walker gave up all nine Tiger hits, but didn't allow a run until Lou Berberet homered in the seventh.

Russ Kemmerer, who had won four in a row, had Kansas City blanked until the seventh, when Hector Lopez rapped a three-run homer. Ray Herbert (2-3) allowed only five hits in his losing effort.

The large right-hander of late has known too few of the big days he used to have with regularity. But Friday night was one of them as he backed up his sharp control pitching by driving in three runs, homering for the clincher, while winning a big game for Cincinnati with a 3-2 decision at San Francisco.

It was only the second victory in four decisions this season for Newk, and both have been 3-2 jobs on the Giants. This one reclaimed third place from San Francisco for the Reds and left them within two games of Milwaukee's first National League-leading Braves.

CARDINALS WIN

St. Louis walloped Philadelphia 8-2 behind Wilmer Mizell's fourth victory against only other game scheduled in the league.

Newcombe, 32, who has won only 20 games since being named baseball's top pitcher in 1956 with 27 victories, gave the Dodgers a big up but seven hits, walked none and struck out seven. He lost his shutout bid in the sixth when Leon Wagner's third homer in three days was good for both Giant runs.

Newk was four-for-4 in the Reds' 14-hit attack. He doubled home a second-inning run, then put it out of reach with a two - run homer in the fourth off loser Jack Sanford (4-3).

The Cardinals swung for a dozen hits against Robin Roberts (2-3) and two relievers with George Crowe, Ken Boyer and Bill White hitting solo home runs. It was all over in the second inning when the Cards scored four, two on a triple by Mizell.

Kearns Wants 'Double-Title' For Durelle-Moore Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack Kearns made a pitch Friday for a "double-title" classification for the Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle fight here next July 15 and 16st.

The Montreal Athletic Commission told the veteran manager of veteran Archie that it doesn't want to mess around with a new classification — "junior heavyweight" — and that the fight for the world light - heavyweight title will stay that way.

Outside of Kearns' kickoff of the ballyhoo for the event's management of Moore and the Canadian fight - heavyweight Quinn had a few pertinent facts.

The bout will be held in Montreal Forum, said Quinn, and not the baseball park of the international League Montreal Royals. Scale of prices will be $5 to $25 with a potential maximum of $277,000. Flight crowd capacity in the Forum is 18,000.

There will be no Canadian television. Three American stations near the Canada-U.S. border will be blacked out. They are Plattsburgh, N.Y., Burlington, Vt., and Poland Springs, the Mount Washington station, in Maine. There will be no radio broadcast.

Quinn said the fight might bring in $50,000 more if held in the ball park but by the time this amount was "broken into pieces and everybody got his," the outdoor show didn't seem worthwhile. Besides, there were the U.S. television commitments—and the weather.

Quinn said "we're better off without Canadian TV if the CBC offered us $50,000." He figures that for a fight of his calibre 2,000 or so more seats, as an off-setter, could be sold outside the metropolitan area.

Both fighters are expected here about three weeks before the scrap. The exact target date for Durelle, the Baie St. Paul, Que., fisherman, is June 24. In their sensational meeting in the Forum last December Moore won by a knockout in the 11th round.

After the meeting with the commission, Kearns said one idea behind the junior - heavy classification was to establish the winner—Moore or Durelle—as a contender for the heavyweight title.

Talkiog to the commissioners, he went into the history of junior-title recognition by the New York State Athletic Commission. He said the Montreal commission could "stir up the heavyweight division" by okaying a junior-title classification and that "the heavies are doing more harm than good."

Commission chairman Leopold Pigeon announced the thumbs-down decision. He said the commission would be willing to write the National Boxing Association, with which it is affiliated, and get its view.

All They Needed Was Fiddler At Wrestlers-Referees Ball

By GEO. R. CARVER

"Swing when you meet, and promenade all"

Yelled Bill at Whipper's square-dance ball

To Friday Kiniski said Referee Joe

"That's all there is, there ain't no mo'"

All they needed was a fiddler at the wrestling hoe-down in Memorial Arena last night.

They had four for bridge but nobody wanted to play.

The main bout turned into a ball and ended four-square.

Who won?

Whippin' Watson whipped Gene Kiniski, so referee Wally Selber said.

Gene Kiniski defeated Whipper Watson, so referee Joe Goldo declared.

Whipper charged Goldo defeated him. Kiniski said Selber whipped him.

That calls after slitting judge Goldo threw the case out of court through lack of evidence. That is the way it officially ended — no contest.

Apparently they had tossed for sides. Whipper picked Selber and Kiniski put the thumb on Goldo.

They played leg inside and outside the ring with everybody being "it". The crowd roared. It was the best wrestling comedy act as-catch-can track and field ever staged here.

The mat-boulers took on each other. So did the two referees. Then the wrestlers took on the referees. Then Whipper and Kiniski decided to get it all mixed benefit of officialdom and blitzed outside the ring.

Goldo sensed the opportunity. Up and down went the official flipper — and the last word on the official bouts as "no contest".

Selber disagreed. So did the Whip and Gene. Goldo glared. Selber raised it Whipper's hand. Goldo yoked that of Kiniski. So they went at it again. It was a draw.

Prior to the grand ball of thirds all things happened quickly. Watson set something of a record by tearing into Kiniski and putting the "mountain" on him exactly 53 seconds of the first fall.

Kiniski tried to crack the record but missed in the second by 10 ticks. However he tore into the Whip and flipped him in something like 11 minutes flat.

Selber favored the quick count. Goldo took three deep breaths between the rise and fall of the official fist. This started another argument, and a few words on refereeing for Selber. He didn't learn anything.

It was a tough night all round for the likable Joe. In the preliminary veteran Abe Zvonkin disagreed with the official and poked him flat on his back. That earned a disqualification for the balded Abe and popular Don Jarvis was the winner.

Marlins Whip Richmond 5-0; Havana Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Righthander John Fisher of Miami Marlins, sporting a 3-0 record and a flashy 1.40 earned run average, is clamoring for a return shot at a major league pitching berth.

Fisher, who compiled a 16-11 record for Wilson, N.C., in the Carolina League in 1958, was taken to Baltimore's spring training camp last year, however. The Orioles apparently didn't like what they saw. They are probably rechecking now.

FIVE IN ROW

Fisher pitched his fifth consecutive complete game Friday night for the Marlins, shutting out Richmond Virginians on six hits as Miami upped its league lead to three games over the second-place Buffalo Bisons. It was the first shutout for Fisher, who has allowed only six earned runs in 45 innings.

In the only other game played, the last in a four-game Miami-Sugar Kings beat Columbus Jets 9-2. The other clubs were left idle by rain.

Fisher received solid hitting support from Chuck Oertel, Joe Burke and Woody Smith as the Marlins rapped 12 hits. Oertel and Burke drove in two runs each. Smith was 3-for-3, including two doubles.

HOMERS THE KEY

Consecutive home runs by Tony Gonzalez and Loui Zalzas were the key blows in Havana's shutout victory Friday night as they chased Lynn Lovenguth.

Gonzalez's blast with two on put the Sugar Kings ahead 4-3 and Zalzas put the icing on it with his homer off reliefer Don Williams. Emilio Cuesbe scattered nine hits to record his third victory.

Nobody But Players Will Steal Second

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown figures baseball base might come in handy when the San Francisco Giants move into their new stadium at Candlestick Point later this season.

When a portion of the ball park area was sold by the state in 1870 the transaction was never properly recorded. As a result, the state still technically owns a piece of real estate where second base is.

Rangers Edge Boston 4-3 Before 3,500

ESSEN, Germany (CP) — New York Rangers edged Boston Bruins 4-3 before 3,500 fans Friday night to take an 8-7 lead in the European exhibition tour between the National Hockey League clubs.

The teams continue the 22-game series in Krefeld, Germany tonight.

Sullivan scored the winning goal as the teams were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period and 3-3 going into the third.

Ingeman Gets Fight Licence

NEW YORK CP) — Swedish fighter Ingemar Johansson has applied for a New York State boxing licence required for his June 20 fight with Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight boxing title.

In filling out his application Friday, Johansson listed Harry Davidow of Brooklyn, N.Y., as his manager but the name was crossed off by Joe Alperin, deputy commission of the state athletic commission, on grounds that Davidow has no state manager's licence.

Boyer Leads Golf Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Marty George Bayer of Glen-eagles, Ill., took his torrid putter and a two-stroke lead into the third round of the $22,000 Hot Springs open golf tournament today.

Bayer, famed for his booming drives, was magic on the greens Friday as he tamed the Arlington Country Club course with a record-tying nine-under - par 63 for a 36-hole total of 131.

It was the second straight day the Hot Springs lead was brought with a score matching the competitive course record. Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., grabbed the first-round lead with a 63 Thursday, but he soared to one-over-par 71 Friday for a 136 total.

Basilio Waits, 'Sugar' Weaves In Battle Over Title Bout

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmen Basilio still is waiting and Sugar Ray Robinson still is bobbing and weaving in his running battle with the New York State Athletic Commission.

Robinson claims he already has complied with the orders of the commission and the state supreme court by signing for a Sept. 21 defence of his world middleweight boxing title in Philadelphia. The commission isn't so sure.

Melvin Krulewitch, commission chairman, ordered Robinson to appear Monday afternoon with all available evidence to prove he has "entered into articles of agreement to defend against Basilio." The Supreme Court said April 30 he must do that in 15 days or risk the vacating of his title by the commission.

TOOK NO ACTION

Instead of taking action Friday when the deadline arrived, the commission called a hearing for Monday after reading a letter from Robinson's attorney, Marvin Kornstein, pointing to the Philadelphia signing.

Basilio, of course, has signed nothing. He has a $2,000 good faith deposit tucked with the commission as a challenge. So Robinson, who already has been stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association territory, figures the Utica, N.Y., fighter is dillying in an American League manner.

After four games since returning from a spring shoulder ailment he is batting .364.

"I'm beginning to get the ball on the ground and that's the first sign," Williams said. "It will take me several more games to hit my stride but I'll be all right soon and can help the team.

"Last year, if you remember, I was hitting around .320 for quite a while and I pulled out of it. I'll do it again."

Harrison Tops Snead Festival

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — A field of golf represented by 49-year-old Dutch Harrison and 47-year-old Sam Snead were lording it over the new crop again today swinging into the 15th round of the 16th annual festival at Snead's domain.

The only going Harrison ambled into the halfway lead of the Greenbrier Classic Friday with his second two-under-par 68. Snead fell a stroke off the pace, eating 68, but his 137 total still kept him in the threatening runner-up spot.

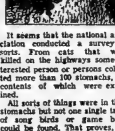
BOWLS PERFECT GAME



QUEBEC (CP)—Jean Racine of Quebec bowled a perfect 300 game and put the finishing touch to league for the feat from sponsors of a tournament in which bowlers competed for cash prizes in games previously and none individual he was bubbling "in the bowler's dream. His previous scores were 137, 149, 128, 155 and 177. This added to the 300 gave him a total of 1,067. His night's work was worth nearly $1 a pin to him.

The Common House Cat and Birds

Arthur Godfrey, in one of his broadcasts, had some things to say about cats. He has a few cynics of cats in the state of Virginia and he complained about the risks of the neighborhood cat making shifter heavy inroads on his quail supply.

The cat lovers of the nation, both individually and collectively, through the "Feline Friends of National Cat Association" (its proper name escapes me at the moment) rose to the defense of the house cat. The accusation was false, they declared; cats rarely ever catch birds.

It seems that the national association conducted a survey of reports from cats that were killed on the highways some interested person or persons collected the stomach contents of which were examined.

All sorts of things were in their stomachs but not one single item of song birds or game birds could be found. That proves, according to the predilection cats can't catch birds — about as profound a piece of cogitation as has come to my attention for quite some time.

Any conservation biologist whose fellows whose business it is to work in game management theory all the year will tell you, quite emphatically, that cats do a pity can bird-do catch birds. Without question, the feral house cat is the most clever hunter that has come to my attention for quite some time.

Stomach examinations are not necessary. Indicating. I have seen the remains of quite a few birds that have been partially consumed by house cats. Cats don't eat feathers if they can help it. Usually they open up the bird and go to work on the interior.

An American woodcock is a fortunate little bird which has never had any natural enemies in the fact that a woodcock has a peculiar natural odor which the predatory animals and predators. Its principal enemy is the feral house cat. That is probably its only number-one position in the woodcock's gastronomic list.

A few years ago a youngster whom my son and I were teaching to fish and shoot came to us with a sad story. He was scouting a woodcock cover on the side of town, looking for nesting woodcock, when he heard a commotion in the brush nearby. Out from the heavy cover came a cat with a bird squalling an adult woodcock in its mouth.

He searched the area and found the nest which held four baby woodcock. He took the four baby things home and he and his mother tried to feed them but they soon died. We were out of town at the time but he told us about it when we returned.

The cat was easily described as it had quite distinctive markings, unlike most house cats. It took the little boy three weeks or more of patrol to locate that bad actor but eventually we were lucky and the depredations came to an abrupt and definite end.

Cat lovers, for some reason, seem to develop a mental fog concerning their little pets. One woman, whose activity should know better, actually brazed to me about the clever hunting prowess of her baby. Why every day at their summer home they brought in a dead baby rabbit. She thought it was wonderful. I had sense enough to comment.

Cats do considerable damage. Not a complete list — to be sure, but damage none the less. Birds know and fear the hunting prowess of house cats. Thus, when an area is buried regularly by cats or dogs, the birds simply leave the area and move to safer quarters.

During the spring months the birds are nesting and it is then that cats do most of their damage. Ground nesters or tree nesters, it makes no difference. Once a cat has located a nest it will take every single youngster in that nest, usually one each day until all are gone.

We have a small place out on the edge of town, five acres in all. One acre is in lawn and the other five are allowed to grow at will with the wildlife sanctuary of sorts. Cats are not welcome here and we take pains to see that they stay off the place.

Fortunately, there are no property cats nested in house cats in the lawn of Pennsylvania. They are classed as varmits, by strict classification they certainly be long. Once they are outside the prescribed "life yards from an occupied dwelling" they are in open season.

Despite the above, cats do have some excellent qualities which both sportsmen and householders admire. Properly selected and properly trained, they make efficient bait for fox traps and there is no question about their excellence as fertilizer.

American Walker Cup Team Has 4-0 Lead Over British

By JOHN FARROW

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—United States Walker Cup captain Charles Coe today found himself in the same position as the great Bobby Jones in 1926.

Thirty - one years ago Jones sparked the U.S. amateur golf team to a 6-0 lead over Britain in the Walker Cup Scotch foursomes. Coe did the same for the United States Friday.

Jones, as the reigning U.S. amateur champion, went out the following day in the singles against J. P. Perkins and rooted the British titleholder 13 and 12 for the biggest margin in the 27-year old history of the international competition.

PLAYS CHAMP TODAY

Today, 35 - year - old Coe from Oklahoma City played British Champion Joe Carr of Ireland in the top singles match of this year's amateur golf test in the U.S. amateur champion.

Coe partnered Dave Stanley of Morganton, N.C., in a 9 and 8 victory Friday over Arthur Perverse and Michael Scott.

That was the only runaway match. Harvey Ward, San Francisco, and Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif., defeated Reid Jack and Douglas Sewell, one up. Bill Hyndman, Philadelphia, and Tommy Aaron, Gainesville, Ga., beat Carr and Guy Wolstenholme one up.

Ward Wetlaufer, Buffalo, and Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio, downed Michael Lunt and Alex Shepperson 2 and 1 completing the rout.

The 4 - 0 score in the foursomes is deceptive and gives no indication of how close the matches really were," said Coe. "Three of the matches were very close. Yesterday we had the bounce of the wall. And it doesn't bounce the same way twice."

For today's 36 - hold singles; Taylor was replaced by youthful Dexter Bleiss and Sewell by Sid. The British benched Arthur Perowne in favor of Dick Smith.

Keep Oil Level Well Up on Power Steering

By EUGENE MILMOE

Current car sizes plus shrinking parking spaces have undoubtedly popularized power steering.

There are several different power systems, all of which are well developed and normally offer little trouble. But of course, they do require some amount of maintenance help.

From a driver point of view this involves several things which should be on the service list of any car, whether equipped with power steering or not. For example, tires should always be properly inflated, the front end must be kept aligned and adequately lubricated and, of course, steering wheel adjustment must be correct.

As far as the steering system itself is concerned, keep the hydraulic oil level up (1,000 mile checks are recommended) and after 20,000 miles or so, have it drained and refilled with fresh fluid.

• • •

T. F. asks: "When spark plugs are removed for cleaning, is it always necessary to install new gaskets before replacing them?"

(A) It's usually recommended. However, if the old gaskets are obviously in good shape, it is certainly not necessary to replace them.

• • •

From N. S.: "Every day when I start my motor for the first time, it's noisy but after a few miles it quiets down. This noise usually won't occur at other times during the day."

(A) Piston slap, caused by piston rocking in the cylinder, will create such a cold engine noise until cushioned by oil film.

• • •

R. T. writes: "If I order power brakes on the new car I plan to buy within a few weeks, how much extra will it actually cost me?"

(A) Depends on the car you choose. It's standard equipment on some models, and on others it will run approximately $50 extra.

• • •

A. C. asks: "I have a tight turn to make in order to get to my garage. My service station claims I am rapidly ruining the front tires because I turn the wheel too soon. Does this make sense?"

(A) Perhaps your serviceman is referring to wheel turning while the car is motionless. It's much easier on both driver and tires to turn the wheels only while the car is moving.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate foreign relations committee today gave C. Douglas Dillon a 16-to-1 vote of confidence in recommending his confirmation as second-ranking chief of the state department. Senator Russell B. Long (Dem., La.), who challenged Dillon's judgment and competence, said he would carry his fight to the Senate.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wannamaker were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keenan, Rose and Nancy of Stirling; Mr. James Colton, of Ameliasburg; Miss Ruth McEathron, Mrs. Edith McEathron; Mr. Melvin Wannamaker, Stanley and Dorit of Roseneath; Mr. Kenneth Wannamaker, Mrs. Eileen Collar of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Palmer, Diane and Barbara of Consecon.

Mrs. R. Pyne spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clare Boyle, Benny and Billy in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bond of Trenton, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bond.

On Tuesday morning, Grade 8 class of the W.C.S. visited the Lakeview Dairy as guests of Mr. Jack Ogilvy, proprietor. Mr. Ogilvy explained to the class the way milk is pasteurized, cooled, bottled, capped and refrigerated. Also of interest was the new unit for homogenizing milk. The class voted it an interesting and instructive lesson in their grade 8 course in health. Mrs. Freeman, the teacher, was in charge of the class.

D.D.G.M. VISITS

Members of Star-in-the-East Lodge and visiting Masons numbering well over 100 attended an excellent banquet, served by the ladies of the Eastern Star, on the evening of May 5th on the occasion of the official visit of Rt. W. Bro. Frank G. Creegan, D.D. G.M. of Prince Edward district.

W. Bro. Edward Marshall was the toast master for the evening. The toast to the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario was proposed by W. Bro. Burton C. Tice, to which the Rt. W. Bro. Creegan responded. An address by W. Bro. James Ritchie, of Belleville, followed.

The toast to the guests was proposed by W. Bro. F. J. Brimmer, and responded to by W. Bro. Hutton Martin, of Prince Edward Lodge, Picton.

A vote of thanks to the ladies of Chapter 81 O.E.S. was tendered by Bro. B. A. Evans and heartily endorsed by the gathering.

Following the Jr. Warden's toast, the Brethren adjourned to the lodge room to attend to the regular business of the evening.

Kills His Wife And Police Chief, Then Himself

LIMERICK, Maine (AP) — A brooding businessman shot and killed his wife and a police chief and wounded two state troopers before his suicide ended a five-hour gun battle Thursday night.

Also dead were Hamlin's wife, Rose, 46, and Westbrook Police Chief Pierre Harrois, 34, both killed by shotgun blasts.

Friends said Hamlin had been despondent in recent months because of the failure of his small furniture plant.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Luxury Not on Retirement Agenda As Far as This Man Is Concerned

By THOMAS COLLINS

"You may just find your Golden Years under the hat of a fellow named Claude W. Howell.

"You may not, too. But if you are approaching retirement you have the wisdom to sift and assess. So assess Mr. Howell's experience. It's an intriguing one.

"I learned my retirement lesson at one of those lush front-lawn resorts," Mr. Howell says. "It was a $42-a-day deal where they take you by the hand and give you everything in the book."

He says he never had, and never would have, gone to such a luxury spot. "But the company held a couple of due bills it threw me as a reward. And my wife kept telling me we ought to have one real go-for-broke vacation before I reached 65."

At the resort, just like the colored brochure said, there were horses to ride, croquet, horseshoe pitching, singing by everybody, square-dancing by everybody, a gay barbecue for everybody. And a social director.

"How silly can you get?" says Mr. Howell, who had a successful 30-year merchandising career behind him. "All this planned play, all these contrived activities for a 64-year-old boy. . ."

So he chose his car instead. And he and his wife drove around the countryside. Up and down the concrete were the sort of places they had usually chosen on vacations — motels mostly, all of them neat, trash out back and a radio for amusement.

ALL-THAT-MONEY-CAN-BUY

"Comparison would be idiotic — certainly the resort was better," says Mr. Howell. "In fact, the resort was designed to be the height of good living, the all-that-money-can-buy. And I suspect that many a poor soul dreaming of the perfect retirement would figure such a place as his ideal.

"It's not. The blank, bored looks on the faces of the people who live there tell you. The ridiculous efforts of the temporary guests to join in the contrived activities tell you. Your own common sense tells you, too.

"Luxury doesn't make a good retirement.

"But don't misunderstand me. Luxury is wonderful . . . a good mattress, good food, pile rugs, maid service. Oh, boy! But luxury by itself is simply not enough.

"This is a fact. And I hope I sound convincing because I can be some consolation to a lot of men who can't have a luxury retirement. . ."

Mr. Howell and his wife, largely because of their experience at the resort, are planning now to tie the knot their retirement "on the roof of Georgia."

Between Ducktown, Tenn., and Cashiers, N. Car., along the northern border of Georgia, is some of the most beautiful country on the continent, Mr. Howell thinks. He discovered it once on a drive from Chattanooga to Charlotte and has been back twice since to fish.

FRIENDLY PEOPLE

"That particular area is off the regular vacation path", he says, "It has narrow mountain roads, with streams alongside many of them. It has gentle, friendly people who aren't looking for a fast buck. It has the essence of the Blue Ridge Mountains. And if you want a city it's in striking distance at Knoxville, Chattanooga, Atlanta and Charlotte. . ."

Mr. Howell plans to buy a piece of land that fronts on an asphalt road and backs up on a mountain stream. Four or five acres will do. He'll then hire local labor to help him build a modern cabin with such luxuries as inside plumbing. He thinks $10,000 will do the whole job.

"I think my modest retirement income will make me a 'privileged' citizen in that area. I think my city background will, as a matter of course, bring respect from my mountain neighbors. In the community we become a part of, my wife and I will be active in the church, give our charity person to person, be advisers to those who need advice.

"In city parlance, I think we can be big shots. And while we aren't vain I think we'll like that. All life is relative, you know. And I think that being important in a Blue Ridge community will be more satisfying than having a million more than the guy down the hall in some luxury resort."

Mr. Howell doesn't know what he'll make of his retirement in the mountains. "I'm just arranging the setting now. If the setting is right I think something good will emerge. . ."

Wintermeyer Undismayed By Manitoba Result

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — John Wintermeyer, Ontario Liberal leader, appeared undismayed Thursday night by the Progressive Conservative victory in Manitoba's general election.

"This is all the more reason to support the Liberals in Ontario because we now are surrounded by overwhelming Conservative majorities in Manitoba and Ottawa," he said. "This imperils parliamentary and democratic government."

The Liberal leader explained the Manitoba victory by saying "Canadian political history shows that minority governments are normally returned with a majority to provide stable government. The situation in Ontario is entirely different. Here the Conservative government has been in power 16 years."

Mr. Wintermeyer added: "I am in no way discouraged by the Manitoba result. There is a trend in Ontario against the government and further, here the Frost regime has been closely tied to Prime Minister Diefenbaker whom Premier Frost did most to elect."

Turbine smoothness with "Wildcat" action!

Every bit as magnificent as the style, say Buick owners, is the new performance delivered by their 1959 Buicks.

Only Buick combines the swift smoothness of Twin* and Triple Turbine* transmissions . . . with the new, sparkling performance of "Wildcat" V8 engines. And with this new performance comes new gas economy too.

"19 m.p.g.," say some. "I'm getting 17 to 21," writes another. Not even owners of previous Buicks have had performance plus economy as they report it today.

Like its "go," Buick's "stop" is also something to talk about. For Buick '59 has the finest, coolest brakes in the industry. Aluminum, metal-bonded to iron in front, and finned, front and back. (And at no extra cost).

In the passenger compartment are more reasons why so many families are finding The Magnificent Change in Buick for '59. Supreme quiet. Appointments with exacting attention to detail. U.S. Warns Russia Against Renewing Berlin Deadline

Eisenhower Will Not Go To Parley Under Threat

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has warned Russia that President Eisenhower will refuse to attend a summit conference if Premier Khrushchev sets some new deadline in a Communist squeeze on West Berlin.

Informants said the American warning was prompted by a suspicion that Khrushchev would try such a move if the Big Four foreign ministers conference turns out to be what he considers a failure.

U.S. State Secretary Christian A. Herter told Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in plain words at a dinner party a few nights ago what the U.S. reaction would be.

Khrushchev originally set a May 27 deadline for the Western allies to end their occupation of West Berlin and said that on that date he would give the East German Communists control of the Allied supply routes to West Berlin.

UNUSUAL STRATEGY

He later postponed the deadline indefinitely, but could revive it. The United States has reported determined to reject any summit conference held under a Soviet threat such as this.

Gromyko assured Herter that the Soviet Union had no ulterior motives in proposing a peace settlement now with divided Germany.

Herter reminded Gromyko of the May 27 deadline and said that the existence of any deadline made it difficult to believe that the Russians did not have ulterior purposes.

Gromyko said he was sorry that Herter had mentioned the date of May 27. He himself had not planned to bring it up in Geneva except possibly at the end of the conference.

To Herter, that sounded as though it might be a veiled hint of a new date. Thereupon Herter told Gromyko that anyone who thought the president of the United States would go to a summit conference under duress or threats of a cut-off date had better forget it.

IMPOSSIBLE

Eisenhower's attendance under such circumstances would be impossible, Herter reiterated.

As the Big Four talks moved through their second week, the Western allies were considering a bid by Gromyko Monday to break up their package plan for a German settlement and remove four points from it for discussion.

Firemen run a hose into the Livesey Meat Market from window as the interior is filled with flame. Tragedy was averted by the quick action of Provincial Police Constables Jack Fullerton and Edward Salak who spotted the fire and saved six persons from upstairs apartments, carrying two children to safety.

Constables Break Down Apartment Door to Arouse Sleeping Occupants

Alertness and quick thinking on the part of two provincial policemen prevented early today with saving the lives of five persons asleep in their second floor apartments as fire swept through three business establishments on West Bridge and Everett Streets.

Lost in the blaze was Kellaway's West Side Market; Livesey's Meat Market and Jim's Lunch, while the residence of Mrs. Edward Kellaway was badly gutted. Loss was estimated by Fire Chief Gerald Vance as being in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Saved from upstairs apartments were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bechard and their two small children, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith.

Don Kellaway, asleep alone at home, was also awakened, while two operators of the Chinese restaurant, Lin Choy and Toy Choy, were away at the time the fire broke out.

BAYTER DOWN DOOR

Provincial Constables Jack Fullerton and Edward Salak were returning to the city after highway patrol when they spotted the glow in the sky above the trees.

Swinging onto Bridge Street, they called district headquarters on their radio, turning in the alarm, then battered down a door at the upstairs Bechard apartment and awakened the family. Constable Fullerton carried the two children to safety.

Also among the first on the scene was Point Anne guard officer John Balyx who was almost overcome by smoke as he ascended the apartments and felt that everyone was out. Constable Balyx this morning is under the doctor's care from the effect of smoke.

At first it was thought the two Chinese men might be in their apartments above the restaurant but could not be aroused. Smoke was so dense that entry to the apartment was barred. It was later learned the two Chinese had gone for a walk after closing the restaurant for the night.

SAVED LIVES

"Their quick thinking undoubtedly saved the lives of the people living in the apartments above the fire," the chief said.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance was unable to give any cause for the blaze, the third serious fire in

Tub or Shower Law Is Ruled Ultra Vires

LOUSVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Judge Macauley L. Smith took "judicial notice" Monday that "many people who have tubs or showers with hot and cold running water are offensively unclean."

Likewise, he said, many who haven't such facilities are fastidious, too.

Accordingly, the judge ruled unconstitutional a section of the Louisville building code which required a tub or shower with hot water attached in every dwelling.

Soviet Airliners Will Use U.K. Control System

LONDON (AP) — Two Soviet jet airliners are to be fitted with Britain's Decca navigation control system—the type rejected by the International Civil Aviation Organization in favor of an American device.

The Decca navigation company announced Monday the system will be fitted to two TU-104 planes for trial purposes.

The system consists of a chain of radio beacons spaced along a junction with an unrolling flight line inside the plane. The plane's position is constantly shown by a pen.

JUDGE RESIGNS

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Judge Hu Tse-hui of the Quemoy district court has resigned following the granting of a divorce to a woman a divorce and then marrying her himself in less than the six months required for the decree to become final. Investigators said Judge Hu granted a divorce to Mrs. Hung Tseng-ai although her husband had no chance to testify.

Minsky's Son Tours Europe Seeking Girls

LONDON (AP) — Harold Minsky is touring Europe with his beautiful wife on his arm and beautiful European girls on his mind.

"What's new in nudes?" he asked as he looked around London today.

Son of Abe Minsky, founder of the New York Burlesque Theatre, Harold is looking for an international flavor for his lavish shows at the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

"I'm looking for beautiful girls and variety acts — but mostly beautiful girls," said Minsky.

Lakefield Man Rescues Five From Lake

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) Percy Edwards, 34, of Lakefield, Monday rescued five Toronto tourists from Lake Katchewanooka, 12 miles north of here, after their boat capsized. The five thanked Mr. Edwards briefly, climbed, still wet, into their car and drove off. They did not give their names.

Mr. Edwards's boat was 50 feet from the overturned boat when he arrived and when it flipped. He pulled all five—who were wearing life-jackets—into his larger boat, lumped into the lake himself, swam to the upturned vessel and switched off its motor. He then took the visitors to nearby cottages of friends where their car was parked.

Test Ban Issues Are Discussed By Ministers

GENEVA (Reuters) Foreign Ministers of Britain, the United States and Russia met today to discuss nuclear test ban issues.

The meeting was the second on nuclear test issues since Geneva opened a week ago for the East-West foreign ministers conference on Germany and European security.

The three powers were expected to discuss further the issue of convening a new scientists' conference to examine the latest technical data on detecting nuclear explosions.

ENERGY BOARD TO REGULATE OIL, PIPELINE TOLLS

Trade Minister Introduces Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The new national energy board will have power to regulate tolls—but not profits—of oil and gas pipelines, Trade Minister Churchill made this point Monday as the Commons began debate on a resolution for the introduction of a government bill to establish the board.

But it took some time—almost three hours, to be exact—for the precise meaning of the minister's statement to become clear to many who heard, him open the debate.

EARLY WORDS CLARIFIED

Evidently realizing that his afternoon statements had been misinterpreted as meaning the board would have power to regulate natural-gas exports, he rose again at Monday night's Commons sitting to emphasize:

"There is no provision in the proposed bill to regulate the profits of pipelines but rather the tolls charged for the transmission or transportation of oil or gas."

Observance of Holiday Quiet In Spots; in Others a-Riot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guns fired salutes and tourists drove their cars through fields of tulips. Police fought celebrants in the streets and dowsed overtwisting bronco. Chinese firecrackers banged and more than 100 members were ejected from Canada was celebrating Victoria Day.

The holiday observed in Canada to honor the birthday of Queen Victoria was quiet in spots; in others, it was a riot.

For Saint John, N.B., and Montreal it was a three-fold observance. Newfoundland passed up.

Police and firemen in the southwestern Ontario industrial city of Point St. Charles and St. Henri fought their traditional Victoria Day battle with hooligans Monday night.

From 10 p.m. until midnight, exploding firecrackers, street bonfires, rowdyism and fights by the alarms kept a reinforced squad of police and firemen busy.

Several incidents in two small buildings on the St. Paul-Emard boundary necessitated calling out den in Ville Emard were destroyed by fire. Delivery trucks were overturned and discarded furniture burned in the streets.

Further in the order went violent pick up every person under 16 years standing by any of the fires. They were taken to police stations and parents ordered to collect them. More than 50 youths were arrested but police said they might was comparatively quiet. There had been 400 arrests last year in suburban Verdun.

The occasions for celebration in Montreal were the double birthday commemorations, plus the anniversary of the founding of the city of Maisonneuve — May 18, 1642.

The extra occasion in New Brunswick was the observance of the 1873 landing of British Emigrants at Saint John.

Newfoundland's celebration will take place May 25, when trading will cross the island province dropping off trout fishermen at their favorite haunts.

More than 1,000,000 tulips in Dutch bloom drew sightseers to Canada Monday night.

HOW IT BEGAN

Victoria Day observance began in 1845 by order of Queen Victoria's birthday. The date—then May 24 was declared a holiday by the legislatures of Upper and Lower Canada. In 1901, the Canadian Parliament declared it a holiday to remember the Queen who ruled Britain for 60 years and died that year.

In 1952 another act of Parliament provided the day of observance should be the first Monday preceding May 25. In 1957, the government proclaimed that Queen Elizabeth's birthday—April 21—be celebrated on the same day as that of Queen Victoria.

Opposition Chiefs Bombard Frost Over Liquor, Promises

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario opposition leaders zeroed in on a single target Monday night—Premier Frost.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer assailed the premier for promising highways or bridges to various districts in order to win votes for the June 11 election.

CCF Chief Donald C. MacDonald accused Mr. Frost of "hypocrisy" in saying liquor isn't served at government functions and rejected his claim that political patronage does not enter into civil service appointments.

The premier, meanwhile, ran into his first heckler of the campaign. A voice in an audience of 150 at Durham, 55 miles north of Kitchener interrupted his address with derisive comments.

Mr. Frost ignored the man for a time but finally put him down with barbed replies that drew applause and general laughter.

Mr. Wintermeyer went after the premier in a speech at Ajax, Ajandria which capped a busy day of campaign in the Ottawa area.

He said Mr. Frost had no right to promise public works projects during his campaign tour. The government should have built new roads at the same term of office instead of saving them for election promises.

Mr. Wintermeyer also criticized what he said was the premier's failure to win Ontario a better tax - sharing agreement with Ottawa. "Where is that $150,000,000 Ontario was to get?" he asked.

During an Ottawa press conference earlier in the day the Liberal leader described a new plan for highway financing which he said would save the province $40,000,000 a year. It consisted of diverting revenue from gasoline tax and motor vehicle licenses from the general budget and using it entirely on highways.

The additional money needed for highway work would be borrowed and paid back when the highway program was completed, using increased revenues stimulated by the program.

Mr. Wintermeyer said present income from licenses, gasoline and other taxes was about $210,300,000 a year, with the cost of highways running $250,000,000. His scheme would complete the provincial road network "with no increase in taxes."

Mr. MacDonald spoke on a free-time election broadcast over the CBLT and CFTO affiliated Ontario

Crowsnest Rail Freight Rates Under Review

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on railway transportation will have one foot shackled unless it can get into the question of low Crowsnest Pass rail freight rates for western export grain, Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) complained Monday.

Those rates — which the railways contend are non-realistic—should be examined to see whether they are "compensatory," the former Liberal transport minister said.

Leonard Tilley (CCF — Port Arthur) said grain farmers and grain handlers in his area are set against each other in the interests of management. They are getting "a bobbed ear." Grain freight rates were too high and grain growers and employees asked for a wage increase they were not allowed as driving costs up further.

The views came as the Commons debated a bill to allow them to pay the railways a $20,000,000 subsidy in compensation for the cabinet having scaled down a freight rate increase to about 10 per cent for 20 years.

Mr. Chevrier tried unsuccessfully to have the bill amended by inserting the provision that subsidy payments would be made only on rates the railways could show had been reduced by at least seven per cent.

The amendment was ruled out of order because it might affect government finances.

Montreal Man, Bound, Gagged, Found Dead

MONTREAL (CP)—A 65-year-old watchman was found dead today, bound and gagged at the bottom of a stairway at the Vincent Therrien Dental Laboratories on St. Catherine St. in the city's west end.

Police said Victor Emile Gervais was found with his hands and feet tied and a scarf and pillowcase wrapped around his head. Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, said preliminary examination showed the victim had been dealt a severe blow in the head on the exact cause of death could not immediately be determined.

Police suspect the man was robbed of several hundred dollars which he was believed to have in his possession.

It was not the time of the killing within the last 36 hours, based on the fact that the meter was still running when they found the body this morning.

The watchman had living quarters in the building.

Canada's Bears Making Gallant Bid To Keep Their Pelts for Own Use

TIMMINS (CP) — Canada's bear safari ended its first weekend with eight pelts no longer growing wet in the sun.

A group of hunters led by Timmins' Mayor Leo Del Villano shot three on Saturday and a fourth Sunday night. Another four have arrived in from other parts of Northern Ontario.

"If we had been lucky enough to have gotten one we might have been far more successful on our hunt," the mayor said apologetically. "No doubt the people who have been worried about the slaughter of bears will be very happy about the small bag during the weekend."

Mr. Del Villano issued a ple Sunday for the rest of the country to get in on the project aimed at quality at that time.

FORMER RESIDENT P.C.-CANDIDATE AT NIAGARA FALLS

Keith Lougheed, a former Belleville resident, now a Niagara Falls high school teacher, is the Progressive Conservative candidate for that city in the forthcoming provincial election. Chosen "Man of the Year" by the Niagara Falls Chamber of Commerce a year ago, Mr. Lougheed's father is the Rev. A. W. Lougheed, former minister of Shannonville United Church.

This will be Keith Lougheed's first venture into politics and his maiden voyage was well launched by that able veteran of Ontario politics, Premier Leslie Frost, at a rally in Niagara Falls last Friday evening.

Mr. Lougheed, his wife, and daughter Diane lived on Dunbar street for some time following his return from active duty overseas with the Army in 1946.

AUTOMOBILE DROPS INTO TRENT RIVER, DRIVER SAID ASLEEP

John McGarth, R. R. 2 Warkworth narrowly escaped a watery awakening on Monday morning when he reportedly fell asleep as he drove his car on No. 33 highway north of Glen Miller. The car leaving the highway and dropping into 10 feet of water in the Trent River.

Mr. McGarth said he woke up at the moment of impact, and before going into the river and managed to roll out onto the bank.

Large Crowd Enjoys Fireworks At Point Anne

As if in keeping with the occasion, a thrilling softball game between two topnotch teams ushered in Belleville Victoria Day celebrations at Point Anne last night.

To the hundreds that thronged the grounds and the bleachers to get a good view of events, the game left nothing to be desired. It was a close battle fought little and long with the issue in doubt until the final inning when a run by Quinte Bobcats squeezed over a run to take a 5-4 verdict over the Point Anne Comettes.

But the ball game was only the opening highlight. One of the largest crowds to witness and enjoy the annual affair was present to enjoy the night's entertainment.

This part of the program got under way immediately following the ball game and remarks by the master-of-ceremonies.

Brief addresses were given by plant superintendent A.G. Donsdale and Donald Burshaw union president. The entire program was sponsored and under the direction of the Joint Union Safety Advisory Committee which consisted of Chairman Pat Callaghan, Don Burshaw, Earl Anderson, Ross Weese, Harold Ellis, Esmond Ellis, Frank Insley and Morley Jago.

The fine band of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment which is rapidly gaining a name for itself in amusement and entertainment circles of late, put on a strict gave a fine display of musicianship, marching and countermarching. It made several appearances during the evening.

Barbara Diment and her clever group of dancers and drum majorettes gave a brilliant performances with Miss Diment herself outstanding. A group of ladies gave ample evidence of fine coaching and training. The talented group received a fine ovation.

MANY HANDSOME PRIZES

Many handsome prizes went to as many lucky winners with assistant superintendent E. W. Hutchinson, assisted by union chief steward, Esmond Ellis conducting the draw.

The main event of course was the gigantic fireworks display which could be seen many miles away. It was one of the best provincetide effects ever seen on the grounds, and the advisory committee deserves a lot of credit for a job well done.

Many brilliant colorful effects were etched against the darkness of the sky and the large crowd, especially the children got a tremendous "kick" from the show.

The indirect effect of the display is the elimination of accidents, which might happen when children are allowed to secure and explode their own crackers. By "putting all their eggs in one official basket" so to speak the committee has gone a long way in preventing accidents serious and otherwise.

Another splendid display of fireworks was seen at the Parkdale Community Hall, when the members of the Parkdale Community Centre sponsored the show. A large number of children and grownups were on hand to witness the display and after the show the children were given treats.

Contributing to golds' best gain of the year was a 3¼-point climb by McIntyre to 92¾ and a 2¾-point gain by Dome to a 1959 high of 21¼. Other senior issues added fractions. Aunor, Bralorne, Jacobus, Pato and Preston East Dome led the winning junior issues with gains ranging from 10 to 35 cents. Giant Yellowknife was a Special winner at $8.60, a high for the year.

In industrials Dominion Steel added 1¾ at 20¾ while U.S. Food dipped 1¾ to 9¾, among the bigger changes. Other changes were generally fractional.

Thousands View Display Given By Fire Dept.

TRENTON — Thousands turned out last night to see the fireworks display set off by Trenton firemen from the top of Mount Pelion and one which was said to have been the biggest Trentonians have seen in many years.

Police said it was impossible to estimate the number of cars which turned out for the show but that parking space within six blocks of the mountain was difficult to find. Cars filled the Dufferin school yard and were lined up two deep on Spring St. Dufferin Avenue and McLellan Avenue.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis ordered the show underway at 9 p.m. and the display lasted for a little over 30 minutes with 56 pieces of fireworks being set off to thrill every child in the audience. Previous to the fireworks the firemen entertained the crowd with a parade. It recorded music over a sound truck belonging to Colin Crews.

Many were high in their praise for the work the firemen had gone to in making the show possible and the firemen in turn expressed their thanks to the several local merchants who donated the cash to purchase the fireworks.

Despite the hundreds of cars parked in the area there were no accidents reported although they were leaving the mountain. Members of the Trenton Police Department were on hand to keep the traffic moving in an orderly fashion.

All cars, children and adults were kept off Mount Pelion during the show and well away from any danger from the fireworks.

The Firemen are planning a display twice the size at the one last night for next year on Victoria Day. Fire Chief Ellis said this morning that his men only had about four days to prepare this one but would have plenty of time to start preparations well in advance. He also said that, because of the success last night, it will become an annual event for the local fire fighters and citizens of the town.

Police Officers Scare Away Safe Crackers

TRENTON (Special) — The approach of police officers in the police cruiser parked there frightened away safe crackers early Sunday morning from the Quaker Oats Company plant on Dufferin Street where the safe was found pried open but no money taken.

Petty cash and silver left in the safe in the amount of $40, while cheques were found scattered about the floor where they had been left after being ripped in two.

Police said a heavy bar had been used to smash open the safe. Entrance was gained of a hurried departure and this has led investigating officers to believe the intruders were scared away with the approach of the police car.

During his routine check the patrol officer shone his flashlight through the window and spotted the damaged safe. A search of the premises failed to locate the intruder and the method of entry remains a mystery as no windows or doors were found forced.

Inspector R./Rutherford is investigating.—

Gasoline Price War Again Hits City, District

Following isolated price cutting by some Belleville district dealers since early in the Spring, the gasoline price war hit the city generally over the weekend with most service station operators dropping prices four standard grade gasoline by up to five cents a gallon.

The slashed price range all the way from 31 cents per gallon to 39.9 cents.

The cut prices were quite general throughout the city although a few still quoted the regular price of 43.9 cents per gallon for standard grade gasoline.

The price cut was the first general slash in gasoline prices in the city since last summer when prices went down to as low as 34.5 cents per gallon.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — The machine the town has borrowed to test the air in Trenton for the various degrees of pollution was moved to the area around the Hinds and Dauch paper mill this morning where it will remain for a week. From there it will be taken to the general area of Marmora Street. The machine has been loaned to the town for a period of 90 days and Health Inspector Bert Pass, who is in charge of the machine, said it will keep in operation for the full time. It has just been moved from the Dye Plant area prior to that was in the vicinity of the Municipal Building. It is expected Mr. Pass will make a report on the tester at the next regular meeting of Health Board slated for Wednesday afternoon.

GETS WIDE BERTH

An early "window shopper" was given a wide berth by several Trentonians on the main street of town this morning. A stand of lilacs in front of the Dundas St. West after coming into full bloom, attracted the Odeon Theatre and turned left along Murphy St. It was last seen walking down Elgin St. towards the Trent River.

FIRST PLEASURE BOAT

The annual opening of the town bridge opened Saturday morning to allow the first pleasure craft of the season to proceed up the Trent canal system. The boat, an auxiliary cruiser, was owned by Mr. Gordon Hall. On Friday afternoon and remained there for the weekend during up-river. Mayor Ross Burtt was on hand and ordered the water and electricity turned on at the docks to accommodate the pleasure craft the docks over night. The four people on the pleasure craft were the only ones to spend the night. The four people on the pleasure craft were the only ones to spend the night. ADOPTION "ADS" PAY OFF

The Director of Child Welfare for Ontario has discovered that it pays to advertise. As the result of a series of classified advertisements placed in Ontario newspapers, Director W. H. Bury has received 999 inquiries regarding the adoption of twenty children. Only one child has been placed with a family to date, but Mr. Bury says that there is a good chance the rest will be found homes within the next few months.

There has been some criticism of the advertising campaign. Out in Vancouver, an official of the Children's Aid Society there has expressed the fear that children might think they were up for sale. We doubt whether this would make them feel any worse than the knowledge that they are unwanted -- and this the older among them must already have discovered. Indeed, the discovery that there is somebody who wants them, after reading an accurate description which includes their "handicap," of age, physical condition, creed, color or mixed racial origins, ought to be a tonic for the child in many cases.

Two points about the program -- and its results -- are surprising. One is the fact that of the 999 inquiries, only 111 have been from Canada. We do not doubt that most of the 888 inquirers from U.S. and other countries are good-hearted people with whom a child would find an excellent home, but we do not see how Ontario authorities would be justified in permitting the child to leave the jurisdiction of Canadian authorities. In other words, only the 111 inquiries from Canadians can really be considered in the effort to find homes for these children.

The other point which deserves consideration is that "creed" should be considered a handicap. It may be just chance that of the advertisements we have read a majority of the children appear to be of the Roman Catholic faith, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that the parents, or one of them, were of this faith. It is understandable, we think, that homes for Catholic children should be more difficult to find than homes for Protestant children or other faith. Most Catholics have large families of their own and are not so likely to want to adopt a child. But is it essential that the religion of the persons adopting a child be the same as that of the child's parents? We feel certain that there are many people who would permit a child to be raised in a religion other than their own. And a babe in arms has no religion at all. As for the question of the religion of the child's parents, we suspect that most of the people of the type who desert or abuse a child have no real religious affiliation.

Is not the most important thing to consider the provision for the child of a happy home? If foster parents could be discovered, whose religion is identical with the religion assigned the child, well and good. But if such parents cannot be located, then ought not the authorities to be free to place the child in any home which will give the child a chance to lead a normal, happy life?

NOT SO EASY TO ANSWER

"Two men arrived at the Sydney, Australia, airport several days ago," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "One, Singer Frank Sinatra, scowling, snapping: 'No interviews.' The other, Rev. Dr. Billy Graham, the evangelist, smiling, pleasant, happy. Teen-agers waited for Sinatra, who passed them without a glance. Dr. Graham went unnoticed."

Then the headline paper asks: "Yet which face was the better advertisement for America?"

It is a good question -- but we suggest that the answer is not quite so obvious as the Cleveland paper may suppose.

It ought to be noted that, in one sense, Sinatra has practically what Dr. Graham preaches.

He has changed his way of living. The man who once was the idol of the bobby-sockers is now quite definitely endeavoring to fulfill the role of an artist -- whether he succeeds or not we shall leave to those better qualified to judge his acting ability to decide. A man, though, ought not to be judged by the way his face is cluttered, whether it scowl or in smile, on any particular occasion.

A CONVICTION

By EDGAR A. GUEST

This is how I feel about it:
No use fretting over care,
No one ever lived without it,
Bound to meet it everywhere.

Best to let it find you grinning,
Best to take it with a smile;
Some day you will strike a winning,
Reach the top in proper style.

This is my one firm conviction:
Worrying has never paid,
Fretting is as false as fiction;
By its fruits ye ill are made.
Cheerfulness is half the battle,
Smiles are half the shot and shell;
Frowns have often been known to rattle
Men who might have finished well.

This I'm absolutely sure of:
Optimism falters win.
There is nothing like the lure of
One good healthy, cheerful grin.
When a man has mastered fretting
And can smile at grim despair,
Naught can keep that man from getting
To the heights where all is fair.

Astrolabe Made in 1462

Part of London Authority Monthly

The National Maritime Museum, Greenwich, has placed on exhibition one of the finest and unique relics of science. It is a small brass astrolabe made in 1462 by Johannes Mailler of Konigsberg.

This astronomer, known to posterity by the Latin name, Regiomontanus, stands as a dividing line between the Middle Ages and the Renaissance in science. The astrolabe was the first scientific instrument to be made — it was a gift to his patron and protector, Cardinal Bessarion, who had brought the young scholar to Rome from Nuremberg and given him access to the fine manuscripts of classical Greek astronomy.

Later, Regiomontanus returned to Nuremberg and there built an observatory, a press for printing scientific books and a workshop for making scientific instruments.

This activity led to the rebirth of astronomy and on to modern science. Regiomontanus stands at the beginning of a long line that reaches, in modern times, to the cyclotron, radio telescope, and all other artifacts of our science.

The astrolabe is a circular star map that can be rotated so as to simulate the movements of the sun and the stars at any time of any day of the year; it could also be used for simple observations. The style of the instrument and the decorative arrangement of star pointers was copied by later workers, and the inscriptions exhaustively clearly pointed the way of later precision instruments. As decoration it contains a self-portrait of Regiomontanus spreading wings of learning over the world.

It Takes Two To Make Crisis

Toronto Telegram

The thought of U.S. customs officials probing bonded Canadian truck shipments for "subversive" items sure is a scary one. Just scanning Neigh bills for evidence of such subversive materials is enough to make one indefensive. Yet this is the picture conjured up by Conservative Vancouver MP J. F. Browne that trucks carrying Red China imports from Vancouver to the Prairies have been stopped at the border.

But before Canadians go off at half cock and start lambasting the U.S. for its new crisis in international affairs, they may want to look at what extent Canada itself is to blame.

Is it possible that some blame attaches to the Montreal firm that U.S. authorities say tipped them to the location of shipments in order to curb competition from the Vancouver importers? Then, what about the brushoff given Mr. Browne by officials of the Department of External Affairs? Could they, by judicious intervention, have prevented the importers shipping the ingredients of sweet and sour all the way around by Montreal?

And can the British Columbia Automobile Association's statements explain why the truckers must roll their trucks over U.S. roads? What about the Trans-Canada Highway? The whole thing has an unlikely overtones, and, after all, the Trans-Canada was intended partly as a military road.

Meanwhile, the railways have some specific cargo on which they can't piggy-back the stuff over the mountains. Surely the explanation is not that they are allergic to bamboo shoots and shrimps with fried rice.

It all goes to show that it takes at least two to make a crisis.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the TV the other night I saw a phrenologist and heard him expounding the principles of this interesting subject. I hadn't even heard of a phrenologist for years. The psychiatrists have pushed them right off the map.

But in the old days, phrenologists were just as much a part of the local landscape as payday strikes and fires. In fact, in the shopping block less than two streets from my childhood home there were two phrenologists doing a thriving business. The fashionet one, patronized most of the mothers in the neighborhood had a shop with a store. In the window was a large four-foot chart of the human head, cut in half like a physiology chart, and showing that gruesome gob of fatty tissue with which our skulls are filled, and all the bumps, from the size and shape of which the delicate-handed phrenologist could read our characters, define our "faculties" and advise our mothers what to expect of us when we grew up. The newfangled phrenologist, farther up the street, had an office over a hardware store, just like a doctor.

Midway between the two was the big store owned by another distinguished practitioner who employed the title Doctor, and he dealt exclusively in tapeworms. His shop window was crowded with tall bottles and short bottles filled with pallid white pickled tapeworms, some of them nearly 30 feet long and an inch wide. The labels told the names and addresses of the foolhardy who had taken a dose of tec from these monsters.

The old phrenologist "did" me, and told my mother all my faculties pointed to a distinguished career in banking and finance.

I had failed to tell my mother, and I did not tell the professor, that the chief lump on my head was from Jack Calder hitting me on the head with a baseball bat at recess.

"Harold, take Mr. Smith out in the garage and show him where the ash tray is."

The fight for fun in this area began when on March 9, 1795, Governor built a post at the mouth of the Sturgeon River, Sturgeon Fort Saskatchewan. A few miles east of present day Edmonton. The Hudson's Bay Company promptly built one beside the North West Post in 1795 and called it Fort Edmonton. This was approximately 20 miles east. There is no documentary evidence regarding the naming of the Fort, but it is generally believed that it was so named by William Tomison, an employee of the H. B. Co., after Edmonds, Middlesex, where Sir James Winter Lake, Bart., then governor and governor of Rupert's land. Even if we were so determined as to overcome the objections of the municipal or other authority or an individual would have to be prepared to take out insurance for protection against ruinous damage as in case someone was clambed on the old engine and fell off on his head. At the end of our inquiry we felt as Mr. Gordon and Mr. Crump should be invited to keep their engines, with our sympathy.

Venice Sinks Back Into Sea

Montreal Gazette

The majestic city of Venice, once the dominant seapower in the Mediterranean, faces a dim present and an even darker future. The trouble, in a nutshell, is that the city's population is dwindling because of a lack of occupation for its youths. The young people are drifting steadily away from the local artificial areas being set up on the mainland near-by.

It is believed that this challenge can be met by programs installed by the city fathers for the long-range problem, which makes all current difficulties seem small. But one the city does not hope to meet. According to Torquato Rossini, canal engineer of Venice, "not even the United States Treasury" can save Venice from what seems to be a certain poetically tragic fate.

Venice is sinking back into the sea, from which the city was dredged. Or perhaps truer, the waters which brought forth Venice are rising as the world's temperatures rises and melting ice caps and glaciers contribute to the depth and breath of the oceans.

Venice is sinking at the rate of 8.5 inches a century. In many Venetian houses the ground floors are flooded until the ceilings are only seven feet high. Normally they are 10 feet. Stairs which once led down from palaces to gondolas are now submerged in the water and sloshes into many entrances. The canals are still three or four feet below street levels, but high tides several times a year cover the two feet deep into the Piaza of St. Mark's and flood the city itself.

Eracles, the island where the first Venetian colony was founded, has long disappeared under the waters of the Adriatic. So has the island of Torcello.

Eight and one half inches a century does not seem much, but it is enough, but most of Venice's buildings are several centuries old; they have already lost that amount of height each century. Wooden piles are rotting, brick are cracking, stucco failing.

Egisto Miozzi, a retired city of Venice engineer, says sadly "She seems doomed to die in the sea. There is nothing that can be done about it."

Want to Buy Steam Engine?

Ottawa Journal

The CNR and CPR have hundreds of steam engines gathering dust and there's an acquisitive gleam in the eyes of railway men and individuals. What could be nicer than a real big steam engine for the front yard, the museum or even the back yard of a railroad buff?

The chief drawback of reality comes when Mr. Donald Gordon of the CNR and Mr. Crump of the CPR would say the same! remarks a Common committee that the railway will consider applications for old engines but will not place them on sale. This, it is said, is involved expense.

How much expense we had never inquired until we inquired. We found that there would be no expense if the engine were removed by the railroad itself. Even if we were to determine as to overcome the objections of the municipal or other authority or an individual would have to be prepared to take out insurance for protection against ruinous damage as in case someone was clambed on the old engine and fell off on his head. At the end of our inquiry we felt as Mr. Gordon and Mr. Crump should be invited to keep their engines, with our sympathy.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

VACATION RASH CAN BE CAUSED BY MANY THINGS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Every year when I go on a vacation I break out in a rash that stings and itches. It looks like little hard bumps (not blisters) on top of more bumps. The rash spreads rapidly, and when scratched it pains more than it 'satisfies.' It always appears in the area of my elbow.

"Last year we went south for the first time and it even spread to my chest. I called a doctor and he treated me for poison ivy, even though I tried to convince him it couldn't possibly be that.

"Could my problem be sun poisoning? The sun that it breaks out is exposed constantly to the sun as I rest it on the window sill of the car. Do you think getting more sun all summer before the vacation would help? Is there anything I could take internally? I hope you can help me. I want an itch-free vacation this year. — Mrs. R. D."

As I'm sure you know from reading this column often, my diagnosis, I don't say that "you have this," or "you should take that." It's impossible to be sure when I have only a letter to guide me. (Sometimes I'm lucky enough to diagnose or treat a case anyway, unless you can give certain basic facts and send see how the results develop.)

Nevertheless, I wonder if your factual letter may not have given me a clue that was not available to the doctor who treated you on your vacation. Let me offer you the idea that ought be worth trying.

On your vacation last year you saw the doctor an itching arm. I dare say that he may have given either a salve or ointment, or an antihistamine, or possibly both, and some sort of soothing salve. Whether or not it was "poison ivy," there was not much else he could do for you, and I'll say right now, under the circumstances I have some sympathy for any doctor who has annoyed you by suggesting poison ivy, too.

HERE'S THE GUESS

But now to the guess I would make on the basis of your letter. Yes, some people can be sensitive to sun, but I venture to say that you never got enough sun on that arm before you go on vacation.

So let's examine the facts you've given me. What's different about your vacation from any other part of the year?

Why, the difference, isn't it, the fact that you rest your arm for hours a day on this window sill of the car. Could you be sensitive, in a mild, way, to something on that window sill? Is paint peeling? Is someone trim? The rubber or felt or something to the slot that holds the window?

This theory, to me, sounds pretty likely. It's the one thing that fits with the facts you've given me.

Do me one a favor. This year on your vacation find some way to prevent yourself from resting that arm on the window sill! Sit in the back seat. Or tell your husband to help remind you never to roll the window all the way down. Leave about an inch of glass so it will be uncomfortable to rest your arm there. Or tell your husband to use handcuffs! But don't put that arm on the window ledge! If may be way off in this guess, but then again the experiment can't hurt you, and if I'm right, it will remove the misery from your vacation.

Send me a brief letter in the fall and tell me what happened. If I'm right, I'll write another column telling people how smart I am in spotting odd allergies (and how smart you are in writing a letter that gives a poor, bedeviled doctor the facts).

"Dear Dr. Molner: A friend of mine told me there was a medicine to cure diabetes. If this is so, I wonder why my doctor didn't tell me about that — and if it is?

Your friend was wrong.

Mrs. A.M.L. — I'll say again —because this question keeps coming in: It is not known or accepted that pregnancy will not cause a case of sugar after the last period occurs.

Do you have a problem with old people? If so, write to me in care of the Times-Journal Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, requesting my booklet, "How To Cope With Elderly Folk," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

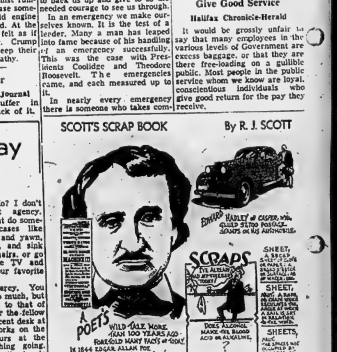
EMERGENCIES

Emergencies spot our lives. We never know when we're going to be called on to act. It is very important for us to know how to meet them, for they may be the turning point in our destiny. Many a man has leaped into fame because of his handling of an emergency successfully. This was the case with Presidents Coolidge and Theodore Roosevelt, to mention two recent ones, and each measured up to the demand. Many become heroes. Others are about us all throughout life. Common sense and courage solve most of the problems that arise. Lack of these especially where there is a desire to do so.



One's true worth shines out when unusual problems are up for settlement. Some of these emergencies are brought on by ourselves. Then it is that we may wish we were other than ourselves to consult. It is encouraging to know that we can rely on ourselves. Self-reliance is written to give us all a lift. What interesting worlds they discover for us!

Give Good Service

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

It would be grossly unfair to say that many employees in the various levels of Government are excess baggage, or that they are there free-loading on a gullible public. Most people in the public service whom we know are hard-working individuals who give good return for the pay they receive.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

JUST DO YOUR PART

He was fifty-three and he had lost his job.

Maybe you have an assured job and it is hard for you to understand. To him a job meant means to a man who is within twelve years of retirement and who knows that he is old for no regular employment, every door of advancement is locked and barred against him.

If one has the vigor of youth, he can confront a problem like this kind and perhaps fight his way through it. But when a man past the fifty mark, dismissal is right next door to death itself. He may not die at once, but death is in him. Or, to change the figure, the current runs savagely against him, and strokes and his waning strength. And nobody cares too much. "What can I do? I don't run an employment agency. Doesn't the government do something in Ottawa about that?" So we query, and yawn, and look up the paper, and sink down deeper in our chairs, or go over and turn on the TV and watch the boxing. Or else fervently western.

Others have mercy. You may not be able to do much, but your little bit, added to that of the man next door, or the fellow who occupies an adjacent desk at the office, or type works on the machine next to yours at the mill will get something going. Others may help, but it is mostly of God.

Then you do your part, and the Almighty can be relied on to do His.

Leslie McLaren, Tyendinaga, Former Warden of Hastings, Named as Liberal Candidate

Former Hastings county warden and well known in district municipal and agricultural circles, Mr. Leslie McLaren of Tyendinaga township, was named East Hastings Liberal candidate at the riding party nomination held at Madoc township hall on Saturday night.

Mr. McLaren was the unanimous choice of the convention which saw four other nominees withdraw. About 150 party supporters attended the meeting which had Mr. Colin Campbell, former Liberal cabinet minister in the Hepburn government as the guest speaker.

Other men nominated to contest the riding in the forthcoming provincial election were Bernard Hunt, former Hungerford reeve; Roy Sills of Thurlow township, Reeve James Klotin of Huntingford, and Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto.

In his acceptance speech Mr. McLaren declared it was time for a political change in East Hastings and at Queen's Park.

GOVERNMENT EXTRAVAGANT

"We have a government which has been in power for many years", he said. "We have seen some good legislation, but the government had gotten extravagant and has forgotten the people.

One instance of the government having forgotten the people of East Hastings was given by Mr. McLaren who declared the Madoc-Foxboro county road should have been taken over by the highways department years ago. The road, he said, was one of the most heavily travelled north and south arteries in the county but still remained a burden of county taxpayers.

"When a riding elects a government candidate for too long a period the tendency is for the government to neglect that riding," he said.

He had no criticism of former Progressive Conservative riding members Roscoe Robson and Lloyd Price, whom he said had both done a good job.

NEED FARMER MLA

Commenting on current depressed farm prices, Mr. McLaren said a farmer representative from East Hastings was needed at Toronto.

Recounting his previous municipal experience, Mr. McLaren said he had spent nine years on township council and seven years in county council and had been county warden in 1957.

As a county councillor he had always considered matters for the benefit of the county as a whole.

"I am proud to be able to say that," he said.

Mr. Peter McLaren, 88-year-old father of the newly chosen Liberal candidate, was proud that his son had been chosen as a party standard bearer.

"Leslie offered himself as candidate because of the many requests," Mr. McLaren noted. "My plea to you now is to get out and support him."

Other speakers heard briefly at the meeting were the four nominees who withdrew and Frank E. Foldwell of Belleville, former M.P. for Hastings West. Mr. Hanigan Rush acted as chairman for the nomination on the invitation of Douglas McPherson, riding party association chairman.

GIVES MANY REASONS

Guest speaker Colin Campbell was introduced by Dr. McVicker and was thanked by Leslie McLaren and Roy Sills.

Mr. Campbell, former public works minister in the Hepburn government, declared that there were many reasons why the present Frost government should be changed for a new administration.

He charged the Frost government with incompetence which in turn had led to considerable extravagance. Also administration was not now by elected members but had developed largely into a "one man show" led by Premier Frost.

"The Frost government since 1943 has introduced many new departments, but no new services," the speaker declared.

"Under the Hepburn government there were 12 cabinet ministers and today that figure has been increased to 23 — but still no new services."

He said the result had been the building up of a tremendous civil service personnel that was not required and which had resulted in extravagance.

Mr. Campbell admitted there were good roads in the southern part of the province but declared that Northern Ontario suffered greatly from lack of adequate transportation.

BUDGET INCREASES

Under the last Liberal administration the provincial budget was $100 million but had now increased to over $900 million.

"Even granting the dollar is now worth only 50 cents, that is quite an increase," he said.

In addition, the provincial debt had gradually increased under the Frost government.

Mr. Campbell said the program suggested by Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer could be accomplished by eliminating wasteful extravagance.

He charged the provincial department of planning and development had little authority except to "hold up progress" and noted that planning boards in some instances had authority over municipalities in which members did not reside.

"In my books this is wrong," Mr. Campbell said. "Elected men should have the responsibilities of carrying out the duties for which they were elected."

One of the reasons for the Frost government developing into "a one man show" was given by Mr. Campbell as Premier Frost's apparent inability to pick good cabinet material. This had been reflected in the natural gas scandals involving cabinet ministers.

Mr. Frost selected these men but proved he was not a good selector when he failed to remove them until the public found out and raised the question.

"Possibly there are other things which haven't been found out," he said.

SEES EDUCATIONAL FAILURE

The speaker also charged the government was failing in education with graduates being unfitted to find a place in the modern economy.

He said that the teaching of mathematics and science was falling behind in high school, this despite the fact the enrolment of schools was never higher.

The Frost government had failed to live up to its promise of paying 50 per cent of the cost of education with the percentage paid by the province now actually being lower than under the Liberals.

"The Frost government is failing in education, it is falling behind in roads and is charging too much back to the municipality in direct taxation."

"We have a worthwhile cause, an outstanding leader and a good candidate in East Hastings — so go to it," concluded the speaker.

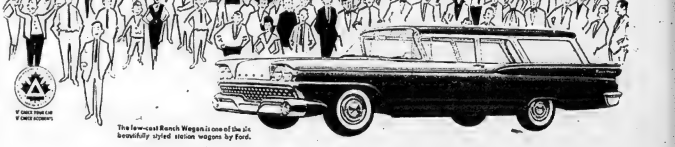
THREE FOREST FIRES

TORONTO (CP)—Three forest fires were reported burning Monday in Ontario woodlands. They were located in the Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and Tweed districts. The burning index for normal across the province except in Sault Ste. Marie district where a high rating exists.



Flames break through the roof of the Kellaway residence on Everett St. as fire last night gutted the home and destroyed the three business places of Kellaway's Grocery, Livesey's Meat Market and Jim's Lunch, together with overhead apartments.

DISASTER FUND REPORT

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's disaster relief fund, untouched during 1958, totals $1,156,929, fund officials reported Thursday. The fund was started in 1953 with $1,485,000, the balance of the Manitoba flood relief funds which remained after work in Manitoba was finished. Between 1953 and 1957 the fund paid out $361,709 for various disasters. The fund has been augmented by bank and bond interest and several donations.

The Senate Chamber

This is the meeting place of the Senate of Canada, with seats for the 102 senators. It is sometimes known as the Red Chamber because of the color of the hangings, the carpet, and the upholstery of the chairs. The chair under the canopy is used by the Governor-General when he opens or closes sessions of Parliament. Two thrones were provided when the Queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, opened Parliament in October, 1957. Under ordinary circumstances the Speaker of the Senate presides.

In the foreground there is a carved wood-en gate and two brass rails extending the width of the aisle. This is the Bar of the House. No one but senators or officials are allowed inside this barrier. When the members of the House of Commons are summoned by Black Rod to hear the Speech from the Throne, as many of them as can do so crowd in and stand at this rail, but not inside it. This may even end when you can see that a great many visitors are to be seen in the Senate Chamber in picture No. 2. Openings of parliament have come to be social occasions but the ancient tradition of separate upper and lower houses is still observed.

The other occasion when the Bar of the House is significant is when someone who has committed an offence against Parliament is summoned to appear and stands at the Bar for trial of his case.

This is the third in the series "Commonwealth and Citizenship Day" issued by the Ontario Department of Education. The Editor.

Albert College Guild Enjoys Talk on 'Humor'

During the discussion of business it was decided that the Guild take the responsibility of making small cakes for the confocation on June 8 and helping with the sandwiches.

Miss Helen Sulman was in charge of the program and her devotional centred around the thought that the face mirrors character.

In a story she showed that one must live the character he or she wishes to be, and that kindly deeds and generous thoughts are mirrored in their faces.

Miss Sulman introduced the speaker, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, whose subject was "Humor."

He quoted "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men" and told that laughter oils the wheels of the universe.

"Humor is as variable as the wind in the sky. It is a multi-faceted and is like salt, being very necessary to life. To be out of humor is to be sick.

"Humor is vitally related to the intellect, so is exclusively a human instinct.

"Laughter is on the surface and is social. Tragedy and sorrow go deeper. Humor depends on social relationships our belonging together.

"Great humorists have been great lovers of their fellows. Humor requires a common ground of experience or you don't enjoy the joke. No smile comes to your face if you are not in the know.

"Irony can be kind or crushing, so should never be used with the dull or people you don't know.

"Satire is public wit intended to put to shame some customs detrimental to the public.

"Laughter is a socially applied corrective. In olden days the court jester had his purpose. He laughed the court out of sulks into co-operation.

"Humor takes color from the background. People, like the British, packed close together, have a frequent, kindly humor. American humor has a pioneer quality. A scorn of snobbery was shown in the way Will Rogers gently chided the people.

"Nothing is more perilous in leaders than a lack of humor. Humor thrives under free conditions of life. Straight jacket systems take the joy out of life. A people can be judged by the jokes they make and the jokes they can take. A good joke lives long and helps humans go merrily home and perhaps heavenward."

Miss Madeline Young thanked the speaker and conveyed to him a real appreciation of his address.

Miss Carol Dickenson, a student at Albert College, and a piano pupil of Miss Anzelc, played for the group Chopin's "Fantasie Impromptu."

After the meeting closed a social half hour followed.

Three years of hard work and intensive study were crowned by recognition for seventeen students at the Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing, as graduation exercises were held at the Belleville Collegiate Institute last evening. For seven of the nurses there were additional plaudits. To Miss Dorothy Patricia Rowland of Belleville went the Board of Governors' gold medal for general proficiency, while Miss Jean Anne Parks of Bloomfield won the Medical Staff Association silver medal for general proficiency, the former being presented by Mr. Frank Domenico, chairman of the board of governors, and the latter by Dr. L. Bruce Cronk. Miss Shirley Lamoige Devolin of Stirling received from Miss E. Campbell the award for the student who had made the greatest contribution to her class. Miss Devolin was also the winner of the medical and surgical nursing award by the medical staff, presented by Dr. B. S. Morphy. Other medical staff awards, also presented by Dr. Morphy, went to Miss Beverley Anne Mastin for operating room nursing and to Miss Marilyn Anne Latchford of Picton for obstetrical nursing. Miss E. Campbell presented two "head nurse" awards, by the instructors, supervisors and head nurses, to Miss Evelyn Diane Hobbs of Shawville, Quebec, and to Miss Margaret Susan Hopkins of Burlington, Ont.

Other members of the graduating class: Mrs. Nancy Marlene Bailey of Harold, Ont.; Miss Arlene Lillian Bauder, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Miss Phyllis Isobel Bender of Deseronto; Miss Alma Marie Davis of Belleville; Miss Margaret Jean Hicks of Bloomfield; Miss Jocelyn Sheila Ladoucier of Carrying Place; Miss Barbara Jane McElrath; Miss Marilyn Ramona Rees and Miss Reta Jeanette Rees, all of Belleville and Miss Glenna Jean Vaughan of Trenton.

SPEAKER FROM BARRIE

Special speaker for the occasion was the Rev. James Ferguson, a minister from Barrie, who is president of the Ontario Hospital Association. Mr. Ferguson's address sparkled with humor as he told several stories and anecdotes to illustrate the main points in his address, which dealt not only with the contribution which nurses make to the community and to humanity but also with the different attributes demanded a nurse for the successful discharge of her duties and responsibilities.

Chairman for the evening's program was Mr. Frank Domenico, chairman of the board of governors of the hospital. Mr. E. Boyce was at the organ for the processional which was followed by the invocation by the Rev. J. S. A. Spearman. Mr. Domenico then delivered the chairman's address, which was followed by a number by the choir of the School of Nursing singing, "May You Always," under the direction of Mr. A. Evans.

Mayor G. B. Hyde brought greetings to the graduating class from the city of Belleville, after which brief addresses were heard from Dr. L. Bruce Cronk, president of the Medical Staff Association; Mrs. B. Burley, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, and Miss D. H. Smith, director of nursing.

Another number by the school choir, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," was enjoyed before Warden J. N. Brown of Hastings County introduced the speaker, Rev. Ferguson.

Presentation of the various medals and prizes then took place, with Miss D. H. Smith, Miss M. Kilpatrick and Mrs. M. Hookings presenting pins and diplomas to all the graduates.

Miss Evelyn Diane Hobbs, on behalf of her fellow graduates, delivered the class valedictory.

After the ceremonies at the Collegiate, a reception was held at the Club Commodore. A graduating dance will be held there on Friday evening of this week.

Princess Anne Helps Father At Polo Game

LONDON (AP) — Monday was a busy, breathless and frustrating day for nine-year-old Princess Anne. Her team lost.

Anne was groom girl to her father, Prince Philip. She lugged a water bottle every-where as he could take refreshing swigs between chukkers of a polo match at Great Windsor Park.

She helped fresh up the horses. She cleaned up the spattered numbers sheets that identify them. She gave a good slap to a pony that wouldn't hold still.

But her father's team—Windsor Park — lost to the Cowdray Park team, by the handicap-rated score of 3½ to 2.

Winnipeg Will Have 40-Acre Shop Centre

WINNIPEG (CP) — A big department store is trying to woo Winnipeggers away from traditional downtown shopping habits by sparking a 40-acre shopping development on the city's western limits.

Simpsons - Sears Limited, formed under joint ownership of the Robert Simpson Company of Toronto and Sears, Roebuck Company of Chicago, has just opened a new $5,000,000 store on the site formerly occupied by the Polo Park racetrack.

This was the first of some 50 stores and businesses that will form the Polo Park Shopping Centre—which claims to be the biggest in western Canada. When all units are in operation later this year, total investment in the buildings and merchandise is expected to be about $15,000,000.

WESTWARD TREND

When Simpsons-Sears decided to build a new store here—its 14th big department store in Canada—it chose the Polo Park site with an eye on the trend of the metropolitan Winnipeg area to expand westward.

A Winnipeg development firm acting for the department store completed negotiations with the racetrack company in March of 1954. The department store firm agreed to purchase 18 acres of the 40-acre site, the development company taking the remainder with the aim of building an integrated shopping centre. First ground was broken in 1957, and construction started last year, continuing through the winter.

The centre is located on Portage Avenue—the main east-west thoroughfare — at St. James Street, which forms the boundary between Winnipeg and the city of St. James.

Picnics Ahead

by Mary Moore

The story I have to tell is of hamburg meat and Tabasco sauce — together.

Just as everything was ready to carry outside and cook over the barbecue it started to rain hard.

So as philosophically as possible we turned on the broiler, transferred the hamburg cakes to the broiler pan and cooked them there, then ate them sitting around the fire in the living room.

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

(Victoria Day Cookout)

Steaks or Pork Chops with Barbecue Sauce; Shredded Cabbage, Apple (with skins on) Salad with Peanuts; Potato Salad; Fruit Cup: Sliced Strawberries, Sliced Bananas, Diced Canned Pineapple; Whole Wheat Muffins; Coffee.

Eating outside we figured appetites were bigger but we had made more than the five of us could consume inside, so some of these massive meat cakes remain leftover. We wrapt them in foil and froze them. It is the ingredients I added to the mixture and the method of cooking the leftover meat cakes that I have decided deserves column space today.

PARTY HAMBURGERS:

Two lbs. hamburg meat, 1 hamburg bun broken up and soaked in 1-2 cup milk, 1 egg, 1-4 teaspoon Tabasco sauce, 3 shakes Angostura bitters, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-8 teaspoon each garlic salt and black pepper, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chili sauce or hot catsup. Mix well and form into 8 or 10 meat cakes and pastry over barbecue fire or on top of stove or broil on broiler pan. But for goodness' sake do not cook the life out of them. Be sure they are pink and moist on the inside on the inside when you serve them. Plan to have some leftover for a future meal. Wrap these in foil and freeze.

HELDOVER HAMBURG CASSEROLE:

Heat the frozen or thawed cooked hamburg meat cakes in a covered casserole until they are warmed through, in an oven at 375 deg. Fahr. Pour over 1 cup medium white sauce made by heating together 3 tablespoons each butter and flour then stirring in 1 cup milk until thick. Add a little salt and pepper and chopped parsley if desired. Pour over heated meat cakes and return to oven and bake uncovered at 400 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and beginning to be tinged with gold. Serve with spinach and whole new carrots that have been broiled. Cheap, quick, ever-so-good!

TABASCO BARBECUE SELLSIE:

One medium onion chopped, 1 green pepper, chopped, 1-3 cup sweet pickle relish, 1-4 cup vinegar, 1 cup catsup, 2 tablespoons molasses, 3 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1-4 teaspoon Tabasco. Combine all ingredients in a sauce pan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Serve hot or cold with wieners or hamburgers.

NOTE.

If desired, wieners may be added to the sauce in the pan and simmer 15 minutes.

Tabernacle Aux. Plans Coming Events

Tabernacle Evening Auxiliary visited the Caribbean this month through the study of North America and discovered that there are areas of unease in these islands. The problems of ignorance, poverty, illiteracy and superstition color the lives of the people, but more and more they are working together to achieve unity.

Many plans were made for next month including a pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. Morris Smith, followed by an auction sale, the Baby Band Tea in June, and the packing of a children's clothing bale.

The service of worship was titled, "Discovered Neighborhood", and was based on the parable of the Good Samaritan. Mrs. R. Manley led in worship.

The meeting closed with prayer for Christian discipleship by the president, Mrs. A. R. Miller.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Tom J. — My in-laws are around all day.

Ethel J. — I need their help with the baby.

* * *

Tom J. — My wife and I have been married two years and have a little son a few months old.

Since he was born my wife's parents have been around the house every day almost all day and evening. It seems to me they just go home to sleep. When I come home at night my wife is all worn out just from catering to her parents.

I am sick of coming home to hear a gang of people who don't belong there jabbering in the kitchen. I like things nice and quiet. I like my wife to be rested and relaxed at the end of the day. Whenever her parents are around, she is nervous and excitable and gets into fights with everyone.

* * *

Ethel J. — Tom leaves out one important matter. It was his idea to get my parents over in the house to help me with the baby in the first place.

I have never been very strong and I can't do all the work myself. We can't afford help. My mother helps with the baby and the cooking and my father does some of the shopping. I don't know what I'd do without them.

Tom never gives me any help himself. He says I have to learn to do things by myself and that all women manage to take care of a home and a few children. I know it's true and it scares me because I just can't seem to get things done. I'm always tired.

* * *

The Council: People who think in terms of using others often find themselves winding up on the wrong side of the ledger.

This appears to be what has happened in Tom. He wanted his in-laws to help him — without getting in his way or exacting any form of payment. They have quite naturally taken their compensation in the form of making themselves at home and becoming the centre of the family Tom thinks is his.

Ethel appears to be young and frightened and undoubtedly her parents frighten her much more. When she sees her mother handling the baby with a self-confidence that can come only from experience, she feels hopelessly inadequate. She will never feel competent or be competent until she has done this job herself.

It is possible that she is really physically under par, and she certainly should check this with a doctor. If he finds that she is well, she can assume that her excessive tiredness comes out of her fear of handling her own responsibilities. Once she gives herself a chance to learn and to do, she will find that her confidence and her desire to do the work will give her pep. She will approach her tasks with joy.

Tom has not helped matters at all by withdrawing himself from the scene. If he showed some individualism about helping out with the new baby his wife would feel and behave quite differently about things. She would not get the idea that family life for her is going to be a heavier and heavier burden imposed by a carefree husband.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WEDDING PRESENTS NOT DISPLAYED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle this discussion my parents and I (I'm the bride-to-be) are having: When the wedding reception is to be given in a private suite in a hotel (directly after the church ceremony), is it customary to take the wedding presents to the hotel to be displayed? — E. S.

No.

THE SEXTON LIGHTS THE CANDLES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We've been wondering about when to expect the sexton to have the candles lighted at the wedding. That is, how soon before the hour set for the ceremony? — S. H.

The candles should be lighted about forty or even forty-five minutes before the ceremony. This is usually about the time the "early-bird" guests begin to arrive, so they will achieve the best end seats.

GROOM EXPRESSES THANKS FOR BOTH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the best man proposes that first toast "To the Bride and Groom," are both the bride and groom supposed to rise after the toast has been drunk, and thank for the toast?

— Best Man-to-be

No. When the guests have drunk the toast you proposed "To the Bride and Groom" and have taken their seats, the groom rises and expresses the thanks of his bride and himself.

PERSONAL DESIGN FOR THEIR NEW-ADDRESS ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've read in your column that you sometimes advise those about to give a housewarming for their new home to have informals made with the new address, as well as the names, on the cover-page, and write the invitations on the inside pages. This suggestion has given my husband and me an idea (a "bright idea" we think!) for sending out announcements of the address of the new house we've just bought. We'd like to send out these announcements at once, because our house-furnishing isn't completed enough for us to give a housewarming at the present time.

Our idea is to order informals with our names ("Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hall" for example) in the centre of the first page, our new address in the lower right corner, and then on the upper inside page paste (carefully) a really excellent color picture my husband has taken of the house.

What would you think of this idea? If you approve, should we write anything on the card?

— C. M.

I heartily agree with you and your husband that you do indeed have a "bright idea" . . . and I hope you will carry it out. Underneath the picture of your new house, that is, on the lower inside page of the informals, I think you should write something of identification of the new house; for example, "Here's our new home . . . and we're hoping you will come to see it and us very soon. Always there will be a warm welcome to you!"

Suggestion: You may find it a useful idea to write your new telephone-number somewhere on the cards, perhaps opposite the address.

That which deserves to lead—leads!

On every side, nowadays, the average Canadian is faced with a baffling array of claims and counter-claims, made by various automobile manufacturers on a wide variety of topics, including sales increases.

Statistics, figures and comparisons are bandied about, sometimes carelessly. However, after being exposed to them, most people feel—and small wonder—that excited declarations of superiority are most confusing.

As far as General Motors is concerned, it has always been our belief that leadership requires no fanfare. We are aware of the fact that the Canadian public has given our Company first place, by an ever-increasing margin, only because of the superiority of the cars and trucks we make, the services we render and the good traditions we have always tried to maintain.

We know that words will never be a substitute for these things.

Of course, there is nothing new about the envy of competition. It is all part of the Penalty of Leadership, so well defined (forty-four years ago, to be exact), in a famous Cadillac advertisement. We take the liberty of quoting from it here:

In every field of human endeavor, he that is first must perpetually live in the white light of publicity. Whether the leadership be vested in a man or in a manufactured product, emulation and envy are ever at work.

In art, in literature, in music, in industry, the reward and the punishment are always the same... the leader is assailed because he is a leader, and the effort to equal him is merely added proof of that leadership...

There is nothing new in this. It is as old as the world and as old as the human passions. And it all avails nothing. If the leader truly leads, he remains—the leader.

That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial.

That which deserves to live—lives.
That which deserves to lead—leads!

General Motors and its dealers everywhere, welcome this opportunity to thank you, the Canadian public, once again. We appreciate very much your confidence and goodwill, and your ever-increasing preference for our products. The result is another banner year for General Motors people, their families, their many suppliers—and, with this, a substantial benefit for the country at large.

Royal Yacht 'Britannia' Has Elegance, Comfort Combined With Outstanding Effects

By HAIG NICHOLSON

LONDON (Reuters) — Back from taking Prince Philip on his 100-day trip around the world, the Royal Family's "floating palace," the yacht Britannia, now is being made ready to carry the Queen and her husband to Canada in June for the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

In no ship of its size are elegance and comfort combined with such effect.

The royal and state departments contain some of the furniture from the Victoria and Albert, the yacht Britannia succeeded, and some was used in the liner Gothic for the Commonwealth tour made by the royal couple in 1953-54.

The Queen and Prince Philip took a personal interest in the interior decorations and the choice of new furniture and soft furnishings.

Its walls, in pale duck-egg blue, harmonize with a fitted carpet of pale hyacinth blue. It is furnished with chintz-covered settees and armchairs, and a painting of the launching of the Britannia hangs over the fireplace.

QUIET SHIP

The dining room, hung with pale gold brocade curtains, has a table which can be extended to accommodate 36 people sitting on Hepplewhite chairs.

The verandah sunroom with wicker furnishings and brightly-colored cushions can be used for deck games and dancing.

The Queen's private drawing room has a built-in desk and glazed chintz curtains with a rosebud design.

Nearby is the prince's private room, with a red leather-topped desk. Inset into one of the light teak walls is a model of the Royal Navy frigate Magpie which he formerly commanded in the Mediterranean.

The Britannia is a quiet ship. It was constructed to cut noise and vibration to a minimum. Orders never are shouted, as in other ships, but passed by signal, verbally or even in writing.

Painted blue and white, the yacht has a spacious deck large enough for a helicopter to land.

It was launched in 1953 and has taken members of the Royal Family on many voyages. In August, 1956, the Britannia set out on a cruise of circumnavigation of the globe, which took 29,500 miles around the Cape of Good Hope and Cape Horn.

CANADIANS PART OF CREW

First it took Princess Margaret on a tour of the Islands of Mauritius and Zanzibar and on to Tanganyika.

The Britannia then picked up Prince Philip at Mombasa and took him to Australia for the opening of the Olympic Games at Melbourne.

Early in 1957 the Britannia visited bases in the Falkland Islands dependencies in Antarctica, crossed the Antarctic Circle, and worked its way up the South Atlantic. On the way back the Queen embarked at Setubal, Portugal, and then sailed up the Tagus to Lisbon on a state visit.

For the trip to Canada, engineers have hinged two of the yacht's three masts so that they can be lowered to enable it to pass under the bridges of the seaway, some of them only 120 feet high.

Seventeen Canadian navy men will sail in the Britannia up the 2,000 - mile seaway which, by means of a chain of locks and canals, now links the Atlantic with the Great Lakes.

CONTROVERSIAL VESSEL

The Britannia, 4,715 tons and with an over-all length of 412 feet, is a controversial ship.

It cost £2,139,000—about £300,000 more than the original estimate. Its refit bills have amounted to about £500,000 and it costs £4,000 a week to run.

There has been criticism of this expense in press and Parliament. But about five years ago a government committee investigated allegations of wasteful expenditure on the yacht and found no justification for them.

Naval experts have said that the Britannia has no more refits than other ships, and that their cost is not unduly high.

The idea of the Britannia being used as a hospital ship in wartime came from King George VI. He ordered the yacht shortly before his death in 1952, and construction was carried out in such a way that conversion would be as easy as possible.

Turning the Britannia into a hospital ship would cost between £150,000 and £200,000. It then would have an operating theatre, an opthalmic room, a physiotherapy department, a pathological laboratory, an x-ray room, a dental centre and wards—all created out of the royal apartments and suites.

TRAVELLED 150,000 MILES

The Britannia, now commanded by Rear-Admiral Peter Dawney, a former deputy controller of the navy, is capable of a continuous cruising speed of 21 knots.

It is the first royal yacht to be built in more than half a century. The previous one, the Victoria and Albert, was declared unseaworthy during the reign of King George VI.

Built by the Clydeside craftsmen who built the liners Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, the Britannia is fitted with radar and a distilling plant to make it independent of shore water supplies. It carries the latest life-saving equipment.

So far it has steamed about 150,000 miles in every ocean of the world.

TRADE FAIR

MONT JOLI, Que. (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor Onesime Gagnon of Quebec will officially open the St. Lawrence trade and industrial exhibition to be held here June 27 to July 1.

Premier Leslie Frost in his Report to the People of Ontario 4th May, 1959.

"EVEN GREATER PROGRESS LIES AHEAD"

On June 11, the people of Ontario will exercise their democratic right to chart the future course of our province.

Before them will be the record of achievement of a decade of wise policies and sound management under the government of Premier Leslie Frost . . . ten years in which Ontario's advances in the development of resources, business expansion and human betterment on all fronts have been unprecedented in Canada or anywhere in the world.

Under Progressive Conservative administration, the stage has been set for even greater progress in the years ahead. The Premier has announced far-reaching and far-sighted plans for government action to continue and increase this dynamic development which has become the envy of the entire world.

The election issue is therefore simple and straightforward. The accomplishments of the past have been tremendous, but even greater progress lies ahead. It can and will be achieved only under these same wise policies and with the same skilled and steady hand at the helm of the ship of state.

Govt. Views Making of Small Car an Economic Necessity

OTTAWA (CP)—The manufacture of small cars in Canada is viewed by the government as "an economic necessity," Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday.

He was reporting to the Commons on his meetings here Saturday with top executives of Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, the big three of Canada's automobile industry.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the discussions on the question of building the small cars in Canada were conducted in "a fine spirit" and with complete good feeling and frankness.

He indicated any announcements in the future will come from the manufacturers, who were told by the prime minister Saturday that Canada should not be left out of the small car picture.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there is no present plan to have followup meetings with the industry chiefs but there likely would be some correspondence between them and the government.

William Benidickson (L—Kenora-Rainy River) asked whether the cabinet has given any consideration to a special excise tax concession on small cars.

But he received no reply because Speaker Roland Michener ruled the question was not in order.

On Saturday, after his meetings with Ruby M. Sale, president of Ford of Canada, E. H. Wisner, president of General Motors of Canada, and F. G. Hogan, executive vice-president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, there was no indication as to whether anything had been decided.

Mr. Diefenbaker also will meet here Tuesday with Gordon E. Grundy, president of Studebaker-Packard of Canada Limited, which already is manufacturing "compact" cars.

PROPOSED WARNING LAW

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to require plastic bag makers to warn of the suffocation hazard to small children who play with the discarded bags was introduced Monday by Representative Henry S. Reuss (Dem., Wis.). Twenty deaths have been blamed on the bags this year.

Drama Festival First Play Shows Theatre's Growth

TORONTO (CP)—Progress in Canadian theatre was noted by adjudicator Michel St. Denis after viewing the first of eight plays entered in the Dominion Drama Festival. The festival was opened officially Monday night at the Royal Alexandra Theatre by the honorary president, Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay.

Mr. St. Denis saw the Sudbury Little Theatre Guild's presentation of Every Bed Is Narrow. One of two plays in the festival by a Canadian, its author is a Toronto newspaper woman, Miss Mary Jukes.

The noted French adjudicator said the play had a certain theatrical sophistication which he wouldn't have expected to see in a Canadian play 20 years ago.

FINDS WEAKNESSES

"I don't think the actors, generally speaking, were quite able to act it," the adjudicator said. He found the Sudbury group weak in diction as well as vocal strength. He also criticized their failure to stimulate the audience's interest in forthcoming scenes.

A Sudbury mother, Rita Dennis, and her 13-year-old daughter, Sherry, played mother and daughter roles in the play. Also in the cast were Mary Mackey, Bert Meredith, Guido Pellizzon, Bernett Redvers Buller, Al Hemmerend, Tony Naldrett and Ken Millard.

Every Bed Is Narrow and Thursday's production of Teach Me How to Cry by Canadian author Patricia Joudry will be ineligible for the Sir Barry Jackson Award for the best presentation of a play written by a Canadian and the $100 author's award for the best play by a Canadian.

Tonight, the Simcoe Little Theatre will present The Boy Friend by Sandy Wilson. This is the first musical ever to reach the finals of the festival. A cast of 21 will sing and dance in a British lakeoff of musicals of the 20s.

Eight theatre groups between Medicine Hat and Halifax are competing for the awards, which will be announced following the final play Saturday night.

Gen. Norstad Briefs Cabinet On NATO Situation but No Announcement Follows Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, met the Canadian cabinet for two hours Monday.

No announcement followed the meeting at which the American general briefed the ministers on the NATO situation, including equipment needs of the forces under his command.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said merely that Gen. Norstad's views would be helpful to the government in determining future Canadian policies.

NO REPLY

He did not reply but shook his head when a reporter asked him whether a government decision on equipping the 200-plane RCAF air division in Europe is close. The division now has subsonic Sabre and CF-100 jet fighters but it is possible it will get the new low-level strike planes for army support.

Gen. Norstad said some matters of common interest to NATO and Canada were discussed.

He mentioned these matters included provision of nuclear warheads for the Canadian infantry brigade group in Europe as well as new equipment for the air division.

Gen. Norstad said all of Canada's NATO partners are impressed with the Canadian contribution to the alliance, in economic and political as well as military spheres.

CONFUSED DUET

There was a wild mixup among cabinet ministers, reporters and tourists when Gen. Norstad arrived because Mr. Diefenbaker and Gen. Norstad walked smartly into a big reception room when they emerged from the cabinet room. Reporters and tourists with cameras shoved each other for vantage points. Some CBC television equipment was broken in the confusion.

Reporting briefly to the Commons later on the cabinet's private talks with Gen. Norstad Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"The commander of NATO dealt at length with the situation in Europe, with the concept of NATO, something of its future plans, and discussed with my colleagues and myself, in particular, Canadian participation in NATO and the future course to be taken by Canada."

Urged to Renew Negotiations With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was urged in the Commons Monday to renew negotiations with the United States about use of pilots on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal-Laurier) made the suggestion to Transport Minister Hees after noting reports that U.S. Vice-Admiral Alfred Richmond had stated there is little chance of U.S. legislation on the matter getting through Congress at this session.

Mr. Hees said transport department officials are in close touch with the U.S. on this matter and that the U.S. knows of Canada's desire to reach agreement on the several where pilots will be required on the international waterway.

Meanwhile, it was reported in Sarnia that a shortage of Canadian pilots was causing a tieup of foreign ships of Port Huron.

ON HUNGER STRIKE

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuter)—A hunger strike is being staged by 244 prisoners at the Hola detention camp for members of the Mau Mau cult where 11 prisoners died after beatings in March. The prisoners claimed and his aide were suspended after a coroner ruled that the prisoners had died as a result of beatings.

Minister Hees Makes Little Political Hay

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Hees took advantage of the Commons question period Monday to make a little political hay.

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) called attention to the unusual traffic tieup where the Queen Elizabeth Highway crosses the lift bridge over the Welland Canal.

Mr. Hellyer: "It is true that there is increased traffic through the Welland Canal now, and that is a result the bridge is up for a greater length of time than it was previously!"

Mr. Hees: "Everything is moving faster, more quickly and more efficiently under a Conservative government than it did under the former government!"

Mr. Hellyer: "everything except the minister."

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) entered the fray to ask, in view of «Premier Frost's announcement that the Ontario government is going to build bridges to relieve the congestion whether federal - Ontario talks have been held to determine Ottawa's position.

Mr. Hees replied that Premier Frost "is quite capable of making his own decisions on behalf of the government of Ontario and has done so, to the entire satisfaction, for the last 15 years."

An unidentified Lavendon commented that "all good things must come to an end."

NO ALLIANCES

MONTREAL (CP)—The Social Democratic party, Quebec wing of the CCF, turned down Monday suggestions that it form an alliance with the provincial Liberal party to fight the Union Nationale government in the provincial election. Michel Chartrand, SDP leader, also ruled out alliances with the Civic Action League, a Montreal municipal political party.

Kites Fly All Over Geneva As Powers Jockey for Position

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Kites flew all over Geneva during a weekend that established the capacity of an international conference to sow more confusion between slittings than its working hours.

Correspondents emerged from their round of official and informal briefings to report a difference of opinion between Britain and her Western Allies over Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd's tendency to go off for private talks with Andrei Gromyko.

Then Britain and the United States were depicted as the joint target of French and West German indignation over their supposed willingness to drop State Secretary Herter's package deal in favor of an isolated interim settlement of the Berlin question.

The kites returned safely to base when official disclaimers by all parties concerned. Diplomats and reporters were subjected to breathless a joint sigh of relief as the ministers went back into session where proceedings may be dull but are at least a matter of public record.

The degree of truth behind the weekend rumors of dissension in the Western camp probably will not be known until the principal diplomats involved get around to writing their memoirs, although some light may be shed when the overworked reporters find time to compare notes on their eyewitness sources.

The effect of all the excitement on basic Western unity is considered diminished by the presence of all the West's chief diplomats in Geneva for the consequent ease of dispelling any misunderstandings that may have arisen.

Chief among these appears to have been the Berlin question. It is obviously desirable that some progress be made by the ministers on this aspect of the conference, both as a means of clearing the path to the summit and as an effort to do something about the most compelling source of trouble between East and West.

But it would appear premature to write off the entire Herter plan a mere four days after its presentation, at a time when the Russians have not finally rejected it as a basis of negotiation.

A separate interim agreement on Berlin may prove necessary as a last resort, if the ministers eventually find themselves in danger of total deadlock. But there appears little justification for assuming such a deadlock at the present stage.

Further, the Western spokesmen talked no more than common sense in pointing out that no final settlement on Berlin can stand up in isolation from other German issues. While Germany remains divided, with its capital surrounded by East German territory, the basic problem remains unsolved.

BERLIN INVITATION

EDMONTON (CP) — Professor H. Wohlfarth of the University of Alberta extension department has been invited to present a research paper July 14 at the educational institute of the Free University of West Berlin.

Cuba All Set Legally for Agrarian Reform

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's revolutionary government is all set legally for an agrarian reform program to take what it considers excessive land away from owners and give to to landless peasants.

A reform law of 66 sections was signed by Premier Fidel Castro Sunday at a ceremonial cabinet session in the mountains of Oriente Province, where his revolution was born. Castro said the program would provide 200,000 families with farms.

It establishes a national institute of agrarian reform with broad powers over all phases of agriculture. Briefly the law:

Creates a limit of 999 acres for farmland. The limit is one caballeria. A caballeria is one caballeria. A caballeria is one square and rice growers and ranchers who exceed production minimums which it will set.

EXPROPRIATION

Expropriates all excess lands, with compensation in the form of 20-year government bonds bearing at least four per cent interest.

Sets 67 acres as the minimum for every rural family of five and provides for distribution to the landless of land from areas expropriated or already owned by the state. Priorities go to landless revolutionary veterans and disabled war civilian victims.

Orders all landowners to register their holdings within three months on pain of loss of property and court action.

Abolishes sharecropping.

Orders creation of local land reform councils to supervise operation of the law, with at least half the members to be small landholders, and provides for establishment of farm cooperatives and community centres.

TO CUBANS ONLY

A part of the new law appeared to limit stock holdings in companies operating sugar plantations to Cuban nationals.

Legal experts here said they were uncertain how this section would affect the massive holdings of foreign companies.

Another section, however, provides that the government may grant land to foreign companies or individuals for industrial or agricultural use "when the national institute of agrarian reform deems it beneficial for development of the national economy."

Service Stations May Close up To End Price War

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto service station operators may lock up their stations to end a price war said to be affecting one third of the stations in the metropolitan area.

The Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association Monday announced a drive to halt the three-month old series of price slashings.

The association's managing director, D. J. Fletcher, said the operators might demand a mass meeting and attempt to carry through a lock up similar to a successful move recently made in Windsor.

When Windsor operators began locking up, price stability returned immediately, said Mr. Fletcher.

Mr. Fletcher said the lockup issue depends entirely on the effect of a newspaper advertisement which has asked operators in the Metro area to refuse to pay higher wholesale prices for gas than the lowest offered any competing station.

Mr. Fletcher charged earlier that the war was started by companies with a large quantity of gas. Their practice has been to sell gasoline to some operators at lower prices than they charge, he said.

Prices have gone as low as 29.9 cents a gallon, 34 cents below normal. The association fears some operators will be driven out of business.

In Ottawa, Justice Minister Fulton told the Commons that the combines investigation branch "has been keeping under close surveillance all gasoline price wars, so-called, over the last few months."

Majors Meet Minors on TV Question

Commissioner Ford Frick and minor league chief George M Trautman meet with an eighteman committee in two-day session which Trautman says "could be the most important meeting ever held on this matter."

Trautman, who says some fans have not been enlightened as to why games telecasts are not available to them, asked the "league of baseball fans everywhere to consider why it is necessary for some restrictions to be imposed on major league television certain areas."

He explained:

"Television games are blacked out only when the minor league game is playing at home at the time the televised game is in progress, and even then the telecast may come up 30 minutes before the minor league game starts. This is the simple economic fact . . . that must be recognized if we are to survive."

Representing the majors at the sessions are John Galbreath of Pittsburgh, Robert M. Carpenter of the Phillies, Dan Topping of the Yankees and George Medinger of the Dodgers.

The minor league committee is Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League; Frank Horton of Rochester, Bob Brown of Denver and Donald Walker of Portland.

Schoolboy Ties World Record For 100 Yards

ORADELL, N.J. (AP) — A freckled - faced schoolboy who matched the 9.3 speed of the world's best in track and field ends his bid for international fame at the age of 14.

John Mostyn, Bergen Catholic High School senior, Saturday reeled off 100 yards in 9.3 seconds, tying the world record.

But after four more meets, Mostyn's competitive athletic career is over. On July 1 he enters St. Mary's Seminary at West Park, N.Y., for one year's training preparatory to joining the Irish Christian Brothers order, the same group that operates the high school he now attends.

As a novice in the brotherhood, John will not be permitted to take part in athletic competition. He's been given to Iona College at New Rochelle, N.Y., where he will live a semicloistered life.

"I made up my mind to join the Irish Christian Brothers last year and I'm sticking by it," said John. "Track is a sport to me, but it's not my whole life."

'Royal Orbit' Still Growing Says Preakness Winner's Pal

BALTIMORE (AP)—His handlers insist Royal Orbit still is growing and improving, but horsemen conditioning other three-year-olds are convinced the flashy Preakness winner is already big enough and good enough.

"Shucks," scoffed groom Pete Kozar shortly before Royal Orbit left by plane for Belmont Monday, "the horse is just coming into himself."

Less than 24 hours earlier he and 31,365 others at Old Pimlico had watched the strapping chestnut streak to a four-length triumph over 10 of the classiest members of his division.

He shot from last place to collar the runner-up Sword Dancer with three - eighths left in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness and was going away, paying $15.20 for $2. REMARKABLE TIME

His time of 1:57 was considered remarkable because of the absence of any pressure and because of the unusual depth of Pimlico's sandy surface. Including Nashua's 1955 record time of 1:54 3-5, only three horses have run the distance faster in the last 17 years at Pimlico.

The performance was worth $136,200 for Mrs. Hasina Braunstein, his owner, who took the biggest slice of the $190,300 melon —biggest ever offered for three-year-old runners.

ONTARIO TRAINER

For trainer Reggie Cornell, a native of Oakville, and jockey Willie Harmatz it was worth the usual 10-per-cent stakes cut each —and then some.

Cornell also had the last laugh at critics who ridiculed him last year for the dismal Kentucky Derby and Preakness performances of his outrageously publicized Silky Sullivan.

Harmatz, in his first Preakness, erased bitterness from his last visit to Maryland in November, when he finished first aboard Tudor Era in the Laurel International, only to have the race awarded to Sailor's Guide on a foul claim.

Kozar estimated that Royal Orbit, a son of Royal Charger-Admirals Belle, has gained at least 50 pounds since he arrived from California last month for Triple Crown races—the Derby, in which he finished a fast-closing fourth, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes set for June 13.

TO ENTER BELMONT

Cornell said the colt will carry red silks in the 1¼ - mile Peter Pan one week before running the Long Branch Belmont.

Also expected in the Belmont Stakes is Sword Dancer, Dunce, who finished third seven lengths back in the Preakness, and First Landing.

After the race Saturday, Cornell, trainer Sammy Boulmetis and Eddie Arcaro, who finished far back with First Landing, discussed Royal Orbit's prospects in the Belmont.

"It'll have a picnic," said Eddie.

"All they got to do is to keep him between the fences and he'll win easy," agreed Boulmetis.

First Landing, a disappointing third in the Derby, was the 16-10 favorite compared with 17 to 10 on Sword Dancer—but finished a mystifying ninth.

Jim Bunning Had 4-for-4 Plus 7-Hitter

BOSTON (AP) — It's almost frightening to think what might happen if Jim Bunning, a slim right-handed pitcher for Detroit, played in Fenway Park every day.

His lifetime record against the Red Sox is 10-5. On July 20, 1958, for example, he threw a no-hitter at Fenway Park.

But it's doubtful whether he ever had a better day there than he did Monday.

Bunning had a 4-for-4 hitting performance, including a home run and a triple, drove in five runs and spaced seven hits in heading a 14-2 assault on the down-trodden Red Sox.

"It's the best day I ever had," he beamed in the visitors' dressing room. "I once went 3-for-5 but never 4-for-4."

PROUD OF HITTING

Like many pitchers Bunning treasures his batting average almost as much as his won-lost record, which now stands at 4-3 for the year. His batting mark is .286.

Bunning laid down a sacrifice bunt in the second. In the third he lashed a home run into the left field screen with two mates aboard.

He drove in a run in the fifth with a booming triple to right centre that bounced against the 420-foot sign. He added singles in the seventh and the eighth, the last one driving in his fifth run of the day.

As a pitcher, he struck out five and walked the same number.

Elgins Lead Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Inter - County baseball league's senior series swung into full action Monday. Swinging with it was the versatile left arm of Guelph Merchants' 20-year-old newcomer Gary Field.

Field had a no-hitter going for 8 1-3 innings before opposing pitcher, veteran Johnny Ambrose of St. Thomas Elgins, lined a single to centre. But the game ended in a 2-1 Guelph victory. The Merchants head the standings with two wins in as many starts.

All eight teams in the series were in action Monday for the first time this season.

Hamilton Beavers blanked London Majors 4-0; Brantford Red Sox scored in each of the first four innings and went on to take Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 6-0; and Galt Terriers edged Lakefowel Legionnaires 6-5.

Americans Win Walker Cup For 16th Time

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—British golfing experts, having surveyed the wreckage of their Walker Cup teams, decided today a tremendous effort will be needed to beat the United States.

The U.S. amateurs topped the Britons 9-3 Friday and Saturday —the Americans' 16th victory in 17 Walker Cup matches. U.S. colleges youngsters put crusher on British hopes, accounting for three of the five singles victories Saturday. They were Jack Nicklaus, 19; Deane Beman, 21, and Ward Wettlaufer, 23. Wettlaufer is from Buffalo, N.Y.

Henry Cotton, 53 - year - old maestro of British golf, argued that Britain should adopt the larger American ball straight away. This, he said, would help bridge the gap between amateur golf quality in the two countries.

Robinson Wins Further Delay In Battle for Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson has won another delay in his fight to keep the world middleweight boxing title.

Former champion Carmen Basilio was ordered Monday to appear at a New York Athletic Commission hearing Wednesday.

Robinson was 38 minutes late Monday. The commission didn't wait but went ahead hearing various witnesses testify about Ray's contract to fight Sept. 21 in Philadelphia. All parties admitted Basilio had not yet signed. Robinson signed May 12.

Harold Salkind, commissioner of registration in Philadelphia, said that at promoter Al Rose's request he had attempted to locate Basilio or his two managers. He reached one manager Johnny Dejohn last Friday when he offered to post $200,000 good - faith money on behalf of Rose. Dejohn, supposed to call back Sunday, didn't call, Salkind said.

Irvin Kahn, president and chairman of the board of a closed circuit television company, TelePrompTer, produced a certified cheque for $225,000 that he said he would endorse to the proper party as a minimum guarantee for Basilio.

Robinson's lawyer asked the commission to find that Robinson had complied with its April 30 edict and a State Supreme Court order to "enter into articles of agreement to defend against Basilio" within 15 days. The National Boxing Association lifted the title May 4.

Basilio was not immediately available for comment. He and his two managers were reported to be en route to Pittsburgh.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It reminded one of one of those European functions when the McFarlands were honarcis of all they surveyed.

They were given a standing ovation by the Kinsmen "brawn" in their colorful shirts, hands, insignia and other paraphernalia as they walked single file into the Hotel Quinte's well-appointed luncheon room Saturday.

The natty green blazers with the Maple Leaf crest and grey slacks brought a nostalgic lump to this reporter's throat. There was Ike, "Lammy," Moe Benoit, Floyd Crawford, Gordie Bell, Davy Jones, Les Smirke, Jean Paul Fayette, Fiori Goegan and others whose names are household words to this typewriter. And there was H. J. McFarland wearing that broad smile as he again shook hands and welcomed "my boys."

There were speeches and introductions all around. There were congratulations for Gordie Bell who became the proud poppa of a bouncing baby girl on Saturday, and promises of aid to Jean Paul Lamirand who wants to stay and work in Belleville but at the moment needs a two-or-three bedroom house. So if you know of one phone Wo. 2-8188.

Talking over old times while we were fraternizing with the gang prior to the luncheon, it was very definite there was something lacking. Something intangible marked the difference in the 1959 version, equally high spirits and pride of achievement that always characterized the McFarlands during and after the world tournament.

It seemed like you had been drinking out of a dirty glass. The spirit was there but the zip was lacking. There was no mention unless it was between themselves about what had happened. But they cannot fail to hide, shall we say, the disappointment and perhaps heartbreak which has climaxed their winning of the world title.

He was there natty and neat in a new spring suit. But as he rose to his feet to introduce his players, one felt there was something lacking. This was not the coach who addressed the tremendous throng that greeted the Mann on their homecoming. He's face was drawn, tired-looking. His remarks had more or less a mechanical timbre. The old fire, warmth and pride were missing.

"We won the Allan Cup and world title," he told a hushed group of Kinsmen. "I am still mighty proud of them and what they did, I hope they are. They were and are still champions, every one of them, and I will say that to anybody."

There was a trace of "something missing," too, in Mc. McFarland's brief remarks to the service club. There was a hint of a break in his voice when he said, "They are still my boys and I am mighty proud of them. I am very sorry what has happened here in and to the city of Belleville."

"They did nothing but uphold the honor of hockey for Canada in general and Belleville in particular. My heart is with them and my general thoughts have been that I will once more stand behind them and see what can be done."

He said he was sorry the rest of the team could not be present but that fact did not lessen the terrific clamor that rose from Kinsmen throats when they paid their verbal tribute to the world champions. They sang in English and French and toasted the same way. They stood on their feet and gave final thunderous salute in three cheers in two languages. It was a typical Kinsmen gesture and in view of what has happened in scenes of hockey here, greatly appreciated by the McFarlands present.

In passing we would like to mention that an old buddy of ours when we belonged to the club, received a special tribute. Frank Lang was presented with a handsome engraved set of bookends in honor of and to commemorate seventeen years of faithful loyal service to his club.

Art Duncan was at his after-dinner speaking best. Arthur dwelt all too briefly on what life should be without humor and interspersed an interesting talk with snatches of his own inimitable brand. He demonstrated that it is not so much the story, as the way it is told, and the master-teller that he is, he drew roars of laughter with his witty asides and anecdotes. Art received a well-deserved ovation from the clubmen.

Chisox Take Over Top Spot; Braves Extend Margin

Lead Indians by Half-Game Climaxing 10-for-11 Streak; Milwaukee Strings 5-in-Row

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Chicago White Sox finally lead the American League, but it took one whale of a parlay to get them there. All they needed was a 10-for-11 streak, plus the winningest pitcher in the majors, plus the first shutout of the season by Baltimore's staff.

It al happened Monday night. The White Sox collected a 9-2 victory at Washington, behind the five-hit pitching of Early Wynn, while Baltimore beat Cleveland 3-0 and skidded the Indians to second place on the combined six-hit work of Skinny Brown and Billy Loes.

The White Sox, who began their run for the top after slumping to fourth, 4½ games behind Cleveland, now have a half-game edge over the Indians, who have only a 4-3 record in the same span.

TIGERS BREAK LOOSE

Last - place Detroit walloped Boston 14-2 as lightheadder Jim Bunning drove in five runs toward his fourth straight victory. Kansas City and New York were idle.

On Saturday the White Sox beat the Senators 4-3, in 14 innings, Washington scored twice in the ninth. City 7-2, Cleveland clobbered Boston 12-4 and Baltimore defeated Detroit 6-1.

In Sunday games the White Sox swept a pair of 'court to the Senators, then came back for a 10-7 victory in the nightcap. The Indians beat the Athletics 3-2 and lost the second game 10-0, the Orioles edged the Indians 8-7 and then lost 8 - 3 while Boston walloped Detroit 10-3.

The White Sox' tear, which began after a string of five defeats, has been pretty much of a team show. The eight men who started along with Early Wynn Monday night have been hitting at a combined .340 average through the 11 games.

Wynn became the first pitcher to win six this season in the American League while packing away his 253th career victory. He walked four, struck out four and was working on his third shutout until Reno Cicotta hit a two-run homer in the sixth.

Sherm Lollar and Al Smith teamed for the Sox, who had a dozen hits.

The Indians, whose only other shutout this season was by Wynn, got all their hits off Brown (1-1) They finally got rid of him in the eighth, when Loes moved in and retired Rocky Colavito on a fly with two on and two out. Loes hung up his fifth save with the hitless mop-up.

Bunning (4-3), scattering seven hits for his fifth consecutive complete game, zapped a three-run homer, a 420-foot triple and two singles in his four-at bats as the Tigers swung for 16 hits against loser Frank Sullivan (1-3). Three relievers. Ten of the hits were for extra bases, with Al Kaline, Charlie Maxwell and Frank Bolling also hitting homers Don Buddin homered for the Red Sox.

NEALE FRASER WINS

BERLIN (AP) — Australia's Neale Fraser and Sandra Reynolds of South Africa won the singles titles in Berlin's International Whitsuntide tennis tournament.

First place is a kiss of death in the National League, except for Milwaukee Braves—the club that hasn't found the lead a ticket to fourth place.

In the first week of play, San Francisco Giants broke on top, then lost five of eight and skidded to fourth. Milwaukee was on top for the next two weeks, gave way momentarily as Los Angeles Dodgers moved in, then returned while the Dodgers dropped four of five and slipped to fourth.

The Giants made a repeat trip to the top May 2, then dipped to fourth again, losing three of four while the Braves returned to first.

Cincinnati was next, but lost four straight and fell to fourth.

BRAVES BACK

Then the Dodgers were back. They won four in a row and had a half-game edge on Milwaukee a week ago. But they've been idle ever since while the Braves have set up shop once again, winning five of nine.

Milwaukee made it five straight Monday night with a shade of the season in the league — with a 4-2 victory at San Francisco Monday to give the second - place Giants a 2½ - game lead over Cincinnati. The Braves' fifth consecutive defeat with no help from Cincinnati Redlegs Monday night. That left them in a fourth place tie with Chicago Cubs.

In Saturday games Chicago beat Pittsburgh 5-2, St. Louis defeated Philadelphia 8-2, Milwaukee shut out the Dodgers 6-0 and San Francisco edged New York 4-3. Cincinnati.

Pittsburgh beat Chicago 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday, then lost 7-6, Milwaukee downed the Cubs 5-3 and San Francisco defeated Cincinnati 9-4. Philadelphia and St. Louis rained out.

DODGERS BLOW LEAD

The Dodgers Monday night blew a 5-0 lead against the Reds, who tied it with two home runs by Johnny Temple and Gus Bell in the fourth inning. Gus Triandos then beat reliefer Clem Labine 1-0 in the eighth on Frank Robinson's double and Frank Robinson's single.

Orlando Pena (2-1) was the winner, relieving Bob Mabe in the second.

Southpaw Warren Spahn 5-4) gained the 251st victory of his career for the Braves. Milwaukee put it away in a two - run sixth against Sam Jones (3-5) on four consecutive hits with two out. Spahn, who gave up nine hits, started the rally with a single. Billy Bruton and Ed Mathews also singled and Hank Aaron then doubled, extending his hitting streak to 22 games.

The Milwaukee Mays will also streak, hit his seventh homer in the Giants' fourth. He is hitting .477.

Bisons, Royals Hot on Miami Trail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With its first-place lead down to 1½ games, Miami is looking over its shoulder these days and all it can see is the fast-charging Buffalo Bisons and Montreal Royals.

The Marlins held a three-game bulge over a number of second-place rivals for almost three weeks but have run afoul of a stubborn Columbus team. The Jets won their fourth in five meetings with the Marlins Monday night, 13-4.

Buffalo in second place, handed Toronto its fifth and sixth consecutive losses, 5-2 and 5-0 in Victoria Day doubleheader. Montreal won both ends of its holiday twinbill from Rochester, 5-7 and 5-4, the nightcap in two extra innings. Havana edged Richmond Vees 4-3 in the other game

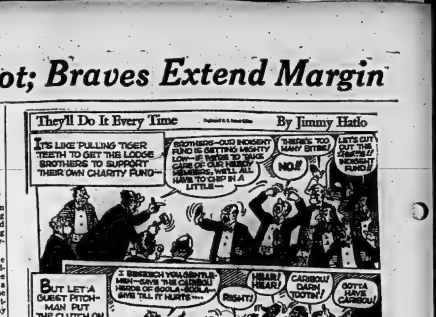
Miami blew a 7-2 lead after five innings as Columbus scored in the fifth and nine in the seventh and eighth. A six-run eighth inning did the final damage. Tony Bartirome's two-run homer and a double, and Spook Jacobs's double and single for three RBI sparked the two-inning splurge.

LEAFS HIT BOTTOM

Righthanders Dallas Green, with an eight-hitter, and Hank Mason, with a single shutout in the seven - inning second game, sank the Leafs, who plunked into the cellar five percentage points behind Havana

Green (5-1) gave Jim King's second homer of the year as the only earned run Dick Brown and Bobby Morgan homered for Buffalo. Morgan iso homered in the second game as Mason (2-0) bested Hal Woodeshick (3-1)

Montreal's victories vaulted the Royals a game ahead of Rochester as Clyde Parris supplied the key blows in both games. His sacrifice fly scored Bobby Wilson with the clincher in the first game and his solo homer in the second extra inning of the nightcap won relievers Rene Valdes (2-2) Ed Rakow (3-1) won the first game.



Parris had three RBI for the afternoon, with four hits in seven at bats including his seventh homer. Wilson, who also homered in the first game, led it with a single.

East-West Junior Problems Hot Items at CAHA Session

DETROIT (CP)—Delegates to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association meeting faced more than usual controversy today with reinstatement of professionals up for review and two votes involving the Memorial Cup slated for discussion.

Status of professional players came into the spotlight through the association's resolution that former pros must wait a year for reinstatement in amateur leagues.

The move was approved in committee session and now goes before the general meeting. It passed it will still require National Hockey League approval.

HASSLES EXPECTED

A western proposal to maintain the number of pros they have to been allowed for playoffs in recent seasons is expected to draw sharp criticism from eastern delegates. The East will seek to curtail it in view of the West's recent success in Memorial Cup play.

Another issue involving the Memorial Cup is an allegation from Ontario junior clubs that Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens, farm club of Montreal Canadiens, are reaching cup playoffs without qualifying by way of organized competition.

During discussions Monday an announcement to increase to 20 per cent from 10 per cent the CAHA share of playoff receipts was abandoned.

Delegates felt the pro-amateur agreement, set up six months ago with the NHL, could not be changed so soon. A Quebec branch request for an increase to $50,000 from $40,000 of the annual grant from the NHL was withdrawn for the same reason.

Approved subject to ratification today was a resolution that registration must be certified before the start of any playoff series.

An attempt by the British Columbia branch to have the world hockey title fight in the CAHA was turned down.

The CAHA labelled the action of Spokane Flyers in quitting the Western international, an amateur series, as "unsportsmanlike" on grounds they had not given proper notice.

MAINTAIN AGE LIMIT

Discussion aimed at raising the age limit in B and C ranks made no headway. Members predicted increased costs to Junior A teams will be much bargaining power was given veteran juniors.

Hamilton, whose Junior A Cubs finished last in 1959, have a request before today's meeting for permission to import four branch players instead of the standard two.

Brandon's Junior A team has a similar request pending. Brandon want six transfers.

Meeting with the United States Amateur Hockey Association Sunday, the CAHA approved proposals that yellow tape be used at hockey sticks in the NHL instead of the usual black.

The move is designed to increase visibility of the puck for goaltenders.

The session called for increased international hockey competition in both North America and Europe and welcomed a scheduled tour of Canada next January by a team from the National Skating Union of Japan Ice Hockey Association.

Lyle Quits as Esky Coach, Lack of Support Said Reason

EDMONTON (CP)—Sam Lyle, 35, who followed in the distinguished footsteps of the great Pop Lyle, resigned as head coach of Edmonton Eskimos despite the fact he has two years' left on his contract.

The reason: "I felt that I no longer enjoyed the support of the people who hired me," Lyle said Monday.

The move caught most folks by surprise although it was known that Lyle, hired last year, was having trouble with some players and the executive of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club.

The club's board of directors will consider the resignation tonight.

Eskimo President Eric Duggan said he was "terribly shocked" to learn of Sam's decision.

Lyle said he expects "no remuneration" for the two years remaining on his contract. "I initiated this on my own . . . I have nothing coming to me."

POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS

Speculation on a successor focussed on Esky' two assistant coaches, both strong in the Canadian game. They are Eagle Keys, an assistant and scout with the club since 1955, and Dan Edwards of Texas, hired last week after finishing last season as head coach of British Columbia Lions.

Quarterback Jackie Parker, outstanding Canadian player in 1957 and 1958, also was mentioned as a possible choice. Club officials declined comment.

Esks ended last season with a 5-8-1 record in 16 games and in second place behind Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Bombers whipped Edmonton in the western final series and went on to win the Grey Cup.

Kraftcheck First Winner Shore Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Kraftcheck of Rochester Americans was named the outstanding defenceman of the American Hockey League Sunday. He will be the first to receive the Eddie Shore award.

Kraftcheck's selection gave the third - place Rochester team a sweep of the league's special individual awards, Bill Hicke had been voted the outstanding rookie and Rudy Migay had tied Hicke for most valuable player honors. Rochester also had four men on the all-star team: Kraftcheck, Hicke, Migay and Gary Aldcorn.

The voting by the league's press, radio and TV men was close. Kraftcheck received 20 points, Ivan Irwin of Buffalo received 19 points. Points are distributed on a 3-2-1 basis.

HARNESS RACES START

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Good weather and a good program marked the opening of the Ontario harness horse race season here Monday. The fastest mile of the day was paced by Argyle Duke, owned and driven by Dunc Campbell of Alisa Craig who won the second heat of the classified A event, in 2.12.0, an exceptionally good mile for this early in the season.

Snead Shoots Lowest 72-Holes Of Career

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — A phenomenal 59 followed by a tidy 65, an 11-stroke victory in his own Sam Snead Festival—it may add up late' after all for Slammin' Sam to win that elusive National open golf championship.

Snead wound up his competitive tuneup for the open Sunday by shooting the lowest 72-hole total score of his 25-year professional career, 259—21 under par. It left runner-up Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., walloping in his wake by 11 strokes and started talk again that this may finally be the year for Snead, only nine days away from his 47th birthday, to win the open title.

It was his 103rd tournament victory, including all of note except the open, in which he has been runner-up three times.

"Sure, I'd like to win it," he said, "because then I'd have won them all. But it's only a prestige tournament.

"I can't seem to get in the mood to win it. The field is not as good as some of the regular PGA tournaments because some of the better players fail to qualify.

"The courses are doctored up to make them unusually tough. That's not golf."

Snead himself will have to qualify for the open, which will be held June 11-13 at Manoru neck, N.Y. He'll try to do it in Washington June 1.

He has won the festival five of 12 times. His third round Sunday was one of the greatest of all time in golf and proved he still can make the game appear easy. It took him only 33 strokes on a par 70, 6,311-yard course. Saturday it was only 63 strokes on the 6,427-yard second course.

The PGA competitive record for 18 holes is 60 and Snead is one of seven holders. The PGA record for 72 holes is 257, held by Souchak. The festival here is not PGA sponsored.

Mondoux's five-game block score was the highest in the eight-year history of the open. His high game of 371 was the best of the night.

Bobcats Squeeze Past Point Anne As Bobby Green Edges Pat Maracle

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Great clutch hurling by southpaw Bobby Green and Bert Faulkner's eight-inning circuit clout gave the Belleville Bobcats a thrilling 3-4 victory over the defending champions Point Anne Cementmen as the B. and D. softball league swung into action last night.

A terrific crowd on hand for the giant holiday fireworks display at the Point saw one of the best opening-day games in years between 2 evenly-matched clubs with the outcome in doubt until the final pitch.

The Bobcats' Green and Pat Maracle of the Pointers staged a fine pitchers' duel all the way but it was Green who bore down in the final three frames to preserve the victory.

First sacker Bert Faulkner delivered the deciding blow in the top of the eighth inning with the score deadlocked 4-4. He stroked a line-drive, two-out home run into centre field for the 5-4 Bobcat lead.

Green came through with his best clutch hurling in three innings. He had held a 4-0 lead at one time before Point Anne tied the score. Green was greeted by Maracle's leadoff triple and later a walk in the seventh but left both men stranded. However he saved his best for the 9th when the homesters loaded the sacks without bagging the equalizer.

Green got the first two batters in the final frame on ground balls but then made his own little high game of 371 was the best of the night. Jones and Hull. Chuck Kingston beat out an infield single to fill the bases before John Batchelor hit into a forceout play to end the thriller.

Pat Maracle went the route to accept the loss, allowing but six hits, whiffing six and passing three, one of them an intentional pass. Green gave up just seven safeties, struck out nine, walked five and hit a single batter.

Both moundsmen had no-hitters going for them after three-one-ball inning.

John Casey started it with a leadoff single and Floyd Crawford blooped a double to left-centre. An intentional pass to Brown loaded the sacks with none out. The move paid off when Goegan popped to short but Bert Faulkner's sinking double off Elliott's glove made it 2-0. Coulter fly scored another and J-P Lamirande singled home the fourth.

Doug Hull got one back in the Cementmen's half of that frame, doubling and scoring later on Batchelor's first bunt out to centre field.

Point Anne cut the margin with two in the fifth. Gary Goyer hit the first of his three singles to start it after the Bobcat receiver had dropped his foul popup. A hit batter and Carr's sacrifice were followed by Dave Jones' two-base hit for the 4-3 score.

The tying marker in the sixth was a gift. John Casey dropped Elliott's fly ball to left field and the runner jarred the ball from Goulter's glove at the plate as he raced all the way home on the same play. But from this point on Green bore down hard. He left ten runners stranded over the last 3 in the last five frames. Faulkner's homer was his winning margin. It proved enough.

Herr Faulkner's three runs batted in and his homer and double made him the game's batting star. Floyd Crawford was also the only other extra-base hitter for the Bobcats. Bob Green, Jean-Paul Lamirande and John Casey hit singles.

Gary Goyer stroked three consecutive singles in a losing cause. Two-baggers went to Dave Jones and Doug Hull, while Pat Maracle tripled and Chuck Kingston grounded.

The schedule hits full stride later this week with Cobourg at Trenton on Thursday, Trenton at Bobcats Friday and Point Anne at Cobourg Saturday.

Lineups: Bobcats — Casey lf, Crawford 2b, W. Brown ss, F. Goegan cf, Faulkner 1b, Coutes c, Lamirande 3b, L. Smrke rf, B. Green p.

JOHNSTOWN

S.S., Church Commemorate Mother's Day

JOHNSTOWN — "As it was Mother's Day on Sunday, the Sunday School and church were held together at Johnstown.

The church was nicely decorated with spring flowers. The choir, composed of young ladies of the congregation, had Mrs. Alex Vandervoort as pianist.

The service opened with the Doxology and a "Call To Wor-ship" by the superintendent, Mrs. Alva Meyers, followed by the program for Mother's Day, which was as follows:

The choir sang the anthem, "When Mother Prayed." The Scripture was found in Rebe-kiana 4:1-16, with prayer by the Rev. Douglas R. Pilkey; the short secretary of Missionary and Maintenance of the United Church of Canada. Donald Clapp read the story, "The Lost Coil."

Mr. Pilkey asked the children to come to the front of the church as he wanted to talk to them. He told them there were lots of things around a home that are almost worthless but are very necessary. Showing them a postage stamp he told them it was a token but a letter would not go very far without it. He tried to teach them the difference in values by questions and answers, saying' if a man puts out his hand to you what do you do? — One child said shake hands. Having colored flowers on this day means what? —Mother is living. A man tips his hat to a lady — as a token of respect; the cross means a risen Christ. When a mother has her baby baptized she is really saying I want my child to grow up a Christian. Bread and wine —the body and blood of Jesus Christ.

GIVES HIMSELF

Mr. Pilkey told a story about a little African boy what at a service when the collection plate came around felt sad be-cause he had no money but all at once he started to smile and setting the late on the floor he stood in the aisle, feeling so happy that he could give him-self.

Showing the children some money he told them they should do good with it. Other people have needs so one must sacrifice to help others.

the city since early last winter. He said the cause was undetermined although reports were the fire apparently started near the rear of the restaurant.

Shortly after the fire was discovered a definite explosion was heard. Firemen heard the blast as they raced to the scene with fire engines.

Every man on the fire department, even men on holiday, was called in to fight the blaze. Two aerial ladders were used and tons of water from ten lines of hose was poured into the old frame buildings in an effort to bring the blaze under control.

Firemen were still pouring water into the ruins at seven o'clock this morning.

LARGE CROWD GATHERS

At the height of the fire flames shot high above trees, lighting up the entire city. The fire was visible over almost the entire West Hill area and attracted a large crowd of spectators who watched firemen fight the fire.

Salvation Army personnel were quickly on the scene and after finding temporary accommodation for two of the families served hot coffee to firemen from the fire department emergency truck.

All families who lost homes in the blaze also lost all household and personal possessions.

Mrs. Kellaway was not at home having gone to Germany last week to visit a married daughter.

The blaze was the third serious fire loss in the city since last fall.

Other losses were the Deline and Arthur A. Sills and Son stores on Coleman Street, and the downtown business block at the corner of Front and McAnany Streets which burned last Boxing Day.

stations. He said the premier had helped in bringing political morality to "an all-time low" in Ontario.

"One of the most important issues in this campaign is the moral standard revealed in what the Frost government has done or permitted others to do," he said.

The premier had repeatedly stated in the legislature that liquor wasn't served at government functions "because he wants to avoid public criticism from temperance supporters." But those words knew from personal experience that liquor is served and it is time to end the hypocrisy.

PATRONAGE CHARGE

On patronage, Mr. MacDonald said the premier had denied its existence, but "anyone who cares to do a bit of investigating could find not one, but scores of patronage appointments in the premier's own riding of Victoria."

At Durham, where he began a night's swing through the south section of Grey County, Mr. Frost described the government's record in helping the Ontario farmer. The farmer's situation has particularly advanced since the Conservatives took control of the province in 1943, he said.

The premier asked for votes to help the government continue price supports and marketing schemes which had been mainly responsible for a $60,000,000 increase in farm cash last year.

In the afternoon Mr. Frost invaded Mr. Wintermeyer's riding of Waterloo North with a speech to a Waterloo rally in which he discussed his government's achievements in the terms of increased wealth and population.

He said Highway 401 was being steadily extended and would connect that area with Toronto "about this time next year."

SATURDAY ACTIVITY

Saturday Mr. Frost took a day off from the hustings while Mr. Wintermeyer visited the Windsor district and Mr. MacDonald spoke in his own riding of York South.

The Liberal chief told the South-western Ontario Liberal Association that Mr. Frost was guilty of "political expediency" in failing to obtain more money from the federal government. Lack of the added revenue was hurting Ontario's education program.

The province may need new sources of revenue shortly, he warned, but it was not possible to arrive at any policy in this regard until the completion of a new tax-sharing agreement with Ottawa.

Mr. MacDonald said at a meeting of his personal campaign staff that the purchase of land in the Sarnia area by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission had "all the earmarks of a carefully planned deal."

In 1957, he said, a New York firm was negotiating through the Liberal government at Ottawa and offered a price which a former Indian chief claims was $2,000,000. But after the Conservative government came in the price was approved in another firm for less.

He said the two Conservative governments had apparently been involved in making the deal which fleeced the Indians of $2,500,000.

ENERGY BOARD

Armand Dumas (L — Villeneuve), presenting the Liberal view, said authority for policy-making and regulation in this field should be divided.

"We feel that the government should not relegate policy making to any board," he said, advocating instead establishment of a national energy authority to act in an advisory capacity.

CABINET MUST APPROVE

Mr. Churchill said the bill would propose that the board be empowered to decide on applications for export of electricity and natural gas, subject to cabinet approval.

Authority for issuing import or export permits for oil would remain in cabinet hands, although the bill would provide that the cabinet later could put oil under the board's jurisdiction.

The energy board would take over from the Board of Transport Commissioners the handling of applications for construction of interprovincial pipelines, also subject to cabinet approval.

In addition to regulating pipeline tolls, the board would be given the say over prices at which gas and electric power might be exported.

As at present, electricity would be licensed for export on a year-to-year basis. But gas export permits would cover 25-year periods.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE

Mr. Churchill also indicated the government would like to work out some new arrangement with the United States to simplify the process of moving gas between the two countries.

Permission for export gas from Canada to the U.S. now involves getting approval from the provinces involved, the federal government and the U.S. Federal Power Commission.

DISPUTE SAID SETTLED

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) World Bank President Eugene Black claimed success Monday in his mission to settle the long-standing dispute between India and Pakistan over the waters of the Indus River. Black said he hoped representatives of India and Pakistan would be able to meet World Bank officials within two months to work out a final agreement. Details were not given.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Tuesday, May 19

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A close tie is on the brink of starting an argument, so it behooves you to step out quickly and do something that will bring him or her pleasure. Then you get back in good graces of loved one. Be sure you labor diligently, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Bickering with comrade over labors that have to be performed on letters that must be written could cause real estrangement. Remain alert and go about your business quietly. You can express your views at a more opportune time.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Remember that time is very special right now, and if you waste it in trying to decide whether to spend that money on some rather expensive item you want, you stand to lose much all around. Better be economical right now.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — This is one of those days when you are so forceful with other people that you demand they do just what you tell them, and they will lash out at you from sheer exasperation. Be quietly magnetic instead, and they will feel it is their doing.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A secret admirer could keep you so stirred up today that you would lash out at innocent persons and thereby lose much prestige and support you need. Maintain fine self-control and be especially polite, particularly with kin. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A good comrade feels that he or she knows your problems and how to solve them better than you do, and gives advice until you are ready to explode. Remain calm, for the intentions are good. Be polite and objective.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Be sure your important bills are paid, or some executive may suddenly put on the pressure. And be especially sure you are protected where your position or job is concerned.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Today's constructive activities could today be sadly curtailed if you waste too much time with one of vastly different background and experience than your own. Be steadfast and make this a very productive day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Instead of trying to iron out any differences with authorities or close intimate tie, centre your attention on work and furthering your career. Deep thought and right action now will make your future happier.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A scheming higher up today endeavors to make things difficult for you so that your associate will play right into his or her hand, but do not fall for this scheme. Give partner praise and see that financial affairs are in order.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While new and more lucrative outlets are at hand, you must not perhaps your present tasks in a slipshod fashion. Take pains with your work and you will have time to delve into the new with equal serenity and thoroughness.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You must think of a more ideal way to get pleasure out of life, and to get more of it, since endeavors to please others for your own good. P. M. be very devoted to loved one and more generous. Definite better relations quietly.

If your child is born today ... The interesting child born today is the type who feels that by fighting and shouting his or her way through life the rewards are bigger and faster to attain. Teach early the importance of harmony with others, so that the life may be longer and richer. Get your child into sports early so that the excess energy can be channeled properly and fair play can be learned early. The troublemaker is here.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

This is the big week in the year for the officers and crew of the Quinte — Inspection day is this Thursday. The first or formal part of the ceremony is to be held at the Armories starting at 7.30 p.m. This portion will consist of the inspection parade, the march past, the precision drill squad display, and a target shooting demonstration on the range.

Following this the corps will march to the barracks to put on the various demonstrations and classes in seamanship. Included in this part of the agenda will be a class in bends and hitches, a communications display, a sailpast for the inspecting officer, a cutter sailing display, and an attempt to transport a cadet from the barracks across the harbor to the Yacht Club jetty via a breeches buoy.

PUBLIC INVITED

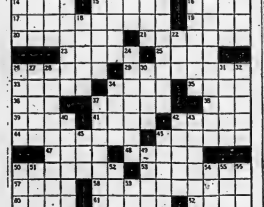
The general public are invited to attend and watch either or both parts of the inspection as the guests of the officers and crew.

Last Tuesday's parade included the precision squad practice and the drill practice for the inspection. A shooting match was also held between seven of the Quinte's marksmen and an equal squad from the local Royal Canadian Air Cadet Corps. The guests won the shoot quite handily with a lead of almost 30 points.

This Sunday there was dinghy and cutter crew practice and rehearsal for the inspection. After the inspection the Sunday afternoons will be open for sailing for any members of the Quinte's crew who wish to do so in a craft with a qualified coxswain.

SPECIAL TRAINING

Senior hands will have the opportunity of sailing on the yawl "Mistral" under the instruction of the owner Mr. Don Adamson. This craft has a 27 - foot length and a 9'6" beam and will provide a level of training which has not been open to cadets previously.



Last Thursday's parade saw the awarding of badges and certificates to those cadets who had successfully written their Able Cadet examinations in April. The Marksmen badges will be presented at the inspection by the inspecting officer.

Tonight there will be a full scale rehearsal of the inspection procedure to iron out any 'kinks' which might occur. The "Quinte" is determined to put forth her best effort for the inspection.

Army Of Jobless Drops By 80,000 In April Boom

126,000 More Have Jobs Than a Year Earlier

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment in April stepped up at a faster-than-usual pace while the jobless dropped off by 80,000 in the month.

The government reported today that at April 18 there were 445,000 unemployed compared with 525,000 a month earlier and 3,664,000 with jobs against 5,532,000 in March.

It was the third successive month of rising employment for Canada since the seasonal low of the winter high of 538,000 in January.

The post-war peak of unemployment was 507,000 in March of last year. The April unemployment figure for this year was 77,000 below that level.

Those with jobs in April numbered 127,000 more than a year earlier.

Besides these bureau of statistics estimates, the government released figures showing that at April 18 there were 733,729 persons registered for work with National Employment Service compared with 809,000 a month previous month and 811,719 a year earlier.

The employment service figures are considered a more reliable indication of persons changing from job to job. The bureau estimates are based on a sample sampling of 30,000 households.

"SIGNIFICANT" INCREASE

The government described the increase in employment between mid-March and April as "significantly greater" than the normal improvement for this time of year.

Besides these bureau of statistics April, the government reported 22,000 on temporary layoff compared with 29,000 a month earlier and 32,000 at the same time last year.

The largest part of the rise in unemployment began early this year with a corresponding early rise in farm employment. Those at work on farms in April were 30,000 fewer than in April, 1958, reflecting a year-to-year downward trend.

The government unemployment was lower than the previous year in practically all local areas.

The April unemployed represented 7.3 per cent of a national labor force of 6,089,000 for the month before, it was 8.6 per cent from 6,059,000. In April of 1958, it was 8.6 per cent of 6,059,000.

Unemployment in Ontario totalled 158,000 in April.

In employment, Ontario had 1,800,000 at April 18, from March 31,000 from April, 1958.

The government said employment registrations in April for Ontario with those for last March and April a year ago (brackets) the 209,166 (220,734—226,959).

Bill to Double Veterans' Loans Is Introduced

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to more than double the loans available to war veterans to enlarge their farm holdings and equipment was introduced in the Commons Tuesday.

Veterans Minister Brooks said in bringing in the amendments to the Veterans Land Act that the provision of greater credit to farmer-veterans has become necessary with the growing importance of developing economically-sound family farm units.

The maximum amendment he said, will increase to $29,000 from the present $9,000 the maximum loan available to non-veteran-farmers. The repayment period will be lengthened to 30 years from 25.

This larger loan should enable a full-time veteran-farmer, well established under the Veterans Land Act who has the enterprise to one of sound economic proportions, which is beyond the present capacity of the act," Mr. Brooks said.

The amendments were welcomed by both Liberal and CCF spokesmen.

Mr. Brooks said the amendments also will extend the purposes for which the funds may be used, to include purchase of livestock and equipment and refinancing of existing indebtedness. The rate of loan to security is to be raised to 75 per cent from 66 2-3 per cent.

Loans to part-time farmers and commercial fishermen will be boosted to a maximum $10,000 from $6,000 provided that for $3,000 of the loan the veteran puts up cash for every $1 loaned. Previously he had to put up $1 for every $3 loaned on $1,400 of the total loan available under the VLA.

"The need for this increase is shown when one considers the increase in cost of construction and equipment," Mr. Brooks said.

Oshawa Woman Will Be Charged In Man's Death

GENERAL STRIKE THREAT BY HOFFA IRKS SENATOR

Teamster Head Hits At Anti-Trust Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate racketeering committee urged today that Congress ignore Teamsters Union boss Hoffa's threat to call a general strike in the United States if labor organizations are subjected to anti-trust laws.

Democratic Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas said he will introduce soon a bill to apply the anti-trust laws to transportation unions. He gave no further details. Anti-trust laws have been aimed at the big and at monopolies in business and industry.

OVER EXPIRY DATE

Hoffa, president of the teamsters union, said Tuesday that organized labor's answer to anti-legislation should be to have all collective-bargaining contracts expire on the same date, and then strike.

This was call a primary strike all across the nation that will straighten out the employers and put them in their Hoffa said.

Hoffa has been working to organize labor's answer to various transportation unions — including his teamsters—and longshoremen and other unions. He spoke Tuesday at a district convention of the International Longshoremen's Association but indicated he was suggesting a strike by all labor unions.

The suggestion was quickly rejected by AFL-CIO President George Meany, who served notice Hoffa could-not count on support from the AFL-CIO federation, 12,750,000 members. The AFL-CIO has expelled the teamsters on charges of corruption.

"CRAZY" PROPOSAL

The government described the increase in employment between mid-March and April as "significantly greater" than the normal improvement for this time of year.

Besides these bureau of statistics April, the government reported 22,000 on temporary layoff compared with 29,000 a month earlier and 32,000 at the same time last year.

The largest part of the rise in unemployment began early this year with a corresponding early rise in farm employment. Those at work on farms in April were 30,000 fewer than in April, 1958, reflecting a year-to-year downward trend.

The government unemployment was lower than the previous year in practically all local areas.

The April unemployed represented 7.3 per cent of a national labor force of 6,089,000 for the month before, it was 8.6 per cent from 6,059,000. In April of 1958, it was 8.6 per cent of 6,059,000.

Unemployment in Ontario totalled 158,000 in April.

In employment, Ontario had 1,800,000 at April 18, from March 31,000 from April, 1958.

The government said employment registrations in April for Ontario with those for last March and April a year ago (brackets) the 209,166 (220,734—226,959).

Premier Answers Criticism, Election Campaign Warms Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Frost hit back at his critics Tuesday when the two opposition leaders reached for new issues to freshen their campaigns three weeks from the eve of Ontario's June 11 election.

The premier said he had been accused of "hypocrisy" and "political thievery" and didn't intend to take the accusations go unanswered.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald had charged him with hypocrisy in saying the government did not plan to enter government - sponsored functions. Mr. Frost said, in a rule against using taxpayers' money to provide liquor for any government event but said it was in force 30 years.

If the government served liquor, he said, "the bills for entertainment would be astronomical."

Liberal Leader John Winter-field's charge that Mr. Frost had stolen 11 planks from the Liberal platform drew a humorous rejoinder from the premier.

"They say I stole 11 planks from them," he told Kingston. That's quite a lot of lumber—a pile that I hadn't seen until a couple of weeks ago."

Mr. Frost waved a copy of his May 4 election manifesto and declared all the ideas he was accused of stealing from the Liberals were contained in that document, released prior to the Liberal leader's announcement of his election program.

The premier made his remarks during a tour of Grey, Wellington and Huron counties which included speeches at Mount Forest, Guelph and Kingston.

Mr. Wintermeyer spent the day in the western area along the St. Lawrence River, stopping at Cornwall, Brockville, Morrisburg, Prescott and Kingston.

At Cornwall he said the Frost Conservatives are guilty of "bad planning and a lack of foresight" in its failure to prepare facilities for the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

The Liberal leader said the province had taken no action towards providing docks and warehousing facilities for increased traffic along the Great Lakes and the new industry at Massena, across the river in New York state, was an example

Two Barns in Cobourg Area Hit By Bolts, Heavy Damage

TORONTO (CP) — Hail shattered more than 8,000 panes of glass in greenhouses owned by four brothers from Nashville, 20 miles northeast of here, Tuesday night.

Howard, Harvey, Robert and John Burbidge estimated the damage at $15,000, including loss of tomato crops and the shattering property.

Pierre Lorms also swept through farmlands near Cobourg, 55 miles east of Oshawa. Two barns northeast of here, Tuesday night and destroyed by fire. Damage was estimated at $22,000.

Heavy rains lashed much of Southern Ontario Tuesday. Torrential downpours whipped farming areas near Guelph, 45 miles west of Toronto, and Alliston, 30 miles northwest of Toronto. A barn was destroyed and a house and three cars damaged.

Residents at Ostic, a village 15 miles northwest of Guelph, said a tunnel-shaped cloud dipped from the sky Tuesday and hovered briefly from two barns on a farm.

Uses Prospects of Summit Meet as Bargaining Bait

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

State Secretary Christian Herter is due to leave Washington today on the first leg of a journey to Europe from Geneva which told how Herter explained to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in a blunt way that President Eisenhower will not go away from a summit conference unless the foreign ministers' talks go in the first.

It wasn't the first warning. Herter told Gromyko Tuesday in effect that the U.S. view was tougher than the first.

The view is widely held in the U.S. that Khrushchev not only wants a summit conference but also wants it to be held on American soil—possibly at San Francisco, or perhaps at the United Nations headquarters in New York.

The possibility of such a meeting conjures in uneasy minds of the U.S. the re-enabled Khrushchev staging a sort of harmonizing meeting with the free world in the U.S., making propaganda in his rough-and-ready way.

Khrushchev is said to have been impressed with the performance of his deputy, Anastas Mikoyan, who visited the U.S. last year and made numerous friendly speeches in many parts of the country. It is thought that Khrushchev may well believe he can do as well himself as can Nikita can do better.

The Russian premier, by visiting the U.S. with all the official recognition due to a chief of government, could also deal a heartbreaking blow to those peoples of the Communist satellite countries who look to the U.S. for eventual hope.

The summit question, of course, is only one of the many angles in the thrust - and - parry of the

If Whitby decides to make the trip it will have to pay the cost of the tour except $1,000 voted by the association to provide the team with new uniforms.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Queen and President Eisenhower will formally open the St. Lawrence Seaway at a half-hour ceremony on the morning of Friday, June 26.

The royal yacht Britannia will bring the Queen and president then will pass through a special ceremonial gateway at the entrance to St. Lambert lock opposite Montreal, marking the formal opening of the water way which has been in use for 1959 navigation.

More than 50,000 people, including 5,000 official guests, are expected to attend the ceremony on a 300-acre park on the south shore to the St. Lambert Lock, gateway to the seven new locks and canals of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

Lionel Chevrier, administrator of the American St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, will present a similar book to President Eisenhower and request that the seaway be declared open.

The Queen and the president will then hear brief addresses.

The formalities, starting at 11 a.m., are expected to take about 30 minutes.

The Queen and president, accompanied by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, then will board the Britannia for the first cruise through the seaway to the lower Beauharnois lock. The royal yacht will be escorted by the U.S. destroyer Forrest Sherman, the Canadian Frigate Ulster, and the Canadian destroyer escort Chaleur.

The day's activities will start at 9:15 a.m. when the Queen and president fly from Ottawa's Uplands airport, berthed at Montreal's Dorval airport and then by RCAF station St. Hubert to meet the president and Mrs. Eisenhower.

The presidential party Columbine III is scheduled to arrive at 10:46 a.m.

Commons Seeks Facts on Balance Of CBC Politics

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons broadcasting committee has called for a detailed accounting on the political balance of CBC public affairs programs and news commentaries.

The corporation also has been asked to produce figures on the amount of commercial broadcast revenues for some of its television programs—a move to which CBC already has objected.

Both requests were made Tuesday by Progressive Conservative MPs on the committee, which questioned CBC President A. Davidson Dunton, President E. L. Bushnell, and Charles Jennings, CBC controller of programs.

CBC RELUCTANT

Last week Mr. Bushnell told committee members the publicity-conscious corporation does not want to disclose the financing of various programs because of competition among sponsors.

However, committee chairman Ernest Halpenny (PC—London) said Tuesday the committee's steering group has decided that the CBC will be asked for figures covering 10 hour and half-hour evening TV shows, which will not be identified.

After criticism of political balance of certain CBC programs, Mr. Jennings agreed to supply the committee with persons appear on news commentaries, public affairs talks and panel discussions.

ROUGH SLEDDING PROMISED FOR ENERGY BOARD

Green Wants Bill Put Through Fast

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal party spokesmen have indicated that the proposed legislation for a national energy board will meet rough sledding if the government tries to hurry it through Parliament.

Liberal members "will have to consider very carefully the attitude we take to this bill in view of the House leader's position," Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) told Works Minister Green Tuesday.

"This is an outrageous way to treat the House of Commons," said J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate).

Both were commenting on the refusal of Mr. Green, government House leader, to let the bailey national energy board bill be held over until next week. They said the bill should still take a lot of study.

STRESSES URGENCY

It was introduced Tuesday and Mr. Green said it is matter of urgency to get it through. Accordingly, second reading approval in principle—was scheduled for today.

On first reading of the bill, Opposition Leader Argue said the government has surrendered to the "Texas buccaneers and the oil and gas lobby of this country."

Result of the government legislation, which Mr. Argue said was contrary to recommendations of the royal commission on energy, would be to increase the export profits to pipeline shareholders.

$20,000 CHAIRMAN

The board would regulate and regulate transmission of oil and natural gas and the export of gas and electricity. The board would be a chairman drawing $20,000 a year, with a vice-chairman paid $18,000 and three members $16,000 each.

The cabinet would retain ultimate approval of the board's authority to grant certificates to build pipelines as well as its power over import or export of gas or export of electricity—including prices to be charged.

Director Ready To End Walkout

HAMILTON (CP) — George Burt, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said Tuesday he would be willing to resume the negotiations to end the strike at the Studebaker-Packard Limited plant here if asked by the president of Canadian Studebaker Limited to do so.

Negotiations between the company and Local 525 of the union broke off Wednesday after only a week ago after four months of talks. Next Wednesday will have no notion yet on what kind of a Kingsford-Smith plane will be reached for Berlin that would be acceptable to both the Soviet Union and the West.

Company and union were eight cents apart on proposed wage rates in a new contract. The company offered a wage increase of six cents a year on existing rates running from a minimum of $1.75 to $2.50 an hour, plus eight cents for 30 skilled trades men.

U.S. Control of Canadian Forces' Nuclear Arms Draws Pearson's Fire

OTTAWA (CP) Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson strongly disagrees with government policy to arm Canadian forces with tactical nuclear weapons that will remain under United States control.

He also takes a "pretty dim view" of the proposed development of jet interceptors in Canada with Bomarc anti - aircraft missiles.

Mr. Pearson took sharp issue with government defence policy in these two fields during questioning, Thursday, on the CBC's televised Press Conference program.

The government proposes to arm the Canadian NATO army brigade in Europe with the Lacrosse ground-to-ground missile, and to set up two Bomarc anti-aircraft bases in Canada. Both weapons would have nuclear warheads, arrangement not yet worked out—which would remain under U.S. control.

Mr. Pearson said he still hopes all nuclear weapons, both tactical and strategic, will be abolished. But as long as nuclear tactical weapons are in the hands of Canadian forces, they should be controlled by Canadian authority.

Mr. Pearson indicated the Liberal opposition will make an issue of the Commons of the government's plan for Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles.

He said he is not impressed with the Bomarc's effectiveness, again in contrast to comments by official sources at Arthur A. Stile Air Base, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., East, May 27 and 28.

French, Germans Balk At Start Of Secret Talks

Apply Brakes to U.S. And British Enthusiasm

GENEVA (AP)—West Germany and France were reported today to be putting the brakes on U.S.-British enthusiasm for a prompt opening of secret talks with the Russians over the Berlin crisis and prospects for a summit conference.

Some cautious moves were apparently going on in the Big Four foreign ministers conference concerning the start of secret negotiations.

Foreign Ministers Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Heinrich von Brentano of West Germany appeared less anxious to get into secret talks quickly than their two Western colleagues.

They were said to be taking the line with U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd that, since the Soviet Union created the Berlin crisis, the initiative in ending it be lead in finding a solution.

GREAT CARE NEEDED

Couve de Murville and von Brentano also were reported to secret talks, diplomats said, but insisted the Western Allies must go into such discussions with the greatest care.

The French and Soviet foreign ministers are continuing debate on Germany in the conference but Western diplomats say this talk has reached a dead end of disagreement and is largely unreflective of both sides in continuing to make necessary statements.

Everything that happens inside the conference room is reported immediately by press officers to the delegations.

More than 100 members of delegations and advisers sit in on these meetings. Only about a dozen—probably three from each of the Big Four countries—will attend the secret talks shaping up. Little information about them is expected to emerge from the talks.

EXCLUDE GERMANS

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter and French Premier Maurice Couve de Murville are agreed that both German delegations must be excluded from the secret sessions. West Germany has announced any action that accords more prestige to East Germany, is unacceptable. But West Germany's spokesman said his government would not block the talks if it were sure it is interested primarily in the success of the Geneva negotiations.

The Western ministers want to find out from Foreign Minister Nikita Khrushchev — obviously anxious for summit talks — what Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev considers will be necessary before the crisis in order to reach an agreement to end the crisis of government to meet this summer.

Western diplomats think Khrushchev will not have so much as no notion yet on what kind of a Kingsford-Smith plane will be reached for Berlin that would be acceptable to both the Soviet Union and the West.

Mr. Pearson indicated the Liberal opposition will make an issue of the Commons of the government's plan for Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles.

He said he is not impressed with the Bomarc's effectiveness, again in contrast to comments by official sources at Arthur A. Stile Air Base, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., East, May 27 and 28.

Requests Excise Tax on Autos Be Reduced

OTTAWA (CP)—A substantial reduction in the 7½-per-cent excise tax on automobiles was urged in the Commons Tuesday by Paul Martin, Essex East).

Mr. Martin said the automobile industry has been confronted with "serious unemployment for 18 months. A reduction in excise tax would eliminate the problem but it would greatly alleviate it.

Mr. Martin quoted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as having called, when in opposition, for a substantial reduction or elimination of the "scandalous" excise tax on cars. He had reduced it from 10 to 7½ per cent.

Mr. Martin's comments came during debate of legislation implementing provisions in the April 9 budget raising to 11 from 8 per cent the excise tax on a wide range of commodities.

The Commons gave final approval to the bill, which now goes to the Senate for study.

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista - Twillingate) attacked the bill on grounds that it was "exactly the opposite" of what Mr. Diefenbaker had promised. It increased tobacco taxes, though the prime minister had promised a reduction of these taxes. Describing them as the heaviest of any industry in Canada.

Apply Brakes to Soviet Enthusiasm

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev has told a group of 45 American businessmen he thinks the Geneva foreign ministers conference "will be successful" and declared that Russia is "willing to go a long way to get results."

But in the course of the 70-minute talk Tuesday Khrushchev described the method of German reunification set forth in the Western package plan as "a product of unrealistic thinking which cannot provide a basis for settlement."

Khrushchev said he believes Russia and the United States would "never fight each other" and told the group that Russia would never launch the first rocket against North America.

His remarks were reported by Ralph Renick, vice-president of a Miami television station and president of the Radio - Television News Association, Thomas Fleming, a Florida banker.

Trained People Needed on Farms Kiwanians Told

Farmers must be trained men and women if Canada wishes to continue to get good food and set a good table.

This is what local Kiwanians were told when they had as their guest speaker Mrs. Homer Homen of Corbyville, newly-appointed women's and girls' secretary of the local YMCA.

Miss Homen told her audience rural home and girls must be encouraged to obtain agricultural training and remain on the farms.

"We are low in number since too many are attracted to the city," she said, but added rural young people "want to be good citizens after the Fellowship" convenes in the Fall. Results of the election were as follows:

President — Dr. Russell Dorland, Belleville; vice-president — Mr. Arthur Wyatt, Belleville; treasurer — S/L L. J. Freeman, Middleton Park; secretary — Mrs. A. Ward, Belleville; publicity — Mr. John Haig, Belleville; membership — Mrs. J. G. McEwen, Tweed; religious education — Mrs. C. Allen, Trenton.

"Anything you can do to educate rural young people to further the study of agriculture is time well spent," she concluded, in noting agriculture is today "undergoing rapid changes and the farmer must be a trained specialist in various lines."

SHOW SLIDES

Miss Homen, past president of the Canadian Council of 4-H Clubs and a former Junior Farmers Association of Ontario, and one of four assistants to months' educational travel scholarships to the British Isles last May to study British agricultural methods, showed some of the coloured slides she had taken while on the trip to England, Ireland and Scotland.

"Cuffer" Noakes and Vic Morris, representing the club, were on the scene when told at first the club would not be allowed to join the league.

Both gentlemen spoke to the league officials at length, explaining that this was a junior club and that they had to have a ball play. They assured that the team would not hurt the loop but that the league would and make the grouping a compact one.

A second vote was called and this time the Juniors were in by a 5-4 margin. They will play a full schedule in the group, and will be the only club in the league playoffs. They will also be allowed to play exhibition games with other clubs in the OBA Junior "A" playoffs.

W. Hastings Liberals Told Municipal Affairs Dept. Lax In Checking of City's Books

Although a combination of factors is responsible for the educational error, that resulting in no representation from the area in the Legislature, Provincial West Hastings Liberals from the Ontario College of Education annually. The Conservatives protest that there is an adequate supply of teachers and under Dr. Dunlop "the situation is getting worse and worse and worse," emphasized Dr. Vipond.

The present government pulled power for sixteen years, has yet to meet Mr. Drew's promise that the province would give 50 per cent aid to all the municipalities for educational purposes. In Oshawa only about 22 per cent aid is received from the province, concentrated Dr. Vipond.

Mr. Wintermeyer believes in the basic liberal principles that each man should be given his maximum opportunity to develop and will do his best to implement this principle constituted Dr. Vipond.

HITS HOSPITAL PLAN

Dr. D. C. McVicker criticized the present handling of the hospitalization scheme operated by the provincial government. Forty-two per cent of the cost of this plan is contributed by the federal government. The remainder is paid by the municipalities, the citizens of the province, with the province contributing only the administration costs. In the first three months of operation the provincial government has realized a profit of $5,000,000, stated the Deserontyon physician.

Currently the average citizen cannot get a bed in the hospitals to take advantage of the scheme's diagnostic benefits, he said. Mr. Wintermeyer's policy these benefits would be extended to all patients in the hospitals would relieve the difficulty and personal expense to the ill, declared the speaker in complement some previous remarks by Dr. Vipond.

Turning to the local situation, Dr. McVicker commented that much has been said about the construction of a causeway to join Hallowell and Prince Edward counties at Desoronto but that nothing has been done about it except for the cost estimate to increase each time it is discussed.

There should be a straight provincial grant to students with limited financial means but with good scholastic ability to enable them to obtain university, he declared.

Summing up on the situation Dr. McVicker concluded with the statement that "too much is right in the country."

Le McLaren, candidate for the Liberals in Hastings East, stated that he was doing his best to carry the Liberal banner in that riding although sometimes he was at a disadvantage because "the going was rough." Children can rush around in a shiny new car, while I have to walk about my shoes worn out. He urged those present to work their hardest for the success of the convention and thanked them for the support which he has received.

Due to the failure of the proper advertising requisite for a nomination convention to appear in the local papers, the nomination convention has been postponed to this Friday evening in the Kiwanis Centre so that all delegates, especially those from the more northern part of the riding, could attend. Kenneth Ross was chairman of the meeting.

With which we will never part.
God has you in his keeping,
We have you in our heart.

LYONS. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Lyons, who died only three years ago, May 20th, 1956.

So He did what He thought best;
He came and asked your child,
And whispered "Come and rest."
We cried and asked "Why Father,"
When our hearts were full of pain,
He had gone before we knew it,
And we'll meet again.

Nor even said "Goodbye."
You had gone before we knew it,
And only God knew why.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials did an about-turn today and followed the rest of the stock market lower in quiet morning trading.

Golds, which soared to a seven-year index high Tuesday, were knocked back by profit-taking.

The 11 a.m. volume of 661,000 shares was almost half of Tuesday's 1,105,000 at the same time.

Most industrial changes were fractional but Canadian Vickers bounced ahead 1⅛ to 21½. Canadian Breweries, a strong winner Tuesday, lost ⅜ at 41⅛.

Gold issues ranged to cents among the lower-priced issues. Giant Yellowknife leading at 58. An exception was Cochenour Willans which added 26 cents at $4 in fairly-active trading.

On Tuesday golds marched ahead but the rest of the market's sagged amid moderately-active trading.

Golds, apparently spurred by last week's news that gold bullion on the London market had reached its highest price in five years, climbed $5.54, touching a seven-year high to $6.08 before slipping a bit at the close.

The volume of 3,339,000 shares compared with Friday's 3,374,000.

Most gold issues gained but many settled with small advances, including McIntyre, up 8 at 9½ and Dome, up 1⅜ at 19⅛. Giant Yellowknife was ahead 60 cents at $8.30 but touched $8.60 earlier.

In industrials, Loblaw Inc. added 4 at 158 on a single sale while Canadian Breweries, Steinberg, Electrohome, Dominion Steel and International Paper gained at least 1⅛ points.

Senior base metals lost fractionally. Changes in juniors were small.

Western oils were down in narrow-ranged trading.

Index changes: Industrials off 0.28 at 328.01; golds up 2.54 to 95.08; base metals off .18 to 114.18; western oils off .37 to 129.11.

$3,000 Damage In Flash Fire On Crown Street

TRENTON — A barn containing stored wood hand furniture was completely gutted last night in a flash fire which started from an unknown cause. Damage was estimated at about $2,000 for the furniture and $1,000 for the building.

The gutted building is on Crown Street and it and its contents were owned by Neil Duquette of 53 Crown Street. Mr. Duquette said he carried some insurance on the property.

The fire had apparently gained considerable headway before it was noticed by nearby residents and was a mass of flames when the firemen were called.

The fire fighters laid three lines of hose from the Bickle and hose truck and in less than 30 minutes had the blaze out. They saved a small shack which was right next to the burning building.

A heavy downpour of rain occurred during the height of the blaze and assisted them in putting the fire out. Heavy showers during the night kept the smouldering embers from breaking out in flames again.

Furniture lost in the fire consisted of dressers, tables, ice boxes, and other smaller items. Nothing was saved.

The building had just recently been acquired by Mr. Duquette for use as a storage place and was wired for electric lights.

Resident Pays Fine for Illegal Smelt Fishing

TRENTON — Jack Graham of Trenton, was fined $10 and ordered to pay three dollars in court costs when he appeared before Magistrate F. C. Wills in Magistrate's Court Tuesday afternoon.

Graham had been charged with fishing smelt in the Trent River during a close season. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given the alternative of paying the fine or four days in jail.

Magistrate Wills issued a warrant yesterday against Gordon Douglas, who has been summonsed to appear in court yesterday and had failed to do so. The magistrate said a phone call had been received that Douglas was ill and unable to appear but that it had been contradicted by another call saying the accused was not ill. Magistrate Wills told the police officers to use caution when investigating and that the man must have a doctor's certificate if he is ill.

The charge of careless driving against Henry J. Wilce, of Trenton, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Wills when he brought down a ruling calling it an accident. The magistrate said the possibilities that the front wheel of the car had hit a stone and blown out causing the car to go out of control had been supported by sufficient evidence.

The charge against Wilce arose from an accident on Macmora Street last fall when the car he had been operating turned left off Dundas St. East and onto Macmora St. When the car was opposite the church it had gone out of control, jumped over two curbs, bent a high, way sign, broke off a hydro pole with a street light on it and continued on until it stopped against the front porch of a home and broke off one of the posts supporting the roof of the porch. Extensive damage had been done to the car and it happened when the east side of Macmora St. had been torn up by town crews for the installation of a sewer line.

Police Arrest Local Resident

CAMPBELLFORD — Police here have arrested a local resident following a hit-run accident at the intersection of Bridge Street and Grand Road, on Sunday.

Robert Roland of Raglan St., Campbellford, was making a left turn from Grand Road onto Bridge Street when a car travelling south struck the left rear of the Roland car, causing damage estimated at $150.

Fifteen minutes later, Chief Constable Sam Baird and Constable Clarence Duncalfe spotted a damaged car on Campbell Street, about a block away from the accident and arrested Denton N. Intram, 26, of Inkerman Street, Campbellford. He has been charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident and driving while his ability was impaired. He will appear in court in Campbellford on May 28. Police said the car driven by Ingram was owned by Marguerite Collins of Bridge Street West.

Mrs. Robert Roland, a passenger in her husband's car, received bruises to her left arm and to the back of her head, but did not require medical treatment.

Request to Build New "Y" On East Hill Playgrounds Turned Down By P.S. Board

A request from the Belleville YMCA directors to locate the proposed new "Y" on part of the East Belleville playgrounds has been turned down by members of the Belleville Public School Board.

The request was made to the board Tuesday night at its regular monthly meeting by Alderman Jack Ireland, chairman of the "Y" board of directors. After brief consideration board members advised Mr. Ireland that the board would be unable to enter into any agreement with the YMCA with respect to making playground property available as a site for the new building.

Present for the meeting were chairman Bruce Bishop and vice-chairman Mrs. Dorothy Tugnett, with members William Ireside, Clyde Langabeer, Mrs. Joy Lovelace, George Olsen, Geoffrey Pigott, J. Ritchie, Mac Smith, Dr. J. Russell Scott, John Sproule, William Townson, G. H. Tull and W. A. Whitney.

Resignations were accepted from three teachers, Miss Mary Johnston, now on leave of absence for teaching duties overseas, who has advised that she will not be returning to Belleville; from Mrs. Grace Robinson, Queen Elizabeth School, and Miss Vivian Schaaf of Queen Street School.

The board approved arrangements with the YMCA for evening lessons for grade eight pupils unable to swim where parents have wished the physical action. The program which has been underway for some weeks is a safety measure for the coming summer. About 30 pupils are taking the instruction.

MORE
APPROVE APPOINTMENTS

Teaching appointments were approved for Miss Grace Clarke now attending teachers' college at Peterborough, for Miss Naomi Howe and Miss Marilyn Rutherford, they presently teaching in Peterborough, and for Mrs. Naomi Gowan, from Montreal.

The board extended commendation to public school teachers and to music director Miss Phyllis May for their efforts in preparing and presenting the cantata "Hiawatha," staged in Belleville Collegiate some weeks ago. They expressed the idea, however, that further presentations of the cantata were not desirable.

An interim grant of $75,000 from the Ontario Department of Education has been received by the board which has instructed its supervising principal L. W. Kelly to make application for further interim grants.

As result of the necessary information being held up due to annexation problems, school grants for Belleville are not this year being paid in lump sums and until such information is available interim grants are being paid.

James Ritchie, chairman of the property committee, was authorized to meet Chas. Helmer of Brookside Road with respect to a drainage problem.

School custodians using power mowers will in the future wear safety goggles, this being suggested by the Workmen's Compensation Board following payment of a claim for injury due to a stone being thrown by a mower rotor.

The board has granted a request from the school custodian staff for minor adjustment in salaries for the custodians. The new maximum salary for such men will be $290 per month.

A QUESTIONABLE POLICY

Many people, of all political faiths, will have something less than admiration for the attitude of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, which has ruled that any employee who accepts nomination for a political office will be considered to have resigned.

The plain truth of the matter, though, is that the Association has merely announced publicly a policy which has probably been followed privately by a great many firms.

This is no adequate defence of the policy. Indeed, in one sense it merely serves to make the Association's stand a subject of even greater public concern. It does mean, though, that the Association does not have to bear the brunt of criticism alone, but that it can find what comfort it may from the fact that any blame attached to such a stand must be shared.

The particular incident which resulted in the Association's stand was the intention of F. C. Newton, an alderman at Barrie, to seek the Liberal nomination in Simcoe Centre. He had unsuccessfully contested the last two provincial elections. Mr. Newton is the manager of the district co-operative assembly yard at Barrie. We can appreciate the fact that he could hardly discharge these duties satisfactorily and still serve his riding as its representative at Queen's Park.

We cannot see how the Ontario Hog Producers' Association could have been fairly criticized had it announced that, if elected, Mr. Newton would have to give up his position as manager of the assembly yard. The Association, though, went further than this. Charles McInnes of Iroquois, president of the Association, sent a telegram stating that no officer or employee of the Association could become involved in politics. This, we suggest, is a curtailment of civic rights which could only be justified by special circumstances. Some attempt at justification was made by reference to the fact that the Hog Producers' Association works closely with the provincial government, but much the same could be said of a wide variety of firms and organizations.

A recent editorial in the Toronto Financial Post indicates that some firms are, indeed, taking a similar attitude. The Post refers to criticism of business firms in Manitoba for discouraging their employees from becoming candidates in the provincial election just held there. "The reason cited for this attitude is a reluctance on the part of the public to be associated with any controversy in which an employee becomes involved," said the Post. This reluctance is understandable and we are ready to admit that in some circumstances the participation of employees in politics could prove most embarrassing to a firm. Nevertheless, this attitude displays deplorable timidity. The proper functioning of the democratic system demands some courage and business firms have just as great a duty to display it as have individuals.

The Financial Post says there is another and probably stronger bar to political activity on the part of a senior or executive employee. "This is the fact that his firm has invested considerable money in his training and that "if he's any good at all, it needs his services fulltime."

"This state of affairs," says the Financial Post, "is turning the Canadian Parliament and legislatures into bodies that are less and less representative of the country as a whole." All eleven law-making bodies are dominated by farmers and lawyers with a sprinkling of self-employed. Since farmers and the self-employed are a rapidly dwindling proportion of the working population, the prospect in store seems to be government of the people by lawyers. Lawyers are fine fellows, and a good lawyer gets a pretty broad knowledge of the lives and problems of other Canadians. But this is certainly not representative government as our forefathers envisaged it."

The obstacles an employee must hurdle to enter politics are high enough when a man knows he will be forced to resign from his firm if elected; to compel resignation when he is merely nominated is to heighten the hurdle without any real justification."

One is tempted to say that this is a problem which Prime Minister Diefenbaker might well consider dealing with in his "Bill of Rights" but common sense tells us that such law which can force a firm to refrain from bringing pressure on an employee to stay out of politics.

Come to think of it, maybe there is no reason to worry about this at all. If law offices are the normal place in the country where a tolerant atmosphere towards the other fellow's politics prevails, perhaps the best thing that could happen to the country would be for all its politicians to be lawyers.

A DAD KNOWS SYMPTOMS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

She hasn't any appetite,
She doesn't seem to want to eat;
She'll pick up this and take a bite
Of that and straightway leave her seat.
Mother would call the doctor in
To learn what makes her act that way
But I just look at her and grin
And say "Let's wait another day."

She mopes about the house and sighs,
She doesn't sing and doesn't read;
A dreamy look is in her eyes,
Oh, she is plainly off her feed.
Mother is certain she is ill
But I'm sure that isn't so.
She needs not powder, dope or pill;
She's merely quarreled with her beau.

Shrimp Lead Fish Harvest

National Geographic Bulletin

Uniting States commercial fishermen landed a record 380 million dollar catch last year, and the succulent shrimp again wriggled out in front as the most valuable part of the ocean's bounty.

Trawlers in 1958 pulled up 213 million pounds of shrimp worth some $74,500,000 — far more than the lobsters and salmon and tuna, the next most valuable fish. To meet the growing demand for shrimp, 133 million pounds were imported from other lands, including Mexico, Greenland, India, Japan, Egypt and Spain.

During World War I, shrimpers dragged over the muddy bottoms of shallow bays and beach seines. Between 1912 and 1915, the otter-board trawl was developed, and more than 100 feet wide with large wooden doors set as far as two miles apart. Even so, it failed to hold it open.

Shrimping suddenly became highly profitable only a few men could handle the trawl in deeper water. Then, as the larger vessels lit up the new Tortugas gas buoys, the fishing was indeed with excited men; the docks could barely handle the catches of cars, kicks and incoming shrimp."

Florida keys.

Clarence E. Idyll, professor of marine biology at the marine laboratory of the University of Miami, described the gold rush atmosphere:

"Within a few weeks some 400 vessels lit up the new Tortugas gas buoys, with excited men;

Buses Need Second Brake

Toronto Star

"Parody was exerted near Barrie when the driver manoeuvred his careening school bus into the ditch to avoid the Simcoe. None of the 34 high school students was killed or even injured. But where was the second brake, to stop the bus when the first set failed?

The fact is that the bus has no second brake capable of stopping the speeding, heavy vehicle. No buses or trucks do. Somehow, it is not required to have one. True, they are supposed to have a second brake, and the motor vehicles act lays down certain orders as to what shall be sufficient brakes for vehicles within a proper distance." Further, the law and regulations are to be so constructed that if either failed, the vehicle should still have sufficient brakes to halt the wheels.

That regulation predated hydraulic brakes, power brakes and air brakes. As these came along, the second brake became in fact a parking brake, incapable of stopping the moving truck or fast, powerful bus. Which the law has long ignored by Detroit car designers. In 1956 it was brought into conformity with manufacturers' specifications.

Does these specifications enough for the public safety? The Barrie episode showed they are not. Buses and trucks today brakes seldom fail, they can fail. The brakes on a great truck-trailer on a crowded highway or in a city street, crowded with passengers, disaster looms.

It is probably impossible to persuade car makers who supply the continent with the enormous fleet of its vehicles must have two complete and independent sets of brakes. But other parts of Canada and the United States must be watched, too. Let them combine to demand that Detroit design cars that can be stopped for sure.

At the least, buses and big trucks should be required to have two adequate braking systems. The law as it stands and vehicle brakes as they are, are insufficient safeguards.

Would Fly By Vacuum

West German Bulletin

Pioneers are not invariably food prophets, and Dr. Eckener of Zeppelin fame, was mistaken when he predicted the end of airships, "warning" against any and all attempts to revive it. The increasing number of blimps hovering in the skies for a variety of purposes would indicate that he was right, the lighter-than-air craft still has a place in the air of this age. Nevertheless, it does not seem likely that large airships will, in the near future, cross oceans and continents as a means of passengers and freight.

When men who had once designed and built airships, like the Zeppelin type recently considered the question, they found after carefully weighing the pros and cons, against re-turnpation of a revival, leaving out the designs for new airships, they reported, would prove a failure. The chief handicap was lack of a suitable gas for modern dirigible. Such expert opinion notwithstanding, there are still people in Germany and elsewhere who work for, the comeback of the rigid airship as a new and effective mode of leisurely travel.

One of these optimists is Dr. Hans Richard Steinbuck, who has submitted to the Reich Air Ministry a blueprint for a remarkable airship.

If the inventor should be successful in carrying his theories into practice he would be instrumental in bringing about a revolution in aerial transportation. Steinbuck's airship does away entirely with the gas bag. Instead, it is to be driven by a powerful engine which will create a vacuum in the hull.

Many interesting ways and means of giving lift to an airship by inexpensive and safe methods have been worked out on a principle in physics which is entirely different from that of tradition; had, apparently, overlooked; the vacuum.

Theoretically, at any rate, it would appear that an enclosed vacuum, being lighter than air, should float, provided, of course, that the weight of the craft is less than the size of the vacuum and the weight of its walls, were nicely balanced.

Railroading Will Change

St. Thomas Times-Journal

President Donald Gordon of the Canadian National Railways informed the House of Commons Railway Committee that "the era of crewless trains is at hand." He told the committee that experiments along that line are being carried out along the Quebec north shore, and that "it would not be too long before specialized services would be in operation on a completely automated system."

As head of a railroad that is losing money at the rate of nearly $1,000,000 a week it is the business of Mr. Gordon and his staff of experts to try to reduce that deficit by every means at their disposal. Automation is the order of the day in every industry. It is just a new name for a process that is decades old, but that at any time since the invention of the steam engine.

Having regard to the fight the railroad brotherhoods put up against the removal of firemen, due to the advent of the Diesel engine, it seems not unlikely that the brotherhoods will fight the crewless trains with the utmost of their strength. Industrial history is one long succession of instances of labor fights which more or less displaced workers, but in spite of that, left more people working everywhere — men and women — than ever before. The new devices themselves create jobs in the making of them.

The era of the completely automated train is no doubt a long way off, but men seeking jobs today or in the near future should ask themselves what the prospects of lifelong employment on the railroads are.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The curious truth is that while tens of thousands of people are now going into the wilds for recreation for every hundred who went as recently as twenty-five years ago, they are actually not going into the wilds at all. Despite them all their motor cars, outboard engines, gasoline stoves and other appurtenances of roughing it in the bush, and tens of thousands of them would be right lost.

Some weeks ago, the Packsack referred to the possibility that our statesmen are not talking through their hats when they mention nuclear war and the spectacle of millions of people being compelled to live all their lives in search of survival, bereft of all civilized means of survival. A considerable number of readers have come to the Packsack asking that the rules of basic bush craft from which might be learned the elementary principles of surviving in non-civilized communities. There are several classics, such as Horace Kephart's "Camping and Woodcraft" published years ago before there was any notion of necessity. Then there is the late Stewart Paul Provencher's "I Live in the Forests" and also "Forest Primeval" by Ralph Connor.

That year there was published "The New Way of the Wilderness" by Calvin Rutstrum, a wilderness camper famed all through the middle-west States for his canoeing and camping expeditions and his teaching ability in this field. His new book with the sub-title "Modern Bushcraft" is unique in that it is both comprehensible and interesting even to the rankest of city slickers.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE OLD ROAD

Irene Carlisle, a contemporary poet, has written:

Somehow an old road never quite goes back
To wilderness or woods or meadow grass.

When once men have made a highway through a forest or wilderness that highway will forever after be discernible. It was a mystery for generations how the Druids had erected their temple of huge stones called Stonehenge. But when airplanes came to photograph it from the air, which these ancient worshippers had dragged the huge stones were plainly visible from the air. As long as the world lasts these "tracks" will probably remain.

You and I were put into the world to make our own highways. They may not be wide, four-lane roads, maybe only narrow little paths. But they will be ours. The faithful woman is a Kentucky mountain girl who taught Abraham Lincoln, how to read was a trail blazer. "Four-score and seven years ago ..." These are her words as well as his.

The most important roads we make are the ones through our nervous system by our decisions and deeds. Best is a little pathway, then a well marked road, then a double.

"Somehow an old road never quite goes back."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

YOU HAVE TO OUTWIT CHILD FOOD-FUSSERS

Four letters on my desk deal with feeding problems in children, used in the bracket from 18 months to two years. A fair sample is from a grandmother who writes, "She (the baby, 21 months old) doesn't respond to food. She can't even put table food near her lips. Is this unusual? Or can something be done? She drinks about three eight-ounce bottles of milk a day. In two of them, my daughter breaks and beats up an egg."

The idea of the egg is fine; I'd presume you also add some vitamins. Evidently the youngster is getting enough to eat. The question remains whether it is balanced diet, and whether the child isn't getting into a habit that will be a nuisance in lots of ways.

However, this sort of food fussing isn't too unusual. The accepted idea of bottle-sucking is inherent in a baby. Solid food has a different consistency and is different taste. The baby's first reaction is to spit it out. The baby also soon learns to recognize when this solid food is coming, and a smart child has only to fuss at the first sign, Mother gets irritated. And the wrangle is on.

I don't want to stand up in the town meeting and proclaim that I have the answer for everything, but there is a groove in baby feeding that giving solids (or anyway mushy foods) should start at around seven months, and some mothers try it sooner although I'm not sold on that idea. Some, early an age.

The little ones, however, are more apt to take what is given to them than are the children who are a little older. At a strong-willed child can make little trouble minutes if mothers are great imitators. A baby does not like anything new or thing different, and the baby wants it, too.

SMALL AMOUNTS FIRST

Once the trouble has started, however, the best solution I know is to feed small amounts of gravy, thick soup, or foods like applesauce, junket, gelatin, etc. A couple of teaspoonfuls, at first, is enough to indicate that you'll succeed. Gradually increase the amounts and the thickness of the foods. Oh, there will be setbacks, naturally, but eventually the child will succumb to your tricks.

Also keep alive for flavors that appeal to a youngster: A little sweetening or vanilla or some such.

Two recent observations will interest you. For one, a 6-year-old raised the roof in the hospital because even at that age he was still insisting on nothing but liquids. The hospital dietitian stood her ground and worked with the child for several days. She didn't get mad, but she was determined as she was calm. By the time the child was ready to go home, he was chewing meat and liking it.

Calmness is a big part of the technique. A child is quick to recognize anxiety or nervousness, and react in kind.

The other observation I want to offer was a visit from a young relatives — nine months old, to be precise. He was on scrambled eggs, and chopped meats, and all the solids that were given to him. And he's fat and happy.

So don't put off solid (or mushy or strained, or chopped) foods too long. What is accepted as progress in one year is old 6 months may bring rebellion at 18 months.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could you tell me what harm there is, if any, in a two-year-old mother who still nurses (breast feeds) her year-and-a-half son?"

No harm to her, but I think it's high time the youngster be on to progress to a more advanced diet. The harm is to him.

Note to Mrs. Of course it is possible for a girl to become pregnant because of just one sexual step. But I'm sure of who drinks until she passes out certainly knew that she shouldn't have been drinking at all!

Canadian PLACE NAMES

MONTREAL, QUEBEC

From the date of its founding, May 17, 1642.

Montreal was known as "Ville-Marie." But the name was changed to Montreal in 1726. Historians do not agree on the origin, but all agree that it was bestowed by Jacques Cartier, who claim it was given to honor Cardinal de Medici, whose birthplace was Montreal, in Sicily, who had obtained for the King of France certain favors from Pope Clement VII. Others say that Cartier called to honor Claude de Pontbriand, Seigneur of Montreal, whose personal and distinctive name was "Montreal," and whose family sat, according to documents of the time, over the name of Mont Real or Montreal.

Added Duties Piled on Mayor As City Temporarily Without Services of City Manager

Operating temporarily without the services of a city manager is resulting in added duties for Mayor Gerald R. Hyde and council with result that all business scheduled for last night's committee meeting was not completed and a second meeting is called for Thursday evening.

Much of the time of last night's meeting was taken up with council considering bids for supplies and other capital cost items while matters pertaining to the city's new zoning by-law for the annexed area were also up for discussion.

The city's "belt tightening" program of closely scrutinizing all capital costs which council felt was advisable in view of the accumulated $102,607 deficit of the arena and McFarland's Hockey Team, saw council going over proposed purchases item by item and at 11 o'clock members called it a day, adjourning proceedings until Thursday evening.

Mayor Gerald Hyde noted that much of last night's work would ordinarily have been handled by the city manager now on suspension pending an investigation in to the city's finances.

One of the major items on which council deferred action for 30 days was the installation of new traffic lights at the corner of College and North Front Streets.

Some weeks ago council approved the tender of Northern Electric for installation of the traffic signals at a cost of approximately $3,200. However, the order for the equipment was held up pending approval for the lights by the highways department.

DEFER ACTION

Then with decision of council to review all items of capital expenditure the matter was again before council last night. Council voted to defer any action for 30 days at which time it will again be before council.

And in connection with the same subject council was in receipt of a letter from the manager of the local branch of General Electric, reminding that their firm had also tendered on the lights installation, their bid being $35 less than the opposition.

They wanted to know in view of this whether it would be worth the company's time and money to bid on future city requirements in this field.

Also last night council learned that it was costing over $3 per telephone call to receive complaints outside of normal working hours.

Some months ago the city set up a complaint department through which all complaints outside of working hours were channelled. Since setting up the service council was advised that about 1,000 complaint calls had been received with the cost for wages for persons receiving the calls being $3,800.

City engineer Malcolm Turnbull wanted to know in view of this whether the service should be continued or whether some other solution to the problem should be worked out.

The engineer was directed to fully investigate all aspects of the matter and make a report to council with recommendation for an alternative measure.

COUNCIL CONCURS

Council concurred in a resolution from the city of Welland calling for the provincial government to be petitioned to take the necessary action by negotiating with the federal government to secure a maximum interest rate of five per cent on temporary bank borrowing.

Concurrence in the resolution coincided with an announcement by Mayor Gerald Hyde that the interest rate at banks had on Tuesday been advanced another one-quarter of one per cent to 5¾ per cent.

Council was advised that the community planning branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development would hold a workshop in Belleville on June 9th and 10th when planning problems concerning Belleville and district would be discussed.

The meetings being held throughout Ontario are to assist rural and urban municipalities facing problems with regard to residential, commercial, industrial and summer cottage development.

No action was taken on a petition from residents in the North Park Street - Orchard Drive area for a sanitary sewer, it being noted that there was no outlet for the sewer and until such time as a sewage plant was constructed the sewer would be of no use.

Council also received a petition from six North Park Street residents for a watermain. Cost of this work, it was estimated by the public utilities, would be $6,873 of which the corporation's share would be $700.

WANT MORE COPIES

The amended zoning by-law for the annexed area was laid over until such time as all council members could be provided with copies of the by-law.

Council carried a recommendation directing the city building inspector to refrain from accepting any applications for building permits on lots in the built pain of extensions of any city street, and also gave approval to a recommendation for the city solicitor to take the necessary action to expropriate land for the extension of Bridge Street East, Victoria Ave. and Pine Street from their present end to the new eastern city limits.

There was a brief discussion whether it would be necessary to extend Pine Street but council voted down an amendment to exclude this street from the recommendation.

Also under discussion by council were recommendations to establish area of sub-division control in the north and west annexed areas and also within the old city limits.

Main aim of sub-division control for there areas would be to prevent owners from selling off parts of their lots for residential construction leaving a frontage of less than 40 feet for their own residence.

The Speaker of the House of Commons

The British North America Act, clause 44, says that the House of Commons, on its first assembly after a General Election, shall proceed with all practicable speed to elect one of its members to be Speaker. He is usually chosen from the majority party but is expected, while he is in the chair, to be above party and to be absolutely fair to all members.

The office of Speaker is a very ancient one, and there are records of the names of Speakers of the English parliament as far back as the year 1258. The office is also a very important one since the Speaker must preside at all meetings and nothing can be done in his absence. His rulings about procedure must be accepted, and his permission to speak must be obtained. Even the Prime Minister must address his remarks to the Speaker. When the Speaker is not in his place, the Mace, the symbol of the power of the Commons, is removed from the table.

Although he presides the Speaker does not ordinarily have a vote. The B.N.A. Act says: Questions arising in the House of Commons shall be decided by a majority of voices other than that of the Speaker, and when the voices are equal, but not otherwise, the Speaker shall have a vote.

In the illustration the Speaker has just been chosen and is declaring his willingness to act. When presiding over a session he wears a black gown and a three-cornered hat.

$2,500 Damage In House Fire

CAMPBELLFORD — The second floor of a two-storey frame home was gutted by fire here Saturday afternoon, causing about $2,500 damage.

The house, owned by Austin Hall of Toronto, is used as a summer home, but the dwelling was unoccupied when the fire broke out. Caretaker Mr. Hall had visited the home on the weekend of May 9, and had returned to Toronto. A neighbor, Ross Fitchett, sitting in the kitchen of his home next door, noticed smoke and flames shooting from the rear of the home and turned the alarm. Firemen battled the flames for about 15 minutes before bringing the fire under control, then continued to fight with three lines of hose before the flames were extinguished.

The fire is believed to have started in the upstairs portion of the house near the rear, but its cause has been established.

Neighbors carried furniture out of the building while firemen battled the blaze, but much of the furnishings in the downstairs portion of the house were damaged by water.

The fire was a difficult one to extinguish, and firemen poured hundreds of gallons of water into the building, while smoke continued to pour from the eaves.

Wedding

DANFORD - McCONNELL

RAWDON — A pretty doublering ceremony was solemnized in Mount Pleasant Rawdon United Church on Saturday, May 16, at 12.30 p.m., when Lois Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McConnell, R.R. 3, Stirling, became the bride of Harry Blake Danford, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Danford of Springbrook.

The church was a picture of springtime beauty with pedestals and baskets of blue, pink gladioli and baby white chrysanthemums. Danford by silver candelabra holding white tapers. The guest pews were designated with white satin bows.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, officiated.

Mrs. Craig Watson, Harold, cousin of the bride, provided traditional organ wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gerald Marquette, Stirling, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ankle-length bridal gown of nylon net over rayon taffeta. A large apron effect of chantilly lace covered the front of the bodice and skirt. The bodice was a fitted basque with a deep peplum of chantilly lace across the back of the skirt, set with seed pearls and sequins. The portrait neckline and long, lily-point sleeves, were also embroidered. The full skirt fell in rows of tiered net over crinoline and a row of tiny pearls from the waistline to the neckline gave a chic effect.

Her elbow-length veil of white nylon tulle illusion was dotted with mother-of-pearl sequins and caught to a chantilly lace headdress studded with iridescent sequins and simulated pearls. She carried a white Bible and a cathedral bouquet of blue roses, white stephanotis and rose buds.

Miss Shirley Beeko, Campbellford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of shrimp rose lace over rayon taffeta with a wide matching satin cummerbund with cascading streamers and carried a nosegay of blue and white flowers, yellow roses and blue satin ribbon.

She wore a matching lace headdress studded with pearls and surrounded with a floral bandeau, and long matching gloves.

The bridesmaids were Miss Judy Rose, Belleville, and Miss Marilyn Danford, R.C.A.F., Stirling. They wore identical gowns of white nylon marquisette over rayon taffeta with wide cummerbunds cascading to the hemline.

Their headdresses were of matching lace studded with simulated pearls and surrounded with floral bandeaux, and with small flowers, and they carried nosegays of white, yellow and blue carnations, rose centres, and matching ribbon.

Miss Barbara Lynn Rutledge, Belleville, was a charming flowergirl in a demure frock of pastel yellow nylon with matching headdress. She carried a dainty nosegay of white carnations and white 'mums.

The bride's youngest brother, Kelly McConnell, was ring bearer, and carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

Mr. Floyd Jenkins was the groomsman. Ushers were Clarence Danford and Stirling McConnell, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gerald Danford, brother of the groom.

A reception followed in the church hall to which the Mount Pleasant W.A. catered.

The bride's mother received in a navy taffeta street-length dress fitted with white lace and drops, ice-blue accessories and a corsage of white 'mums. She was assisted by Mrs. Joe Rutledge, mother wearing a dress of navy lace over taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

The reception hall was decorated with potted ferns and 'mums. The tables were centred with small floral containers of marive 'mums and apple blossom with matching place cards.

The bride's table was centred with a tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom surrounded with pink 'mums. The cake was flanked with pink tulle and the bridal bouquets.

The waitresses were Misses Jean Sine, Marion Broadworth, Judith Crowe, Faye Davis, Gail Jaffe, Grace Heasman, Gail Scott and Mrs. Tom Brooks.

Mr. Ray Sharp, Toronto, was toastmaster and proposed a toast to the bride to which the bridegroom responded. Mr. Floyd Jenkins proposed a toast to the bridesmaids.

For a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara and points around the border, the bride chose a navy nylon cigarette dress with bolero jacket, matching coat, pink and navy accessories, and corsage of white 'mums.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Danford will reside at 36 Hillside Street, Belleville.

Guests attended from Toronto, Belleville, Stirling, Trenton, Campbellford, Hoards' and Stirling.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, and to his attendants, gold cufflinks and tie clips.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was luggage, and to her attendants, jewellery. The ringbearer received a gold signet ring and the flower girl a gold locket.

Previous to her wedding the bride was tendered two miscellaneous showers, one at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Don Rutledge, Belleville, sponsored by the two bridesmaids, and one at Mount Pleasant Church Hall, by the ladies of the Allan School Section. She also received a lovely three-piece buffet set from fellow employees of the Bell Telephone Company, Belleville, where the groom received a gift of an electric appliance from the staff of the John E. Bush Funeral Home, where he is employed.

W.H.A. Told Of Nursing Opportunities

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary, at its recent meeting, was informed of the expanding opportunities open to nurses which, in themselves provide some of the reasons behind the chronic shortage of personnel in this profession. Miss Bennett from Ottawa, Miss Treadwell from Australia, Miss MacPhail from Barrowvail, Miss Armstrong from the Department of Veterans' Affairs, are graduate students at the University of Ottawa, presently taking field work training at the Belleville General Hospital.

PANEL DISCUSSION

They gave a panel discussion of the profession from the private duty bedside nurse to work for the World Health Organization. As advances are made in medicine and surgery there are increased university facilities offered so that the registered nurse may specialize in the field of public health, industrial, railroad, Red Cross, Army, Navy, Air Force nursing. They are trained as consultants for editorial, film, radio, lecture and writing and missionary nurses and technical specialists. Nursing is also expanding to meet the need for administrative heads for hospitals, nurses' education and there is presently a survey in progress which will eventually standardize nursing schools. It is expected the present shortage will undergraded as course may in future become a two-year program with a practical study between. Power programs providing the specialization which is the trend of the times.

BUSINESS MEETING

Previous to the panel discussion a business meeting was held presided over by Mrs. R. Lawrence, president. Minutes reported her attendance at the regular executive meeting of the Ontario Hospital Auxiliary Association held in Toronto. The treasurer, Mrs. Power, read notices in the Ontario Hospital Services Building on St. Clair Avenue.

It was reported that a committee of the auxiliary, composed of Mrs. L. Maraskas, Mrs. L. Smith and Mrs. A. Tuttle, supervised the attractive decorations of the Club Commodore for the occasion following the nurses' graduation on Monday. Mrs. R. Hall, the treasurer, reported a healthy bank balance after the recent purchase of 30 blankets and 6 bassinets for the hospital and $300 in bursary assistance to three student nurses.

SUCCESSFUL MONTH

The Thursday Shop convened by Mrs. F. Beeby, reported a successful month of April with sales and the business in May is slightly better than last year, which was a record all-time high. Periodically, out of season surplus stock at the Opportunity Shop is cleared and recently a 330-pound bale of winter clothing and coats was packed, consisting of Northern Electric Company, and shipped to Toronto for eventual forwarding to Korea. Household articles, as well as kind and seasonal clothing stock for the Opportunity Shop continue to be welcomed by the volunteers working on this important and worthwhile community project.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Last Saturday it was our privilege to join with the local Kinsmites and their guests, sister Kinsmites from other districts, at lunch in Picton. There were three bus-loads and we sat beside a local Kinette who had not been in the Bay of Quinte community long. As we drove along the highway her eyes lighted up. "Why, I've begun to feel like an amateur sailor on a bus tour. Unfortunately, I felt how inadequate was my knowledge. When I was pointing out places of interest, like the old building where boys of an early Quaker school had once studied and frolicked, we discussed the matter of points of interest. Our companion mentioned that fact of greater care being taken before the border and other parts of Canada, where every building and spot of historical interest is clearly marked, defined; and when off the beaten path, directions are given to locate it.

It is a simple matter to show when your companion is not informed but the truth of the matter is, we realized how little we had our knowledge and how it might be increased by such markings. Our guest also emphasized the point by reminding us that, after the Bay of Quinte district is one of the richest in the land when it comes to historical interest. There are, no doubt many, many buildings and locations of equal significance; yet most of us have never heard of them.

Any community is the richer for the new and friendly people who come to live among us and remain permanently. There are quite a few recent comers who belong to the Quinte and the Kinette clubs and we all benefit by the fresh impetus of new ideas and the optimism of young people. They can help us to uproot ourselves from the complacency of habit and familiarity. Also they can shock us off times by making us aware of those things of worth which we fail to see because we are accustomed to our surroundings.

Periodically T & T refers to the diversity and the countless numbers of organizations whose members are voluntary workers in some worthy cause that adds another pebble on the beach ahead of peace. It would be a splendid idea of intense interest if endeavor to find them all and write a history of each. However, since the idea is impossible as can be imagined for most of us, it might be worthwhile to pass along a brief story of a voluntary group we have come to know over the past three years.

Very often we pass along news items from the new bulletin of the Committee of Correspondence in New York City. We spent one of our Sundays in the home of a Committee member and had a delightful session with other members. We listened in amazement as those ladies talked, discussed, reviewed matters of interest to women in all parts of the world. We had all traveled extensively in the interest of peace and so Committee members of their individual projects is to gather information, especially in the areas in New York for a workshop. One year they may come to Ottawa for conference, another year from south-east Asia and so on. Reports of these various workshops have been practical and very beneficial. As a result the Committee publishes its news bulletin which is also the result of extensive and intensive research and study. The May edition, for instance, reviews the development of vocational training for girls all over the country. This splendid bulletin has grown in stature to such an extent that it is now translated into Arabic and Spanish. It is planned to translate it first into French as a movie studio was "fascinating."

NOT A "HUSH"-SO GIVE GIFTS FOR SECOND WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beecksmar:

I am a widow, in my middle-forties, and I'm going to remarry in about three months. We are to be married in the church to which we both belong, and have a small reception following the ceremony. I would like to invite a quite a few relatives and friends to the ceremony and reception, but, since most of them were invited to my first wedding, and gave me wedding presents at that time, I somehow hesitate to invite them to my second wedding, fearing that they would feel obliged to give me wedding presents at this time. However, I'm devoted to all of them, and certainly wouldn't want to hurt their feelings by not inviting them and showing I want them with me at my wedding. What would you advise I do? — Reader

I advise you, most definitely, to invite to your wedding the relatives and friends whom you would like to have with you at your wedding. Naturally they would be disappointed, hurt, if you didn't. And since it is not at all a "must" to give a present for a second marriage, don't worry about their feeling an obligation to give you a wedding present. Let them decide this and do as they wish. To them, I am sure, your inviting them will be the really important thing.

HER SISTER'S WEDDING ATTENDANT 30 YEARS AGO AND AGAIN NOW

Dear Mrs. Beecksmar:

Fifty years ago I had the honor and happiness of being maid of honor for my sister. She and her husband will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary next month. They are to have a Supper at 6 o'clock in the morning.

(1) My sister is to wear a dinner gown. What color would be appropriate for me to wear? What about ice-blue or navy-blue?

(2) Also what kind of present would be proper for me to give them?

(3) Are there any other obligations I have concerning this occasion? — M. M.

(1) Since you mention navy-blue, I shall make this suggestion. Why not have your dress in this color, and then you can wear it on other occasions, too. Ice-blue is a color that is not always becoming to you. If so, I think it would undoubtedly be an excellent shade for you to choose. As a matter of fact, this dark, rich shade of blue is becoming to a majority of women, which accounts for its popularity. Ice-blue would, I think, be too light a shade, perhaps not enough of a contrast to the beige of your sister's dress.

(2) The present you give for this important Anniversary should be a something suitable for both, an article that both will welcome. Today it usually isn't an article of gold, as it always was formerly. It might be, for example, a particularly comfortable chair, or, most happily, a pair of chairs; or one of the excellent lamps of today, with lighting designed especially for the place where light is most needed, a desk used by both, a floor-lamp, a lamp for an end-table, or a pair of lamps for a pair of end-tables; a supply of letter-paper, printed with names and address, for general utility use; a double-photograph frame; a radio of a special kind; records; a television set.

As a bow to the "Golden Anniversary," you should, if possible, package your present in gold-colored wrapping-paper, heavy metallic paper if you wish, and use gold-colored ribbon or twine, and use gold-colored ink for writing your message on the enclosed card.

(3) Talk over with your sister your wish to be of help in the plans for this occasion, and ask her to make suggestions. She may, for example, like to have you take over the responsibility of the Guest Book (gold-colored binder) for the occasion, being sure that everyone signs.

Club Activities

WALLBRIDGE 4-H GIRLS' CLUB

Wallbridge Girl's 4-H Club (No. 3) held its second meeting in the school on May 9th with the president, Nancy Phillips, presiding.

The name "Tidyettes" was chosen for the club. Further discussion took place on clothes-storage and garment covers, the girls are to bring materials for covers to the next meeting.

The next meeting is to be May 27th at 7.30 p.m., in the school.

Marilyn J. — She should break clean.

Doris P. — I can't live with or without him.

* * *

Marilyn J. — I have been trying to help my sister, who is a very unhappy woman because of an unfortunate marriage.

Doris is now 35. She was married at 20 to a man with no ambition and no desire to raise a family. George has a very poorly paid civil service job and refuses to do anything to advance himself although he has the education and ability. Unless Doris works their standard of living is very low.

Two years ago, Doris decided she had taken enough and got herself a divorce and set up a new home. A year later she started seeing George again and they have been keeping steady company. She visits for him and takes care of his laundry although they keep their separate residences. I feel that she must break clean if she wants to save the rest of her life.

* * *

Doris T. — I know that what Marilyn says is true, but it is easy to say things and not so easy to do things.

I was in love with George when I married him and I have never stopped loving him. I know he must seem like a terrible person to an outsider, but he is really very sweet and good and has tried in his own way to make me happy. He even favored the divorce because he thought I'd be happier without him.

But when I started to set up my new life, I realized how important George was to me. It is not easy for a woman of my age to meet eligible men — and those who were eligible were nowhere near as good as George in so many ways that mean a lot to me. Yet I'm afraid that we'll be unhappy as ever if we marry again. It seems I can't live with or without him.

The Council: It is not true that Doris "can't" live without George. As long as she tells herself this she will live in misery and turmoil. The fact is that she must live either with or without him, and once she has made a clear-cut decision and followed through with it, her suffering will be alleviated if not ended.

It hurts to make a decision because every decision involves a sacrifice. But surely a brief, sharp pain is preferable to the protracted anguish of indecision. Once the decision has been made Doris will be free to build a better life along whatever path she chooses.

On one hand, there is the relationship with George — childless and narrow — but undoubtedly strong and warm with the closeness of 13 years of married life behind it. Such a marriage has tremendous difficulties, but it is not necessarily hopeless.

Doris should recognize that she will have to do something to bolster some of the weak spots of marriage to George. She should for example, connect herself strongly with children in either a job or volunteer work in order to satisfy some of her maternal instincts. She should also try to cultivate good friends and vital interests that take up her excess time and energy and draw her beyond the narrow life with her husband. She should create goals for herself so that she'll always have something to look forward to and a sense of achievement when she gets there.

On the other hand, there is the possibility of a new life with a second husband and possibly the fulfilment of family life. This calls for courage. It isn't easy for a long-married woman to throw herself into the cold waters of the husband-hunting sea. It is particularly hard if land and safety are not far — in the person of George. But the dangerous journey may bring a richer return.

Nobody can tell Doris which is the right decision. But she must make one — and the sooner the better.

Salads With Glistening And Luscious Colorful Contrasts

by Mary Moore

My huge antique wooden butter bowl travels.

Because it will hold enough salad to serve 25 or 30, I'm forever offering to "bring the salad".

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Party Hamburgers with Tabasco Barbecue Relish (see Tuesday); Boston Baked Beans; Old-Fashioned Cole Slaw; Coffee Ice Cream with Shredded Brazil Nuts; Little Cookies; Coffee.

Yesterday I made the salad for the 25th Reunion of 15 nurses from St. Joseph's Hospital because my secretary Lillian is one of them.

It was so good I am giving you my method but today's amount serves only 8.

TOSSED SPRING SALAD:

(For $1.00 I bought a razor-sharp simple cabbage shredder. I wear a glove when I shred cabbage on it because when I hurry I'm careless and cut myself.)

Cut a medium-small cabbage in halves and shred it as finely as possible. Add 1-2 cup finely chopped parsley, 6 radishes sliced paper-thin, 1 green onion finely chopped, 1 very finely grated small carrot, 1-2 teaspoon salad seasoning ("Lift"), 1-4 cup super sweet-type French Dressing and Italian French dressing. Mix very well. Garnish top at centre with thinly sliced radishes and border these with finely chopped parsley. Around outside edge arrange an overlapping border of tomato and cucumber or avocado slices. This eaten down to the last shred — even by the usual salad shunners.

Today's next offering is a fruit salad from fruits available to lucky us at all Canadian supermarkets.

INDIVIDUAL SPRING FRUIT SALADS:

These were for dessert with those crispy Bread Sticks for which I gave the recipe a couple of weeks ago.

To serve 4, have ready 4 drained canned pineapple slices, 1 or 2 oranges, sectioned (no membrane), 1 grapefruit sectioned (no membranes), 4 large juicy prunes, each stuffed with a little ball of white cream cheese, 12 perfect large strawberries, 4 drained canned pear halves, each filled with buttered ball of nippy cream cheese, sufficient well-cupped lettuce leaves well-dried for the base for salads.

Now to arrange each salad, put pineapple ring at centre with stuffed prune in the hole. Place cheese-filled pear outside the lettuce cup. Surround the pineapple with alternate sections of orange and grapefruit. Flank outside edge of pear with 6 halves of strawberries, edges touching. Picture pretty. Pass.

FRUIT CREAM DRESSING:

One-quarter cup pineapple syrup (from canned pineapple), 1-4 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated, 1-3 cup sugar. Add salt and half of the sugar to beaten egg yolks. Heat fruit juices; add to egg mixture, stirring. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thick. Beat whites of eggs stiff; add remaining sugar, beat until stiff. Remove cooked mixture from heat and immediately fold in whites carefully. Chill.

Mrs. A. Packman Gives Talk at W.M.S. Meeting

RAWDON — On Wednesday Mrs. Herbert Smith was hostess for the May meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Wonsan's Missionary Society. There were 22 ...ne in attendance, including ...ginal speaker from Stirling and three visitors from Hoards W.M.S., Mrs. Charles Hoard, Mrs. Clayton Thompson, and Mrs. Robert Hoard. -

The president opened with the call to worship and the "Lord's Prayer" repeated in unison. All sang a hymn and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher offered prayer for missionary partner Miss R. Gerhard and for all those who were ill.

The secretary gave her report and the treasurer reported $83.35 for April. The citizenship secretary brought a message on "Objectionable Literature." The corresponding secretary read a letter of thanks. The supply secretary hopes to pack a bale in June and announced food used clothing is needed. The literature secretary read a letter regarding ordering of "Missionaries At Work," and "Facts and Figures." On motion these books will be ordered and passed around for all to read.

The presbyterial literature secretary outlined the new study books on "Africa." She displayed "Wide Magic," and "Faith That Cross," also the special reading book entitled "African Manhunt," by Munroe Scott, which is an up-to-date story of Angola, Portuguese West Africa.

Mrs. John Mulherron outlined the study chapter based on "Hawaii." There are eight important islands and since 1900 they have become American in economy and government. Protestant Christian missions first entered the islands in 1820. Since World War II other groups such as the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., and Salvation Army have had an unusually strong development in Hawaii. There are many problems to be dealt with, such as language, cultural differences, democratic procedures, and tourists. A special youth program is stimulating the young people to greater endeavors.

Protestant Christian influence inland life along the cross roads but there is still much spade work to be done before Hawaii is truly Christian.

The offering was gathered by Miss Eleanor Smith and dedicated by Mrs. Will Potts.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Raymond McConnell and Mrs. John Morgan. The former conducted the devotional based on "Discovering Neighborhood," and Mrs. Eric Summers said prayer. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read the Bible on "The Good Samaritan." Mrs. Milford Wrightman read the meditation on that theme as written in "The Missionary Monthly." This was followed by a German prayer read by Mrs. Mulherron. Mrs. Will Jeffs sang with guitar accompaniment, "Shake Hands with Mother."

The convener introduced Mrs. A. Packman of Stirling and she gave a message on the theme, "Mother and Her Many Responsibilities." She stressed the importance of attendance at Sunday School and church, example of parents, harmony in the home, and mother's guiding hand. At the close she read "A Mother's Prayer," and "A Mother's Parable." The latter stressed courage and strength for each day as it came.

Thanks were expressed by Mrs. J. Holmes who presented Mrs. Packman with a gift on behalf of the group.

The convener expressed thanks for the hospitality and read a poem, "A Visit to the City."

The president expressed thanks for the program and the service closed with "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The lunch conveners served light refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

More Anxious About Money Than Morals

HERTFORD, England (Reuter) — British parents are no longer shocked when they find their unmarried daughter is expecting a baby, the Hertfordshire County Council was told Tuesday.

County medical officer Dr. James Spence said parents nowadays are "more concerned with money than morals." Their chief worry, he said in his annual report, is whether the man concerned will make a cash settlement or whether the girl or her mother should take a job to support the baby.

"The common denominator of all types of unmarried mother is love for the baby and a desire to keep the child if possible."

Mother's Helper

ADVANCE planning will make things go smoothly when a friend drops in to call with children. For the youngsters, arrange some table games, puzzles or other appropriate activity in a room other than the one in which you'll be entertaining. Make clear to your moppets what is expected of them as hosts. Give them their own refreshments, too.

Denmark, Its People' Talk at Plainfield W.I.

The May meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Swan on Thursday afternoon with 24 members and three visitors present.

The business consisted of plans for the "Strawberry Concert" to be held in Plainfield Orange Hall on Thursday evening, May 21st. Program and lunch arrangements were discussed. Delegates were appointed to the district local and a donation to the Salvation Army was voted on.

The roll call was answered by paying of fees and programs for 1959 were distributed.

Mrs. Clarence Marshall convener for the evening, presided for the following program: Percy Treverton and Bruce Swan sang "Hawaii." Mrs. Goetz, "Mother Machree" and "Tell Mother I'll Be There". A highlight of the meeting was an interesting address by Mrs. Asmussen of Denmark who brought to the meeting vivid pictures of that country, the conditions there, the habits and customs. All proved educational.

At the close of her address questions of interest were asked by the ladies present and were answered by Mrs. M. Asmussen.

Bruce Swan gave two accordion solos, "Whispering Hope" and "The Bird Song".

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a delightful half hour was spent.

N. American Woman Selfish Says Reporter

VANCOUVER (CP) — Telling Dutch-speaking parts of the world about life in Canada is the interesting job of Miss Maia van Diessenoi of Montreal, only woman division head in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation International Service.

A Canadian citizen by choice, slim, red-headed Miss van Steenoi visited Vancouver to gather material for the daily program she beams from Canada.

During a colorful career she has formed some widely varied opinions. Among these are that North American woman is selfish and that the Nazis who occupied western European countries lacked humor.

"I love life in Canada," she said. "But friends are not as generous with their time as Europeans."

Regarding her present work, she said her report on Canadian life can be anything from a news item about a change in a province's liquor laws to an interview with a Dutch NATO representative in Canada on a visit.

STUDIED AT LEIDEN

Miss van Steenoi was a student at the University of Leyden, in Holland, when the Germans occupied that country.

"We were not serious. . . . We didn't understand fully about the Germans. My friends and I decided to play some jokes on the soldiers," she said.

"The jokes included telling the German they would be in an unlawful assembly. When the Nazis raided the assembly, they found every cat in Leyden howling in an abandoned garage."

The commandant found it "so funny" that he took half the professors in the university as hostages.

"After that we decided to affiliate with the resistance movement and do more than tease."

When liberation came, Miss Steenoi took the first boat to the New World.

Arnold Meyers Demonstrates Art of Painting

2ND SIDNEY — The Boy of Colobo luncheon held its May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid on Wednesday evening with 24 members present.

The public relations representative, Mrs. Alva Meyers, was in charge of the program. Her son-in-law, Arnold Meyers, demonstrated how to make an oil painting. He first gave a talk on art as he was painting.

The president, Mrs. Donald Sandercock, opened the meeting.

The delegates for the district annual on May 28th at Stirling are Mrs. Arden Gilchrist and Mrs. Alva Meyers.

SPEAKER

Mrs. A. Meyers introduced the speaker for the evening, Sergeant Strong, of the RCAF, who spoke on "Public Relations."

Mr. Strong said he couldn't help overhearing the W.I. report the Ods and Mary Stuart Collect. If what was said in that was the truth and lived, there could not be better Public Relations than the Any organization that has its neighbor at heart is a P.R.

Public relations started in 1900 in the U.S. There were no large companies and these set growing year by year causing them to have their troubles, so they decided to have a public relations department.

"People are funny. We think it is O.K. to make money but let one fellow succeed and nation heve too much of it, then we don't like it. The public seems to distrust anything that makes a demand on it. Every firm in Canada has its public relations program.

"National Defence is a necessary evil that will always be with us. The taxpayer has a right to know how his money is used.

"In his program, the air force puts on displays, exhibitions, uses the press, radio, television and takes pictures and sends them to the papers to help people understand what they are doing.

"Every member of a society should be a P.R. for public relations really means, 'Do unto others as you would have them do to you'."

Mrs. Doug Sandercock thanked Sergeant Strong for his informative talk and for his talent that the time to come and speak to the Institute.

A hilarious recitation called, "How Pa and Joe Kept House" as given by Mrs. Ralph Hill of York Rd., Sidney. This was a story of what happened when his wife was away for a few weeks.

During all this time, Mr. Arnold Meyers was painting away with a fine landscape appearing out of the depths of paint. The Mrs. Alva Meyers presented both Sergeant Strong and Mrs. Hill with a pen and ink sketch done by her son Arnold.

Mrs. M. Mallory gave an interesting paper on "Farming Yesterday and Today." She went back to the time of 400 homemade candles for lighting; the shearing of sheep to make clothing; and the using of the sickle and scythe for cutting grain; down through the progressive years to using of electricity for lighting, modern styles and ways of making clothing; combines, hayhelers, and elevators for making the grain cutting and haying much easier. They all have had their drawbacks but from 1959 is The Best of All."

OLD CHAPEL — Built more than 300 years ago as a Roman Catholic chapel, this building at Metz, France, is still used for the same purpose. Sitting among the more modern buildings of the RCAF's No. 1 Air Division, the stone church came into Canadian hands in 1946 when division established headquarters at Metz. Shown here are an exterior view of the chapel entrance and an interior view. (CP from National Defence).

Old Roman Catholic Chapel Squats Among Air Buildings

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

METZ, FFrance (CP)—A squat, stone structure sits firmly among the modern concrete headquarters buildings of the RCAF's No. 1 Air Division.

It is a Roman Catholic chapel, first built 333 years ago. After surviving a few wars, a few fires and long periods of disuse, the chapel today is used by the Canadians. Over the years it has been in and out of French, German and American hands.

The chapel, across the road from a 50-year-old chateau which serves as the Air Division headquarters building, was originally built by a French landlord for use by his family and household staff. It passed through the hands of several French families and in 1870 was badly damaged by fire.

TAKEN BY GERMANS

It was restored early in the century and passed into German hands during the First World War. Between the wars it was maintained by the State of Metz, and in 1940 the Germans took it back. The Americans retrieved it in 1944, the French took over in 1946 and the Canadians got it in 1953 when Air Division headquarters was established at Metz.

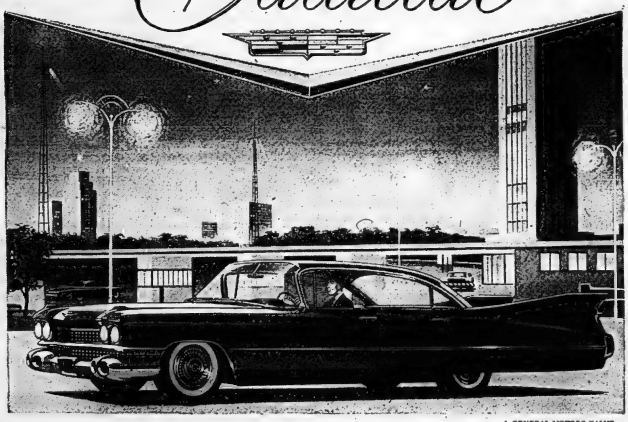
For the next two years RCAF personnel worked in the old building in their spare time to restore its dingy interior. They had to straighten out the stone floor that had sunk about two feet below ground level, repair and replace old wooden pews, clean up the old Gothic altar and redecorate 14 statues of saints.

The chapel and the chateau, both chipped and cracked from the battles of two world wars, are the only French buildings on the wooded area on which Air Division headquarters was established. The chateau, occupied by various military forces since 1802, was kept in fairly good shape.

"There was a lot of work involved in restoring the chapel," says Wing Cmdr. J.R. Poirier of New Richmond, Que., Roman Catholic command chaplain, "It would have been easier to erect a new chapel."

But he says the work had its reward. "All the work has been finished now and we have a chapel with a very nice atmosphere."

He said his parishioners are "very fond of it."



The little rectangular building holds only 65 people and it is necessary to hold three masses every Sunday. Ordinarily, says Father Poirier, there would be two.

"As you can see, it is far too small, but I don't think anyone would want it replaced by something larger."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1959

SUCCESSOR TO BREN GUN — From top brass to guardsman, the Canadian Army is delighted with the performance of the FN light machine gun shown being test fired by Guardsman Bob Gallway (left) of Stephenville, Nfld. It is a heavy barrelled version of the FN rifle being used by Guardsman Garry Brandon of Toronto. Sgt. Frank Wragg of Petawawa is instructing on the use of the new weapon on the ranges at Soest, Germany, where the men, members of 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, are stationed. Both weapons use the 7.62 mm ammunition adopted as standard by the NATO armies.

The bipod on the light machine gun folds back against the barrel so it can be fired from the hip or shoulder. The gun is accurate, fires seven rounds lighter and 100 rounds a minute faster than the Bren, and its action is almost foolproof. (CP from National Defence).

Top Brass Elated by Move To Replace Old Bren Guns But Infantrymen Miss Them

But infantrymen, the men most directly concerned, still have mixed feelings about the Canadian Army's decision to replace the Bren gun with an automatic, heavy-barrel version of the standard FN rifle.

"Now don't get things wrong," said 19-year-old Odsm. Bob Gallway of Stephenville, Nfld., as he took a rest from testing out his new light machine-gun on a 30-yard range. "It isn't that we don't like this gun. We do. It's a honey. But we've had the Bren a long time and seeing it go out of service is like losing an old friend."

FINE SHOOTING

Gallway stretched out behind his gun, his gun-mate, Odsm. Garry Farndon, 20, of Toronto clammed in a fresh clip and Gal'way fired five shots into the target. Four riddled the bull's-eye but that from 300 yards looked little more than a pinhead. The fifth nicked the edge and all five were so closely grouped that a thumbnail completely covered them.

It was precision shooting of the highest order, pointing up both the capabilities of the gun and one reason why NATO commanders constantly refer to the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Germany as the finest army unit under their command.

The sister to the FN rifle, standard equipment in the Canadian Army, weighs 12½ pounds, seven pounds less than the Bren. Its action is almost foolproof and it can fire about 700 rounds a minute more than the old infantry section weapon.

BIG ADVANTAGE

One of the major advantages of the new weapon is that it uses the same 7.62 - millimetre ammunition as the FN rifle, which means that when the changeover is complete the .303 - calibre Bren ammunition will disappear from the stores of the Canadian NATO force.

"This will be of great assistance to us logistically," said Lt.-Col. Henry Price of Quebec City, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, the Canadian Guards. "It is not just a question of having to order and stock only one type of ammunition. When different types of ammunition are used under operational conditions, the supply of forward troops with the correct type always presents a problem because an error under such circumstances could have disastrous results. Now the element of error is removed and that is something every commander strives for."

The 2nd Battalion is one of the first units in the brigade to fire the heavy-barrel FN under field conditions. The Guards tried it out at the beginning of May while on a week's exercises at the Putlos live-firing training area on the shores of the Baltic Sea.

"The results were excellent," said Sgt. Frank Wragg, 37, of Petawawa, Ont., who joined the Canadian Army five years ago after emigrating to Canada from his native Britain. "Conversion to the gun is easy for the men because it is almost exactly the same as the Bren, but with further rifles."

The new light machine - gun, like the FN rifle, is produced in Canada with only minor modifications from the original Belgian Fabrique Nationale design. One modification allows the trigger guard to be removed so that soldiers can fire the gun while wearing heavy mitts in winter. Another allows the magazine to be loaded from the top of the gun.

Instruction and training on the new weapon is expected to be completed before the end of the year. As soon as that happens, the Bren, used by Canadian soldiers since 1937 and a veteran of both the Second World War and the Korean War, will be retired from active service.

Bahaman House Unanimously Requests Inquiry of Murder Of Sir Harry Oakes Reopened

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — The Bahaman House of Assembly voted unanimously Tuesday to ask the government of the 1943 murder of Canadian millionaire Sir Henry Oakes.

The resolution asked that Scotland Yard be assigned to investigate the sensational unsolved murder, Raymond Schindler, an American detective, claimed he had information that would crack the case. Lieut.-Col. T. C. Christie, who was a house guest of Sir Harry on the night he was blown to death, voted for the resolution. The vote reopened was asked by Cyril Stevenson, editor of the Nassau Herald.

The body of Sir Harry, who made a fortune in Canadian gold mines, was found in a bedroom of one of his Nassau homes.

Sir Harry, who made a fortune in Canadian gold mines in the Kirkland Lake district, was beaten on the head and his bedclothes set afire during a tropical storm.

The trial was sensational. The governor of the Bahamas at that time was the Duke of Windsor. He called in Capt. James A. Easter, former Miami police fingerprint expert, to work on the case. Barker was accused of having planted a fingerprint of de Marigny's in the murder room.

Nancy Oakes, heiress to a fortune estimated at $200,000,000, lived several years including Schindler to help the defence.

After the trial ended in acquittal, de Marigny was ordered to leave the Bahamas. They lived for a time in Cuba. Later, their marriage was annulled.

MADE FRIENDS

Sir Harry's personality, and his struggle to accumulate wealth, helped complicate the mystery of his slaying.

The onetime prospector and miner was a man of strong likes and dislikes and inevitably made some enemies while he was making his fortune.

Oakes was born in rural Maine and spent his early life in poverty. Then he went prospecting

Simcoe Group Highly Praised For Production

TORONTO (CP)— The little-theatre group from Simcoe, a Norfolk County town of 8,300, was enthusiastically applauded for its production of The Boy Friend Tuesday.

The musical comedy, second of eight plays in the Dominion Drama Festival, also was lauded by French adjudicator Michel St. Denis. However, he tempered his praise with criticism of the style of the presentation.

Mr. St. Denis said he admired the singing, the steps and the precision. There is a talent at work, he said of the design and costumes.

CAST COMMENDED

Mr. St. Denis congratulated the cast "who worked in that magnificent way to produce that show."

The boys in the cast were good with special praise given to Stanley Mound and Bob Edmonds.

Betty Carter Bedford as Maisie was extremely capable and attractive but played with excess of style.

Mr. St. Denis said he found it difficult to adjudicate The Boy Friend since it is more a musical than a play. This is the first musical to reach the DDF finals.

Two Halifax groups take over the stage today. Ghosts is to be performed at a matinee by the Neptune Theatre Players. The Markham Players will present Teach

Ottawa Is' Very Lucky City', Chance Given for Planning Is Envy of Civic Engineers

OTTAWA (CP) — Take a compact little capital that is not starting to grow, loss a ghetto of green around the central core and what have you got.

A chance for basic planning that is the envy of other cities everywhere, says Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy.

Grizzled Gen. Kennedy, a friendly, energetic 66, may be perplexed as chairman of the National Capital Commission, he heads the 20-member group set-ministering a $200,000,000 plan to make Ottawa one of the world's most beautiful capitals.

"We are a very lucky city," he says.

ACTED QUICKLY

In an age of suburban sprawl and the exploding metropolis, planners moved fast to acquire land for a two-mile-wide green belt, a projected bracelet of pastoral beauty surrounding the heart of the city.

It is thought Ottawa will be the first capital to have an uninterrupted green belt. Other cities have seen ambitious plans defeated by lack of land control.

"We have been able to catch this thing in time," grey-haired Gen. Kennedy said in his office overlooking his map-cluttered office. Now some 25 per cent of the land we need. Town planners come to Ottawa from all over the world and they all go away a little envious of our setup."

The green belt, 37,500 - acres centrepiece of the capital plan, will allow the city to be contained by a ribbon of rural development by parks, woods and farm lands.

The capital area's present 300,000 population will be allowed to reach a maximum 600,000, probably by the end of the century. Satellite communities will absorb the surplus.

WORLD CONTROL SIZE

"We don't want to be a big city," said Gen. Kennedy. "A city of 1,000,000 would be too many times more expensive. Administrative costs go up astronomically. We believe we avoid the problems that plague some of the larger metropolitan cities."

Under a policy of "conscious decentralization," embassies and government buildings are built in clusters away from the downtown area. Among other things, this will enable civil servants to live close to their jobs.

It is hoped satellite communities will maintain their own identity.

Gen. Kennedy was born in Dunrobin, Ont., youngest of six children in a family that traces its Irish ancestry to an immigrant who came to the Ottawa Valley in 1823 from Ballyhaise, Cavan County.

Educated at McGill University, Gen. Kennedy won the Military Cross in the First World War, held high executive posts as a forestry engineer, served on conservation boards and acted as a one-man royal commission investigating Ontario's forest needs.

WORKED FOR UN

He filled high staff appointments in the Second World War and in April, 1950, organized the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees.

Gen. Kennedy first became associated with capital planning in 1952.

"People are very much impressed by the fact that our legislation permits not only to plan, but to carry out that plan" he said. "There are very few organizations in the planning game that have the same freedom we have.

"Some municipalities around Ottawa are anxious. In the meantime city of Ottawa itself has not planned its future in sufficient detail. We want to see that the inner core could stand some improvements."

Nevertheless, in developing the master plan for Ottawa and environs prepared under the direction of Paris city planner Jacques Gréber, Gen. Kennedy has some natural advantages, including the superb scenery of the Gatineau Hills north of neighboring Hull, Que., and three major rivers, the Ottawa, Rideau and Gatineau.

Gen. Kennedy's term runs for two more years, after which he may return to the forestry profession. He is married to the former Mary Hamilton of Ottawa and has two sons and a daughter.

'Goats Are Up' Is Glad Cry At Roseburg

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)— Oregon State College professors are taking an interest in the goats who forecast Roseburg's weather.

These goats roam wild on Mount Nebo above Roseburg. Residents watch their movements closely.

"The goats are up" is a heartening cry in Roseburg. Pirnies are planned, golf dates are made and fishing trips planned. Invariably the sun shines.

But when the goats come down from Mount Nebo to the shelter of shallow caves, bad weather inevitably follows.

How do they know what the weather will be?

That's what the professors want to know, Stephen Shou, Oregon State College librarian, has written asking for extra copies of a recent Roseburg newspaper story on the goats. He said a number of professors are interested in knowing why townspeople remarked "the goats are down" last Sunday. The people here know why. It rained Monday.

Not Slightest Chance of U.K. Acting Alone at Conference

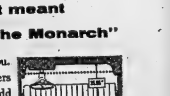
GENEVA (AP) — The British for an impression that he has a special relationship with Lloyd. The two met at dinner Tuesday night—their first meeting-less session since the Big Four talks began.

Each time they have met more talk has developed about "British exclusiveness."

Authoritative sources quoted by Reuters correspondents that Gromyko and Lloyd were engaged in any form of bilateral negotiations.

DENY PLAN OFFERED

The sources also denied a report that Gromyko on Monday gave Lloyd a three-point proposal for an interim Berlin solution.



The Americans have been assured Britain contemplates no big concessions, credit to the Soviets to boost trade. A trade mission negotiating in Moscow has no political significance, the Americans have been told.

Rescue Scores Of Fish Trapped, Water Lowered

CAMPBELLFORD — Several members of the Campbellford District Fish and Game Protective Association, as well as visiting anglers, under the supervision of Reg McCulloch, local conservation officer, took part in an operation to rescue scores of fish trapped when water was lowered in the Healey Falls area on Monday afternoon.

Department of Transport officials ordered logs placed in the Healey Falls dam, with the result that the water level below a weir dam below the falls dropped several feet in a few hours, trapping hundreds of fish in shallow pools left along the shore.

Each year the same situation occurs, and each year conservation officers Reg McCulloch recruits a few local sportsmen who go to the falls and rescue fish that have been trapped.

On Monday, several hundred fish, ranging from small rock bass and perch to five pound pickerel were lifted gasping from cracks in the rocks and returned to deeper water.

Although the volunteers rescue hundreds of fish each year, scores are left to die, trapped in the rocks when the water recedes. The Campbellford Fish and Game Club is concerned over the damage this does to fishing in the area each year.

Many of the black bass rescued on Monday were spawning when they were trapped by the receding water. Although some of the fish were saved, all of the spawn was lost.

In past years, the water has been cut off without warning, and many more fish have been killed. This year, however, the dam tender at Healey Falls had advance warning of the order to cut off the water flow, and was able to warn local sportsmen in time, so that a large number of fish were saved.

HALIFAX (CP) — For kindly folk who picture every deer as a close relative of Walt Disney's lovable Bambi, Nova Scotia conservation officials have bad news.

Despite a 1958 kill estimated at more than 35,000, the province's deer population appears to be increasing at a dangerous rate. Consensus is that the kill will have to be stepped up sharply to bring the population down to a figure that the forests can support.

Former provincial wildlife biologist D. A. Benson in an analysis of the situation said it was too late to "attempt to maintain our herd at its peak level. The only management recommendation that can be offered at this stage is to increase the hunting pressure by every possible legal means."

DEVELOPING PROBLEM

The problem apparently began approaching crisis proportions 10 years ago. The severe winter of 1955-56 struck a herd that was too large for the available range. Hundreds of deer starved to death.

In the 1956 season 35,000 were killed. The public became alarmed that the herd was being decimated. In view of this the provincial government reduced the limit to one deer per hunter from two. In the 1957 season only slightly more than 21,000 deer were bagged.

The reduced kill set the stage for a big jump in the already too large population. More deer died of starvation in the winter of 1957-58. The two-deer limit was hastily restored and last season's kill returned to normal.

The problem is that even if the kill is maintained at about 40,000 annually it will not reduce the size of the herd. Despite the two-deer limit, first made effective in 1940, the herd has continued to increase.

SURVEY MAY HELP

Provincial conservation director Clarence Mason says nobody knows just how many deer there are in Nova Scotia. A survey by the federal wildlife service scheduled to be completed early in 1960, may provide some of the answers about population, reproduction and other unknown quantities.

Part of the study involves pathological examination of the reproductive organs of 3,000 does.

This is expected to reveal the average number of pregnancies during the doe's 15-year lifespan, and whether births have been single or multiple.

Mr. Mason said that when food is plentiful multiple births are probably the rule rather than the exception for young does in good condition.

The number of bucks killed by hunters annually usually averages about 50 per cent more than does. This has no effect on the birth rate because, as Mr. Mason put it, "a buck is not a monogamous animal."

NATURAL ENEMIES

Deer have only two natural enemies in Nova Scotia — bears and wildcats. Last year 255 bears and a handful of wildcats were killed. Experts believe the predators have little effect on deer population which will likely go on increasing.

The catch is that the food supply is being depleted. An adult deer needs between five and seven pounds daily of browse — oak, maple and birch twigs — to survive in winter. In many areas the food is no longer available in sufficient quantities.

"Our problem is not so much managing deer as managing public opinion," Mr. Mason said dirily.

Biologist Benson offered Nova Scotians two choices: Up the kill or forget deer hunting as a major sport and tourist attraction for the next 20 years.

OPEN LETTER TO FATHERS OF BASEBALL-MINDED YOUNGSTERS.

Dear Pop—

The next time that son of yours asks you if there is going to be any organized baseball for him in the city, don't merely grunt, growl "I dunno" and return to your perusal of "Lolita" or whatever your current piece of reading is.

Just smile, put him on the head and tell him "Yes." For there is a small group of men who are vitally interested in not only baseball but hockey, soccer and possibly track and field, for your boy and mine.

And there is a special group which is looking after the baseball interests of the youngsters.

The new president of the BMBA is Russell Seale, vice is Clifford Belch, secretary Mel Richards, treasurer William Hurst, and conveners, peewee, Mr. Belch; bantam, George Digby, and juvenile, Bill Brennan.

These men with a few others are going all out with their time and effort to try and give Belleville's baseball-minded youngsters the proper organization, instruction and facilities.

The main trouble is, they cannot do it alone. In fact the situation is so serious that unless some assistance is coming from people like you, the ball kit and kaboodle may fold.

So far two meetings have been held. Outside of the executive there were not enough present to organize a game of bridge. This is not very encouraging to men like the above who are doing their best to promote minor sport. They need help—and need it badly.

In fact they could use between 25 and 30 men who could fill the many vacancies of coaches, managers and umpires. Surely there are some who can spare a couple of hours on a couple of nights a week. The committee and the kiddies would appreciate it so much.

So how about turning out to the special meeting of the minor baseball association scheduled for the new Recreation Building, 270 Pinnacle Street, tomorrow (Thursday's evening? Drop around and see what is going on. You will get a cordial reception.

And in case your son asks you other questions, here are a few of the answers. He'll think the old man is a dandy—a real smart guy, if you pop the answers to him as rapidly as he fires the questions.

Fy'instance, tell him he must be ten years old at least in order to play in BMBA teams. That's a new ruling this year. If he is 13 before May 1st he automatically becomes a bantam. Up to that age he is a peewee. If he is 15 before May 1st he is automatically juvenile. If he is 17 before that date he becomes a junior. But if he is 20 before May 1 he becomes an intermediate.

Last year there were eight peewee, five bantam, four midget and two juvenile teams in action under the aegis of the BMBA. This year, the OBA has ruled there will be no midget classification.

And if you are a merchant or any other kind of businessman, you will recall you were asked four times for financial assistance for minor sport in the city last year. That has been changed. This year you will receive but one appeal.

This is because all the minor sport eggs, or almost nearly all of them have been placed in one basket, known as the "Belleville Minor Sports Association." Its president is Harold Mott; vice-president, Bob Blair; treasurer, Les Digby, and secretary, Lloyd Doran.

These men with their sub-committees which adjudicate their own particular brand of sport, hope to put minor sport on the proper basis, but they cannot do it without assistance from fellows like you.

We are going to have a lot of youngsters running the streets if minor sport folds in the city.

We do not want that to happen — and it will not happen if a few oldsters rally round the various committees and offer assistance.

So how about turning up at that meeting tomorrow night and showing your son and some others that your heart is in the proper place. Your help is needed —and needed badly.

Commission Says Underworld 'Muscling in' on Fighting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Boxing Commission started a hearing today on reports that underworld forces have tried to muscle in on welterweight champion Don Jordan's managerial contract.

Chief of Police William H. Parker says the intelligence division of his department has been working with commission investigators for several weeks. He said the hearing would produce evidence that gang elements have plotted to control the welterweight division.

Louis Dragna and Joe Sica, identified by Chief Parker as gangland characters, are among those to be subpoenaed. Others subpoenaed are Truman Gibson, head of National Boxing Enterprises in Chicago, Bill Daly, New York City fight manager; Jack Leonard, Hollywood boxing promoter and Jordan's manager, Don Nesseth.

Nesseth has openly charged that Frank (Blinky) Palermo of Philadelphia tried to move in on his contract with Jordan.

The police recently arrested Palermo in connection with an abortive kidnap attempt that, presumably, dated the time the police investigation of the fight game here was in progress.

PUT ON ROSTER

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pitcher Bud Podbielan was put on the Cleveland Indians' roster Tuesday and rookies Gene Leek and Don Dillard were sent to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League. Podbielan, 33, a right hander, is the Pacific Coast League's top hurler. He has a 5-4 record with San Diego. He formerly pitched for Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds.

Shade Chisox in 2-1 Duel As Indians Win Over Nats; Braves Have Six-Game Streak

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Those Baltimore Orioles are doing things the hard way and making it look easy while hovering near the American League lead.

They're third, 1½ games shy of first, after whacking six of their last eight. But it hasn't been breeze—not when they've had to take three of four from front-running Cleveland and Chicago's White Sox to do it.

Pitching has been the payoff for the weak-hitting Birds. Excluding a weekend spat with Cleveland's power club, Baltimore's staff has allowed but seven earned runs in six games while making things tough for the leaders.

SIX DETERMINED

Tuesday night, just 24 hours after Hec Brown and Billy Loes combined for a shutout that knocked Cleveland out of first, youngsters Billy O'Dell and Jerry Walker ended Chicago's brief stay on top by beating the White Sox 2-1. They did it in 5 joint six-hitter backed up by O'Dell's inside-the-park home run.

Cleveland jumped back into the lead, a half-game ahead of Chicago, with a 5-4 victory at Washington. Last-place Detroit moved into Kansas City, where it split a seventh-place New York by beating the Yankees 7-5. The Tigers' 5-game slide

Canada's Olympic Puck Team Will Be Allowed to Add Ten Top Players to Roster

DETROIT (CP)—Canada has served notice she doesn't intend to slacken her traditional hold on world amateur hockey laurels.

The notice came Tuesday night in the form of a long list of new regulations passed during the fourth day of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting.

Under new regulations the Canadian team selected for Olympic and world competition will be allowed to add 10 top Canadian players to its regular roster.

The team will be allowed to list as many as 15 players at the start of the hockey season. The players on the list must be given releases by their respective clubs on demand, although the players themselves will be able to waive the request to participate in the inter-national play.

PAY $500 EACH

The players will train with the team until Nov. 15, when the special group will be trimmed to 10 players. The original club will be reimbursed $500 for each player retained after the Nov. 15 deadline.

The team suffering the loss will be given a card replacement in order to sign another player. No more than one player can be taken from any one team, whether in junior or senior ranks.

CAHA secretary - manager George Dudley introduced the new regulations. They were interpreted in some quarters as ensuring against repetition of the loss of the world title to Russia in 1956.

The new rules will apply to Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Canada's entry in the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif. Dutchmen manager Ernie Gorman indicated the team would put the new regulations into effect as soon as possible.

GRANTS GO UP

The convention also agreed to boost to $2,500 from $3,000 the grant to each branch of the association for promotion of minor hockey. The money will come from a fund established by a recent pro - amateur agreement signed between the CAHA and the National Hockey League.

The convention also agreed to provide special assistance for Hamilton Tiger-Cubs and three western junior teams in the form of permission to sign additional branch imports. Hamilton's junior entry will be allowed two extra players.

Branch presidents will have the power to levy suspension on outbranch players involved in misdemeanors in their territories.

The CAHA decided to go along with the NHL in plans to assess a minor penalty against a goalkeeper leaving his crease to make a deliberate stoppage of play. The rule is said designed to deal with the style of Montreal Canadiens' Jacques Plante.

CAHA president Bob LeBel announced that an invitation has been received by the association for a Canadian team to tour Europe next November.

THANKS FOR DUNLOPS

The convention picked the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops with Vernon Canadians, Allstar Cup runners-up as second choices. The team will have to foot all bills except $1,000 for uniforms.

The general meeting today will be asked to approve a rule providing unlimited importation into Canada of American-born players during a one-year trial period. The only stipulation in the ruling is that each Canadian team will be limited to two such players.

A resolution from the rules committee will empower referees to rule whether face masks worn following injuries endanger either the player wearing the mask or other players.

U.S. Amateur Hockey Association president Tom Lockhart said new rules passed by the U.S. group protect Canadians playing in the U.S. leagues.

MUST BE NOTIFIED

U.S. clubs will have to notify prospective Canadian players by Aug. 1 whether and for how long their services will be required to join a Canadian club.

Early today the resolutions committee was still debating a proposal from several Ontario junior clubs that Ottawa - Hull Junior Canadians be required to participate in "organized competition" before entering the Memorial Cup playdowns.

The Ottawa-Hull team has received a bye into the playdowns since the disbandment of the Quebec Junior league.

Baseball Is Only Business At Yankee Stadium--Stengel

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel has notified his seventh place New York Yankees players that baseball should be their only business at Yankee Stadium.

The disgruntled manager had a sign posted in the Yankee clubhouse warning the players they are not to perpetrate friends or business associates in the dressing quarters.

Casey is especially emphatic about barring business agents.

"If my players have any business other than that of playing baseball to transact," said Casey Tuesday, "I want them to do it away from the stadium."

Stengel's warning is regarded as especially significant by certain critics who charge that part of the Yankees' troubles this season trace to several players' preoccupation with non-baseball enterprises.

Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald, Bob Turley and many other Yankees are in business on the side.

The players say that their outside activities have anything to do with the current slump. They say also that many were involved in businesses when the Yankees were riding high.

Bill Skowron is the only Yankee hitting over .300 and the slugging first baseman has been out since May 6, except for one pinch-hit appearance with a pulled leg muscle. The team is batting only .240.

Mantle has a motel in Joplin, Mo., and a bowling emporium in Dallas. Berra has a bowling business in Clifton, N.J. McDougald is connected with a maintenance firm in Newark, N.J., and has other sidelines. Turley (3-4) is in the insurance business.

Hank Bauer has a restaurant. Whitey Ford (3-2) is in the brokerage business. Elston Howard is a brewery representative.

Casey, himself, has done well outside of baseball. He is a director of a bank and has been a healthy income from oil wells.

LONGDEN TO RETIRE

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Longden, the world's winningest jockey, said Tuesday he'll probably retire from competitive riding at the end of this season.

Longden, 48, rode Fighin Indian to victory in Balmoral's Trillium Stakes at Washington Park Tuesday, his 5,292nd, the most any jockey still active has ever achieved.

"I've been getting along in years and getting a lot of mileage out of being 48", the Tabor, Alta., rider said. "I'll retire at the end of this season and go into breeding thoroughbreds with my son, Vance."

Three Canadians Qualify in Ladies' Golf

By ED SIMON

WENTWORTH, England (CP) — Two generations of Toronto golfers led the way for Canada's six entries Tuesday in the first day's play of the ladies' international tournament.

Marlene Stewart Streit, 25-year-old former British open champion, was the first Canadian to qualify for the third round by winning two lopsided matches from British opponents.

She was closely followed by Ada Mackenzie, who won her first golf title 15 years before Marlene was born. Both gave away hefty margins to their high-handicap opponents.

Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., also won both her matches.

Mrs. Streit capped a 5-and-4 triumph over Mrs. V. W. Brewster in the morning round with a spectacular 3-and-2 victory over Mrs. Alison Evans in the afternoon, despite conceding 15 strokes on the arrival. Her medal score of 81 for the 12 holes was one over par.

RALLIES FOR WIN

Miss Mackenzie made heavy weather of her morning match with Mary Llewellyn but rallied to square the match at the turn and eventually won 1 up and 2. She had an easy time with Miss D. Crawford, winning the round 6 and 4.

Blonde Judy Darling of Montreal, won her first-round match from Mrs. L. Forter 1 up before bowing to Miss Joy M. Gladewell by the same score.

Canada's four second-round losers were Roma Neundorf of Toronto, beaten 4 and 3 by the defending champion; Mrs. M. Hampson, and Mary Gay of Calgary, who fought Mrs. P. Adams to the 19th hole while conceding her 12 strokes.

Gopher Ball' Leader Is Tiger Hurler

NEW YORK (AP) — A few years ago a not-too-bright ballplayer was asked: "Who's the best pitcher you ever faced?"

"I don't remember the pitcher's name," was the reply, "but I hit a homer off him almost every time up. He was the best pitcher I ever faced."

That's the way it is with Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers, with the addition of Ray Narleski and Don Mossi from Cleveland, were figured to have a crack pitching staff. But they are in last place in the American League and the other seven clubs are padding their home run totals at Detroit's expense.

Tiger hurlers have given up most homers in the majors, 48. Jim Bunning, their righthanded fireballer, is the American League individual gopher ball leader with 12 followed by Paul Foytack with 11.

The records include Monday's games.

42-Pound Pike Caught in Lake Simcoe

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Hendry described Tuesday how he caught a 42-pound northern pike, believed to be the biggest ever caught in Lake Simcoe.

But the catch, which he said measured 45 inches long and 19½ inches in girth, was two ounces short of the Ontario record.

Hendry said it took 20 minutes steady fighting to bring it in from the end of 200 feet of line. He was trolling from a runabout using a 50-pound test dacron line.

Biggest northern pike recorded in Ontario was 42 pounds, two ounces taken in 1946 in Delaney Lake, Kenora.

Hogan or Snead Should Win U.S. Open

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The two men most likely to win this year's June U.S. Open golf tournament are oldtimers Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, says Associate City pro Jug McSpaden, an oldtimer himself who insists he's not influenced by sentimental reflects and a knowledge of the course.

McSpaden, a club pro now but a regular on the tournament trail several years ago, holds the competitive record of 65 for Winged Foot Country Club course at Mamaroneck, N.Y., site of this year's Open. He set it in 1946.

McSpaden favors Hogan and Snead for four reasons: (1) The player who drives well will win and Snead and Hogan are among the best; (2) Nobody is going to putt well on Winged Foot's massive, rolling greens; (3) The keys mental, not physical stamina, because anyone who plays regularly can stand up under the 72-hole grind; (4) The course hasn't improved in recent years, judging by scores.

Relief Hurlers Stand Out in International

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George O'Donnell of Columbus, and Johnny James of Richmond, relief specialists first class, added another member to their fraternity today.

He is Rene Valdes of Montreal, whose relief role as starter and reliever has been a big factor in the Royals' climb up the International League ladder.

This trio of relievers all played key roles in helping their teams to victories Tuesday. O'Donnell pitched two innings at mid-relief as Columbus edged league-leading Miami 7-6. James gave only one hit and one run in four innings in saving Richmond's 4-3 victory over Havana and Valdes gave one run in the last two innings as Montreal defeated Rochester 10-8.

Buffalo and Toronto were not scheduled.

Valdes, now 3-2, has saved three games. He has also started seven times. He came on after Montreal spotted Rochester a 7-1 lead after two innings.

McMANUS HOT

Jim McManus, with a home run, double and single for four RBIs, led the Royals. Sandy Amoros also homered for Montreal while Gene Oliver smote a three-run homer and a two-run triple to lead Rochester. Reliever Jim Piland (0-2) lost for the second day in a row.

O'Donnell took over for winner Al Jackson (5-1) with two on and none out in the eighth inning. Miami tied it in the fifth but Tony Bartirome's triple and Isaac Rodriguez' 12-foot pinch knocked the clincher in the sixth. Leo Rodriguez hit a three-run homer for the Colts who have won seven straight and five of six against the Marlins.

Frits Brickell's grand - slam home run highlighted an eight-run fifth inning that came a 2-1 Havana lead and gave Ed Dick a victory. Dick tired after five innings and James made his 14th appearance and fourth save with two.

Thirteen men batted in Richmond's big inning against loser Emilio Cuche (3-3) and reliever Pedro Carrillo.

AT THE McCARTHY — Paul Newman, as Ben Quick", and Joanne Woodward as "Clara", appear in a key scene from the Jerry Wald production of William Faulkner's "The Long Hot Summer", the story of the effect upon an entire community and one family in particular of a ruthless strong man. The Twentieth Century-Fox presentation is at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-in Theatres tonight and Thursday. 2nd. feature is Jerry Wald's "Peyton Place", also in CinemaScope and Color and featuring Lana Turner, Hope Lange and Lee Philips.

Philip and Dennis Crosby Have Little in Common

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Few twins are less alike than Philip and Dennis Crosby, born four minutes apart 24 years ago.

Philip Lang Crosby, the older, is a hearty, muscular young man with ruddy face and crewcut. He moves with the lumbering grace of a college football player, which he was at Washington State.

Dennis Michael Crosby is formed by his brothers the boy natural athlete in the family, but he couldn't have enough weight to play college football. Pale and sensitive looking, he is the shy one of the four. He also is the one with his father Bing's tendency to baldness, and he takes a ragging from his brothers about the toupees he wears for public appearances.

Different as they are in appearance and nature, the twins share one thing in common: Domesticity. Both were wed to Las Vegas showgirls — Phil to Sandra Jo Drummond. Dennis to Pat Sheehan. Both have given Bing grandchildren. Dennis Michael, Jr. was born in December; Phil's daughter Dixie Lee was born two weeks ago.

Unlike Gary and Lindsay, the twins seldom take part in Hollywood's night life. They entertain quietly in their homes.

They followed Gary through grammar and prep schools but went to Washington State instead of Stanford. They went there for animal husbandry and agricultural courses because of Bing's wish for them to make over his big Elki, Nev., ranch. But they never made it. Why?

"The price of cattle dropped and I couldn't see it being a profitable business for the next 10 or 20 years," Phil explained. "Dad was losing money on the ranch; we couldn't expect him to hold onto it while we finished college and the army."

Besides, the boys had fallen for show business.

"I guess it was only natural after we had been around it all our lives," Dennis says. He was signed for a local disk jockey show and was doing well until he dropped it to prepare for a brother act.

Phil first realized the lure of performing when he switched to a speech-TV course at Washington State after his army service. He headed a unit that entertained at the prison at Walla Walla, Wash.

"Obviously they were a captive audience and greatly appreciative for entertainment," he recalls. "But it was a thrill to hear them laugh and applaud."

Jockey, Horse Ready for Round Three

NEW YORK (AP) — If Vancouver-born jockey Hedley Woodhouse and the thoroughbred Besomer eye each other in strange fashion in the paddock at Belmont Park today there's a reason.

Woodhouse is scheduled to ride Besomer in the $50,000 Carter Handicap. In Besomer's first start four years ago he tossed Hedley at Belmont.

Last week, in the Tobaggan Handicap at Belmont, he did the same thing.

Now—round three.

Only 500 See Rangers Tie Bruins 6-6

BERLIN (AP) — New York Rangers and Boston Bruins of the International Hockey League played 6-6 tie Tuesday night in their first exhibition game in West Berlin. It was their first tie in 19 exhibitions in Europe.

Only 500 spectators were willing to pay the unusually high ticket prices of five to 30 marks ($1.20 to $7.10) to see the game at the Sport Palace.

TERRORISM FLARES

PARIS(Reuters) — Terrorism between Algerian nationalist groups in Paris has flared up again and 25 Moslems were killed in the Paris area alone during April, police disclosed. Police attributed some of the deaths to the growing strength of the National Algerian Movement in Paris.

PREMIER

of what could have been done in Cornwall.

"We had the same opportunity here. What effort was made to take advantage of the seaway?"

He also charged the government with poor planning in its failure to complete Highway 401 to Cornwall district, a road needed to "bring Eastern Ontario in touch with the rest of the province."

UNIFORM HOURS PLANK

Mr. MacDonald told a CCF businessmen's meeting in Toronto that his party planned to establish uniform closing hours of retail stores and factories from shopping to two evenings a week.

The moves would be designed to assist small merchants who were "slaves chained to the counter." He blamed the situation on the "nightmare of unbridled competition from which in the government's obligation to rescue all concerned."

The CCF leader said the party favors public ownership of auto health insurance, public utilities, transit lines and telephone systems. But it no longer considered public ownership a complete cure-all for economic ills.

FROST VISITS WIDOW

Early in the day Mr. Frost took time off from campaigning to visit the widow of the army major who carried the flag into battlefield after he was wounded during the First World War.

Mrs. George Musgrove, now in her late 70s, sat and chatted with the premier in her home at Harwood 30 miles south of Owen Sound. He described Major Musgrove, who later was killed in action, risked his life to drag a lieutenant Frost was leading to an infantry battle near Arras, France.

The premier still has a limp he received when a shell severed his left leg and leg which he received when snipers pinned down his unit.

During an interview Mr. Frost said he had not heard of a challenge from Mr. MacDonald to a public debate Thursday in Windsor on the natural gas issue. He didn't know if he would have time for debating. "I'm on a tight schedule."

USES PROSPECTS

Geseva negotiators. On the Communist side, it appears that Gromyko is trying to arouse distrust of Britain by the French and the West Germans.

Western diplomats say the Soviet minister tried deliberately to give the impression that there is a special political relationship with Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, resulting from Prime Minister Macmillan's recent visit to Moscow.

One illustration raised smiles among some diplomats. It was noted that Gromyko invited Lloyd to dinner Tuesday night for their fourth private meeting since the conference began. Gromyko had been the constant theme between those countries only once privately.

Some officials think Gromyko is intentionally trying to suggest something designed to convince that he and Lloyd are continuing the British-Soviet political talks that began in Russia last January. Lloyd's sharp rejection of Russian proposals Tuesday may help avert fear to kill any such idea.

Elaine Mahnken Wins Divorce From Rooney

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)— Elaine Mahnken won a divorce from Mickey Rooney Monday on testimony that he:

Is an incurable horse player who spends all his spare time at the tracks.

Never liked what she offered him for dinner.

Embarrassed and humiliated her with vile language.

Monopolized the conversation when they entertained guests, but sometimes went to bed in the middle of the evening, leaving her to carry on.

Kept their home in such a "constant uproar she lost weight, got nervous and had crying spells.

The 29-year-old actress and former model said in court she expects Rooney soon to take wife No. 5, after obtaining a Mexican divorce. She identified his roguish interest as model Barbara Thomason, 20.

Miss Mahnken won a $351,720 property settlement from the 38-year-old actor. They married in 1952 and have no children. Rooney previously was married to Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase and Martha Vickers.

Bear Is Shot Without Moving From Cottage

COBALT (CP)—Hunting parties found bears scarce in the Timmins district but a Cobalt prospector shot one here Monday without even moving from his cottage.

He dropped the steak with two pans from a .303-calibre rifle.

Organized groups of hunters scoured the Timmins district 100 miles northwest of here the same day but got only one bear in the drive in coal Buckingham Palace guards with ceremonial bearskin caps. They shot three 1,000-pounders Saturday.

Mr. Mackay said he'd contribute his catch to the Timmins bearskin committee if it wanted it. Otherwise the bear will be dumped.

"We have so many bears in the Cobalt area," said the prospector, "that we just throw them in the dump when we shoot them."

Imports of British, European Small Cars Double, Are Now Quarter of All Sold Here

OTTAWA (CP)—Sale of British and European cars and trucks in the first three months of 1959 were nearly double those in January-March last year while sales of Canadian and imported American makes dropped by 368 units.

The bureau of statistics also reported today that European and British cars formed more than a quarter of all cars sold in Canada in the three-month period.

The figures were released after Prime Minister Diefenbaker told Canada's big car manufacturers recently that the government is determined to have small cars made in Canada if United States parent companies undertake such production.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the heads of Ford, Chrysler, General Motors and Studebaker that the government feels very strongly that Canadian manufacturers should not be left out in the small-car race.

The bureau of statistics said today, sales of new passenger and commercial vehicles in the first three months of 1959 rose to 107,597 units, up 14 per cent over last year's figure of 103,198.

Of this total, 20,306 units were British and European passenger and commercial vehicles, compared with 15,539 in 1958. Sales of Canadian and imported U.S. models declined to 87,291 from 87,659.

Sales of all cars in March advanced 19 per cent to 48,212 units from 40,596 last year. They included 9,661 British and European units, up from 6,514 a year ago.

Retail value of all sales in the first quarter of 1959 rose by 11 per cent to $307,911,000 from $314,468,000 in 1958. March sales had a value of $149,537,000, an increase of nearly 20 per cent compared with $125,078,000 last year.

The month's retail value of sales of British and European makes climbed to $39,900,000 from $28,749,000, boosting the three-month figure to $43,754,000 from $21,919,000.

March sales of new passenger cars rose to 41,102 units, including 8,871 of British and European make. This compared with 34,301 in March, 1958, including 6,030 from Britain and Europe.

In the January-March period, sales of new passenger cars rose to 99,805 units from 86,853 in 1958. British and European cars accounted for 27,843 units this year — compared with 14,391 last year.

ENGINEER HELD, SAID PLOTTED TO MURDER RIVAL

Two Payments Of $250 Made

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP) A soft-spoken electronics engineer was arrested Wednesday night and accused of plotting a "kill now, pay later" conspiracy to eliminate a love rival.

Police said they jailed Arthur Herbert Reeser Smith 40, after he turned over the second of two $250 payments and a promissory note for $1,500 to Charles Hilton Johnston, 41.

Smith was booked on suspicion of soliciting another person to commit murder.

Johnston, who described himself as a former soldier of fortune, told police Smith hired him to kill another man he said was alienating a friend's affections.

ANSWERED AN AD

C. A. Pantaleoni, district attorney's investigator, told this story:

Smith placed a card in Johnston's May 4 and asked him about an ad Johnston published in a Pasadena newspaper, offering to undertake dangerous missions for money. He offered Johnston $6,000 to kill Joseph D. Reed, a former teacher at Santa Fe, N.M., high school.

Smith said Reed had come between him and Mrs. Jane Worthington, 40, a teacher at the New Mexico school. Johnston notified South Pasadena police.

Detective Sgt. Donald Roberts said he met Smith May 16 when he was working with Johnston and got the first $250 down payment. Wednesday night, he said, he got the second payment. He said the remainder was to be paid after Reed was killed.

Electioneering in Ontario Begins to Look Like Old Times

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Touches of old - time political electioneering were injected into the Ontario election campaign Wednesday night. They came complete with fireworks of two varieties.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald rolled up his shirtsleeves in a hot and humid Kitchener Auditorium and hurled a scathing attack at Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and the Liberal platform for the June 11 election.

Verbal fireworks crackled as MacDonald used the terms "weasel words," "deceit," "election bait," "political delivery" and "an election facade" to describe the Liberal "grab-bag of election gimmicks."

The CCF-leader also called for Mr. Wintermeyer's resignation over his purchase of cut - rate natural gas contracts.

About 100 miles east, in the Lake Ontario town of Cobourg, Mr. Wintermeyer received one of the most enthusiastic receptions of the campaign. He was met outside town by a motor cavalcade headed up by two bands and a bevy of drum majorettes.

The parade weaved through the business district to a rallysite and finally ended by a lakeside pavilion. Fireworks display preceded the Liberal leader's campaign speech.

Premier Frost visited Stratford and Chatham for speeches which reviewed Liberal gains in the yelop - letter treatment of the mentally ill and gambling naturegas as a valuable source of energy for the home.

Mr. MacDonald chose Mr. Wintermeyer's home town for his attack on the Liberal leader, speaking to 175 persons in the 400-seat auditorium.

"The Liberal platform is one part federal thievery, one part retreat from its own trial balloons and one part deceit," he said. "It is an attempt to deceive the people of Ontario. The Liberal platform is one of any kind or at all of where the money is to come from."

Mr. Wintermeyer used to talk of a sales tax but now is quiet on the subject, the CCF leader said. But he was opposed to more corporation tax and even suggested that the logging tax be removed.

The Liberals are more conservative than the Conservatives in their attitude toward the big corporations and they are now making an abject bid for corporation financing of their election campaign.

Mr. MacDonald said the Liberal Ontario had admitted buying cut-rate stock in Northern Ontario Natural Gas and should resign because of it.

"Some people in the Liberal party have invested privately that because of his involvement he should resign from party leadership."

Mr. Wintermeyer completed his tour of Eastern Ontario with the biggest audience of his campaign in Cornwall, persons in the Cobourg pavilion.

He told them of the Liberal

Single-Party Rule Pattern For New Nations in Africa

BRAZZAVILLE, French Congo (AP)—The emerging new states of Africa are moving away from democracy as a means of government.

The reasons are many, but the results usually are the same—a one-party politburo in which debate brooks no opposition.

In most of the 12 states of the French community a one-party system already is in force. The same is true in Ghana.

Attention has been turned recently on a newly independent Guinea, where Premier Sekou Toure runs a marxist-style state and opposition of the Western ber-stamp parliament exists only in exile in Europe and in democratic Guinea party.

Toure says his party is more democratic than most. There is plenty of discussion among the more than 4,000 village committees. This may be true, but there still critical decisions and anyone raising an opposing voice risks exile or jail.

Some 50 political prisoners are held in jail in the Cameroons. Another will become independent Jan. 1.

Opposition Leader Jacques Ossanguilt is in jail in the Malagasy Republic on charges linked to the riots that shook Brazzaville earlier this year.

In the Ivory Coast, strongman Felix Houphouet-Boigny, backer of the pro-French Democratic Party, tells he would not tolerate an opposition party asked for financial assistance from the community.

The reasons given for this state of affairs are many. Some Africans say that underdeveloped states need strong government to get on the road to stable democracy. And more than 90 per cent of the people there are illiterate. They are used to a system of strong rule. The French opposition often is simply a group of "outs" who want to be "ins."

In Dahomey, where two rival parties are fighting to decide who will take over the reins, the only thing dividing the leaders is personal rivalry.

Where opposition parties are strong, it sometimes is because of geographic or tribal necessity —not any democratic leanings.

WORLD ECONOMIC GAP GROWING SAYS PEARSON

Too Many Agencies Cause Duplication

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite West-ern economic aid, the gap between the world's haves and have-nots seems to be widening, Liberal Leader Pearson said in the Commons Wednesday.

He was agreeing with Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby - Coquitlam), who said during debate on foreign aid that "the rich are getting richer faster than the poor are getting less poor."

Perhaps too many cooks in the shape of various international economic assistance agencies are tendering most effective results through duplication, suggested Mr. Pearson. Perhaps they should be united together.

MUST STICK TO UN

But at all costs, they must remain under international auspices closely as possible to the United Nations for best results.

Useful work had been done in studying the economic gap between people but that is not enough. It is perhaps increasing rather than decreasing.

The Commons approved a government proposal for introduction of legislation increasing Canada's commitments to the World Bank to $750,000,000 from $225,000,000 and to the International Monetary Fund to $550,000,000 from $300,000,000.

Mr. Regier said that if the U.S. hadn't entered the picture the political reasons to prevent a World War III would be willing to build high Aswan dam the "catastrophe" of Suez would have been avoided.

POLITICAL DANGER

Mr. Pearson agreed with Mr. Regier that the idea of U.S. participation in such projects as the International Fund and the World Bank raised the danger of political factors rather than economic factors influencing a course of action.

It was for that reason he suggested that there be a United Nations international in character as possible and tying them closely to the UN.

Mr. Regier urged that Canada join in the recommendation of the UN that a country's contributions to bank and fund should equal one per cent of that nation's gross national production.

Paul Martin, (McMillan — Windsor) said that while he agrees wholeheartedly with the idea of the two organizations the thought occurs that the UN Canada is helping to build up trade competition for herself.

Gould Wins London Prasie

LONDON (Reuters)— Canadian pianist Glenn Gould received a warm reception Wednesday from a crowd of about 2,500 as he gave the first of four Beethoven concerts in London's Royal Festival Hall.

Gould, a native of Toronto, described the audience as "quite wonderful."

London newspapers today praised Gould's performance as "a thought some of his mannerisms rather eccentric.

Dinner May Be Turning Point Of Geneva Talks

Grokyko Wants to Know West's Minimum Terms

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers met tonight at a dinner that could prove a turning point in the wary negotiations over a summit conference agreement.

Some high diplomats attached great importance to the dinner, though it is billed as "purely social."

British and French officials said the assembly of 12 leading men of the Big Four conference on the ville of Geneva Secretary Christian Herter offered an opportunity to get away from the repetitive formal debate in the regular sessions and come to grips with the problems.

They even spoke of a possible start of such social affairs as a means of swinging the conference into more private negotiations.

TRY DAMPEN

U.S. officials, however, attempted to dampen growing interest in the dinner. They said there was no thought before hand of any decision to get down to brass tacks—that the meeting would promote any secret talks.

Chief Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is believed going to prod the Western ministers into letting him know what their terms are for a conference on a summit conference.

The Western representatives at the Big Four foreign ministers' table of what concessions if any Russia will be willing to make, so far they were refusing to agree to implied Soviet suggestions that they open talks on their overall peace plan for German reunification and get down to bargaining to get individual issues as the future of Berlin.

Chiefly on French insistence, the Western ministers were holding back until Gromyko proposed proposals more acceptable to them than any he has come up with.

Gromyko's very opposing moves were made only in the formal sessions of the conference at the Palais des Nations and in private talks with the Western ministers, especially Selwyn Lloyd of Britain.

Western diplomats reported that Gromyko apparently was getting secret talks started among top delegates.

As the conference moved toward the end of its second week, Western diplomats doubted Gromyko's actions and statements clearly indicated the possibility of a summit parley as Russia's primary objective here.

The big story said, is what price the Soviet Union will pay to meet the Western requirement that the foreign ministers show progress to justify a conference of government heads.

The debate over the rival Soviet and Western proposals for German reunification and a European security settlement continued through Friday and may run into next week.

Believe Missing Boat Found Send 'Copter to Make Certain

DETROIT (CP) — The U.S. Coast Guard sent a helicopter to investigate a small craft sighted by searchers in the Lake Erie area today and searchers believe it is the 26-foot fishing boat missing in the gale and the storm-lashed lake since last Wednesday.

The craft was reported to have "at least" eight young persons aboard and is adrift.

A flotilla of coast guard boats aided by a small fleet of civilian craft was in the area where a spokesman said is a "very" likely location.

Shortly after 8 a.m. one of the search planes spotted a boat which appeared to have motor trouble. It circled low over the area about 40 miles north west of Sea-fridge Field, and a half mile north of Strawberry Island in the St. Clair flats area.

The plane said "everything appeared to be all right."

Officials at the coast guard rescue station in Detroit said the report was not definite" that the sighted boat was the Hobo, but other possibilities are matched a description of the boat.

DOWN THE LAKE

The boat was piloted by Paul Flaherty, 20, of Grosse Pointe set out from the Clinton River and on this fashionable suburban area at 6 p.m. Wednesday, and was believed to be about 20 miles down the lake.

Flaherty would come from gas turbines. The rails would provide an even surface, for the compartment air and would be used in braking.

Dr. Kucher said the Levacar has no application as a free road vehicle. Instead it would be practical for short commuter trips because it would need 15 to 20 miles to gain full acceleration and a similar distance to slow it.

The model has no brakes. When you turn off the power, you begin an eerie, coasting glide, which in some ways must be similar to the feeling of weightlessness which comes at extremely high speed.

Touring Belgian King Coming in for Criticism

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin is touring visiting the United States, has been coming in for criticism at home. Socialist newspapers said today his American tour, regarded here as a personal success, is the first time being quieted some of the criticism.

The San Francisco where Baudouin visited Wednesday night, a spokesman for the king said "it's all nonsense: we are not in the worst worries."

SECURITY ACTION

The precautions have been taken to guard the king and his party against possible attack.

Police said they jailed Arthur Herbert Reeser Smith 40, after he turned over the second of two $250 payments and a promissory note for $1,500 to Charles Hilton Johnston, 41.

Smith was booked on suspicion of soliciting another person to commit murder.

Johnston, who described himself as a former soldier of fortune, told police Smith hired him to kill another man he said was alienating a friend's affections.

ANSWERED AN AD

C. A. Pantaleoni, district attorney's investigator, told this story:

Smith placed a card in Johnston's May 4 and asked him about an ad Johnston published in a Pasadena newspaper, offering to undertake dangerous missions for money. He offered Johnston $6,000 to kill Joseph D. Reed, a former teacher at Santa Fe, N.M., high school.

Detective Sgt. Donald Roberts said he met Smith May 16 when he was working with Johnston and got the first $250 down payment. Wednesday night, he said, he got the second payment. He said the remainder was to be paid after Reed was killed.

Israeli Who Saw Family Murdered Joins Foreign Legion to Get Killer

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)— An Israeli who saw his family murdered in a Rumanian concentration camp and spent 10 years tracking down the Nazi officer who shot him to death when they both were fighting for the French Foreign Legion, it was disclosed here Wednesday.

Eliahu Itzkovich told the story of his relentless pursuit to a military court which jailed him for deserting from the Israeli army.

The court, releasing his evidence Wednesday, said it believed his story and sentenced him to a year's imprisonment, which he has already served.

This was the story:

After the wartime massacre of his father, mother and three brothers, Itzkovich, then 19 years old, escaped and came out of the camp and hidden by a Christian Rumanian family.

"When Rumania had been liberated, I had no other thought except revenge," he told the court.

His search for the murderer, a local Fascist leader, led him to the man's son, whom Itzkovich met in the fight—a crime which landed him in a Rumanian reform school for five years.

No Settlement Yet in Sight In Sarnia Strike

TORONTO (CP)—Special inquiry commissioner Eric G. Taylor said Wednesday night, following negotiations here aimed at ending the 64-day strike at the Crown-owned Polymer Corporation plant in Sarnia, that there is no sign of an early settlement.

Talks revolved around complex non-monetary issues, Mr. Taylor will continue to mediate at talks today between Local 16-14, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) and company representatives, but will adjourn them to fulfil another assignment in Western Canada.

Mr. Taylor said there was no reason why talks could not go on in his absence.

Meanwhile in Sarnia Local 16-14 officials sent a telegram to federal Works Minister Green requesting his intervention in civic politics pressure on 14 directors by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The telegram requested that Mr. Green cancel the notices. The union claims all were advances and have been unable to pay rent since the strike began.

Union officials said their effort to guarantee payment of outstanding rents after the men return to work was rejected by officials of the CMHC London office.

TV Technicians Reject Report by Judge Anderson

TORONTO (CP)—CBC technicians throughout Canada have voted to strike if necessary to achieve a satisfactory contract settlement with CBC management, it was announced today.

Timothy O'Sullivan, head of the negotiating committee of the 1,268-member National Association of Broadcast and Technical Employees (CLC), said 87.5 per cent of those voting balloted in favor of strike action.

A strike could affect all CBC networks. The association bargains for radio and TV technicians from Halifax to Vancouver.

Mr. O'Sullivan said nearly 80 per cent of the membership voted in 22 locations throughout Canada in the three-day ballot.

The majority voted to reject the report of a board of conciliation headed by Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville. The report recommended an eight-per-cent increase in three stages over 18 months.

Mr. O'Sullivan said the negotiating committee will meet in Ottawa Monday and will be prepared to meet with CBC officials.

No Information On Red Troops Seen in Tibet

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — An Indian government spokesman said today India has "no information" about any Soviet troops in Tibet.

Authoritative sources in Gangtok, Sikkim, stated Wednesday that Soviet troops arrived recently in Gyantse, central Tibet, and had gone into action against Tibetan rebels.)

Indian political circles said it was unlikely that there would be Soviet troops in Tibet because the Chinese Red army was strong enough.

But there might be some Soviet military technicians called in to help rebuild bridges destroyed during the uprising, or to build new ones.

Rides on Film of Air Above Rail As Ford Tests Wheel-Less Vehicle

DETROIT (AP)—I rode at 15 miles an hour on a cushion of air in a sleek white and red vehicle some experts believe is a prototype of the car of the future.

The vehicle is the first, full-scale model of a wheel-less propelled car which slides on air about 1-32nd of an inch above a steel rail.

The Levacar is a development of the Ford Motor Company, pioneered by Dr. Andrew A. Kucher, vice-president of engineering and research.

The model is built for passenger and is slightly smaller than a Volkswagen. It has a liv-borrepower blower to propel it. Compressed air is forced through three metal pads on the underside. The pads look much like what like the bottom of a household steam iron.

Dr. Kucher envisions the Levacar as highspeed ground transportation between cities such as Detroit and Chicago.

"It would skim over flat rails, like the present railroads," he said. "It speeds of 500 to 600 miles an hour."

Power would come from gas

Dr. Kucher said the Levacar has no application as a free road vehicle. Instead it would be practical for short commuter trips because it would need 15 to 20 miles to gain full acceleration and a similar distance to slow it.

The model has no brakes. When you turn off the power, you begin an eerie, coasting glide, which in some ways must be similar to the feeling of weightlessness which comes at extremely high speed.

Bible Society Shows Need Of More Funds

The annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, on Sunday, May 24th, at 8.45 p.m. The meeting will be chaired by the Rev. R. D. MacLean, who has acted as president since the former president, Rev. Keith Daniel, left Belleville to take up another church appointment.

The British and Foreign Bible Society is now 158 years old and operates throughout the world, translating, publishing and distributing the Holy Scriptures in the various languages of mankind. During 1958 the society reached an all-time high in its attainments, and the results were in no small part due to the fine work of the many branches throughout the Dominion. In this work, Belleville played its usual prominent part, and the total of $734 was sent to headquarters in Toronto.

1% of this amount is published by the Bible Society in 1958, and this total, together with other publications of Testaments and Gospels, and "Portions" (selected extracts from the figure of over 9 million which were sent out. The shipments went to 53 languages and went to 53 different countries.

It is interesting to note that in this year alone, the Scriptures are needed in over 1,000 tongues. It is estimated that the shipments made during the coming year weighed 1,200 tons. The tremendous task of future expansion of the work was revealed by the fact that the translation committees throughout the world working on 324 new projects, with little hope of diminishing demand for the Scriptures in almost every country of the world, and the ever increasing demands for 1959 are over 20 million copies, which presents an added problem to the activity of the Christian Missionary enterprise, and the ever increasing world growth of world literacy, often without the knowledge of the church but now sponsored and encouraged by many governments, who recognized the importance of the Bible message.

INCREASING DEMAND

It is the task of the society to provide the Bible primarily for the millions of nations of the convinced Christian, and to this end the British and Foreign Bible Society is devoted as the hand-maid of the churches. But increasingly the demand is spreading far beyond the membership of the churches. Many millions of people, not yet belonging to the Christian faith, whose ambition for a better way of life has been sharpened by their recently acquired ability to read, are clamoring for the Christian Scriptures. Others besides the United Society, the Bible Society are seizing this opportunity, and in India for example, the flow of Communist literature last year was over shadowed by the fact that more than a million volumes of the Bible were distributed.

To present the Society publishes serially in newspapers, broadcasts over the various radio stations its daily readings, sends round its vans and colportage, and sets up stalls in towns and villages and cities wherever it can. The greatest difficulty is that of money. The total cost of producing and distributing the Scriptures during 1958 was $2,800,000. The loss on the work of nearly 1 million dollars was made up by the generous contributions of the supporters of the Society in England, Canada, Australia, South Africa and elsewhere. In the promised demand for 1959 is to be met donations must substantially increase throughout the world. Our Canadian Society has assumed greater responsibility than ever before, and it is hoped that the Canadian contributions to this vital work may reach $750,000 this year. Canada has also offered to be completely responsible for the provision of a special fund for Japan, and the children of Canadian Sunday Schools are being asked to try to raise $30,000 as a special project.

PLAYS VITAL ROLE

The work of the Bible Society can no longer be considered as one of the outside charities of the Church. By playing a vital role in human history and if we really believe in the boastful truth of establishing of God's Kingdom on earth, we cannot be lulled to sleep with the Kingdom's whole origin and organization comes from and depends upon God's Holy Word.

The special guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Belleville Branch this year will be the District Secretary, the Rev. broadcast over the Belleville Colin R. Rudd, who will also radio station at 3.30 p.m. and preach in Holloway St. United Church in the morning and in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in light. The election of the executive will take place at

Professor Lower Special Speaker For Historians

A heavy downpour of rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the more than thirty persons who attended the second annual meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society, Tuesday evening.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Prof. Arthur R. M. Lower of Queen's University, a well known Canadian historian and author of many penetrating books including the recently "Colony to Nation" and "Canadians in the Making."

Prof. Lower's will spend next year studying nationalism and bi-culturism, for the various countries of the British Commonwealth, spoke on local history.

He pointed out that the settlers were destroyers as well as creators. Not only did they carve their homesteads out of a wilderness, but they also destroyed the scenic beauty of many areas of Canada.

The result of this devastation locally has been the formation of the Conservation Historic and Parkway Association (CHAPA) with Mr. Lower as chairman). This Association aims to preserve the remaining scenic attractions of the Quinte area.

Prof. Lower commented on what he called the "engineering mind" — the desire to build roads, railways, etc, should be absolutely straight.

Prof. Lower noted that, while in past years a perfectly straight road was the desire, desirable since it crossed uninhabited prairie or passed through forests, in areas where such straight transportation routes sometimes harm what scenic beauty remains and may obliterate the evidences of man's past historic homes, etc.

PLEASED WITH TREND

He was pleased with the recent trend to create more museums and local historical societies. This was a healthy sign of an increasing interest in history.

Concerning local historical societies, he noted that the main role in individuals understand the processes and gains of our Society. Local historical societies he noted, "you must study it not only in two dimensions, but in depth as well."

Local historical societies should "you be the starting point gain of Society in a small area," thereby preserving the true appreciation of Society as a whole.

He encouraged the Hastings Historical Society to gather more historical records, letters, diaries, account books, newspapers, etc, which he noted "the historian's ammunition."

Prof. Lower's thought-provoking and entertaining address, Prof. Lower was thanked by Mrs. John Reid.

Chairman for the meeting was Mr. Gerald Hubbs, who re-called as president of the Society for the coming year. Others elected to the executive were: vice-president, Erle Reid; secretary, Miss Helen Fralick; treasurer, Thomas Ransom; and councillors, Mrs. Hazel Fralick Farley (Trenton), Mrs. John English (Melrose), Mrs. Roy Bush (Stirling), Mr. R. L. Bonter (Marmora), and L. H. Price (Actinolite).

Completing the executive are past president, Mr. T. Wright Wrightsman and Warden J. N. Brown, representing County Council.

Following the meeting at Bible Hall, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Boyce.

the meeting after the presentation of the reports, and Mr. Rudd will also have a fine colour film of the work of the Society called, "The Living Word in Japan".

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—After an unsuccessful attempt to move ahead the stock market lost ground today during quiet morning trading.

The 11 a.m. volume of 678,000 shares was a little heavier than Wednesday's 661,000 at the same time.

Industrial changes were mostly fractional with two exceptions. Loblaw Inc., off 10 points to 150 on two sales, and Huron and Erie, down 1¾ at 53¾.

Golds were narrowly higher. Consolidated Discovery added 10 cents at $3.90 and Macassa was up 20 cents to $6. Canadian export fine bullion was quoted at $33.75 to $33.95 an ounce.

Senior base metals were easier with Falconbridge, International Nickel, Hudson Bay and Sherritt-Gordon all narrowly lower. Steep Rock was an exception, adding 5 at 13¾.

All sections lost ground Wednesday.

Final volume was 2,524,000 shares, the lightest since Dec. 11 when 2,315,000 shares were exchanged. Tuesday's total was 3,150,000. Observers blamed the decline to the loss Wednesday on Wall Street.

Golds, which had advanced strongly in the last few sessions, were the victims of selling for profit.

Most industrial changes were fractional although there was a touch of the trend by recording a 1¼ point advance to 28¾ in Steel of Canada.

Canadian Breweries, Ford A, Canada Iron Foundries, Toronto Elevators and Dominion Stores were also up by at least a point while Loblaw Inc. losing 7 at 151 on a few sales.

In mines and western oils, key issues generally declined in a moderate to narrow range while pierced stocks in each list had small gains.

Base issues: industrials 1.61 to 326.40; golds 2.02 to 93.06; base metals 169.66 to 173.85; western oils 1.96 to 128.15.

Health Board Seeks Action About Duplex

TRENTON — How would it reflect on the Board of Health if one of the babies should die? This was the question which was asked at the regular meeting of the Trenton Board of Health held in the Municipal Building's Board Room yesterday afternoon after it had been brought to the attention of the group that a duplex on John Street was without running water and inside toilet facilities. Reporting on the situation, H. S. Pane, chairman of the board, told the two families living in the duplex obtained their water from a well near the building and that the well was only a short distance from two outhouses. Mr. Pane said he had taken a sample of the well water and sent it in for testing and the report stated the water should be boiled before being consumed. He said he had informed the residents of the duplex about this but he did not know if they were boiling the well water or not. He also told the board he understood there were only two small children in the building.

Dr. C. W. Dew, Trenton Health Officer, said he felt the owner of the duplex should be note oi cpportunity to install the inside facilities and that the board be'ore he ahead and order it done and have it collected if the owner refused. He also made the motion that the board recommend that the owner install the inside facilities and that the board be ordered to have it done if the owner refused to do so.

The board was informed that the town sewer line and sewage disposal plant for the Glen Miller area had been completed and could not be ready to connect the duplex into the lines. It was also felt that one toilet should be sufficient for each apartment as well as a tap to supply pure fresh water.

The town would pay the initial cost of installation and it would be added to the property owner in annual payments over the next five years, the board was told.

Relatives Still Continue Search For Three Bodies

Search for the bodies of the three missing Belleville men drowned in Lake Opeongo in Algonquin Park last Friday night is still being continued by friends and relatives of the families, and is expected to be resumed this weekend.

It was announced today that Lands and Forests officers and Provincial Police are not now assisting in the search. This weekend numerous volunteers from the Belleville area are expected to join in the hunt. Several members of the local skin diving club are reported ready to join the search if the conditions warrant.

Four Belleville men were drowned when their powered skiff capsized as they were on their way up the lake on a fishing trip.

The body of Glenn Rodgers, Geddes Street, was recovered on Saturday morning along with the two overturned skiffs.

Still missing are the bodies of Murray Cornell, Ray H. Doolp and Harry "Stub" Nickle, all well known in the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

Ross Newson, 30 Has Left Arm Nearly Cut Off

TRENTON — Ross Newson, 30-year-old scrap yard worker, was rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital yesterday morning after his left arm caught in a metal cutter and was nearly severed at the elbow.

He underwent surgery at 1 p.m. yesterday afternoon and the doctor in attendance told relatives that his arm has been clipped up and there is a possibility it may not have to be amputated, although it will never be the same. He will be kept in the hospital for about two weeks and then released. If proper signs of healing show he will undergo surgery again to have the nerves, etc, properly connected.

Mr. Newson, who has been employed by Jack Zigman's for the past three months and lived with his parents in Wellington, has been operating the metal shears for some time.

His brother, Phillip, who also works at Zigman's, said it was not known how Mr. Newson caught his arm in the machine. He was taken to the hospital in Mr. Zigman's car immediately following the mishap.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — The display of fish will remain at the Provincial Fish Hatchery Centre. This was decided at the last regular meeting of the board when the question was brought up whether or not the tropical fish on display at the entrance should remain. It was reported that the fish and other exhibits are in the meeting that the auditorium be used for storage purposes only as far as painting the walls were concerned and the members felt auditorium had never been painted to match with other and the members agreed that the paint would be purchased and the work done as soon as possible. The floor will also be refinished as the original finish of varnish has worn off and the bare hardwood is exposed to wear.

A special meeting with a representative of the Lakeland Gas Company by the Trenton Town Council yesterday drawn a policy in which the town streets would be repaired following the installation of lateral lines from the gas mains to the homes. The natural gas company at ways ready to co-operate with the town officials in town fathers that a representative of their company would be sent to Trenton in the near future to examine all streets in town which have not the line installed and proper arrangements made with the town engineer, Mr. Thorn, and have them suitably and finally repaired. The manager of the gas operated heaters at the Community Centre was also brought up at the special meeting and the company was asked to get in touch with Jack Farrell, chairman of the Community Centre to review the situation there, it was felt the Community Centre is the only problem at the Community Centre concerning the gas heaters was the size of the brackets holding the heaters to the ceiling of the building.

Work on the pumping station for the new sewage disposal plant is progressing on schedule. The pumps for the station have been dug and the cement floor on which they will be mounted is present the forms for the cement walls are being put in place and the concrete for the base will be poured from time to time. Out on the lake front the huge barge and crane can be seen steadily working at the cleaning out of the trench which was blasted in the river bottom last winter while the sewage line was installed. A deep-sea diver is employed by the company during the work of laying the cement pipe in the trench as well as bolting the long lengths of pipe together before the pipe is placed in the trench it will be covered over and in this way there will be no obstruction or danger to pleasure craft or other boats passing over it. It is also expected that the sewage disposal plant will be in operation towards the end of this year.

The rough spots and the holes on Marmora Street which now hold water from running away from the street and when the new asphalt is laid later this year, Eric Aldersey, town engineer, said yesterday. The engineer had also received complaints that the residue from the paper mill which has been placed on the streets to keep dust down releases an objectional odor but the last heavy rain has washed most of the residue away into the storm sewers. Mr. Aldersey said that in the past oil had been used on the streets to keep the dust down but this had not proved reasonably satisfactory in some cases, especially when asphalt was later put on the streets. He said the oil worked underneath the pavement with detrimental effects.

Work began yesterday on the removal of the large trees in the area behind the library. The company doing the work is from Port Hope and have been contracted by the Trenton Parks Board. The removal of these trees was deemed necessary when tests showed the large trees were cutting badly at the timber and posed a serious threat to the library if a high wind should blow in the west. They will be replaced by a hedge.

H. S. Pane, chairman of the Trenton Board of Health, informed the members at the regular meeting yesterday afternoon that the machine which is testing the air for pollution in Trenton has now been placed in the area of the Canada Creosoting Company and will remain there for a week. Mr. Pane said no reports have been received as yet as the tape now on the machine is good for six weeks and has not been used up as yet. It was reported by members of the Health Board that large clouds of smoke have been seen coming from the Dufferin Public School as well as the Trenton High School. Will Fire Mice Around Earth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unofficial sources say the U.S. Air Force hopes to fire four mice into orbit around the earth one day—and later recover them intact.

Western Aviation Magazine asserted:

"Four mice will ride as passengers aboard a Discoverer III on a journey around the earth. Air Force base, Calif. . . with an attempt to be made for recovery of the payload capsule near Hawaii."

The Los Angeles Examiner says the launching possibly would be today.

Air force officials released no information for publication about such a shot.

The mice would be the first animals the United States had tried to shoot into space and recover.

The Russians placed a dog into orbit in 1957 in Sputnik II but no recovery attempt was made.

Information on Sewer Costs To Be Assembled by C. of C.

DESERONTO — That there is considerable interest in the idea of having sewers installed in the town was evidenced at the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night. D. R. Casale addressed the council on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and pointed out that the Chamber is neither for nor against sewers in the town, but felt that all available information on the subject should be compiled and so that purpose have organized a committee, who will assist in gathering this information for the consideration of the public. In this respect the council had a letter from a Toronto firm offering for the sum of $400 to submit an estimate on the cost of sewers.

Some members of the council felt that first consideration should be given to supply of suitable water to the residents and as a result of the discussion it was resolved that definite steps are being taken in that direction. Council will also obtain an estimate from a Kingston firm also before they decide to accept the tender from Toronto.

HIRE NEW CONSTABLE

Among other business at the meeting was the hiring of a police constable. The salary from Toronto, at a salary of $2,200. This was done on the recommendation of the police committee after council had received an opinion from solicitors of council could review the applications and that the salary of $2,200 was approved the council was unanimous.

J. D. Lawson spoke to council regarding the title to the land and wharf property where he is building a marine basin. He revealed that the water rights are still vested in the name of the Rathbun Co. and he felt it was time the council to correct the situation. He stated that he already had over fifty applications from owners of cruisers and felt that the completion of his marina would be of considerable advantage to the town. Council voted to take legal steps necessary to clear the water rights and the costs of said action are to be borne by Mr. Dawson.

On recommendation of the property committee the contract for the repairs to the town hall were awarded to R. Dawson. The repairs to the Library were left until the meeting with the Library Board could be arranged as the estimated cost of the repairs would be over $2,000.

The Lions Club were given permission for the use of the town park for Aug. 20, 21, and 22. A request from K. Grossett for the purchase of a town lot was referred to the property committee, and the streets committee were also authority to remove a tree in front of the residence of Mrs. E. M. Webster.

The Dept. of Health at Toronto advised that they approved the appointment of Dr. D. C. McVicker as health officer and the planting of a tulip bed in the form of the Guide emblem was referred to the property committee .

All members of the council with the exception of Councillor Therrien were present.

HE SPOKE TOO QUICKLY

We have all heard the story about the unfortunate fellow who was appointed a delegate to some convention which was discussing a subject concerning which he had little knowledge and who found himself in the unhappy position of not knowing whether he should sit silently through the debate and be thought a fool, or whether he should join the discussion and be proven one.

Personally we have always favored the silent treatment for problems like this and we think that Mr. S. G. B. Robinson, executive secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, should consider its advantages.

Although it was not lack of knowledge which got him into difficulty, his fault was basically the same - - speaking too soon before he had grasped the full import of the remarks of his adversary.

At the convention of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, meeting in Cornwall, Percy Muir, executive director of the Ontario School Trustees' Association, voiced his distrust in the leadership of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation. Now Mr. Robinson cannot be blamed for wishing to express promptly a contrary opinion, but he might have taken the precaution of first making certain he understood what Mr. Muir had said.

According to The Canadian Press Mr. Muir said: "I'm afraid they (the Teachers Federation leadership) will build up sufficient resentment against them in school boards that he will do what we did in the 1930s when we get back in the driver's seat."

Retorted Mr. Robinson: "I am sorry to find Mr. Muir longing for a return of 'the hungry thirties' so trustees can show their resentment toward the teaching profession. I hope for the sake of education in Ontario that the trustees will not follow the questionable tactics which he advises."

Now we would join with Mr. Robinson in deploring any person who longed for a return to the "hungry thirties," but we cannot discover in Mr. Muir's statement any indication of such a longing. We should also deplore the persons advising trustees to use questionable tactics in dealing with teachers, but surely Mr. Muir cannot be said to be advising such tactics when he says that "I'm afraid" they may be used.

Mr. Robinson appears to have answered Mr. Muir without really bothering to understand what Mr. Muir said. The result is that Mr. Robinson's words tend to confirm Mr. Muir's contention that the leadership of the Federation is "questionable." It may well be that Mr. Muir's charge is unfounded - - which makes Mr. Robinson's careless handling of his reply all the more unfortunate.

BRITAIN OUTLAWS SWITCH-BLADE KNIVES

Britain has outlawed the manufacture of switch-blade knives.

We do not know what lawful use there is for such an implement, but nevertheless we suspect that a law outlawing the manufacture of this style of knife will do relatively little to curb its abuse.

If there is any lesson to be drawn from this announcement it is that people are much alike wherever they live and that the picture we often paint for ourselves of a law-abiding Britain, with all its inhabitants devoted to the ideal of behavior which is "cricket," is just a deception.

The knife, though, hardly seems like the appropriate weapon for a Briton. Perhaps the reason why, in the past, most brawls in Britain appear to have been conducted with the fist is that the English equivalent of the six-gun of the Wild West, the long bow of Sherwood Forest, is a little difficult to conceal.

FIRE LIGHT

The conditions of the African should be bettered and one of the greatest boons that could take place would be to enable the African to enjoy a warm comfortable home in Northern Rhodesia. It is only in this way that Africans can be stopped from "sitting around the fire and talking subversion." This was said by Mr. John Gaunt, M.P., when he spoke at the annual dinner of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Lusaka. (Central African.)

A LAND LUBBER

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I do not care to aviate,
To run an aeroplane;
I'm satisfied if on the earth
I only may remain.

I have no wish to fly about
From Seecy cloud to cloud;
I have a face, two legs and arms
Of which I'm very proud.

And while it may be very nice
To sail the azure blue,
I do not care to break a leg
Or even a rib or two.

I do not care to aviate;
On earth I'm glad to stop
Where if I fall I still may live
To take another drop.

Birds Best Insect 'Spray'

New York Times.

There are all sorts of insecticides on the market that are excellent but they have one drawback. They require some effort on the part of the gardener. He must measure, mix and spray, unless he has an electrically driven sprayer. The hard-core dumping of a sprayer handle arm-wearying work, which is probably why so many insecticides are used less often than he should. A better way to conserve one's arm-power is to put out a few suet balls or the like, and watch the birds do the rest. Bird-watching is one of the most rewarding of hobbies, and besides, birds even when cracking or banking food for their young in the spring, take time to sing, which is - - possibly excepting a mockingbird song outside one's window at sun-up - - pleasant. Best of all, the appetite of birds is, fortunately for the gardener, amazing.

* * *

For example, a house wren in an afternoon has been known to feed five hundred caterpillars and spiders to its young. It is to be considered a baltimore oriole may devour seventeen hairy caterpillars per minute. If a nest of young orioles appetites the oriole can keep up this pace, but there are many minutes in a spring afternoon. Or given one oriole, the leaf-chewing caterpillar population should be reduced substantially. The brown thrasher is able to consume more than a thousand insects per day, and a pair of flickers can think nothing of eating five thousand ants while working up an appetite. One swallow can do away with a thousand leaf hoppers in twelve hours. Thus the gardener who is apathetic about spraying or dusting would do well to encourage round himself (and his garden) with birds.

* * *

However, what usually happens is that at winter's end the gardener takes down the bird feeding station, puts it away for the summer and assures that simply because he has a garden he will have birds. The fact is not, as the Garden Club of America Conservation Committee points out, that the foregoing figures on bird appetites, in taking pains to point out in a leaflet, "Berried Treasure for Your Birds" — that birds are wonderful eaters of seeds after winter, shortage. This is, in part, the fault of suburban gardening efficient with certain whose zealous pruning of trees eliminates food in which birds can nest and whose well-kept, shaggy privacies no longer offer catbirds and other birds their like to live in thickets. Large trees resembling old age are being replaced, if at all, by smaller varieties of shrubs and trees of little nesting value. So the gardener who wants birds in his garden needs a place for them to live.

* * *

At the same time he can bring birds to his garden, spring and summer, by feeding them — without appreciably dulling their appetites for insects. Seed eaters enjoy sunflower seeds and millet. Many birds like peanut butter, suet or bacon drippings. Orioles and catbirds are attracted by halves of oranges and apples, particularly if sliced radials or raisins. However, in spring and summer, as in winter. It is better to feed birds at all than to feed them irregularly. The gardener who has been known to draw more than ninety species of birds, including cardinals, robins and bluebirds. Japanese white pine cones are eaten by some species because the soft pulp itself offers nesting sites and shelter.

* * *

High bush blueberries are much sought after by cardinals, brown thrasher, catbirds, robins and about ninety other species. Comparatively new to this part of the country is the Japanese (Skimmia japonica) bearing white flowers in May and bright red fruit in fall. This low-growing evergreen provides good posture, requires little care, and is hardy. There are many more possibilities, but the foregoing hints, whose scarlet fruits last all winter; the Washington hawthorn, a good nesting tree producing plentiful scarlet berries; the Pennsylvania bush or tree cherry (Prunus pennsylvanica).

Find Comma Hard to Evict

Pembroke Observer

Ah, the worries and problems that face the men of high finance and the business . . . but little the rest of us know of the troubles borne by those in high places.

Look, for example, to the directors of Imperial Oil, Limited. Men of drive, initiative and great determination, united in one great task . . . getting rid of a comma.

Most of us can get rid of a comma, notes an Imperial Oil executive, simply by crying sin git, this (,) becomes this (.) But it's not that easy for Imperial Oil Limited. It wants to become plain old Imperial Oil Limited.

The company has not used its commas for year, there are legal reasons for keeping the dots evicted from the company's name. But this isn't as simple as it sounds.

The legal surgery began last February when the directors executed a by-law. This had to be approved by shareholders at a "special" meeting, and so it was decided to take time out for one minute for "weighter business of this year's "regular" annual meeting.

The shareholders said "yes", and the company must now apply to the Secretary of State at Ottawa for supplementary letters patent to change its name under the Companies Act. Only if this is granted will the (.) be dropped from the official place it has had in the company's name since 1911.

The company says it has no doubt it will get the dot back.

Letter To the Editor

Seeks Information About Huguenots

Editor:

Ontario Intelligencer

I am making a comprehensive study of the Huguenots (French Protestants) in Canada and find that a large number of persons have Huguenot blood in their veins. Since I am the author of such a study and wish to trace the origin and contribution of Huguenots in Canada, there are no records available to encourage such persons. In my study so far I have found many but they have no appreciation of what wonderful people the Huguenots were and what contributions they have made to Canada.

I would therefore request that such persons advise me of their background and provide me with what data they can in connection with it. Only in this way will I be able to give credit where credit is due. Such information will be included in my forthcoming book entitled "The Trail of the Huguenot Cross".

Thanking-you for your cooperation in this matter.

Yours truly,

Significantly only four or five species of North American birds have vanished into extinction since the continent was colonized. One of these, the passenger pigeon, laid only a single egg.

Several species, notably forest birds such as the woodpecker, may have declined. But in general man's clearing of the land has greatly helped the songbirds. Phoebes seem to prefer nesting about bridges and barns rather than in their ancestral sites on banks and cliffs.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

EFFECTS OF TOBACCO VARY ON DIFFERENT PEOPLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had two heart attacks in the past year. I've smoked since I was 17 and enjoy it very much. Under these circumstances do you think it would be beneficial to stop smoking entirely? Or would cutting the cigarets to half a pack be all that is necessary? I am 46 now.

"One thing that all the enjoyment has been taken away no coffee, no salt, etc. — Mrs. K."

You're asking me to agree with you, aren't you? Well, I'll give you a straight answer. But I want to tuck in a few added thoughts first.

You've read this column for some time, and you know that I persistently preach the idea of "moderation in all things." And the disadvantages of overuse of almost anything — tobacco, coffee, salt, alcohol, or eating in general.

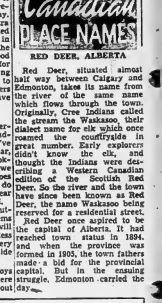
Now as to the effect of smoking on heart trouble, people differ, but I'll say this; Nobody approves of heavy smoking for anyone, especially those with heart disease. Some authorities — and good ones, too — will allow an occasional smoke. They believe that the habitual smoker will become so nervous over the anxiety and tension caused by a complete cut-off, and that this relief (if an occasional cigaret will provide it) helps more than the nervous tension.

Others say that stopping completely is better.

You didn't say what type of heart attack you had, but I presume they were not coronaries, or coronary occlusions, the usual type of "heart attack."

Actually, the use of tobacco must depend on the effect it has on you. Not everybody reacts in exactly the same way. In some it may cause extra heart beats, which means added work for the heart. And in some it causes spasms of the arteries, a restriction of blood flow, and hence more work for the heart. In others, smoking causes practically nothing, and in that governing parking were introduced by Ald. White. They were bolo put through the various readings and passed.

Further, this matter of "cutting down" is all right if it can be done. It takes a lot of will power, and most will succumb, we stop altogether find it very hard to avoid the gradual slide into heavier smoking.



As to coffee, salt and the joys of life, I'd suggest this. There are coffee substitutes (without caffein) and there are salt substitutes which are quite flavorful. Use a little sodium, which is the element in salt which tastes like it, in cases like yours. Give them a try. You'll find that the world isn't as dismal as you thought.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything one can do for sneezing? This has developed in the last year. I am told I do not sleep with my mouth open, and do not sleep on my back. It has reached such a stage that no one else can sleep in the same room. — Ruth."

You mention the two usual remedies — using a chin strap to keep the mouth closed often helps; not lying on the back often, does too. After that, my only suggestion is examination by a specialist to see if developed in the nose or throat. The sneezing spell is caused by the fluttering of tissue somewhere, usually the soft palate.

Dear Ruth: You say, "I've caught myself 'talking' to myself." Don't be afraid of that, and so has any active-minded person at times.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

POSSIBILITIES OF "THE DAY"

In the art of living few, if any, things are more important than the day just at hand. It is there we must stand still and watch it go by we are no better than an ignorant loafer on a side-line just waiting for something to turn up.

Every day of our lives we have bursting with vividness. Even us not be caught asleep and in "air-tight compartments". We ought to dedicate each new day making it a silent and solemn hour to the event! What a thrilling experience to acknowledge that each day we have with us that we have helped to fill that day with hope, courage, love for man and beast, as well as to crown nature in all its glory, God will surely bless us.

The possibilities of every single day are endless as to size. Make every hour count. Be an ambassador of good cheer, if that is the only thing you can think of. That one thing, however, can well be like when a well-spent life.

Youth is filled with these possibilities. From them, in all ages, have come the leaders and inspirers of our daily life. After many trials, one day came to Edison in which was discovered the light that lit up the world!

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some years ago I knew a manager in a thriving small department store who was known as Mr. Customer. That was what he was called inside the organization, and in time that is what most people who knew him inside and outside the business called him.

He had been appointed by the founder of the store when quite a young man. And his job was to look out for the customers' interests, to attend all complaints, to take the customer's side in every conflict between customer and management or customer and clerk. This was long before the days of what is now called public relations.

He was a crisp, peppery type of man. And it wasn't long before everybody in the store except the customers was mad at him. There were times when he almost got fired for being too unbusinesslike on the side of the customers. But he rose to high rank in the company. And they say it was a panic to see him walking calm in board meeting over mark-up, and fighting to keep prices down. Many of the directors often wondered who he was working for.

But the business flourished. And the store was always crowded, and the customers looked happy.

Mr. Customer has been dead ten years now. I was in the store the other day for the first time in five years. It is kind of shabby. It is not as crowded as it used to be. And the customers have a wary look.

Mr. Customer obviously had no successor.

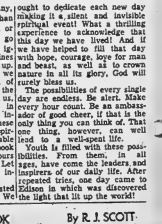
REACHING FOR THE ULTIMATE



Eternal life!

The Bible deals with this topic almost from the first verse to the last. In the early chapters of Genesis we read about the possibility of eternal life. Close to the last chapters of Revelation we find confidence in a heavenly glorious to be completely contained within the bounds of language or even imagery. The Biblical writers seem to want, above all things, to make us conscious of the fact that human life persists forever.

Time is vastly important for us, and if there are other beings in the universe, it is probably equally important for them. Unlimited time will probably be unconscionable. It will be swept aside. The question you and I need to ask ourselves is not whether we shall live forever. Undoubtedly we shall. The big question is: under what condition shall we live? What is our present life fitting us for? Some people who live today will not expect nothing more than the continuation of a beast's life in the future. Those who are now helpful are preparing themselves to be helpful through endless ages. Those who can understand and appreciate the value of spiritual things are preparing themselves for fellowship with untold multitudes in a world which is beyond human sight.

Time never standing still. The truly wise are looking forward, are reaching forward, and yearning forward.

Life was not made to be destroyed. Life is eternal.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
By R. J. SCOTT

Traffic Lanes On Highways To Be Painted

The auditor for the Ontario Department of Highways has completed his annual audit of the Belleville Public Works Department's books and has reported the "records in excellent condition." City engineer Malcolm Turnbull reports that the official copy of this report will be shortly forthcoming and will be made available as soon as it is received. According to the city engineer the department has lost no money on subsidies for the past fiscal year — a situation which not all municipal public works usually enjoy.

Tomorrow the department will commence work on the contract it has with the Department of Highways for the painting of traffic lanes on the provincial highways. City streets have already seen the effects of the artist's brush in many sections with traffic lights, lanes and parking meters having been painted. This cleanup chore is almost completed now.

A lot of road-work has been underway in the annexed areas and a major repair job is now in process on College and Sidney streets. On Sidney, between College and Maple streets, a stabilization program is going on. This consists of digging up the road surface with a grader; mixing the material with salt and some clay in proportions as previously determined by laboratory analysis, and then spreading the surface. This is designed to prevent the "heaving" or "boiling" produced by the spring frosts and thaws. The latter condition has been a serious problem and an expensive proposition if only grading were to be done. It is anticipated that the base material will now be stabilized and little more than normal maintenance will be required.

The ditching work on the West Hill is well underway and the installation of culverts in several of the subdivisions on the east side of the city is also being carried on. Sewer dragging and clean-up has been completed in the annexed areas and about one-third of the old city has been completed.

Senior Engineer in Division, A. Clarke Makes Final Run

Senior engineer in the entire Canadian National Railways division ranging between Brockville and Sarnia, Mr. Albert "Bow" Clarke, Victoria Avenue, stepped down from his passenger diesel engine at the north station yesterday noon for the last time.

Greeted by family members and by a large crowd of well wishers and railway officials as he ended his final run, Mr. Clarke is retiring after a 47-year career as a railroader.

At the time of his retirement he was No. 1 on the seniority list for the entire district and had been running passenger trains for several years longer than is customary for a retiring engineer.

Last evening at the Clarke home, the retired engineer was presented with a lazy boy chair by his railway associates and friends, while members of the family presented him with a handsome wristwatch.

A native of North Bay, Mr. Clarke started with the Grand Trunk back in Parry Sound in 1912 as a fireman. Since that time he has been stationed at Trenton, Capreol, Napanee and Brockville, coming to Belleville in 1933.

An active worker in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Mr. Clarke is serving his third term as chief engineer of Belleville Local No. 189, Mrs. Clarke is past president of the Grand International Auxiliary of the B. of L.E. and is also Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter No. 53, Order of the Eastern Star.

In honor of Mr. Clarke's retirement a family re-union is scheduled for this weekend when all five of their children and their families will be on hand.

One son, Robert Clarke, is following in his father's footsteps as a railroader and now classed spare conductor, accompanied his father on his last run.

Summer Festival for 1959

By ROBERT TURNER
(Part I)

Although Spring has been so late and sudden this year, the calendar tells us that Summer cannot be far behind, and already in many centres across the continent preparations are under way for the music and drama festivals which have become a recognized feature of contemporary summer living.

Once again, Stratford, Ontario's offering an interesting and varied range of attractions to the summer visitor. The plays which have been chosen for this year's Drama Festival are "As You Like It" which will open the season on June 29th and "Othello" which will follow on June 30th. The plays will alternate for a 12-week season extending to September 19, and the Queen and Prince Philip are planning to see the comedy on July 2nd. This production is notable for the return to Stratford of Miss Irene Worth who made such an impression in "All's Well That Ends Well" in that first historic season just six years ago. The male lead, playing opposite Miss Worth's Rosalind will be William Sylvester, an American-born actor from California who has been working for the past 10 years in England. Mr. Sylvester will also play Cassio in "Othello," in which the title role will be taken by Douglas Campbell, who until now has been better known to Stratford audiences for his playing of comic roles. Regina-born Frances Hyland is cast as Desdemona and Douglas Rain as Iago.

Following the great success of "The Beggar's Opera" last year, the Festival is presenting "Orpheus in the Underworld" by Offenbach for a two week season opening on Friday, July 10th. With Martial Singher and Irene Jordan in the leading roles, the opera will be conducted by Nicholas Appleboom, the festival's musical director.

Apart from the opera, music is represented by a series of concerts featuring such well-known figures as Soprano Lois Marshall, and bringing the Soviet pianist Lev Oborin to North America for the first time. Oborin will also take part in a series of chamber music programs while folk music will be represented by Pete Seeger (USA) and Ed McCurdy (Canada).

Two innovations this year are the presentations of seven performances of a new revue (as yet unnamed) starring Jack Creley and Dave Broadfoot, and six of a Scottish fantasy entitled "The Heart is Highland," with the International Film Festival, occupying the period from August 24th to September 5th, and the exhibitions of Canadian handicrafts, art, theatre, books and the Eskimo way of life, it would seem that every visiting taste has been taken into account in what promises to be a most full and rewarding season.

Top Prize Winning Essays On Canada, New Canadians

Senior students in Belleville public and Separate schools and junior grades in high schools took part in the observance last week of Citizenship Week. Students were invited to take part in an essay contest from which six winners were selected. Following are the first prize essays by the top boy and girl, James O'Brien of St. Michael's and Nancy Mills of Queen Mary public school:

"WHAT CANADA OFFERS TO NEW CANADIANS"

By Nancy Mills,
Queen Mary School

There are many New Canadians coming into the country. We are giving them many privileges which are new to them. They in turn, are enriching our country with their skills, customs and intelligence.

We are giving them a chance to live as we do with freedom of speech, freedom of the press and most important, the freedom to worship God where, when and how they like.

There are still many frontiers in the north, where few, or no people are living. There are in these frontiers many riches which are yet to be found. Perhaps some New Canadian will find them.

After they become naturalized Canadian they will then be citizen on the right to vote. They also have a say in governing our country. They may become very prominent in their line of endeavour.

There is good food and water in abundance for every one. We have one of the highest standards of living in the world.

In this wonderful country of ours there are many educational advantages. We may go through Elementary School, High School, College and University. There are such occupations as teachers, doctors, scientists and lawyers open to everyone.

The government provides everyone with social security such as pensions for old people and family allowances, whereby you receive so much money per month for each child.

Many New Canadians think of Canada as the land of opportunity and happiness.

"WHAT OUR NEW CANADIANS CONTRIBUTE TO CANADA"

By Jim O'Brien of St. Michael's Academy

People from the Old World, coming to live in Canada, bring with them their abilities, their special skills and their enthusiasm to blend with Canadian enterprise and culture. These people staking their individual future on Canada, make their contribution to Canadian progress and growing independence. In the economic world and in the heightening of Canadian cultural achievement.

The immigrants as a class are more mobile than the native-born people. They have left their own countries behind, they have not as yet put down deep roots as a permanent stake in Canada, and it matters little to them where they go as long as jobs are plentiful and wages are good. Since this is the case, these new Canadians have played a large part in major projects found in remote areas, harnessing hydro power, constructing highways and railroads and opening up mines.

But not all of these people are laborers. There are engineers, professors, physicians, nurses, architects, laboratory technicians, chemists and specialists in the welding fields. One outstanding fact is that for every two engineers graduating in Canadian universities, another one is obtained through immigration.

Many of these immigrants are young married couples or young people who are marriageable. It is found that one-seventh of these will start work on a farm, thereby off-setting the traditional exodus from farm to city.

These new Canadians bring with them a large amount of revenue. It was estimated that, between 1946 and 1955, these people brought five hundred million dollars in cash and one hundred and ninety million dollars in effects. Also, by 1954, postwar immigrants were spending over one billion dollars a year.

Apart altogether from their beneficial impact on national economy and apart from their capital, their cultural and spiritual assets have made them outstanding in the social life of Canada.

The House of Commons in Session

The members of the majority party in the House of Commons, sometimes referred to as the Government party, sit on the side of the House (the foreground in this picture) which is on the Speaker's right side as he faces the throne. Members of the opposition parties sit on the other side, to the left of the Speaker.

The members of the Cabinet—, the Prime Minister and the Ministers — occupy the front seats, as do the leaders of the opposition parties on their side of the aisle. Members who do not hold Cabinet posts are sometimes called back-benchers.

The Prime Minister is standing and addressing the House. All speeches in the House of Commons are addressed to the Speaker, and so the Prime Minister is turned toward the Speaker, and is speaking, not reading his speech. A loud-speaker system has been introduced in the House of Commons and more recently a simultaneous-translation system. Members using ear-phones can now hear a running translation of a speech as it is made in French, or vice versa. Both English and French are official languages and have equal status in the House.

Bird Watchers Had Fine Day At Presqu'ile

The Quinte Field Naturalists held a most successful field day at Presqu'ile Point on Monday.

Visiting naturalists were present from Oshawa, Toronto, Madoc, Tweed, Ottawa, Brockville, Gananoque, Brighton and Kingston as well as Belleville club members.

Professor T. F. McIlwraith of Toronto University was a very welcome guest. He is recognized as a leading authority on bird life. He conducted a brief meeting at Dunsorvin cottage where he prepared a cumulative list of birds seen for the records of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. Professor McIlwraith also led several groups and gave valuable help to them.

A few were lucky enough to get a look at a pair of ruddy ducks considered very rare.

Red headed woodpeckers were reported from several areas which seems to prove that these beauties are making a comeback.

The total of birds indentified was at least one hundred species. It was indeed a very happy day.

Airman Bruised as Car Runs Into Diesel

The car took the brunt of the damage with the driver escaping serious injury early this morning as the above vehicle ran into the side of a C.P.R. freight on Dundas St. at the eastern limits of the city. , LAC Wilfred E. Hopkins, 39, of Blue Top Cabins at the Point Anne turn, was on his way to Trenton Air Station when he apparently failed to see the westbound freight. The car slammed into the side of the diesel locomotive and was pushed and rolled 60 feet along the main track. Injured man was taken by Bush's ambulance to Belleville General Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Kenneth Douglas, who reported the airman suffered bruises and scratches and a cut on the right hand but apparently escaped any serious injury. X-rays were being taken to determine whether there was further injury.

Crossing signals were operating but it is believed an eastbound freight standing in "the hole" waiting for the westbound train to pass may have distracted the driver's attention.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Marks 46th Anniversary by Fine Tea

Birthdays are always "red letter days" on the calendar, and yesterday was especially marked with the 46th birthday of the inception of the Quintena Rebekah Lodge as it held its "Birthday Tea" in the recently redecked I.O.O.F. Hall, Front Street, which was thronged with guests.

Receiving reservations at the white gates of the large auditorium, which was adorned with banks of spring bloom, and "Happy Birthday," and gay-lands of roses, and yellow with baskets of apple blossoms, deep pink tulips, and white wild plum blossoms, were Mrs. C. Webb and Mrs. B. MacMillan, while the guests were welcomed by Mrs. E. Adams, N.G., and Mrs. A. Summers, V.G.

SPACIOUS TEA ROOM

The auditorium was completely transformed into a spacious tea room with the usual tables, some seating four, five, and more, spaciously with a complete setting of gardenia china, and centred with a crystal vase of rose bowl filled with pink tulips and tiny sprays of apple blossoms.

Welcoming into this attractive scene were the tea room hostesses, Mrs. R. Bradley, Mrs. William Ironside and Mrs. A. Mitchell.

Those who replenished included: Mesdames J. Wilkinson, R. Pearson, P. Burton, W. Craig, W. Langridge, W. Way, A. Gilroy, J. Harwood and C. Whaites. Those serving were: Mesdames H. Adams, E. Just outside of the auditorium three sales booths were in full swing, that of the home cooking, convened by Mrs. C. Robinson, Mrs. L. Large, and Mrs. Ward; Mrs. J. Blakely, Mrs. William Jose, Mrs. C. Sinfield, and Mrs. E. Fitzgerald; the apron table, convened by Mrs. J. Ward, Mrs. T. Kelver, assisted by Mrs. B. Clarke, Mrs. "H." West, Mrs. A. Smith and Mrs. A. Bowen, and the candy booth under the convenership of Mrs. L. Pollitt, Mrs. R. Sills, assisted by Mrs. J. MacDonald.

HOME COOKING

The home cooking, adorned with bouquets of pastel-United tulips, was laden with delicious-ly-iced loaf cakes; cherry-topped layer cakes; cupcakes filled with nuts and raisins; cherry and lemon cakes; apple pies, chocolate squares, individual meringue-topped rhubarb pies, coconut jam cakes, and luscious cookies and buns.

The apron booth was most attractive with colorful aprons, mostly in the popular bell shape, trimmed with ric-rac and floral prints; a terry towel apron; aprons with green cut-out inserts; a cobbler's apron in pink print; a very pretty rose-petal floral apron with bands turned-up border for dusting cloths, and cheeks in white and pink were fast going to eager purchasers.

The candy booth, as usual, was tempting with its mouth-watering maple creams, chocolate fudges and other sweetmeats.

The Misses Mary Harwood and Judy Burley were in charge of the confectionery booth, while the over-all committees were under the direction of Mrs. A. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Bradley and with their assistants, Mrs. J. Harwood, Mrs. C. Webb and Mrs. William Ironside.

Auction Sale Ends 53 Years On One Farm

YORKTON, SASK. (CP)—When Mrs. Frances McDougall sold her household effects one article she kept was a sale bill from her grandfather, Thomas Patton. The bill, dated Oct. 3, 1866, was signed at Freeport, Ill.

She said her husband James came to Canada in 1904, paying $10 at the border and one cent a mile from there. He settled on the trip after a visit to an immigration bulletin at Chicago where he saw big potatoes and tall wheat from Saskatchewan.

"Jim went back in the spring of 1905 and told the story so well 22 carloads of settlers headed for Canada."

Baskets of white gladiol, orchid shaded 'mums and pastel tulips mingled with ferns formed a lovely setting on the platform in the church, for the rite in Centenary United Church, for a very pretty springtime wedding, when Lorna Mae Ray, of Belleville R.R. 2, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ray, became the bride of William Alfred Matthews, of Cooper, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Matthews. The Reverend Roy Rickard, pastor of the church, assisted by the Reverend A. C. McCallum, of Trenton, officiated.

Mrs. Milton (Emily) Veley, R.M.T., of Belleville, guested at the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Rou Marshall of Belleville R.R. 5, who sang before the ceremony "I Walk Beside You" and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Edgar Ray, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white embossed nylon over net and taffeta, fashioned with molded basque, and floor-length skirt ending in a chapel train. She wore a pearl and encrusted headdress in pillbox style, full-length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a white Bible crested with red rosebuds, centred with white carnations and trailing rosebud-knotted ribbons.

Mrs. George McDonald, of Belleville, was matron of honor, gowned in floor-length dress of chiffon in waltz-length over taffeta, featuring a bodice bedecked with full skirt, matching accessories, and headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pink 'mums and fern.

Miss Marie McFarland, also of Belleville, and Miss Kay Matthews, of Cooper, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of similar design to that of the matron of honor, the former in mauve silk chiffon over taffeta, with matching headdress, and carried bouquets of mauve 'mums, white stephanotis, and tawny bronze roses, and the latter in pink silk-and-chiffon over taffeta, with matching headdress, and carried bouquets of white stephanotis and tawny-bronze roses. Both wore headdresses matching their gowns.

The two little four-year-old flower girls, Miss Carol Matthews and Miss Shirley Edmondson of Belleville R.R. 2, nieces of the bride, were sweet in their nile green frocks of organdy with matching floral headdresses, and carrying baskets of red Sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

Master Ray Marshall, of Belleville, four-year-old nephew of the bride, performed the duties of ring-bearer.

Mr. Clifford Wilson of Cooper-ville was the groomsman, while Mr. Glen Rollins of Cooper and Mr. George McDonald of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception, which followed in the church dining-room, was centred by an all-white, three-tier wedding cake, topped by two white doves beneath an arch of tiny white roses, and flanked about by white tulle. Tall white candles in crystal holders and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received, wearing light blue printed nylon over taffeta with navy duti-nay, and white accessories, and corsage of red carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore tan and brown printed silk with black duster, tan accessories and corsage of red carnations.

For the wedding trip to Erie and northeast Pennsylvania, U.S.A., Honolulu, Quebec and Toronto, the bride chose a light blue dress and matching duster of pure silk shantung, white accessories and corsage of red roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will reside in Cooper, Ontario.

Guests attended from Ottawa, Branford, Peterborough, Trenton, Campbell's Bay, Quebec, Cooper, Canniton, Belleville, Thomasburg, Picton and Smithfield.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Dayle Cranson, of Halloway; at a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Albert Christopher and daughter Marilyn, of Centenary; at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Marie McFarland, and at a presentation of a relish tray and electric tea kettle by the girls of the Unemployment Insurance Office, of which the bride is a member.

Kinette Club Hostess to 13 Kinsmen Clubs

The Kinette Club of Belleville was hostess at the Kinsmen District 8 convention this past weekend at the Hotel Quinte, which was attended by Kinettes with their Kinsmen husbands from 13 clubs in Ontario and Quebec.

Many old and new friends were met in the lobby and an evening of fellowship followed.

Friday morning the Kinettes gathered together for a coffee party and an entertaining tour of Corby's Distillery in the afternoon. Everyone enjoyed the cabaret style dance Friday evening.

Kinette Dorothy Lilcos, of Cornwall, was re-elected district convener at the meeting held Saturday morning and activities of all Kinette Clubs in district 6 were reported. Several trophies were awarded to the different clubs for their many worthwhile service projects and membership drives, with the Belleville Kinette Club being presented with the Helen Wilbur Trophy for attendance and the Kinette Kingpin Trophy for increase of membership.

Luncheon was enjoyed by the Kinettes at Rickarton Castle in Tyrone with the Kinette Club as guest speaker.

The convention was climaxed by the Governor's dinner and ball Saturday evening.

Dressed for travelling, farewells were said at breakfast on Sunday morning until convention time next year in Ottawa.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.M.S. was held recently in the church parlor. The president, Mrs. Ray Lockyer, opened the meeting.

Devotional was taken by Miss Ethel Hunt and Scripture passages were read from Matthew 28, also Luke 7-8.

The choir band of women drawn together by Christs' teachings had the inestimable privilege of ministering to Him while He dwelt on earth. These women gave many an illuminating discourse: They supplied food for the disciples and they were active in relieving the distress of the multitudes who thronged about Jesus. Today there are thousands of bands of women in the church performing much the same tasks as did this first group of ministering women. HAWAII

The Study Book was taken by Miss S. Mingay on the topic "Hawaii".

Religion in Hawaii is a deeply complex phenomenon. The people in Hawaii have come from different parts of the world and have brought their religion with them. Many who believe that one religion is as good as another will rejoice over the variety of religions in Hawaii, but thoughtful people who recognize that America's representative democracy has been historically rooted in Protestant Christianity will be concerned.

Historians who hold that no nation has long survived the decay of its religion, recognize that it is Christianity and not religion in general, that holds a people together.

Protestant Christianity faces a real competition in Hawaii. This competition is both Roman Catholic and non Christian.

I wonder . . . don't you? . . . If the people who always add a postscript to their letters are the people who take a long time to leave a party after they rise and say they are leaving.

SEATING HUSBANDS AND WIVES AT DINNER PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have recently moved into our new house, and for the first time will be able to entertain our friends "at home." We're planning to give a series of small, informal dinners (planning to invite three other couples). Since neither of us particularly likes buffet service, we plan to have regular seated service. I've saved a collection of your answers about this kind of entertaining, and now I have another question.

My sister, who has been married quite a few years longer than I have, and has done much entertaining, has opposed to each action to me the other day that it is not correct to seat husbands and wives next to each other at dinner, and that she never does in her own home. She also replied, she has lived in a distant city. Is she really right about this? It seems to me that at least some hostesses here seat husbands and wives next to each other at a dinner table. — R. M.

Your sister is right . . . husbands and wives should not be seated next to each other when invited to dinner. The idea is that the husband and wife have a great deal of opportunity to talk together, and that when they are dining out with others, they are expected to talk to others, exchanging ideas with the other guests.

FORM OF NAME ON DRIVEWAY-MARKER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, and I have just moved to a new house in a small town where I used to live. I would like to have a marker for the entrance to my driveway, and I want to be sure I use the correct form of my name as a widow. In other words should I use a title (Mrs.) and also an initial with my surname? What do you suggest?

Widow

I advise you to use your last name only . . . as Hamilton, for example . . . unless there happens to be another family by that name in the district, in which case it would be necessary for you to use an initial before your name. No "Mrs." necessary. Short as possible, is the practical method. Let the number of letters that it can be easily read from a moving car.

BRIDE-TO-BE IS CONFUSED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married rather soon, and I am completely at sea as to who buys what flowers for the wedding. As a matter of fact, everyone seems to have a different idea. I had always thought that the best man buys the flowers for the maid of honor, and that the ushers buy the flowers for the bridesmaids. What about

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual family situation. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sandra S. — I am too baby for Aunt Carol.

John S. — We mustn't hurt her.

* * *

Sandra S. — I am having a terrible problem with a very nice maiden lady in her 50's who happens to be my husband's aunt.

Aunt Carol lives alone not very far from us. She is a typist and works at home all day. Of course, it is boring and lonely for her so she thinks nothing of calling me up or "dropping in" a few times a day.

I have three small children and we have a busy home. Aunt Carol sometimes gives me a hand with things, but usually she just enters my time with gossip. I have hinted to her as nicely and tactfully as I could that I am really too busy for these visits, but she doesn't pay attention and sometimes I think she is really hostile to me and wants to make trouble. My husband does nothing.

* * *

John S. — What am I supposed to do about it? I can't go tell my aunt not to bother my wife. I told Sandra that she can say anything she likes to me but she must not hurt Aunt Carol's feelings.

This aunt has always been a good friend to me and my folks. She helped see me through college and before my father died he told me to always look out for her because there is really nobody else in the family she can depend upon.

I always remind Sandra that she certainly likes to have Aunt Carol "drop in" when she comes to babysit for us. After all, you can't always take and never give. It is hard for Aunt Carol being the way she is with no close friends. You can really go crazy with just the four walls to talk to.

this, please? And does the bride pay for her own bouquet and for the going-away corsage? Also are there any flowers that are the responsibility of the groom?

Confused

In some instances it is indeed confusing as to who buys what flowers, because this varies in some communities. However, always the bride's parents pay for the flowers for the decoration of the church and of the place where the reception is to take place. And generally they pay for the bridal attendants' flowers, because these are planned, in color and design, to harmonize with the general color-scheme of the wedding. (But in some communities these flowers are paid for by the groom.)

The groom pays for the corsages of "the mothers," his bride's mother and his own mother (grandmothers, too); and boutonnieres for his best man, his ushers, and for "the father," his bride's father and his own father. (The groom usually wears a few small flowers from the bridal bouquet.) He should, I believe, always provide the flowers for his bride to wear or carry on this 23-important day, and her going-away corsage.

WHEN A TOAST IS PROPOSED TO YOU

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm sure you'll be pleased to know that it is proper for me to do when someone at the table proposes a toast to me. Will you tell me, please?

— Sallie

The most important thing to remember is that the person to whom the toast is proposed never rises to his feet or lifts his glass until the others have drunk the toast . . . because this would, naturally, mean that he or she would be drinking to himself or herself. When a toast is proposed to you, a woman, you accept with a delightful expression of merriment paid to you by showing your appreciation by your manner, and with a slight smile and pleasant smile. If it is a "standing toast," you remain seated, not sipping your wine until the toast has been drunk and the others have taken their seats.

School Accepts Young Dancer From Winnipeg

TORONTO (CP) — A redhaired, 16-year-old former Winnipeg girl is dancing on air now, but soon she'll be dancing at the Royal Ballet School in London, England.

Acceptance by the famous British ballet school came when Gail Austerberry, who already has had six years of ballet training, auditioned for Winnipeg-born Mrs. F. Madden, Mrs. Harry Purves, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Austerberry first took her to the ballet in Winnipeg and she decided she would grow up to be a ballerina. Then she was enrolled at the Royal Winnipeg Ballet school.

SERIOUS STUDENT

"We thought it was just a passing fancy," says her mother, "but then we realized she was taking her dancing seriously."

Encouraged, Gail made her first public appearance with the Winnipeg Ballet in Winn Virgina Ballet. There instructor Janet Denbigh saw Gail and has a bright future. The girl will sail for England on July 29.

Rainy Day Cheer

By VERA WINSTON

There are many brightly printed, gaily patterned raincoats to pierce the murk. Somehow, though, the black raincoat carries a self assurance of its own; the rainiest day it is well cut, as is this number. The fabric is black poplin and there is classic white stitching for all borders. The string tie is traditional and it looks young and gay when placed high above the waist. Sleeves are tapered. Seaming at each side runs from shoulder to hem.

Miss Meagher Most Beloved In Israel

She said Miss Meagher, Canada's first woman ambassador who went to Tel-Aviv last October, takes a keen interest in the country and a particular interest in Canadian projects there.

Hadassah's national executive ends a two-day meeting here today with a Government House reception.

Governor-General Massey will receive a parchment scroll in an Israeli silver case to mark the construction of the main entrance of the National Jewish and Hebrew University Library.

Canadian Hadassah is contributing $100,000 toward building the library hall, which will be called the Vincent Massey hall.

Heldovers Made Popular

New Zealand and Australian frozen lamb is reaching the Canadian market.

I bought a leg of lamb for 47c per pound for the holiday weekend. Because I was to be away from the house chaperoning 48 teen-aged Sunday school pupils on an afternoon hike, I put the seasoned 4-pound lamb leg in the oven at 185 deg Fahr. at 1:30 p.m. and removed it at 6:30 p.m. on my return. (I could roast yours at 325 deg. Fahr. 2½ to 2½ hours). It served 4 generously. I item put it away for future reference. I it is time fully for reference. I want to describe.

HELDOVER CHICKEN CASSEROLE

Grind the flesh and skin from leftover roast Chicken (and roast pork if any). You should have 4 cups, not well packed. Make thick cold-fashioned "milk gravy" (white sauce): 4 tablespoons each butter or margarine and flour are heated together until blended. 1 cup milk is stirred in until thick. This is seasoned with salt, pepper, MSG, curry powder and ½ cup finely chopped parsley. Add ground meat and mix all but buttered breadcrumbs. Cover top with ¾ cup buttered crumbs (adding a little grated cheese if desired, but the dish will be rich enough as it is) and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and top is brown and golden — about 30-40 minutes.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY (Guests)

Rhubarb Julee Cocktail; Roast Chicken; Red Currant Jelly; Curried Rice; Medley of Kernel Corn and Fresh Frozen Baby Limas; Individual Fruit Salads with Fruit-Cream Dressing (see Wednesday); Orange Wafers and Cheese; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Appetizers: Carrot Sticks, Ripe Olives, Radish Roses, Celery Hearts; Roast Fresh Leg of Lamb with Garden Fresh Mint Sauce; Riced Potatoes; Creamed Fresh Frozen Peas; Spanish Onion Quarters; Strawberry Shortcake; Coffee.

Late Wednesday afternoon I was so hungry my stomach was aching and I could think of was Yorkshire Pudding. But somehow it seemed out of joint with all over food. I wanted it so much I defied tradition and made it

LAMB YORKSHIRE

Over the bottom of the small roasting pan I spread the brown pan drippings from the leg of lamb, then cut the cooked meat in chunks (roughly 1½") and covered it with the gravy. Beat eggs and dry ingredients, beat to mix, beat in milk. 1 cup at a time, until batter is smooth.

When fat and meat in pan in oven are sizzling, remove and pour in Yorkshire Pudding batter and return to oven at 450 deg. Fahr. until puffed and golden. Cut into 4 squares and serve as the main dish with the dinner plates with creamed broccoli, buttered cooked carrots in parsley butter. Beautiful and popular too. Obviously this Yorkshire Pudding trick could be worked with heldover beef or pork.

My next Mea will appeal to a good section of our readers. My sisters had house guests from New York. Naturally dinner each evening was a minor banquet and inevitably the refrigerator began to be crowded with leftovers of many varieties — chicken and roast pork.

Mr. sister Ready is not one to cat castoffs, nor is she one to cast off leftovers. So to be different she made

Truant Officer Finds Sex No Drawback

VANCOUVER (CP)—Margaret Campbell, Vancouver's truant officer, says she finds her sex is no drawback to the work.

"On occasion parents seem slightly disappointed," she said in an interview. "They expect a big burly man to hoist junior back to school, but the days of hoisting are past."

The truant officer now has the more academic label of attendance officer, and the small truants are no longer collected like stray puppies.

Miss Campbell, auburn-haired and with an engaging smile, is a graduate nurse and holds a degree in social work.

TWO TYPES

Truants can be divided into two groups, she says. "The first comprises the 'honest - to - goodness' hookey players who are just off for a lark. They are more numerous in springtime, particularly among boys of 12 or 13 with a fondness for fishing.

"In the second group are the children who are not adjusted to home conditions, or in their relationship to other people."

Miss Campbell does not agree that truancy is an indication of delinquency.

"That is like saying a tummyache is a symptom of appendicitis."

Today's children are basically good and a lot smarter than the preceding generation, she claimed. "It is real tough for a kid these days. Parents have no idea what conflicts the children have to put up with."

Mother's Helper

WHETHER the closure at the waistband of your son's trousers is a button, hook or snap, make sure he can both fasten and unfasten it himself. The stupidest-looking closure can be stubborn or stiff, and it's best to let your youngster try it before you buy the trousers.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Mission Band held 'Family Night' on Friday evening, entertaining the parents and the Mission Bands of Frankford, Centenary and Alberta. Mrs. Everett Clapp was in charge with Mrs. Alex Vandervoort at the piano.

Scripture verses were recited by Pat Harder, Joan Vandervoort, Jim Harder, Boyden and Merritt Kirby.

The C.G.I.T. girls sang, "Jacob's Ladder". Darla St. Hilaire recited, "The World's Children"; Jim Harder, "In Africa"; Miss Tyrer, Johnstown teacher read an Indian story.

Mrs. E. Clapp introduced the speaker, Miss Hazel Farley, of Trenton, who said, "She wanted to pay tribute to Johnstown for there had been some wonderful boys and girls that had come from Johnstown to Trenton high school.

"We have a fine artist with us, whose work is well known, also you have a mechanical engineer, a chemist, and teachers, and many who have made a name for themselves, I am so pleased to be with you tonight."

Miss Farley showed her beautiful slides of Japan explaining as she went along with a bit of humor added. One sad thing she told, was that if Canadians had been more interested in missions and sent missionaries to Japan when they were warned what would happen if they didn't, there might not have been any war.

Mrs. Alex Vandervoort thanked Miss Farley on behalf of Johnstown Mission Band.

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Thos. tight-waisted period costumes worn by the actresses at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival are hooked together by dozens of hooks and eyes.

In fact, thousands of hooks and eyes are sewn into the many heavy costumes worn by the festival players. They not only preserve the authenticity of the times they depict, but the hooks and eyes are virtually impossible to dislodge if sewn on properly. Zippers have a tendency to split when given as much wear.

The hooks and eyes are just one of the carefully-planned details which make the theatrical costumes more sturdy than a well-tailored suit.

MALE DESIGNERS

Designers of the costums for this year's festival are Robert Prevost for Othello and Desmond Heeley for As You Like It.

Mr. Prevost, 33-year-old Montreal designer, makes precise sketches for each of his costumes. Since 1953, he has been designer for Theatre de Nouveau Monde.

Desmond Heeley, 27, hails from England. He dabbles with water-color sketches, preferring to work with actual materials. He believes the silhouette is the most important part of the costume.

For the opening scene of As You Like It Mr. Heeley has fashioned stiff gold costumes of the Stuart period for the court figures. As the play progresses, costumes change to a rustic style and finally to gowns of pastel shades for a romantic effect.

STUDY SEWING

The costumes must be well sewn to stand up under the strain of almost 50 wearings during the festival season. Many of the rich materials are made even heavier with linings of canvas and felt. As such thick materials often will not fit under the sewing machine needle, it becomes necessary to sew the entire costume by hand.

The sewing patterns are made by cutters who study the details of the designers' sketches. The materials used are usually specified by the designer, and shoppers scour the stores looking for the required goods.

Starting June 29, the two plays will be staged on alternate nights.

EGGLETON W.M.S. — W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Warren Harlow, of Stirling, was hostess for the May meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Stapley, presided over a program, which had been prepared by Mrs. Maurice Clancy and opened with the call to worship.

The Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Keith Johnson who read for the Scripture lesson Ecclesiastes, 2:1-11. Mrs. S. Prest gave the commentary on the lesson and Mrs. Clarence Flitchett offered prayer.

Little Eddie Stapley gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer by the president.

The secretary called the roll, with 13 present including several visitors.

Mrs. Harold Chambers offered her home for the June meeting and Mrs. William McMullen will prepare the program.

Bills were presented and motion made that these be paid.

The W.A. treasurer, Mrs. Harlow gave an encouraging report.

Plans were discussed regarding the annual 'Cemetery Bee' dinner which is to be held at the church on June 3rd.

A committee composed of Mrs W. McMullen, Mrs. B. Stapley, Mrs. Harold Chambers and Mrs. Milton Reid was appointed to arrange the menu.

Decision was made on the number of "Facts and Figures" and 'Missionaries at Work' books required and the secretary was requested to order some at an early date.

Mrs. Stapley reported on the Bale sent to Toronto and also on the amount forwarded for postage, to send the parcel on overseas.

Correspondence was dealt with and several present voiced appreciation for cards they had received.

Holiday dime bags were handed out for each home.

A reading on supply work was given by Mrs. Forde Stapley.

A basket of flowers is to be taken to Mrs. William Stapley, who is ill.

BAKE SALE

Mrs. Clancy, leader of Eggleton Mission Band, told of the plans made by the Mission Band to hold a bake sale in Stirling, sometime soon and asked the W.M.S. and W.A. members for contributions to this. They unanimously agreed to assist the Band.

At this time, Mrs. B. Stapley, thanked the hostess, the program convener and all who had assisted on the program. She also voiced a few words of welcome to all the visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Dyson gave a reading, "The Horbury Curate and His Hymns", two of these written by Dr. Sabine Baring — Gould were: "Onward Christian Soldiers", and "Now the Day Is Over".

All enjoyed the solo, "Just Wher[illegible] Him, Jesus is Near" by Mrs. Russell [illegible] also played her own [illegible] accompaniment on her accordion.

Mrs. W. McMullen gave an interesting reading on the work being done by the Missionary, Miss Constance Wagar, and her associate workers in Trinidad.

After which came the study book on "The Carribbean Islands", was presented by Mrs. Maurice Clancy telling of the advance made in religion by the Missionary workers there and the improvement in the general way of life.

The duet, "Near to the Heart of God", sung by Mr. and Mrs. G. Dyson, was greatly appreciated.

After singing the hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life" the meeting was dismissed by Mrs. Dyson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and all enjoyed a social half-hour.

BRAVE YOUNGSTER

LITTLE WENHAM, England (CP) — A medal was presented by the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to a 15-year-old boy who climbed a 60-foot tree in darkness to rescue a kitten in this Suffolk village.

30 Ladies Attend Shower For Bride-to-Be

RAWDON — On Tuesday evening previous to her marriage, Miss Lola McConnell was tendered a miscellaneous shower in Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church Hall with over 30 ladies in attendance.

The party was sponsored by Mrs. Mac Sharpe, Mrs. Earl Dunkley, Mrs. Clarence Scott, and Mrs. Herbert Smith. The ladies and teenage girls of the Alitel school section were invited, including all those who reside east of the hill.

The hall was decorated with baskets of wild plum blossoms, flowering currants, and pink crepe streamers with a decorated chair and gift table.

Guests included the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles Peake, Campbellford.

Mrs. Clarence Scott was chairman and she read an appropriate poem. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen led the sing-song with Mrs. Carleton Potts as accompanist. Mrs. Milford Wrightman read a humorous selection and also staged a contest. Other contests were conducted by Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Douglas Campbell.

An appreciative address was read by Miss Gail Scott and Lola was presented with a large array of miscellaneous parcels which she opened, and for which she expressed her thanks. Gifts included a card table, plastic clothes basket, and useful and ornamental household articles, linen, china, and such. Each guest autographed her name on a nylon band apron.

The hostesses served a lovely luncheon from a long table covered with a damask cloth and centred with silver candelabra and yellow tapers.

GUARDS AGAINST "PUSHED AIR" — Canada's Glen Gould, 26, one of the world's rising young pianists, meets the press in London, England, wearing cloth cap, overcoat, muffler and gloves. He said he's not worried, just guarding against "pushed air" that is "this air conditioning they push at you with a pre-set humidity. Dries up the skin." Gould arrived Sunday for five Beethoven concerts with the London Symphony. He plays regularly in fingerless mitts after dipping his hands in hot water. Conductor Josef Krips said of him: "I wouldn't say he is just a great pianist; he is a great musician who happens to be a pianist." (CP from AP).

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Scott and Mrs. Paul Sharpe, Mill Street, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Douglas, Cronkhite, enjoyed a sight-seeing tour of Ottawa and Kingston on Sunday. They travelled by way of highway No. 7, viewed the grand array of tulips in Ottawa, visited the Parliament Buildings and the Peace Tower, and then enjoyed a scenic drive around the Experimental Farm where the flowerbeds and shrubs are in bloom. They returned home via Kingston and viewed several scenic places in the Limestone City.

Mr. John Chard, OSD, Belleville, his father, Mr. Clarence Chard of River Valley, also Mrs. Roy Irven and Mrs. Russell Isbell, attended the annual meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Ontario Monday.

Miss Margaret Eggleton, Beamsville, spent the holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eggleton, Front Street.

Mr. Hampton Gleeson, Hamilton, spent a recent holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Gleeson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Warren.

ST. JAMES CWL

A communion luncheon will be the highlight during the spring agenda of the Catholic Women's League of St. James Parish, Stirling. The luncheon will be held next Sunday at the Stirling Hotel for the ladies of the parish.

All ladies are urged to attend as this is the first the parish has had in many years. An interesting guest speaker will address the group.

This was decided upon at the May meeting of the League held recently at the home of Mrs. J. Doran.

Father O'Neil opened the meeting with prayer and reports were read. Several business items were discussed, among them the planning of a phone committee to arrange for flowers for the altar during the summer months.

The meeting closed with prayer followed by a social half hour.

PIONEER TRAVEL

A regular service of four-horse coaches operated six days a week between Montreal and Quebec City in 1812.

ELECTIONEERING

proposal to accelerate Ontario's highway program with a self-liquidating borrowing procedure which would not require new tax money. It would also take highway building out of politics to give the maximum benefits to all people, "not just those who have access to party views, or party workers."

There was "far too much political expediency in the development of our highways."

In the earlier meeting in the farm town of Campbellford, he spoke to 12 farmers on the Liberal plans to help rural Ontario.

SAYS HYDRO RATES HIGH

Rural hydro rates, he said, would be cut 25 per cent by trimming $10,000,000 from the bill. About $7,500,000 of this would come from reductions in the annual outlay for rural hydro extension—a program that was now almost complete. The rest would be available "from other sources."

Farmers would be allowed to post monthly or quarterly fee for licences on farm trucks and equipment. A system to make tax-free gasoline available could eliminate the present nuisance of filing an annual tax claim for gas used in farm work.

In a night speech at Chatham, centre of the province's Ontario gas-producing region, Premier Frost said he wanted to clear up "distortions which 'can take place and have taken place' about the safety of gas.

COMPARES MISHAPS

He told a meeting of 180 that it is just as safe to use gas three times as many accidental deaths attributed to hydro electricity as were attributed to gas. Electrical accidents had been treated to fall-out of the human element.

"It should be pointed out that during last year there were 25,606 fires in Ontario. The fire marshal has attributed 2,923, or nearly 11% per cent, to some electrical cause, while only 151, or 0.6 per cent, were caused by the use of some gas appliances such as a stove or furnace."

He digressed briefly to chide Mr. Wintermeyer.

"The leader of the opposition is a very nice fellow. But he must be a curious fellow. He said I was 11 planks from his platform—then later in Kitchener said I didn't have a platform."

DISCUSS INSURANCE

At Stratford the premier told an audience of 200 in the legion hall that his decision to set up Ontario hospital insurance as a contributory plan was "a recognition of the fact that Canadians cannot afford to add to their tax bills".

New tax burdens were to be avoided because they added to the cost of goods produced for the world market and "we must always be on guard against pricing ourselves out of the export market."

Ontario was building four new infirmary-type mental hospitals which would take the pressure off active-treatment institutions.

"We intend to treat mental illness just like any other illness. This is the only jurisdiction in North America that does that."

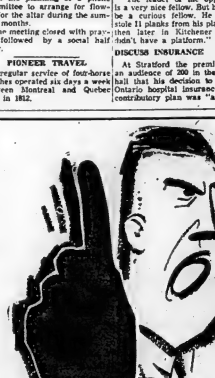
Tells of Relief From Backache and Tired Rundown Condition

Surprised How Much Better I Am Since Taking Syntona, says Grateful Woman.

An Herbal Medicine

Although the Syntona formula includes 3 herbs and extracts, its fine flavor makes it extremely agreeable to the taste. And its invigorating tonic action has helped thousands of people to get relief from nervousness, indigestion and tired, rundown condition. Many also say they get relief from backache, minor kidney irritation and rheumatic pain. Try Syntona today and see how much better you feel.



Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

Many Aches and Pains

"My nerves were very bad and I felt tired all the time. Especially in the morning after a restless night. I just seemed to have no energy and a constant nagging pain across my back and my limbs, joints and muscles were sore and painful.

But Syntona has been wonderful for me. I have taken it for only a short time. It's very restful at night. The backache and other aches and pains are also relieved and I am already tired as I was before."

Sweetest Child In The World

Sometimes come, crankly, milky, when consumption-weighted prices are used to calculate the monthly Consumer Price Index. Over the years, that includes some of the sweetest children you'll ever know. Children who, when they're not crying, are consuming their weight in milk, cheese, ice cream, eggs. Nothing is spilt or sick. Yet Children's Index has risen by a near dozen points in less than 5 years.

PICTON

Scout and Cub Jamboree Held Over Holiday

PICTON—Though tents were set up during a light rain and there was frost two nights, the Prince Edward County Scout and Cub Jamboree carried on as usual at the fair grounds from Friday night until Monday afternoon. About 150 Scouts and leaders spent the period under canvas while nearly three hundred Cubs and leaders attended Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

A highlight was a parade on Sunday afternoon from the Cenotaph to the fair grounds, the Scouts and Cubs in uniform, together with bands and flags, making a colorful picture. They were headed by the Cub Band from Picton Heights who also drew applauds for their marching, drill and singing.

Due to the cold wind the service was held in the Agricultural Centre and was in charge of Donald Walker, Milford, chairman of Picton District Association. Extending welcome and commending Scouts and Cubs on their appearance, and special words of praise for the leaders, were the Mayor H. J. Fairfield, County Warden Ern Ward, Nursing Sister, District Commissioner Robert Norval, Lt. Col. Tom Moore, Commandant Picton Army Camp, Vice-President of the local Association, John Doyle.

RCA PACK WINS

The much coveted Town of Picton trophy was won by 5th RCA B Pack of which Sgt. Walter Lazarowich is Scout Master. This was presented by Mayor McFarland.

Points were given for inspection, first aid, dexterity race, rope knotting and this and that contest. Last year it was won by the Picton B. Pack and on Sunday by 1st RCA Pack.

The church service was conducted by Rev. James Johanson with Capt. the Rev. M. W. Mercer-Jones, Army Padre giving a talk on "Conquered by Love". Rev. Johanson said "I Would be True". A program for R.C. members was led by Philip VanDeboyle.

Many hundreds of persons toured the camp site, admiring the various projects which had been completed. Others attended the various bands in action in which Cubs and Scouts contributed numbers.

CANADIAN-BORN SCIENTIST — Dr. Joseph V. Charyk, a native of Lethbridge, Alta., who is chief scientist of the United States Air Force, explains the operation of the Bomarc, the American-developed guided missile which Canada has adopted for its air defence system. Dr. Charyk, 38, moved to the United States after graduating from the University of Alberta in 1940, became a U.S. citizen in 1948 and was appointed to his present job January 1. (CP Photo).

Diplomatic Note Sent by Canada On Pilot System

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal to settle Canadian and American differences on employment of St. Lawrence Seaway pilots has been made by Canada in a formal diplomatic note.

The note, delivered at Washington Saturday, suggests reciprocal recognition of pilots' qualifications along with the designation of certain restricted waters as requiring use of a pilot by all vessels. It was tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Transport Minister Hees.

Legislation now before the U.S. Congress would require all vessels to carry pilots while in any U.S. part of the international waterway.

TOO COSTLY

The Canadian note says this position is not consistent with the pilotage system envisaged for Canadian waters. It also would be likely to discourage use of the new seaway locks and canals by ocean-going vessels because of the cost.

The Canadian proposal is that pilots be required on all ships between St. Regis, Que., and Kingston or Alexandria Point on Wolfe Island; between Prescott and Eastern, and on the St. Mary's River and canals.

To qualify for a Canadian pilot certificate in these restricted waters, the navigator would have to show experience in them and a thorough local knowledge. This Canadian certificate would be designated an "A" certificate.

The qualifications to obtain an "A" certificate would rule out masters and officers of ocean vessels.

MUST KNOW ENGLISH

In other waters, the Canadian proposal is that minimum requirements for a "B" certificate for open-water navigation would be that a crew member of the vessel be proficient enough in English language, a radio telephone, have a working knowledge of the Great Lakes rules of the road and hold a master or mate certificate issued by his vessel's home government.

Pilotage certificates issued by the competent U.S. authorities to ships' officers navigating in the Great Lakes would be recognized in Canada, and Canadian authorities as long as reciprocal recognition is granted to the "A" and "B" certificates issued by Canada, the note says.

It adds that "under exceptional conditions the requirement to carry a pilot in restricted waters could be waived after agreement has been reached between U.S. and Canadian authorities."

The pilotage qualifications outlined in the Canadian note are largely contained in a bill now before Parliament on which the government has delayed action pending agreement with the U.S.

Gromyko Caught off Balance By Arrival of U.S. Secretary

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The arrival of the United States defence secretary, Neil McElroy, in Geneva gave a long way to rebut accusations that the U.S. is over-rigid in its approach to East-West negotiations.

Even if McElroy takes no active part in the talks, his presence implies that the American delegation is ready to talk about the military aspects of the package deal that State Secretary Herter put forward last week on behalf of the West.

That leaves it up to the Russians to make counter-proposals to the West's disarmament plans. Up to now, Andrei Gromyko has expressed interest only in the status of Berlin and the signing of separate peace treaties with East and West Germany.

For a change, it is the Russians who appear to have been caught off balance. It is probable that Nikita Khrushchev, in his anxiety to downgrade the importance of the foreign ministers' deliberations, has not staffed Gromyko's delegation heavily with defence experts.

Pending the hurried arrival of Russian reinforcements, the resulting impression is that the Russians are too interested in building up prestige for their East German, Polish and Czech satellites to join the West in concrete talks to grips with the real issues that have brought the ministers together.

Beyond scoring a tactical point for the West in the interminable propaganda contest, the significance of McElroy's unexpected appearance can be measured only by the contents of his briefcase.

There is little chance that he plans to offer the Russians any new terms until they have at least replied to the security proposals in the Herter package: limitation of armed forces by both East and West, international control of nuclear weapons, measures to guard against surprise attack and discussion of a zone in which troop disposals would be restricted to an agreed maximum.

On the other hand, it is probable that the American defence chief is prepared to spell out some of these general proposals in detail, and that he has limited powers to modify them if the Russians show signs of willingness to bargain.

In the meantime, it remains to be seen whether the Russians are prepared to call McElroy's bluff and listen to more than a brief recess.

McElroy is unlikely to sit in Geneva indefinitely while Gromyko continues to extol the virtues of the East Germans and deplore the aggressive designs of the West. The next move is up to Moscow and, for once, its timing has been dictated by the West.

Canada Must Accept Bomarc As Mainstay of Air Defence Says Canadian-Born Scientist

WASHINGTON (CP) — The elusive anti-missile missile. This youthful scientist pointed to a plastic, toy-sized model of the Bomarc and said he did not see what Canada could do but accept the U.S.-developed guided missile as the mainstay of her air defence.

"I don't see what else you can do in this age", said Canadian-born Dr. Joseph V. Charyk, leaning back in his chair in a neat and uncluttered office. It is in what military men call the "executive row" of the Pentagon, the great grey-stone building that houses the headquarters of the United States armed forces.

The 38-year-old expert spoke with ample authority, as chief scientist of the United States Air Force and one of North America's foremost experts in the related fields of aerodynamics and missile technology.

He spoke, too, with an understanding of Canadian fears that some measure of sovereignty might be lost if Canada ties her defence structure more closely with that of the U.S.

CANADIAN EDUCATION

Dr. Charyk was born in Canmore, Alta., in the foothills of the Rockies. He grew up in Calgary and Lethbridge and graduated at the University of Alberta before coming south in 1940. He became a U.S. citizen in 1948.

The U.S. Air Force plucked him out of the ranks of industry five months ago to become its chief scientist, with responsibility for providing technical advice on air force plans, programs and requirements. The announcement of his appointment described him as "one of the nation's leading scientists and an authority on aerodynamics and missile technology."

The Dr. Charyk's words, involves probing the air force setup for weaknesses or undeveloped areas that should be "exploited." He frankly admits there is staff conferences with other service scientists he frequently introduces "baiting questions" designed to provoke his aides and stimulate fresh ideas.

"We have to knock people off a particular course and sort of get their blinders off," he said in an interview.

On a small table in a corner of his office stand a dozen models covering the history of aeronautics — from the Wright brothers' primitive Kitty Hawk to the mighty X-15 a intercontinental ballistic missile. Among them was the Bomarc, the missiles interceptor which, Canada plans to introduce in its air defence system.

Dr. Charyk said he had no hand in the Bomar's development since it was out of the research stage by the time he took office Jan. 1. He had, he admitted, heard of the "rumpus" in Canada when he Canadian government decided to abandon the Arrow program. He felt Canada had no alternative in this modern age of space.

Right now, he is deeply involved in the development of the Hills, Calif.

CMA Asks Royal Commission On Unemployment Insurance

OTTAWA (CP)—A commission of inquiry into all phases of unemployment insurance should be held before government-proposed changes in employer-employee contributions are adopted, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has said today.

However, the chamber in a submission to the Commons industrial relations committee appears to have accepted Labor Minister Starr's controversial bill to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, now under passage through Parliament.

The chamber, a federation of 750 boards of trade and chambers of commerce, said the government should examine the Act as sources now contributing to the fund have been down to $496,000,000 now—and as to coverage and financing before any changes in contributions are made. It should report by Dec. 1.

One of the major provisions of the government measure, which has been given second reading—by a vote of 128 to 77—and the final reading—in the Commons, is that contributions to the fund will be increased by an average 30 per cent. The fund is to be increased by more than $900,000,000 in the last two years of unemployment.

NO RETROACTIVE MORE

The increased contributions are aimed at bringing in about $18,000 000 additional cash in the next six months to counterbalance payments of benefits. Payments caused mainly by a proposal to boost the benefit payment period from 26 weeks to 52 weeks.

Arguing against this extension, the chamber said in its brief it knows of no country in the world that has a benefit period of 52 weeks and added the true purpose of unemployment insurance is to protect against short workless periods.

The submission came as the Canadian Manufacturers' Association urged that the government re-examine the scope of the act.

An association brief—scheduled to be presented to the Commons committee on Industrial Relations—said the unemployment insurance commission should include consideration of whether or not persons receiving benefits should be made out of the unemployment insurance fund, and a study of problems arising out of coverage of fishermen, farmers and persons employed in other seasonal industries who, the brief said, may not be in a position required to pay a premium commensurate with the risk.

BENEFIT FUND

Payment of benefits in certain classes of married women and persons receiving part of distribution rates of 30 per cent which, it added, would result in the new rates for the two new top wage classes—would amount to 30 per cent in the case of many companies employing highly skilled persons.

Such an increase, the brief said, is unrealistic at a time when both government and industry are trying to hold the line on costs and maintain year - round employment.

If a rate increase could not be avoided, the brief said the board should not be more than what is required to keep the fund at an actuarily safe level. It also suggested that the government increase its contribution by an amount equal to half the combined contributions of employers and employees.

The association said it sees no need for any change in the present maximum duration of regular benefits of 26 weeks.

"Prior to the general revision of the act in 1955 it is commented, it was possible for an insured person with a complete employment record of five years to draw regular benefits for 51 weeks.

"The present short list period was reduced to the present maximum of 26 weeks. We believe that a return to the 1955 basis for the reduction in the maximum duration of benefits, particularly from an insurance point of view, and that those reasons remain valid in 1959."

Profit Figure Lowest in 11 Years Says CMA

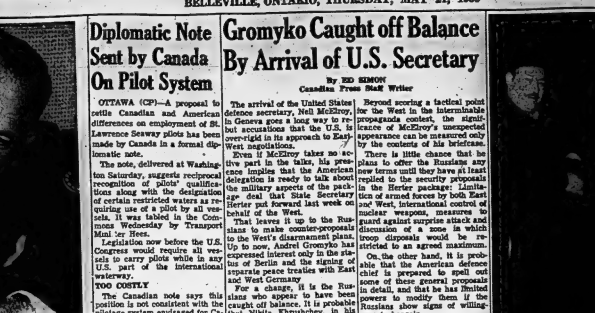
TORONTO (CP) — Canadian manufacturers in 1956 made an after-tax profit of 4.6 cents on the dollar of goods they sold, according to a survey made by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The profit figure was the lowest in the 11 years in which CMA has made the study and was sixtenths of one cent below the 1957 figure. The high figure was 7.1 cents in 1950.

The survey covers 1,019 companies with total sales of $8,827,807,000; employing 485,830 people; and with 661,119 shareholders.

Federal and provincial taxes on corporation income was 3.6 cents of each dollar of sales.

George H. Craig, chairman of CMA's public relations committee, said Wednesday:



"The figures reflect the business recession that overshadowed a good part of 1958. Out of 1,109 companies, 258 reported losses. This fact should satisfy those confused thinkers who not only attack the vital role of profits in our dynamic market system, but fail to realize that earning a profit involves risk of loss if we want a possibility of profit."

Profit expressed as a percentage of net worth was 7.3 per cent.

Of the sales-dollar profit, 2.8 was paid in dividends to shareholders and 2.0 cents was retained in the business.

Now on display in the Public Archives, the telescope was presented by W. V. Brock of Lagoon City, a descendant of a one of Sir Isaac's brothers.

Bearskin Pile For Palace Guards Now 13

TIMMINS (CP)—The pile of bearskins for the Buckingham Palace Guards grew to 13 Wednesday and it was reported that the first batch would be sent to London for processing later this week.

After the skins have been processed, they will be shipped to England to be made into ceremonial hats.

The 200-pound black bears were hunted over Victoria Day by five department, official collecting agency for the Porcupine area hunt that started last Saturday.

Fireman Bill Martin, who skins the bears brought in whole, said that: "only one of the bears had been shot in the back, but even it should be suitable for a headpiece." One bearskin will provide two hats.

CUB FREED

Bear No. 14 was captured but set free. It was a cub and a 200-pound mother bear shot Tuesday night by a party headed by Ed Cyr. The cub got some measure of revenge. It bit hunter Bob Page on the left leg.

A 200-pounder also was bagged by two Timmins area lumberjacks, Jerome Picotte and Ford Page.

The biggest bears shot so far were two 500-pounders bagged Tuesday night by brothers Roger and Jean-Guy Delaporte of Annonville, about 30 miles northeast of here.

The brothers said the hardest part of the job will be lugging the bears from the bush. They were sent to Mayor Leo Del Villano who organized the hunt.

Mayor George, B.C., Junior Chamber of Commerce has offered Mayor Del Villano suggesting that with the "failure" of last weekend's bear hunt to produce a supply with results of the pelts that would retire from the hunt and leave the job to those fully qualified.

In reply the mayor wrote that he had received the "ridiculous and silly telegram" and that he was happy with results of the first hunt.

The Prince George Jaycees has called for many years they have been supplying bearskins for the palace guards' ceremonial hats. In return for the skins, they have received the guards' older hats which they have worn.

The mayor informed the Jaycees the purpose of the Timmins hunt is to salvage skins which are otherwise destroyed by people who had to do away with bears out of necessity.

Counsel for York Township Protests Remarks by Judge At Inquiry Into Land Sale

TORONTO (CP)—John J. Robinette, counsel for suburban York Township, Wednesday took exception to statements by Judge Joseph A. Sweet of Hamilton at a judicial inquiry into the township's land sales.

Judge Sweet, presiding at the inquiry ordered by Municipal Affair Minister Warrender following public petitions, had said he was concerned that not all the land being sold was advertised for sale.

Mr. Robinette protested the Judge was making statements while the case was in progress.

"You are doing untold damage to the people of the township," he said.

Mr. Robinette also said press coverage in the first day of the hearing was "most unfair."

Earlier, trying to draw explicit answers from township treasurer J. M. Chesnar, Judge Sweet asked if he would like a chance to think over the procedure he had followed.

Mr. Chesnar agreed he would like to refresh his memory and was to be recalled later.

Former township assessment commissioner Robert Southworth contradicted testimony given Tuesday by clerk-solicitor Howard Hall, Mr. Southworth said he personally visited every piece of land sold by the township during his term of office from 1948 to 1952.

Mr. Hall had testified the former assessor made his appraisals from "a moving automobile."

Mr. Southworth was the third witness called in the inquiry, expected to last another two weeks. Judge Sweet has termed some of the evidence "astounding."

CIGARET LED TO DEATH

PETERSBOROUGH (CP)—Lawyer Joseph Peter McDonough, 39, died accidently April 16 as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, a coroner's jury ruled here Wednesday. McDonough died after fire broke out in his room in the Kawartha Hotel here. Evidence showed the lawyer had consumed a quantity of alcohol and failed to break out of bed after a cigaret set fire to the bedding.

7 New Stations Privately-Owned Are Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—Establishment of seven new privately - owned radio stations has been recommended by the board of broadcast governors.

Ruling yesterday on 18 applications heard last week, the board recommended licences for new amplitude modulation stations in Vancouver, Regina, Fort William, St. Hyacinthe and Le Tuque, Que., and Corner Brook, Nfld., as well as one small frequency modulation outlet in Cambridge.

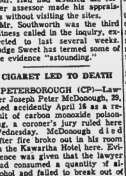
The recommendations now go to the transport department. If it issues licences for all seven stations, the total in Canada would be 181, not including the two to be radio outlets. There are 43 private television stations and the CBC has eight.

FORT WILLIAM STATION

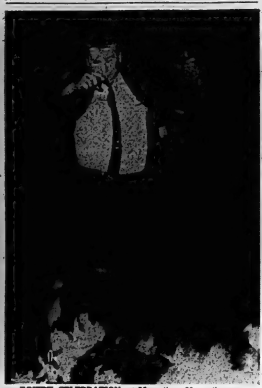
Robert P. MacGowan's application for a 5,000-watt station in Fort William was recommended over that of G. D. Jeffery. The new station would operate at 580 on the dial.

The board said it is "satisfied that a new and wholly-independent station in this (Lakehead) area would be of improved service, and that the expanding market can support another station."

Deferred by the board was C. Stanley Mundell's application to operate a 10,000-watt Montreal station that would broadcast in languages other than English and French.



The board wishes to study the problem of foreign language broadcasting in Canada," its announcement said, "and will not receive any further applications for stations which, it is proposed, will broadcast in foreign languages, for a period of six months."



The board recommended approval of a power increase for CKSO Sudbury, from 5,000 watts day and night to 10,000 watts day and 5,000 watts night.

PARKLAND PROPOSAL — A 16,500-acre provincial park that would include areas of national historic significance along the entire Niagara escarpment has been suggested in a proposal to the Ontario government.

The 90-mile park (solid black on map) would stretch from Hamilton to Queenston on the Niagara River and would include a scenic drive (broken line), parking areas and 100 miles of hiking trails.

A committee representing Lincoln, Welland and Wentworth counties made the proposal. The park would begin at Felker's Falls in Hamilton, follow the 300-foot-high heavily wooded escarpment a few miles south of Ontario's main southwestern highway, the Queen Elizabeth Way—to the Welland Canal and then through one of the province's most historic regions to Queenston.

Near Stoney Creek is a small burial ground for patriots, both American and Canadian, killed in the war of 1812. Queenston Heights is known in connection with the battle of General Brock in the War of 1812. (CP Newsmap.)

Winnipeg Armed Camp in '19 As Nearly 30,000 Workers On Strike; Council Scraps

By ABBIE COO
Retired Managing Editor
Winnipeg Free Press

WINNIPEG (CP)—Forty years ago Winnipeg was in turmoil.

For more than 40 days the city was in the grip of a general strike. At times between 25,000 and 30,000 workers were on strike. Veterans of the First World War returning home, found most of the essential services shut down. The dispute lasted from May 15 to June 25, 1919.

For a while the city was an armed camp with the militia and mounted police in control. The Riot Act was read by Mayor Charles Gray. In the disorders that broke out, two persons were killed. Thirty others were injured. Shots were fired. A street car was set on fire. Before it ended several of the strike leaders were arrested and some sent to jail after trial on conspiracy charges.

Citizens were divided into two camps. Many sided with the strikers. Just as many lined up with the hastily organized Citizens' Committee, formed to see that essential services were maintained. There were daily encounters between the two groups. Street fighting and beatings were not uncommon.

STORMY NEGOTIATIONS

Mayor C. F. Gray headed early attempts to settle the dispute without results. He was joined in these efforts by Premier T. C. Norris. The city council also took a hand in negotiations. The counci., however, was badly divided and violent clashes took place in the council chamber between the two factions.

Events leading up to the general strike were brewing for nearly a year. There was a lot of labor unrest in 1918 and it got into full swing in 1919. The building trades and metal workers were pressing for higher wages. Negotiations were lengthy and the workers sought aid from many of the other unions in the city.

The general unrest was not confined to Manitoba. It spread across Western Canada. The unions finally decided to do something about it. Leaders gathered in Calgary March 16, 1919. The meeting was attended by more than 200 delegates and resulted in formation of One Big Union. The delegates declared themselves in favor of the principle of proletarian dictatorship.

While there was some talk of Communist influence, the delegates were fairly well divided into moderate and leftist camps.

(One Big Union was an attempt to organize workers industrially in opposition to the dominant craft unions. It continued active in Manitoba until 1956 when a merger with the Canadian Labor Congress provided that its 5,000 members would conduct votes and be absorbed by other unions. Seven hundred Manitoba Power Commission employees thus absorbed by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers two months ago were the last OBU members.)

ACTIVE IN WINNIPEG

Many of the men who attended the Calgary meeting were later prominent in the dispute that developed in Winnipeg.

It was not until May 6 that the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council took a hand in the trouble. The building trades and the metal workers had presented a new wage schedule to their employers late in April. The building trades workers decided to strike April 30 and the other workers May 1.

As action was asked from the other unions, the Trades and Labor Council went into action. At a well attended meeting a call-out of all union workers as advocated. James Winning, TLC president, urged a moderate course. R. B. Russell declared it was time to strike. It was decided to take a vote of all unions represented. The result, announced May 13, showed more than 11,000 workers in favor of a general strike and 200 against.

It was also decided to ask railway trainmen, locomotive firemen and others to join the strike which was called for Thursday, May 15. The railway trades voted to join but were overruled by their head officers.

A committee was named to handle details. Members were Russell, John Queen, Winning, L. M. McBride and H. Veitch.

Later, this was changed to an outer committee of 300, and an inner committee of 15 who included the five already named. W. H. C. Logan was named chairman, W. H. Savell, secretary and R. Durward assistant secretary.

GENERAL STOPPAGE

Almost all work in the city ceased May 15. Street cars went to the barns, Weston and Transcona railway shops were closed. Postal workers were out. Most restaurants put their doors. There were no milk or bread deliveries Friday. No newspapers: no telegraph: no phones; no taxis: no express.

The strike committee tried to keep essential services open by furnishing signs to those who applied stating that they were operating by authority of the strike committee. These were used largely for deliveries to hospitals and similar services. These signs were later removed and they figured in the trials of some of the strike leaders, later arrested on conspiracy charges.

Some of the trains operated by permission of the strike committee, and displayed the signs.

Store deliveries were badly disorganized. Horses were unhitched from delivery wagons and tires slashed on motor trucks.

This disruption of services resulted in formation of the Citizens' Committee to keep public services going and stores opened. Volunteers manned some of the fire trucks. An attempt was made to keep street cars operating but had little success. Bread and milk deliveries were resumed after two days and the committee thwarted a later attempt to halt the deliveries.

Aid of the federal government also was sought and some officials, including the federal minister of labor, were sent to Winnipeg from Ottawa.

BATTLES IN COUNCIL

The city council at this juncture was the scene of several spirited battles among the mayor and aldermen favorable to labor, as well as some who leaned the other way. Mayor Gray, Alderman Queen and A. A. Heaps were central figures in these clashes. Council members were all concerned over the actions of the police and firemen. Police and firemen who supported the strikers were later dismissed.

About this time, the 27th Battalion, City of Winnipeg Regiment returned from overseas. It was suggested at first that the men be kept on active services. However, the regiment demobilized. Several machine guns were brought into the city for use if required.

Newspapers were back on the streets May 24.

Although efforts continued toward the end of May to halt the strike, it was reaching a climax. General strikes threatened Vancouver and Toronto.

In Winnipeg, citizens protesting the strike staged daily marches to the city hall which seemed to mark the dividing line between the two factions. Although many returned soldiers took part in the parades, other veterans planned parades in favor of the strikers. Mayor Gray halted parades by any kind.

Gideon Robertson, federal minister of labor, was in Winnipeg about this time, holding daily conferences in an attempt to reach a settlement. A. J. Andrews, a Winnipeg lawyer and former mayor, was retained to advise on any action to be taken.

Trouble was about to explode. It was touched off by the arrest of Russell, Queen, William Ivens, Heaps, R. E. Bray and George Armstrong. R. J. Johns, one of the leaders, was brought back from the East where he was on a lecture tour and William Pritchard was arrested on a train at Calgary. The men were taken into custody June 16 and whisked off to Stony Mountain Penitentiary. They were released on bail the next day.

The action incensed the strikers. Widespread disorders broke out. Main Street in front of the city hall was like a battle field. The street for many blocks was jammed with people. Mounted police and volunteers armed with baseball bats chased many back to side streets.

An attempt was made to keep traffic moving, as by no to avail. The climax came on June 21 when an attempt was made to operate a street car past city hall. Tremendous crowds opposed this. Roofs were lined with people. Shots were fired, by whom, no one knew. The street car was attacked by the mob and set on fire. It was at this juncture that Mayor Gray read the Riot Act and the militia was soon on the scene.

For a while it looked like a pitched battle. However, a couple of overhead volleys from the troops calmed things down. One man was killed by a bullet, a number of others were wounded and one died later of gangrene. It was never established who was responsible for the fatalities. With the soldiers drawn up in battle order, it was too much for the huge crowd and people soon started to flee. To all intents, this was the end of the strike. The troops were lined up across Main Street near the city hall for several hours. They were finally dismissed at 11 p.m.

ARRIGHT TO TRIAL

Later on trials of arrested strike leaders and others took place before Mr. Justice Metcalfe. It was a long - drawn - out battle with some of the defendants conducting their own cases.

They had been charged with conspiracy to excite subjects of the King to resist the law and resist persons, some being members of the police of Winnipeg, and also to procure unlawful meetings and cause some to believe that the laws of the Dominion were unduly administered.

Russell was tried separately by judge and jury and on being found guilty was sentenced to two years in jail.

Heaps was found not guilty. He later represented Winnipeg North in the House of Commons from 1926 to 1929. F. J. Dixon, charged with sedition, also was acquitted.

Bray received a six months' sentence. Queen, Ivens, Johns, Pritchard and Armstrong were each given one year in jail. A charge against J. S. Woodsworth was thrown out when the Crown entered a nolle prosequi.

Several of the men were later elected to civic and provincial office. Queen, Ivens and Armstrong entered the legislature. Queen became mayor of Winnipeg.

Popcorn Men Given Reprieve

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The popcorn men here have been reprieved.

City council Tuesday night rejected a motion by its finance committee that the licences of three popcorn vendors and a mobile lunch counter operator not be renewed. The motion followed a complaint by a public school principal that the popcorn vendors were a traffic hazard and distracted students.

Alderman Alene Hold described the proposed move as cruel. To deprive a man of his livelihood would be "bordering on a dictatorship."

Scouting activities

By T. L. Boyle

8th MOIRA CAMPOREE—1959

230 Scouts and Leaders participated in some way in this annual event.

Between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. Friday, May 15, 184 Scouts, 7 Service Scouts and 26 Leaders converged on the Belleville Boy Scout Association campsite at Thomasburg, on the Col. Rasow Vandervaier Conservation Area of the Moira Conservation Authority. The Scouts made up 11 patrols from 14 troops of the Belleville district. Two patrols of 11 Scouts and one leader of the 18th Belleville (Parkdale) spent all day Sunday at the camporee.

This year the camp was divided into three subcamps, Algonquin, Mohawk and Seneca. Most of Friday evening was spent setting up camp. The evening ended with a camp fire in each sub-camp, followed by hot chocolate and cookies provided by the Service Patrol.

During the period, Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, Sunday afternoon and Monday morning each sub-camp on a rotation basis, participated in the following activities: a round robin of the following Scouting skills: bell-tent pitching, compass trail, estimations of height, weight, and width, knotting life-line, throwing and signalling; an Adventure Trail consisting of five problems to be solved, using Scouting skill and common sense; a good turn for the Moira Conservation Authority which involved cutting one of the Nature Trails through the bush and a patrol hike involving some tree identification and the making of a patrol hike log.

During hour periods on Saturday evening, Sunday morning and Sunday evening each sub-camp on a rotation basis, participated in the following projects: first aid, fire lighting and pioneering.

ATTENDED MASS

On Sunday morning the 35 Roman Catholic Scouts and leaders attended Mass in Tweed while the other Scouts attended a Scouts' Own Service conducted by their subcamp chiefs in their own subcamp areas.

On Saturday and Sunday evenings the day's activities ended with a "wide" game, a campfire followed by hot chocolate and cookies.

On Monday afternoon the "tent city" disappeared. At 4.00 p.m. the closing horse show was held. The camp officially closed at 4.20 p.m.

Some of the winners follow: The patrol with the highest score in all camping activities was the Whippoorwill patrol of 5th Belleville (Tabernacle) followed by the Bulldog patrol of 1st (St. Thomas) and Eagle patrol of 9th (St. Mary's). The patrol with the highest score in all Scouting skill projects was the Eagle patrol of 8th followed by the Whippoorwill patrol of 5th and the Cougar patrol of 8th. The patrol with the highest score for leadership was the Whippoorwill of 5th followed by the Lion patrol of 3rd St. Michael's (P.L. Jim Buckley) and the Eagle patrol of the 8th Belleville.

The following patrols earned "C" camping standards: Raccoon of 3rd; Muskrat and Eagle of 4th; (Kiwanis), Redsnper and Whippoorwill of 5th (Prince of Wales), Beaver of the 8th, Coyote of 7th (Queen Elizabeth), Wolf of the 11th (Bridge St.), Eagle of the 13th (Holy Family), Bear and Beaver of the 15th (Sir Winston Churchill), Cougar of the 17th Belleville (Centennial) and Eagle of 1st Avondale.

The following patrols earned "B" camping standards: Owl and Eagle of 1st; Wolf and Lion of 3rd; Fox, Eagle and Beaver of 9th; Eagle of 11th; Wolverine of 14th (Hillcrest); Beaver and Stag of 17th, Belleville, and Nighthawk of 1st Avondale.

WON SECOND TIME

The Follwell trophy for patrol earning the highest score in all Scouting activities was won for the second time by the Whippoorwill patrol of the 5th Belleville, under P.L. Barry Simpson. The runners-up were the Eagle Patrol of the 8th Belleville, under P.L. Bill Goodman and the Cougar patrol of 8th Belleville under P.L. Bill Tryan.

Special TV Program Sunday Will 'Put a Man in Orbit'

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Saudek Associates, the creators of Omnibus, will put a man in orbit — theoretically — on television Sunday.

In Saudek's words, Space—Man's Last Frontier, a special hour program on NBC-TV at 5 p.m. EDT, will be concerned principally with managing a round-trip ticket for man into space. How do you bring him back into the atmosphere at 15,000 miles an hour?

The program, under the direction of William A. Graham, will originate at a private research centre (Avco) near Boston which is doing intercontinental ballistic missile work for the U.S. government. Prominent pioneers of the space age will participate.

Talking with Saudek reminds one that Omnibus this season won an estimated 30-per-cent increase in average audience over the previous year.

AUDIENCE RATINGS

"You don't think that an increasing audience is exclusively the result of better shows," says Saudek. But undoubtedly it is true that as audience snowballs, the more interesting such a program as Joseph Welch on capital punishment, it brings an audience to discuss such a program.

Saudek's collection of creative talent is the same group that launched Omnibus in 1952, has even bigger plans in the works for next year.

In the planning stage is a show similar to Omnibus designed for a younger audience which, would be conducted by Welch. Saudek's eccities also plans to bring back Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic for another television season and to do at least four specials for NBC-TV.

The list of deceased good TV programs is long. Omnibus is an exception.

Perhaps the moral is that a good show DOES attract a good audience if it is allowed to live long enough.

Curling Boss Issues Rebuke To Ex-President

TORONTO (CP)—Walter B. Cowan, president of the Dominion Curling Association, has rebuked the retiring president of the Alberta Association for his charge that the DCA is run by old men and needs "major revamping."

Replying to statements made by Cliff Lee in Edmonton Tuesday night, Mr. Cowan said Wednesday that any criticism of the DCA reflects right back at provincial associations since the National body is made up of representatives from 19 provincial groups.

He said there "is no association all across Canada operating in the sporting world which has had so much progressive years."

He told the Alberta groups's annual meeting that the DCA "needs major revamping to gear it to the curling of tomorrow, much less today."

The national body is loaded down with "oldtimers" who have been made life members and don't represent active curlers but can run things their own way at national meetings," he declared.

"I don't think that is true," Cowan said in an interview. "Any matter brought before the association is debated and I think the ultimate decision is a meriorious one in every case."

AT THE PARK — Leo Gorcey takes his fun-making episode aboard ship in "Let's Go Navy", tonight at the Park with Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys. On the same program is "Fling in the Ring" starring Three Stooges, comedian since Vaudeville days, playing today, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre, Matinee daily.

AT THE BELLE — Dorothy Malone shares co-starring honors with Henry Fonda, Richard Widmark and Anthony Quinn in "Warlock", in Color and CinemaScope, playing today, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre. Matinee daily.

AT THE PARK — Norman Wisdom, the fabled comedian since George Formby, stole in the zany laugh riot, "Square Peg", opening tonight at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville and district showing. On the same program more laughs the Bowery Boys in "Let's Go Navy", plus a 3 Stooges Comedy and Bugs Bunny.

Big Four, CBC Are Agreed On Television

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and the Big Four football union have reached agreement for televising of games in Eastern Canada this fall.

The two parties announced Wednesday that "a mutually satisfactory agreement has been reached." It includes provision for strategic blackouts of TV in areas where games are being played.

CBC Vice-President E. L. Bushnell said the corporation plans to telecast at least 17 league and three playoff games. Some of the eight night games might be dropped.

Sam Berger of Ottawa Rough Riders, head of the Big Four television committee, said the committee wanted the CBC to televise at least 20 league games.

On the important point of blackouts, however, the CBC agreed to Big Four demands for local TV blackouts on all games, including playoffs.

Mr. Berger said the blackout arrangement will mean that Toronto games will not be seen in Hamilton, and Hamilton games will not be seen in Toronto.

$250,000 PRICE

No price was announced, but it was understood the CBC will pay the league about $250,000 for the rights to televise the games.

This would amount to about $70,000 for each club: Ottawa, Montreal Alouettes, Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

A Quebec brewery—sponsor in 1956-57-58—paid the clubs $350,000 for TV rights to the games last year and the CBC paid about $30,000 for the playoffs. About a quarter of the way through the season, however, the CBC purchased the rights and sold sponsorship to various local advertisers.

'Brum Throstles' Arrive for Canadian Tour

TORONTO (CP)—West Bromwich Albion, the beloved "Throstles" from Birmingham, has arrived to begin a three-week soccer tour of Canada and the first thing that impressed them was Toronto traffic.

Vic Buckingham, youthful-looking manager, summed it up:

"I hope the Ontario team doesn't but around like the cars here."

Whether his respect for fast-jamming Canadian traffic will be matched by respect for Canadian soccer will be seen Friday when big team takes on Ontario all-stars—almost to a man composed of former English and Scottish players.

From here, West Bromwich Albion goes to Calgary, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa and Montreal to games.

Proud Yankees In Depths Of Cellar

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—What's the matter with the New York Yankees?

"I don't know what the trouble is," said manager Casey Stengel glumly.

"Everybody in the world hoped we'd bar and now everyones is mad as hell because we're not winning."

For the first time since May 25, 1940, the proud world champions are in last place in the American League.

"Those pitchers of ours will have to do a little better or we won't get to see them around here much longer," Stengel said darkly.

Stengel hazarded a guess that his Yankees "found out maybe this league is faster than they thought it was."

NEW YORK BOOS YANKEES

It was an anti-Yankee crowd of 12,000 that watched the Yankees fall to the lower depths by losing to Detroit 13-6.

Mantle was booed at his every appearance, but that is old stuff for him. Stengel was booed when he went to the mound in the sixth, and that was rather novel.

But Eddie Yost was cheered like a hometown hero when he hit his grandson homer in the seventh.

Close observers said there is no dissension on the team. "They just aren't hitting," said one of the Yankee followers.

"We're down now, but a lot of clubs will know we are around before this is over," said Stengel firmly, "at least five of 'em."

Fear Outboard Motor Shortage May Develop

Although the boating season has barely begun there is a growing scarcity of both new and used outboard motors in all models and sizes. Factories are working overtime, but it seems likely that they will fall far behind the demand when the season's peak is reached.

Good used outboard motors are always in demand, but with the shortage of new models they are becoming even more difficult to obtain. Prospective motor owners would be wise to buy now or risk disappointment this summer.

Booth Marina, 32 South Front St. in Belleville are fortunate in having a limited supply of used motors — as well as 1959 models. They are even THINKING about having a motor this summer, you would be wise to make your selection now — lay it away and pay later. Terms are as low as $1.00 a week. Open every evening until 9. Ray Robinson Basilio Debate Goes On, On

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Round and round the Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio debate goes. Where it will stop nobody knows.

The New York state athletic commission, which appears about ready to strip Robinson of his title, has recessed its hearing until Friday afternoon. Basilio sweated it out Wednesday in the sticky hearing room while lawyers objected and took exceptions to a stream of questions.

The debate revolved on an April 30 order by the state supreme court and the commission for Robinson to enter into articles of agreement to defend against Basilio in 15 days (May 15) or risk vacating the title.

Robinson claims he has en-

ferred into an agreement to fight Basilio in Philadelphia, Sept. 31, Part of the contract was filed with the commission Monday. The rest was to have been produced Wednesday. It didn't show.

T. commission ruled it was evident the Pennsylvania contract was invalid.

The lawyers had a field day. When it was all over, the chances of a Robinson-Basilio fight seemed less than ever. The National Boxing Association, which already has lifted Ray's title, has recessed its hearing until Friday afternoon. Basilio sweated it out Wednesday in the sticky hearing room while lawyers objected and took exceptions to a stream of questions.

The debate revolved on an April 30 order by the state supreme court and the commission for Robinson to "enter into articles of agreement to defend against Basilio in 15 days (May 15) or risk vacating the title."

Robinson claims he has en-

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We note by the papers and press dispatches that J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne is in the news again.

Lest you forget, John Francis, of England, is the president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, and manager of the British Ice Hockey Association.

The dapper little cockerel is an Irishman who lives in England and handles international and Olympics hockey tournaments, with a big, British Travel Agency as a sideline.

He is the figure who arranged the exhibition tour of the McNamaras, world champions through Europe, and who took a lot of the honor—and most of the cash—from the tournament itself.

Ahearne has been in Detroit for the past few days taking part in the annual convention of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association with stress on the forthcoming Olympics set for Squaw Valley, California, next year.

His memory is phenomenal — at times. At others it appears to be of very short duration. For instance he can recall teams, players and incidents that occurred in world hockey two decades ago. The other day he made statements in Detroit that were in direct contradiction to those made in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, a few short months ago.

He told newsmen in his Carleton Hotel luxurious suite in the Austrian border city, that neither Canada nor the United States would get the 1962 world tournament. But he forgot the glitter of American gold. An American multi-millionaire offered a handsome prize to participating teams, and the city of Colorado Springs got the tourney.

Passing around English cigarets from a handsome gold case, the diminutive "Bandit from Britain" as foemen have lapsed him, predicted the Russian squad would be "wore sold out." Apparently other promoters took over and here again the Midas touch of Ahearne is apparent. It is common gossip now that the two Canadian pro teams are, with a few exceptions, "drawing peanuts."

Regarding this state of affairs Ahearne told a press meeting in Detroit the other night, "there are too many games on such short notice for the players. They are trying to give their best every night and are getting pretty tuxeen. A mighty tough chore. The attendance at many of the places has not been too good, mainly because of high ticket prices and also a lack of promotion. You know, exhibition hockey is hard to sell anywhere."

That is not what Ahearne thought, nor said, when he arranged the pre-tournament exhibition tour of the McFarlands. Nor did he give a tinker's damn about travel. The blue were practically out on their feet when they arrived in Zurich, Switzerland, for the last two exhibition games, because of travel and accommodation conditions arranged by Mr. Ahearne's travel facilities.

And his understatement of the year was "exhibition games are hard to sell." No paltry few hundreds watched the Macs play exhibition title. The arenas were packed, with thousands looking on. And nobody knows that better than Ahearne who was around when the spoils were divided.

And then there was his famous statement when he asked if Canadian and US teams would be annual affairs. Bunny grinned down the length of his English gasper and said: "Why give 'em dollar hockey when you can fill the stadia with the ten-cent kind."

Baby Canadiens Must Play In Recognized Junior League

DETROIT (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has decided the Hull-Ottawa farm of Canadiens must play in a recognized junior league if they want to retain their status in Memorial Cup competition.

Canadiens were given an automatic bye into cup playoffs this year and were eliminated in the semi-finals. The new ruling by the CAHA's annual convention here Saturday said the change would be for the betterment of junior hockey in Eastern Canada. Sam Pollock, Canadiens' general manager, said later in Montreal he expected the team will enter a league. The CAHA's action will have little real effect on club operations, he said.

SCOTCHES RUMORS

Pollock dismissed reports here that Hull-Ottawa would disband. He said the move by the amateur body had been anticipated.

To strengthen Memorial Cup chances of Thunder Bay (Ont.) and Alberta league teams the CAHA also decided to allow teams in both branches to pick up three players as they advance into the playoffs.

Members approved requiring professional hockey players to sit a full year before regaining amateur status. Reinstatement of pros will be aired at a pro-amateur meeting next month.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association was given permission to include newcomers in its ranks, but only with approval of each individual CAHA branch.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne of England, president of the World Ice Hockey Federation who was here to confer with officials of the CAHA and U.S. Amateur Hockey Association, took a pessimistic view of Canada's Olympic prospects next year.

"You could finish as far down as fourth," he said.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen will be Canada's representative in the Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., next year.

Ahearne said he thinks the Russian, Czechs, Swedes and United States nationals will give Canada bitter competition. Olympic rules don't allow the use of professional pros.

"Whitby, with eight pros, had trouble beating Flin Flon two years ago," he said. "Last winter in Prague, with 15 pros, Belleville had all it could do to beat Russia, then lost to the Czechs and had a draw at a time with a couple of other teams."

Ahearne made his comments in an interview.

HOLD ELECTIONS

Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., was elected president for the 1959-60 term; Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe is first vice-president and Art Potter of Edmonton second vice-president.

W. A. Hewlit of Toronto remains secretary - treasurer and George Dudley of Midland continues as secretary-manager. Mr. Hewlit becomes honorary rules committee chairman, while new committee members are Tom Priddle of Regina, Bob LeBel of Chambly Basin, Que., and Lorne Cook of Kingston.

The position of CAHA radio commissioner has been abolished and a new committee consisting of LeBel, Roxburgh and Dr. E. J. Taylor of Brandon, Man., will investigate all radio matters.

The convention also decided that Memorial and Allan Cup finals will start no later than April 18 next year. The 1960 annual meeting will be held at Sydney, N.S., May 23.

Don't Change Your Set, The Yanks Are On Bottom

First Time in 18 Seasons Champions Look up at Pack; Hot Tigers Beat Them Again

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals finally have made a move to see how the other half lives in the National League pennant chase.

They're still seventh, just five days free of the cellar and eight games shy of first place, but the Red Birds are on their first real winning streak of the season after whipping Pittsburgh and winless Bob Friend 11-3 Wednesday night.

It was the Cards' fourth straight success and they did it on the six-hit pitching of Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell and the second successive three - RBI game by Bill White, who has six hits in eight trips for two nights.

DODGERS SLIP BACK

That put St. Louis within four games of the first division after Los Angeles slipped to fourth by splitting a twi-night doubleheader with Cincinnati. The fifth - place Reds beat the Dodgers 7-5 after an opening 4-2 defeat.

The San Francisco Giants retained second, ending Milwaukee's winning streak at six games, 6-3, and reducing the Braves' lead to 3½ games. Chicago Cubs are third, winning their third in a row with a 7-4 win over the Philadelphia Phillies, who have dropped eight straight.

Young Mike Mcormick (2-2) stoned the Braves, with ninth-inning relief help from Don Jones and three RBI's from Felipe Alou. The power outfielder belted a two-run homer in the fourth off loser Bob Buhl, then doubled home the tying run and scored the clincher on Daryl Spencer's double in a two-run fourth. Hank Aaron hit his 12th homer for the Braves.

BIG SEVENTH

Joe Pignatano belted a three-run homer as the Dodgers wrapped up the contest with six runs in the seventh inning after Roy McMillan and second base opponent Don Hoak were ejected in what would have been an inning-ending double play. Left-hander Johnny Podres was credited with the victory for the Dodgers. Danny McDevitt (3-3) gave up five hits, after holding the Reds hitless for five innings, while beating Brooks Lawrence 13-11.

Don Newcombe, now 3-2 against his old mates, won the nightcap for the Reds with a six-hitter. Newk (4-4) gave up only one hit for five innings, then was slugged for three homers, two by Charlie Neal and one by Wally Moon. The Reds got homers from Roy McMillan, who belted his with a man on in the second against loser Carl Erskine (0-2), and Gus Bell, who triggered a five-run third with a three-run homer.

Ernie Banks 10th homer, a three-run clout in the eighth, won for the Cubs and Moe Drabowsky (2-2), who needed relief after Harry Hanebrink's inch two-run homer in the seventh.

The Yankees are last. Incredibly, the club that has handed the American League a decade of drudgery is at the bottom of the pile.

The club that has won nine pennants and seven world championships in 10 years is in the cellar.

You have to go back to May 25, 1940, to find a set of standings that shows the New York Yankees in eighth place at this stage of the season. And those 1940 Yankees, too, were world champions. They had won four consecutive world series but finished third that season.

JUST KIDS

But that was long ago. Yogi Berra was a kid of 15 on The Hill in St. Louis. Mickey Mantle was 7, Tony Kubek 3. Of the 16 players manager Casey Stengel used as Detroit plunked the Yankees into the cellar with a 13-4 smash Wednesday, only Enos Slaughter was in organized ball in 1951.

While the baseball fans eyed the bottom of the standings, Cleveland clung to the top with a 5-3 victory at Washington. The Chicago White Sox continued within a half-game of the Indians by beating Baltimore 2. Kansas City whipped Boston 8-2.

Right-hander Frank Lary, who has won nine of his last 10 against the Yankees, gained a 3-3 record with a relief-starting, 12-inning stint. Berra in the first inning, then clouted the Yankees four hits until the ninth, when Mantle's homer and Berra's second scored four runs.

19 DETROIT HITS

In between, Mantle Yost had three of Detroit's 19 hits and drove in six runs, with two homers, one a grand slam, as Shantz (0-2) lost it.

Rocky Colavito and Vic Power each drove in a pair of runs for the Indians. Herb Score (4-2) beat the Senators on six hits—one Harmon Killebrew's 15th home run, tops in the majors—and Jim Lemon's three-run homer over the left 2 1-3 innings. Russ Kemmerer (4-3) lost it.

Dick Donovan (3-2) gained his first complete game for the White Sox with a 9-hitter. He blanked the Orioles on two hits after 1 2-3 innings, while Jack Harshman (0-6) hit a home run in the third.

There was a run single by Frank House gave the A's 3-1 lead in the fourth. Roger Maris drove in three runs, two with his 10th and Kansas City took fourth place behind the eight-hit pitching of Ray Herbert (3-3), who beat the Red Sox on four singles after the fourth. Billy Hoeft (1-4) lost it.

Leafs Shade Bisons 7-6; Royals Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami rookie pitcher John Howard Fisher is a man who always likes company a job—be it a ball game or his team's goldruns.

The 20 - year - old Baltimore Oriole farmhand did both Wednesday night as Miami Marlins edged Columbus 5-4 and snapped a three-game losing streak to the Jets, who had won five of six previous games with the Marlins.

In other games, Havana defeated Richmond 4-2, Toronto edged Buffalo 7-6 in 10 innings and Rochester won over Montreal 8-7.

FINISHED ALL SIX

Finishing a game is nothing new this season for Fisher. He has started six, completed six and won six.

He has made the jump from the class B Carolina League to Triple A in remarkable fashion. In 54 innings, he has walked only 21, struck out 41 and allowed 40 hits. He has a 1.83 earned run average.

Against Columbus he scattered seven hits, and his ninth-inning single scored Jim Rivera from third on a 44 tie and made loser Lyn Lovenguth's record 4-3. Nino Escalera relieved for the Jets.

BATTLE OF HOMERS

Hector Rodriguez' solo home run in the 10th gave Toronto the victory and Jack Crimlan (2-3). Rodriguez hit his third homer of the year off reliever Fred Rodriguez (1-2), who also gave up a home run to Don King which tied the score in the last of the ninth. Earlier, Toronto's Frank Herrera and Ruben Amaro homered for Buffalo.

Jim Frey's three-run homer in the seventh sparked a four-run rally for Rochester, overcoming a Montreal lead. Reliever Bill Greason (2-1) got the victory while Hoyt Wilhelm (2-3) took the loss. Wally Shannon hit a baseswinging homer for the winners in the first, his pair of singles.

Home runs by Rocello Alvarez and Tony Gonzales gave the Sugar Kings an early 3-0 lead over Phillip Paine, but it took a two-run relief work by Raoul Sanchez in the eighth and ninth innings to break the ice for the ailing Richmond ralliers. He pitched himself out of baseloaded jams to help Miguel Cuellar in his second win. Zack Monroe lost his first start since coming from the Yankees. Fritz Brickell homered for Richmond.

Eddie Machen Beats Vargas Seeks to Stop Title Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Heavyweight contender Eddie Machen, victorious Wednesday night over unranked Rueben Vargas, now switches his battling to the courts, seeking to halt the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson title bout.

The bout was fifth - ranked Machen's first major test since Sept. 14 when he suffered his first loss, a first-round knockout by Johansson.

Eddie and his pilot, Sid Flaherty, are scheduled to appear in federal court in New York June 1 when their petition seeking to force Johansson into a return bout with Machen will be heard.

A verdict favoring Eddie could disrupt plans for the June 25 meeting in New York between champion Patterson and the Swede who knyoed Machen Sept. 14. Flaherty contends he and Eddie hold a contract calling for the return match before Johansson hcres anyone else.

Wednesday night in the 10-rounder at the Cow Palace, Machen found tough going in the early and late rounds against the ruggedly swinging Vargas. But Eddie's jab kept his onrushing foe off balance sufficiently to bring him a unanimous but close and unpopular verdict.

Referee Vern Bybee scored it 58-56, judge Jack Downey 96-94, judge Matt Zidich 97-95 and The Associated Press 96-95.

There were no knockdowns, although Vargas wrestled Machen down in the third and Eddie did the same to Vargas in the fifth.

Yuke Scared Of Kiniski? Oh, Yeah!

Gene Kiniski's fire, fury and fireworks bore the brunt of two weeks against Whipper Billy Watson and the officials, does not bother Yukon Eric one little twig.

The barrel-chested lumberjack merely grunted when told of what had happened and shrugged his huge shoulders in a significant "So what" gesture.

The Kiniski capers hold no terrors for the amiable son of the bandsaw. He has met and defeated better wrestlers and don't be surprised if he leaves the ring tomorrow night wearing the Empire crown.

Unless, of course, Kiniski comes up with some more skullduggery, which to date has resulted in his successful retention of his title.

But it should be a rousing bout. The Yuke is getting a little weary of the high jinks of the mayhemic flower of the foothills and is quite liable to put a stop to them once and for all.

Then there is the Great Bolo to add more villainous sauce to the card. He tangles with popular Jack Laskin while Karl Kuleski meets up with Jackie Nichols.

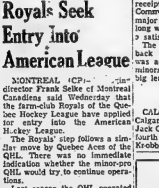
Royals Seek Entry into American League

MONTREAL (CP)— ... director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said Wednesday that the farm-club Royals of the Quebec Hockey League have applied for entry into the American Hockey League.



The league step follows a similar move by Quebec Aces of the QHL. There was no immediate indication whether the minor-pro QHL would try to continue operations.

Last season the QHL operated with only four clubs—Montreal, Quebec, Trois-Rivieres and Chicoutimi.

The City Commercial Softball League schedule got under way last night with two games being played.

Northern Electric, one of the loop's new entries this season, got away to a winning start by defeating Bishop Seeds 10-8. Stu Craig pitched the victory and bit a home run to help his own cause. And Knott and Jack Reid shared the Bishop hurling duties.

"Midge" Courneyea, shortstop for Bishop Seeds, suffered a badly sprained ankle going into second base midway through the game.

In the other contest Sports Centre shaded Chris' Drive-In by a 5-4 score.

Hoods Threaten Him With Harm Says Promoter

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A boxing promoter charged Wednesday that underworld figures threatened him with harm in an attempt to take over management of world welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Hollywood Legion Stadium promoter Jackie Leonard told the California athletic commission under oath that the threats were made by Frankie Carbo and Frank (Blinky) Palermo.

Carbo, a fugitive from justice in New York, reputedly is the underworld's boss in boxing.

Leonard said he was summoned to Florida late last year to meet James D. Norris, former head of the now disbanded International Boxing Club. Leonard said he did not see Norris but that Carbo demanded a piece of Jordan's contract for Palermo.

Leonard said Palermo later came to his office in Los Angeles and renewed the demand. He said he told Palermo that Jordan's manager Don Nesseth refused to give up part of his contract.

Leonard told reporters before the hearing that police had made a similar recording of telephoned threats.

One of the recordings said: "It'll be with a pipe, wrapped in a paper sack. You'll be standin' in a corner. You'll never know what hit you."

Majors, Minors TV Problem Not Settled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball's troublesome radio-TV problem is still unsolved after a two-day discussion by major and minor league committees.

The session was called to consider the plight of the minors, who are fared with sagging gate receipts and blame it on saturation of the airways with free broadcasts of major league contests.

Commissioner Ford Frick, who presided over Wednesday's joint session, said:

"We had a very satisfactory meeting, and I feel much progress was made. But this is not a problem to be solved in a couple days.

The committee discussed two possible solutions at length. One concerned the use of broadcasts through legislation, such as the Walters bill now before Congress, which would determine limits on telecasts and other game accounts beamed into minor league territory.

The other concerned indemnities of some sort, under which the minors would be paid a portion of the television and radio receipts received by the majors. Committee members hinted the major and minor groups were a long way apart on what would be a satisfactory figure.

The major leaguers will report back to their leagues on what was accomplished here, and the minors will wait to see what the big leaguers do.

WIRKOWSKI SIGNS

CALGARY (CP) — The WIFU Calgary Stampeders have signed Jack Gotta, 220-pound end, for his fourth year as quarterback Ko-oby Wirkowski for his third award.

'Hell Drivers' To Perform at Fair Grounds

Just how far can you propel an automobile through space? That's a question the Lucky Hell Drivers hope to determine this summer, provided track or runway conditions measure up to expectations. It might be at the Fairgrounds when the dare-devils appear at 8:15 on Friday night, May 22.

Bobo Canup, the veteran stuntman from Calgary, who holds the "world's" record for broadjumping a car the distance of 82 feet, is curious about the limit of a speeding 1959 Ford. Canup made his record breaking leap at the Iowa State Fair in 1952, and while others have since leaped an auto the same distance none has gone over the mark. Bobo believes a 100 feet trip through space may now be possible.

The aerial crisscross leap is performed in this manner. Driving at high speed, the car enters the jaws of the world's largest cannon, races up a narrow runway and is hurled through space to a receiving ramp beyond. At the same time another new vehicle broadsides under-neath the flying car.

Although he has been making this "space car cannon shot" for quite a few years, Canup isn't ready to concede that he has mastered the stunt. "Never get complacent about a stunt, no matter how simple it looks," advises wiry, weatherbeaten Bobo, whose many accident scars attest to the hazards of his profession. The space leap isn't new, Lucky Teter perfected it . . . and the stunt killed him, and 18 other daredevils.

27 other events will round out the Hell Drivers appearance on Friday at the Fairgrounds.

Struck Out 24 Loses Game

SUDBURY (CP) — Metro Sawyk, a pitcher with Interlakes in Sudbury's senior Royal Trading Softball League, chalked up a league strikeout record by fanning 24 Capreol batters Wednesday night but lost the game 4-2.

Errors led to his downfall.

Ezio Bevilacqua, who pitched the win for Capreol, held the previous league record of 18 strikeouts.

Moyer Still Bowling King

TORONTO (CP)—Seventy-five bowlers including such big names as Joe Condy, from Kingston, found the 2,761 score of John Moyer of Waterloo unapproachable in Wednesday night's O'Keefe open bowling activity.

Phil Bancroft, King City, was the evening's high shooter with 2,956.

Jim Taylor, Kingston, rolled a high single of 383 worth $25—two bobbly scoring-pins robbing him of a perfect game and a $1,000 prize.

Ontario Leads In Agriculture

TORONTO — Cash income of Ontario farmers is revealed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as 31.1% of that of all farmers in Canada, and is almost as great as the combined cash income of farmers in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Milk cows in Ontario comprise 32.4% of the total number in Canada, hogs 30.0%, sheep and lambs 22.8% and hens and chicks 41.2%.

Ontario produces all of the winter wheat grown in Canada and stands first in the acreage planted to mixed grains, grain corn, fodder corn, dry beans, soybeans, rutabagas and tobacco; second in acreage of fall rye, hay, sugar beets and potatoes. Practically all the production of dry beans and soybeans is in Ontario. In the case of dry beans, the acreage in 1958 was 65,200 and soybeans 256,000 acres.

In 1958, Ontario grew 125,775 acres of tobacco with a production of 188,460,000 pounds. This crop, the largest ever harvested for Ontario, has an estimated value of $90,000,000. Ontario potato acreage is second only to that of Quebec and should increase this year as a new potato flake plant, the first in Canada will be built at Alliston this year.

Statistics such as those above are compiled from the basic information supplied from the Annual June 1st Survey schedules which will be distributed to every farmer across Canada at the end of May. Ontario farmers have always given an excellent response to this survey and their co-operation in filling out and mailing their schedule promptly is again requested by the Ontario Department of Agriculture which computes the figures for this province.

The survey has absolutely no connection with taxation, individual returns are never divulged to anyone and are used only to prepare county and provincial totals.

CAMPBELLFORD — The May meeting of the Campbellford Public School Board was held in Kent St. School on May 6th at 7.30 p.m. All members were present except one. Vice-chairman, Mr. E. Steele, presided in the absence of Mr. H. F. Cryderman.

The resignations of Mrs. Carroll Clements of Kent School and Mrs. Betty Watson, music teacher in the schools for the past seven years, were accepted with regret. Mr. Steele reported on the progress of the lawn at Kent School and arrangements were made for planting shrubs. A new lawn mower was ordered for Kent School. Dr. Burgess was asked to arrange for the tuning of the pianos of both schools during the summer months.

All arrangements have been made for the Kinsmen's annual trips given to Grades 7 and 8 so kindly each year. Much benefit is derived from these visits to Toronto and Ottawa and the members of the Board are grateful to the Kinsmen Club for this worthwhile project.

Mr. C. Johnson reviewed the finances of the board, giving a survey of the first four months of this year. All accounts were studied and passed.

The June meeting will be held on June 3rd, at Kent School.

MADOC

C. of C. Enjoys Humorous Program

MADOC — The May meeting of the Madoc Chamber of Commerce was held in Blue's Dining Hall on Wednesday evening with John Keller, president, in charge.

Following dinner, a short business session was held. It was announced that buoys marking the rocks and shoals in Moira Lake would be set out during the weekend under the direction of Joe Nicoll.

The June meeting will be held at Hiatt's Lodge, Salmen Lake.

Verne McMurray discussed a letter sent to Belleville C. of C. re the Madoc-Bancroft road.

The program was in charge of three past presidents John Wagner, Gordon Pigden and George Devolin.

John Wagner cleverly depicted by several drawings an idea whereby the C. of C., Kiwanis, Masons and I.O.O.F., should band together and lend support to teenagers, who, will be the future citizens of Madoc, and be the heads of these various organizations.

Gordon Pigden stole the show of the evening with his predecessing for 1975, by means of a hidden tape recording. In his humorous and clever manner, among his many predictions were that your newspaper would come to you by means of tape and be reproduced by sound instead of on your television set. Ranch type houses would be out of style, modern homes would be built of plastic, supported by aluminum at a cost of $30,000, kitchens will be of push button control type, and lawn grass will grow only to one and one-half inches; no need for cutting.

Stores will be large chain stores managed by outside interests; there will be 750 acre farms producing vegetables, meat and cereal grains and these farms will be watered with plastic pipes conveying the water. Madoc will have several small industries and one large one.

Tourists will be mostly men seeking fishing as the women will be content to stay at home and enjoy their own swimming pools and other conveniences. The duties of the C. of C. will be to decide which day shall be main day at farmers and church groups won't be agreeable as to the day.

George Devolin furnished the third part of the program and after introducing the members of the Public School Board invited all on an hour's tour of the new public school building. All enjoyed the tour and many favorable comments were heard regarding the building.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lorne Hagerman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mackenzie of Rylstone spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner.

Thousands Riot In Buenos Aires, 2 Killed, 25 Hurt

President of Indonesia Is Caught in Wild Melee

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Some 300 strikers were arrested Thursday night after thousands of workers and police had turned downtown Buenos Aires into a battlefield.

A visiting dignitary, President Sukarno of Indonesia, was caught in the melee when strikers shouting anti-government slogans pressed around the open car carrying him to call on President Arturo Frondizi. Police finally detached the car from the mob and Sukarno reached Government House unharmed.

Two persons were killed when a fourth-floor balcony crumbled with persons watching the rioting crashed to the street. Another 25 persons were injured in the street fighting, in which streetcars and four buses were overturned and burned.

Violence erupted when bank clerks striking for higher wages demonstrated one day before a government decree ordered a return to work.

Bank clerks began marching toward Government House when reinforced police units attempted to break them up.

Other workers joined the clerks in battling police. Those who enjoy liberal use of tear gas, fire hoses and clubs. The strike has been in progress for two weeks.

UNREST IS GENERAL

The riot took place as Frondizi met with representatives of labor advisers to consider the general labor situation.

Two labor groups—the 62 group is sympathetic with former dictator Juan Peron and the 19 Communist Bloque — still were considering whether to call a protest against the government's labor policies.

Climax of the violence Thursday night was a bomb explosion at the home of a former Peronist minister, Oscar Albrieu, Damage to the house was extensive.

The latest wave of social unrest appears to have been timed to coincide with the visit of Sukarno and Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir, who also arrived here Thursday.

FORD, CHRYSLER ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR SMALL CAR

Production Likely To Start Next Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two of the automotive industry's big three—Ford and Chrysler—have announced plans for a "compact" car, likely to be in production next year.

Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, said in Toronto Thursday "his company plans to make a car known as the Falcon for distribution through its Ford-Monarch-Edsel dealers and somewhat similar automobile, still unnamed, for limited sale in Canada through Mercury - Lincoln - Meteor dealers.

Frank Hogan, executive vice-president of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, said in Windsor that the Valiant, a new small car planned by his firm's parent Chrysler Corp. in United States, will be built in Canada should it be decided to offer the car for sale here.

Mr. Sale said Ford is planning for production of the Falcon, and the other model in its Canadian plants.

There was still no word from General Motors of Canada. A spokesman at Oshawa said he had "nothing to say on the subject" except that the matter of building a small car is being investigated.

Mr. Sale said:

"The economy cars will be added to our existing range of passenger cars, which includes Ford, Meteor, Edsel, Mercury, Monarch, Thunderbird, Lincoln and Continental. We will continue to import Anglia, Prefect, Consul, Zephyr and Zodiac cars from Ford of England and the Taunus 12M and 17M from Ford of Germany."

Despite official silence from General Motors, industry spokesmen say they, too, will have a smaller car—probably called the corvair, compact on the GM Introduction date at Oct. 9.

MAY BRING FARMS UNDER JOBLESS INSURANCE ACT

To Cover Workers On Voluntary Basis

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is studying a plan to bring farm workers under unemployment insurance coverage on a voluntary basis.

Answering the Commons of this during study of labor department estimates, Labor Minister Starr said Thursday the matter could be on a "feasible plan."

He explained that, as now conceived, it would work like this:

A farmer who found hired hands refused to work for him because they wouldn't be covered by unemployment insurance would be required to pay for an employer if he wanted in and thereby make coverage possible.

VOLUNTARY AT START

"We have studied every possible form of coverage—universal coverage, territorial coverage—and at the present time we are giving what I consider to be a feasible plan that is inclusion on a voluntary basis," Mr. Starr said. This "might be the start of the inclusion of the farm employers' plan in the dark" on that issue.

He referred to the investigation by Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Natural Gas Company stock and the resignation last year of three cabinet ministers who held stock in the gas distribution firm.

Why didn't the premier quit? asked Opposition leader Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearkes asked for a new slate of candidates for the unemployment insurance advisory committee, terms of whose chairman, four labor nominees and four from employers, expire June 27. The committee meets twice a year to report to the cabinet on the state of the unemployment insurance fund.

Mr. Diefenbaker responded as depleted recently when the Canadian Labor Congress accused the cabinet of ignoring CLC nominees for a vacancy on the Unemployment Insurance Commission by appointing outgo unionist Alastair R. Macarthur.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes said Thursday that his department has looked at the French Mirage III jet plane for possible adoption in the RCAF air division in Europe. He said in the Commons that it is not yet in a position to say when or how the air division will be re-equipped.

Canada is in the forefront in the United Nations Geneva and in seeking a permanent solution to the European problem, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in a reply to Opposition Leader Pearson who asked what information had given to the recent refugee conference at New York.

A government "flexibility survey" indicates that a highway causeway linking New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island via Northumberland Strait would have to cope with a tidal differential of 30 feet, New Brunswick Premier Robichaud said Thursday. A complete change of strait water would be required there likely in the causeway should be built, he said. These details were being studied, he added, but it would be premature to prevent possible land damage.

Premier Frost Drops Mild Manner to Rap Opposition

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Tempers rose a notch Thursday night in the Ontario election campaign.

Premier Frost dropped his mild manner to launch an attack on two Windsor area Liberals, including Paul Martin, former federal health minister.

CCF Leader Donald C. Macdonald used the Northern Ontario natural gas controversy as the launching pad for a blast at Premier Frost.

Liberal leader John Wintermeyer raked Mr. Frost for failing to implement recommendations made last winter by the legislature's select committee on labor relations.

The speeches gave indications that a hot campaign might be stirred up before voting day June 11.

Mr. Frost and Mr. MacDonald spent the day in Windsor where their campaign trails crossed for the first time. Earlier in the day the CCF leader challenged the premier to a debate during their Windsor visits but Mr. Frost said his schedule was full.

A CCF rally of nearly 200 in a high school auditorium featured an attack on the premier's stage with a sign: "Reserved for Mr. Frost."

Mr. MacDonald said the premier's refusal to debate the issues no longer "can be treated as part of an attempt to "keep the public in the dark" on that issue.

He referred to the investigation into Mr. Frost's holdings in Natural Gas Company stock and the resignation last year of three cabinet ministers who held stock in the gas distribution firm.

Why didn't the premier quit? asked Opposition leader Diefenbaker.

Communists Backing Down From Power Grab in Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Communists appeared today to have lost their bid for a quick power grab in Iraq.

They still are the strongest single political group in Iraq but they are being backed away from any kind of showdown by the Iraqi government.

At the same time Abdel Karim Kassem, the Iraqi revolutionary president, is the strongest figure in the Middle East.

It seems clear that Kassem has not only outfoxed but has struck against Communist pressure, but also appears to have kept the Reds at bay back down and has made it stick.

The Communists, who have been edging toward the street mobs, have been making an open grab for power since the July 14 bloody revolt in March.

But what looks like an almost complete reversal in tactics was disclosed during the last 72 hours in Radio Baghdad by the tone of broadcasts and programs quoting newspaper editorials and by the publication of a different look.

Until three days ago the Communists had carried out an unrelenting campaign to get into Kassem's cabinet.

Kassem earlier this week said the time was not ripe for political parties in Iraq.

An editorial in the main Red newspaper, Ittihad el Shaab, said in effect the Communists will not now press for immediate recognition. The question can be solved in time," it added.

U.S. Will Lift Ban on Transit Of Chinese Food

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has won its trucking battle with the United States to the haulage of imported Communist China foods through American highways, it was learned today.

Informants said the U.S. has agreed to lift the three - month ban against Canadian truckers transporting Chinese foods and other mainland foods from one Canadian point to another over American territory. An official announcement is likely to be made in a few days.

Why didn't the premier quit? asked Opposition leader Diefenbaker.

Kelly before the legislature to explain his suggestion that other government members were included in CCF leader asked.

How could Mr. Frost expect the public to believe he was unaware of Mr. Kelly's stock when Mr. Frost said he debated the $200,000 profit made by A. D. McKenzie, president of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association? And how could he guarantee no stocks were used to bribe elected officials when shares at the Lakehead Mr. Frost himself counted for?

Mr. MacDonald said the CCF will keep trying to uncover the whole story.

"We'll continue it if it takes another five years."

He condemned Mr. Frost for defending William Griesinger, the member for Windsor-Sandwich who resigned as works minister because of NONG shares holdings.

At one point in his speech the CCF leader pounded the table with his fist and roared: "The CCF is out to win this election and to change the government of this province."

In a Windsor speech to 300 supporters flayed Arthur Reaume, seeking re-election for the Liberals in Essex North, and threw most of its punch at Mr. Frost's record as Premier.

Mr. Reaume who said the premier was "talking the same old stuff, spreading it the same old garden."

The premier said he did not use language like Mr. Reaume's and quoted figures on increased hospital, welfare and education grants in Essex County. He said "if this is the same old stuff I'm proud to promise you more."

BAYONNE N.J. (AP)—The fortunes of war are fickle.

Thursday the escort carrier Guadalcanal was towed by a few miles upstream from the naval base here. It was not scrapped. She is listed in U.S. Navy records as the "former Guadalcanal" and figures an enemy submarine on her log book during the second World War.

The submarine she captured is the Archerfish, which has been preserved as a museum attraction in Chicago.

Montreal Cast Admired at Drama Festival

TORONTO (CP)The work of a Montreal theatre group, the "Pronsencium" was admired by Toronto critics Thursday night at Thursday night's Dominion Drama Festival performance.

The group, Les Compagnons de Viriers du Devoir was done in French by Montreal group. Most of the adjudication was also in French, which set the Toronto critics into a flurry of comparison of roles.

Dr. Dora Mavor Moore, the festival to find with the play. He adjudicated the actors, the costumes and the production of the performance. He thought the play was "too lyrically" and complained of the diction of leading man Uriel Luft.

However, one adjudicator said the play was done with "a clear mind by artists who knew what they are doing." He singled out leading actress Claude Braxton for her performance in the play "THAT'S THEATRE?"

"That is theatre," Mr. St. Denis said of the minor parts of the show.

The group's French play, Le Militaire Fanfaron, will be performed Saturday night by Les Compagnons de Montmagny of Montreal.

The only western entry in the DDF, the Medicine Hat Civic Theatre, presents The Diary of Anne Frank tonight.

West Germany Is Urging Hands-Off Berlin Pledge

Price For Parley At Summit

Western Powers Decide Secret Talks Required

GENEVA (CP)—West Germany pressed the Big Three Western foreign ministers to get a permanent hands-off-Berlin pledge from Russia before agreeing to a summit conference.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano told a press conference he believes the United States, Britain and France must obtain Soviet "confirmation of the existing rights of the West in Berlin as a pre-condition for a summit meeting."

If that commitment could be secured informally from Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko when he is in Geneva, it could be the basis for a formal agreement at the summit. It would bind Russia to accept the right of the Western powers to keep troops in Berlin and to supply them across East Germany.

IN NEW PHASE

After nearly two weeks of formal sessions, the Big Four ministers now are moving into a new phase in which informal talks shortly to get down to bargaining for the kind of deal to make a summit issues.

The British Secretary Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, Maurice Couve de Murville of France and von Brentano decided today the ministers will hold their private meetings at the Palace of Nations—usually a sign that the conference developing partly in the open and partly in secret.

The West German foreign minister said West Germany has no "formal agreement" with the Western Big Three that they would refuse to attend a summit parley if the Russians would not assure Western rights in Berlin, but he said the West's position is so close that such an agreement is not necessary.

NOT UNDER STRESS

Von Brentano repeated the view already expressed by U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter that the West would not go to the summit conference under stress.

He said that "If the Soviet Union considers a conference of German question at this conference, we would be confronted with the regrettable result that conference being a failure."

However, von Brentano said this is not yet the position.

The foreign minister said that "mere assurance" on the part of the Soviet Union to preserve the present status of Berlin for a "few weeks or months" during which a summit conference would not be sufficient guarantee for holding a summit meeting.

Khrushchev originally demanded that the Western powers withdraw their Berlin garrisons by May 27 but postponed the deadline indefinitely to pave the way for the Big Four conference of the United States and Germany and the Berlin issue.

DINNER MEETING

Herter entertained the other three foreign ministers and two delegates at a dinner Thursday night at his villa.

The gathering was purely social. Diplomatic observers generally said the work of the conference will clear for action only when progress toward agreement was made.

Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko invited the same group to dinner at his villa tonight.

An amiable atmosphere was reported at the Herter party. But a few hours before at the conference table, the Soviet envoy interrupted another Soviet blast at the West by declaring that what was getting tired of the Soviet diplomat's accusations that NATO was preparing for aggressive war and West Germany was rearming for revenge.

Royal Tour Planners Will Use Code Numbers to Describe Costumes

OTTAWA (CP)—Her Majesty will wear 64 with 112 and matching 268.

To an fashion faddists it may seem sacrilegious, but that's the way it could come crackling out over the wires during the Royal Tour.

Unscrambled, it might read like this:

The Queen will wear peacock-blue hat, matching suede shoes and handbag and dress with taffeta cummerbund.

Royal Tour planners—strictly hush-hush—have worked out this numerical shorthand to let Canadians know exactly what the Queen will wear on any given day of the six-week tour.

Under present plans, Buckingham Palace would prepare a catalogue listing all the clothes in the Queen's wardrobe for the Canadian visit. Each item would be designated by a number. Correspondents covering the tour would get catalogues.

Each day, one of the Queen's aides on the royal yacht Britannia will send only flash a cryptic signal to shore giving three numbers. The reporters would "decode" this from their catalogues and their writers would start clicking a detailed description of what the Queen was wearing. Organizers say the idea would simplify day-to-day reporting of royal entourage.

The catalogue would have a section containing ink sketches of the royal gowns, making it a souvenir collector's item that has been four years in the planning.

Each page accompanying the royal party on the 12,000-mile tour would be limited to 50-15 from Britain, 10 from the United States and 25 Canadians. Hundreds of applications have been received, foreshadowing polite regrets for some.

Those excluded will likely be from organizations tendering multiple applications.

Book on White Rabbit Marrying Black One Draws Many Protests

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A book for young children about a white rabbit marrying a black rabbit has drawn protests in Alabama.

It was withdrawn from general public library circulation after protests complaints against that it reflected prointegration views.

The book is The Rabbits' Wedding, published by Harper Brothers. It tells the story of love between the ages of three and five. It was written and illustrated in color by Garth Williams.

The story tells of the marriage of the black and white rabbits at a garden party attended attended by all the other animals of the forest.

After criticism of the book appeared, Miss Emily Wheelock Reed, director of the Alabama public library service division, said: "We understand it, because it is only about a soft furry love and has no hidden message of hate."

Miss Reed said the rabbit book had not been banned, but merely withdrawn from general circulation. Librarians seeking the volume for their local libraries now must obtain it only by special request.

She said she and members of her staff had received complaints about the book and that a member of the legislature, Senator E. O. Eddins, questioned it.

Meanwhile, the publishers issued a statement about the author, now in California, who said:

"Garth Williams is very unaware that animals with white fur, such as white polar bears and white mice, and white rabbits, were considered blood relations of white beings. I was only aware that a white horse next to a black horse looks very picturesque."

Williams said his story was not written for adults. He said they "with an understanding mind, because it is only about a soft furry love and has no hidden message of hate."

Need More Coaches for Minor Baseball

The usual lack of interest shown by the general public once again, turned last night's Belleville Minor Baseball Association "general meeting" into little more than an executive gathering.

Only one coach showed up at the meeting, after a plea had gone out for the need of 25 or more men to help run the teams.

"Red" Doran announced this morning however that ten public coaches have promised their help. But more are needed urgently, he said.

Players forms will be sent out within the next few days to all city schools. The boys wishing to play minor baseball must sign the forms and bring them to recreational director Doran's office at City Hall by May 30. It is expected the league will open around the second week of June.

Representatives from Point Anne and Shannonville attended last night's meeting with requests to enter teams in the Belleville Association. The requests were turned down however because of travelling and financial reasons.

1,500 Blind Canadians Wait For Gift of Eyes of Dead So That They May See Again

By GLADYS WARD

"No one will come up and shake your hand and say 'Thank you for the gift of sight,' when you leave your eyes to the blind, but there are 1,500 Canadians waiting for corneal transplants. It is an entirely unselfish act," Mr. J. E. Daniel told the Hastings County Advisory Board for the Blind on the occasion of the annual dinner at Tweedsmuir Hotel, Tweed, on Wednesday evening.

"This is not a new operation, it was being performed thirty years ago, but now we have the machinery in the eye bank at the University of Toronto. In the three years the eye bank has been in operation in Canada, 404 blind people have had their vision restored. If you think of the individual, the sense his loved ones and the world around him for the first time, you will realize the worth of this new service in the prevention of blindness."

Mr. Daniel is public relations officer in the Toronto division. He emphasized that although newspapers, radio and television were doing a fine job in publicizing the C.N.I.B. it was really the people on the front line who were doing the work in co-operation with the organization which had the task of interesting the old people what the program was, the what, why and where.

"Let the people understand that the C.N.I.B. is a dedicated and devoted group inspiring the lot of the blind, and trying to prevent blindness. It is the public which is supporting the work and it is you who must understand that the meaning of it.

GIVE NEW LIFE

"The home teacher does more than teach the blind to manufacture mats and attractive rugs. The basic thing that happens when a person first loses his sight is that he is cut off from contact and isolated. The home teacher gives the blind person new life, restoring and expanding his horizons.

"The field secretary, too, brings a whole new life to the sightless. Through her visits she brings encouragement just by visiting and explaining the services available. A sightless person cannot give the same feeling. Only a blind person who has achieved independence has a terrific effect.

"The employment service has placement officers who look for places where blind people can be given work. He goes into industrial plants and tries out various jobs that can be handled by the blind can handle, always assuring management that if it does not work out, the blind person will be removed without any embarrassment to the factories. The man who suddenly, through an accident, becomes one of the 23,000 blind in Canada, and finds himself a 'disability for life' has a sightless person's reason to appreciate this service.

ANOTHER NEW SERVICE

"Pre-school counselling' is another new service. Often a blind child and its mother are confused. The absence of normal activity marks the child as different. A specialist in teaching come in and shows the parents how to understand blindness. The child learns through his fingers and has a better than average chance of making a success of his life.

"There are 11 blind students attending university in Canada, working side by side with the sighted. One is in the final year at Osgoode Hall, and several will graduate as social workers, psychologists and other professions. There are many active blind in them through the vocational guidance course.

"The White Cane clubs, some 72 of them, provide a means of getting together with other people. Some have to be pushed and pulled to get them out but they enjoy the fun and the caring executive positions and handling the reins themselves. The summer camps, base ball, bowling, swimming, and all sports interesting to the blind are encouraging to sit down with another blind person and talk over common problems.

"The nine residences and welfare workers provide another chance in life to enjoy the years left to them. Many times the blind like C.N.I.B. it was really the unsuitable quarters, eking out a miserable existence in poor surroundings. These homes are designed for safety, good meals, care and companionship, and are nearly all paid for."

REGISTRATION IMPORTANT

"Research into the cause and cure of blindness is an important part of the C.N.I.B. program. Glaucoma can be checked if it is found in time, the damage becomes irreparable. Fifty percent of blindness can be prevented. That is the center of educating people to recognize the early symptoms."

Chairman of the board, Mrs. George Wishart, presided at the meeting.

Reeve Spencer of Tweed, welcomed the guests, wishing them success in their endeavours on behalf of the blind a fitting behalf of the blind, who were known locally and throughout the county for their fine efforts, he said.

Mrs. Wishart spoke of her visit to Quinte-St. Lawrence that where the costs of the residence and the new government regulations were discussed, and to Bakerwood in Toronto, which impressed her as a model enterprise.

Mr. L. F. Reid read the secretary's report, and Mrs. H. Rollins reported on the activities of the Quinte-St. Lawrence paying special tribute to the Kinsmen Club which provided refreshments at all meetings; to Mr. Lorne Cain which provided transportation; to the ladies who supplied games; to the Rotary Club which contributed to a Christmas dinner, and to the Women's Institute who also entertained the club.

DISPLAYS ARTICLES

Miss Virginia Philpotts, the home teacher, displayed some of the articles made by the blind, explaining that teaching occupied many things. Those who wished to learn basket weave were first started with a pulmbrella wire, a simply made item which required little dexterity in using the hands. Leather work followed with a belt, then a purse, and so on to whip lacing, leather lacing, a stitch called English knot, and braid. Among the articles dish cloths, they advanced to mittens and socks, crafted seal mats, dressing dolls and basketry. This year they had made over 500 cancer dressings which gave them a feeling of satisfaction in helping others. Braille was not often taught to the elderly, but Moon type could be learned in four months for those who wanted to read. The Reader's Digest was available in Braille, playing cards in Moon type, and talking books were on loan.

Mr. A. D. Archibald reported for the Board of Governors and said that six people had been in the residence, that it was a very efficient home and the people were happy.

Field secretary P. L. Timmins and his assistant, Don Ferguson, both gave comprehensive and complete accounts of their work throughout the county, visiting the 130 registered blind in discuss their problems, speaking to school children on eye care, and providing care and attention wherever there was need. At present there are three blind children attending schools for the sighted, and their progress is being watched closely, the schools are visited and visits are arranged with the principals and teachers.

A resolution moved by Mr. Madill and carried by the gratitude of the Board of the Women's Institutes, service clubs, and church groups who had assisted so generously with their work for the blind.

Tourist Voices Criticism of Gas-Sale Hours

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce has received the following letter from a tourist, which speaks for itself.

Dear Sirs:

In writing you at this time I feel it is my duty to bring to your attention the deplorable way in which tourists passing through your area are being treated.

On Friday last (May 9), I was motoring from Rochester to Toronto and along about six p.m. my wife and I decided we would pull off 401 highway and have our dinner and at the same time service our automobile for the miles ahead. We started out after dinner to buy gasoline and after asking several people along with a police officer, some 45 minutes later we located a service station selling gasoline.

Had it not been for a very courteous chap at a new service station, (I believe the sign was Bellevillage Inn like that) telephoning to locate an open dealer, I don't know how we would have got you should.

Believe me, this is the last time I will ever be in that vile and, rest assured, I will be sure and inform any of my friends and your way to stay clear of Belleville, unless they want to see the superficiality which caused us so much delay.

Being a Chamber of Commerce myself, I felt you should bring this matter to the attention of the local press so as to do something to eliminate such a condition. Belleville being a city of 20,000 souls, can ill afford to be known as a city early in the day. Are they trying to go out of business?

Trusting you will put forth effort to build your tourist trade to receive Mr. Tripp's new merchants to dry your city up.

J. C. Harris.

IN MEMORIAM

BRADSHAW. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Wesley Bradshaw, who passed away May 23rd, 1939.
Fifteen years have passed today,
We are sad within our memory,
Sweet memories our hearts keep,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been at rest.
We think of him in silence,
We miss him more and more,
But make no moan, our loss is God.
When sorrows are assed.
Sweet memories are kept sleeping,
Sweeter rest that follows pain,
And to meet him in the morning,
But trust in God to meet again.
Sadly missed by wife, daughter and family. M33-1t

Ford of Canada's class A shares jumped 38 points in the first 15 minutes before slipping back six points to 170 following Thursday night's announcement that the Canadian firm's parent company, Ford Motor Company of Detroit, had offered to buy at least 540,000 shares of the Canadian company's stock in order to raise its holding to 75 per cent.

Trading was slow for the third straight session. Volume at 11 a.m. was 70,000 shares compared with 678,000 at the same time Thursday.

A feature of the western-oil list was Sapphire Petroleum which jumped 50 cents to $1.55 on a 73,000-share turnover.

Mines were narrowly higher with changes generally small.

Final volume was 2,337,000 shares, lightest since Dec. 31 when 2,315,000 were exchanged.

Wednesday's volume was 2,324,000 shares.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Plainer quality coupled to off weights and tight buying orders,* were the chief causes for the dull inactive steer trading this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Heifers and yearlings sold at steady prices. Replacements met a fairly broad demand at steady prices. Light numbers of good and choice veal calves traded actively at firm prices with numerous lower grades selling easier.

Cow numbers were comparatively lighter making up 25 per cent of the slaughter cattle and prices were generally unchanged on a good demand. Bull prices were steady with the fat heavy beef bulls and lean bulls firm. Hog prices were unchanged with sows and stags selling $1 higher than last week's close. Sheep and lambs were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 2,200 head less than last week and about 1,400 head less than the same week in 1958. Western cattle receipts were 900 head less than last week at 1,100. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers numbered three loads, one less than last week. There were no exports off the market to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers mostly 25-28.50; good 24-25; meddiums 22 - 24; commons 20-22; good heifers 23-23.50 with an odd choice at 24; mediums 21.50 22.50; commons 19-21; choice veal yearlings 26-26.50 with odd fancy to 27; good 24-25; good cows $13.50-14 with sales to 19.50; good light heifery cows 21; mediums 17-18; commons 16-17; canners and cutters 13-15.50; good heavy bologna bulls 21-21.50; commons and mediums 16-20.

Amnesty to Be Given Convicts To Mark Visit

OTTAWA (CP) — An amnesty to mark next month's Royal Visit will be made to convicts serving six months or more in Canadian jails and prisons, Justice Minister Fulton announced today.

Prisoners will have their sentences reduced on the basis of 30 days off for each year remaining to be served of their sentence, he said.

While no estimate was given of the number of prisoners who might be released as a result of the action, the government's decision will help to relieve some of the serious overcrowding currently existing in most Canadian penal institutions, especially federal penitentiaries.

Mr. Fulton said "it is not anticipated that any special amnesty will be considered on the occasion of future visits of Her Majesty."

Time to be remitted on this occasion will be calculated from June 23.

The general amnesty was last granted in 1857 when the Queen presided over the opening of Canada's Parliament for the first time in history.

Sentences were reduced on the same basis then as they are to be this time.

Two Bullets Hit Car at London

LONDON Ont. (CP) — Police are trying to trace the origin of two rifle shots fired at close range into a car here Thursday night.

Alfred Proctor of London told police he was driving east of the city when he heard the bullets hit the rear of his car. The slugs from a .22 calibre rifle were found in the trunk their force the seats to crumple, police said.

A bullet apparently from a hunter's gun struck Mrs. Elsie Welch in the head Tuesday as she was picking flowers in London Township.

Mrs. Welch was not seriously hurt.

Township Police Chief F. G. Sornasch issued a warning after the Welch incident that police would clamp down on the use of firearms in that area.

$35 Cash Taken As High School Safe Jimmied

TRENTON — About $35 is all thieves or a thief got for the trouble Tuesday night when they broke into the walk-in safe at the Trenton High School. Inspector R. Rutherford of the Trenton Police Department announced yesterday afternoon.

Although the method the prowler used to gain entrance to the building has not been definitely established, Mr. Rutherford said there were indications that the window in the boys' washroom had been tampered with and it may have been through this window.

Damage amounting to about $200 was caused to the safe by self but the prowlers had apparently to be very careful not to damage other property in the school.

It was reported that after the thief or thieves had gained entrance to the building and sought to get into the workshop-rooms, where tools they used to break into the safe were available, they carefully removed the beading around the glass in the door, took the glass out and leaned it against the wall of the hall. This was done in all cases except one but the police believe the one broken was not on purpose but more of an accident.

After they had obtained the necessary tools to break open the safe they jimmied the door on the principal's office and took the secretarial office where the safe is.

To open the safe they appar ently smashed off the dial and reached in the hole to work the locking tumblers into place and then opened the huge door, a feat no amateur could do, it was claimed.

Police said the only money the High School kept in the safe was petty cash and that it is more generally used for the storing of records.

The break and theft is being investigated by Inspector R. Rutherford who is also handling the job of Police Chief in the absence of Chief Jack Taylor.

PUC to Remove All Signs, Boxes From Poles

TRENTON — All signs will be removed from hydro poles in town and in the future they or temporary services boxes will not be fastened to these poles, it was decided at the regular meeting of the Public Utilities Commission held in the boards rooms at the PUC office on Elgin Street yesterday afternoon.

In making the recommendation the commission manager Jim Page told the members that the metal signs were a serious danger to linesmen if they should happen to slip when climbing the pole to administer repairs.

Simple notice will be given for the removal of signs already fastened to the poles.

The commission also approved recommendations by the Ontario Hydro Commission regarding service masts for low houses when they are built and electrical service installed. The service masts in the future will be 2½-inch metal pipe rather than the bewy angle iron. It is felt this will be more acceptable to the home owner because of a more suitable appearance and all electrical contractors have been sent notification of this change.

The wiring will become effective on June 1 of this year.

It was also moved by Bert Atkinson and seconded by Cliff Baker that the PUC defend the present suit against the commission in regards to outside services. Myer Horowitz, a member of the commission, went on record as voting against defending it.

AWARDED CERTIFICATE

The PUC also made public a certificate they have been awarded at the recent convention of the Canadian Section of the American Water Works Association (in Montreal) for 23 years' membership in the group.

A covering letter which came with the certificate thanked the commission for the fine way the work it had done in the past years in helping the advancement of the group. The certificate will be suitably framed and displayed in the manager's office.

Members of the commission passed a ruling on the use of water during the construction of new buildings in the city. A temporary water service for building purposes will not be metered for a period not to exceed three months for a flat rate of $10 for single family units and any portion of a month to be billed as a full month.

Two samples of water were presented at the meeting with one sample from the Trenton water plant where a new process of filtration is in use and the other sample was from one of the wells.

Members of the press attending the meeting were asked to fill in their guesses at the difference. The appearance and taste of the water samples were both the same and no discernable color could be detected.

Present at the meeting were Clifford Baker, chairman of the commission; Mayor Hugh Burtt; member; Albert Atkinson, member, and Jim Page, manager of the PUC in Trenton.

The Record of Proceedings of The House

Black Rod has come to the House of Commons to summon the members' attendance in the Senate Chamber.

The Speaker is not in his chair as the Mace is in its place under the table.

Sitting at the head of the table is the Clerk of the House, with his assistants on each side of him. He acts as Secretary, keeping a record of the proceedings of the House, and of bills introduced or passed, counting the votes when a vote has to be taken, and arranging the daily routine of the House.

Each day a record of proceedings, prepared by the Clerk, is printed and distributed, telling exactly what happened in the House on the preceding day. Similarly, a printed sheet, called the Order Paper for the Day, is distributed indicating what business is to come before the House.

The desks in the aisle are occupied by shorthand reporters, one for French and one for English, who take down every word that is spoken. The reporters are relieved at frequent intervals, working in pairs. The daily record of speeches, as distinct from the Proceedings, is sometimes called Hansard, which was the name of the printer who first issued official records of the British House of Commons beginning in 1803.

COOL IN EAST — Below and much-below normal temperatures for most of Eastern Canada are forecast in the long-range outlook of the United States weather bureau for the May 18-June 15 period.

This map, based on the bureau's predictions, also shows the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia can expect readings above normal. Precipitation during the period is expected to be light throughout Western Canada and heavy in Quebec and southern Ontario.

Tables at right show overall normal temperatures and precipitation in various centres for the period. (CP Newsmap.)

A letter was read from the Neville District Council asking members to attend a workshop in Belleville on June 9th. The president urged all members of the new executive to attend if possible and said all other members interested in Home and School were.

A motion was presented by F. Bird, seconded by H. Hicks, that annual fees be paid to the Belleville District Council, as that members would feel free to attend the meetings of the Council in order to benefit from helpful suggestions, or to iron out problems that might arise in the local association. This was approved.

It was unanimously agreed to donate towards the buying of a flag for North Trenton Girl Guides, 1 Trenton Company. A letter was read from the Board of Education telling of the improvements made at North Trenton School, and the further work planned for the near future. On a motion by J. Amm and Mrs. Lawson, it was decided a letter of thanks would be sent to the Board, showing appreciation.

The annual report was read by Mrs. H. Brooks, giving all the highlights of the past year. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. L. Westfall. Mrs. Arbuckle's room won the prize for parents' attendance. Mr. Amm introduced Jack Delaney, who will be the new principal at North Trenton School in the fall.

Unfair to Teach Child to Share Possessions

TORONTO (CP) — A Chicago professor has told parents it is "unfair bullying" to teach a child to share his possessions.

Bruno Bettelheim of the University of Chicago speaking Thursday night to the Ontario Welfare Council conference said it was a common practice in the United States.

"But the parent does not want to share with others the things which are important to him—such as his bank account or his car."

No adult would be ready to share a newly acquired present until he had full use of it. But when it comes to children, he said, they find to be socialized "and they come to hate the whole process of socializing."

"Let's not ask our children to be 10 times more Christian than we are."

AN AGE WORTH OUTLIVING

Not too long ago we listened to a gentleman address a local audience on how advances of technology had created about us a world of shrunken distances and an era of condensed ages. The world has changed from a slow, quiet evolving type of existence to a new model . . . that of rapid progress and technical advances which are becoming obsolete almost before they are out of the planning stage. In this new world a person will see several ages pass by before he passes on. Our grandfathers did not see such evolution. It was the highlight of their lives if they could even experience the passing of one age. Our great-grandfathers probably never knew of an age different from the one into which they were born, except through the history books or the folk-stories of their people.

But today we experience the coming and going of an age every decade or so. The jet age, the atomic age, the INDM age, the interplanetary travel age . . . all of us can see these in their various stages of development at the present time . . . and we may see their replacement by a higher and more advanced order of technology and knowledge in the not-too-distant future. What this new age might be we do not know. But we do know that there will be precious few of us to witness it unless man outgrows, and in very short order, an age which has plagued mankind from the mists of history . . . the age of war.

This age seems only to be solidified by the ages which have risen and fallen within its compass. Many civilizations have prospered and despaired because of it, but all have yielded the same price, the glory that was no more, save, perchance, a few coins, some architectural curios, and, with luck, some form of the arts which will survive for future civilizations to preserve. And still mankind lives within the shadow of this age. the age mankind could do best without.

If our technologists and scientists fear any age, it is the age of war. Technology can be used for hell or paradise and it is the former use that worries most technologists. We have heard the cries from industries, militarists, and governments for more scientists and more technologists. We have heard the voices, pamphleteers, and the harbingers of warfare in the vanguards of our expansion, declaring that we are so many years behind, or thousands of students short of, our nearest and newest rival. But how many have heard the voices of the scientists and the technologists?

We have heard it in our own small community from one of the leaders of our local industries. To him the great challenge is not how many ultrasonic goombahs or how many technicians or how much atom power. The great challenge is can our civilization, the most technically advanced in the known pages of history, provide the morality to harness and direct development for the common good. The scientists' cries are for people learned in the social sciences, in human relations, in the knowledge of other peoples and how to live with them.

Perhaps it is the character of our present civilization, in the west at least, that we have become so dependent upon material things that we must look for material means of saving our very souls. Or is it that we, and our leaders, are afraid to face up to the fact that much of the vital fire which forged the western democracies and which sparked similar occurrences throughout the world is suffering from lack of fuel and we do not know where to find more?

A Chinese philosopher-writer observed some years ago that a change had come over the North Americans, a change which saddened and disillusioned the eastern races, who looked to the western democracies for their own guidance of inspiration and advancement in bettering themselves. The change was the satisfaction which the western democracies had found in developing their own countries and then disregarding the smaller nations' problems.

This era was introduced with the America first cries of the 1930's century, with the Monroe Doctrine and with the isolationists. Our way of life changed drastically as far as outsiders were concerned. They ceased to envy our moralistic and idealistic drive, it was no more: they could only envy our wealth and prestige and these were but superficial things which could be had for the taking — and a few of them are up to this now.

As long as there are people who have achieved everything they wish, be it wealth, prestige, territory, or honor, there will be people who want peace. As long as there are people who have none of these there will be people who will try to get these advantages from those who have them. As long as this exists there will always be an age of war, with the hungry preying upon the secure.

If those who have could only learn to share their plenty with those who are in poorer circumstances, we are sure that the age of war would be conquered. This is, we feel, what our scientists and technologists are looking for; the fire of positive thinking which should be coming from our leaders, to look forth and see what can be done to cure the chaotic conditions which exist around our civilization.

Perhaps out of our present confusion there will emerge a finer moral fibre the likes of which history has never seen. Perhaps this new fire, to be recognized as our concern with others rather than with ourselves, will mark the beginning of a new age - - the age of concord, and the end of the old - - the age of war.

May we see it in our time; we were never in a better position to promote it.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 81 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

A GOOD YEAR

(Today's column is the second article of the Historical Society prepared for the annual meeting last Tuesday by Society president, Gerald E. Ellis).

This has been a successful year for the Hastings County Historical Society in every respect.

Since the last annual meeting membership has increased by about 220 percent, and now stands at the 100 mark. Although the bulk of the membership is from within a five-mile radius of Belleville, 23 members are from other parts of the county, and there are members from Neperee, Bath, Gravenhurst, Kingston, Toronto and Connecticut.

This greatly increased membership means two things. First it indicates that the Society is winning friends. Second, it means that we are now in a better financial position to undertake the basic aims of preserving and encouraging local history.

Also since the last annual meeting, donations of historical materials for our archives and museum have been received from more than 30 interested persons and individuals. Of special interest are "Belden's Historical Atlas of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties" (published in 1878); the first County Directory (Toronto, Kingston and Belleville in 1951); two copies of the "Intelligencer" from 1833; several small books; lists outlining the history of Belleville churches; a Stirling Carmel and Zion Hill; and many pictures and pictorial records. Among them pictures showing Belleville 100 years ago.

Also a card catalogue of the Society's materials was arranged at the Belleville Fair last August, and proved a much favourable comment, it is encouraging that the families and friends of the Society staffed the booth during the four days of the Fair.

Equally encouraging has been the interest shown at the meetings and workshops begun in November. They have been well attended, and the monotony of the duties of indexing W. C. Mikel's "City of Belleville History", and the county Surrogate Court Records (1819-60) are proceeding as planned.

Two general meetings have been held. The October meeting was held at Stirling in honor of that village's centennial and the second meeting was held to tour the County Court House and to discuss its future.

Also, the Historical Society was host to a meeting of the Ontario Historical Society Association.

On five occasions, your president has had the privilege of addressing local organizations on the Society's aims and is encouraging to note that several Women's Institutes have appointed their historical convenors to represents them in the County Historical Society.

The study of local history is also being encouraged by Belleville's made possible through the kind co-operation of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Our main disappointment has been the failure of the projected pioneer village and museum at Actinolite. This project was originally suggested by the Moira Conservation Authority. Our Society was completely in accord with the project, and a committee headed by Mr. T. G. Wrightmeyer was set up some time on the details. The Conservation Authority then decided that the Historical Society must undertake the complete cost of the building and the management of the project, which we are not able to do, both in organization with limited resources.

What will the future bring? Indications are that there will be a busier program than ever before. Included in this program are the following:

(1) Four general meetings, at least one of them outside Belleville.

(2) Another display at the Belleville Fair.

(3) The continuation of "History Workshops".

(4) The locating of many of Belleville's pupils in the Corby Public Library.

(5) The continuation of the monthly newsletter.

(6) The beginning of a slide collection of Belleville and district historical sites and events, this project to be under the direction of Mr. Tom Bryans.

(7) The beginning, if a suitable site can be obtained, of a small museum.

(8) The beginning of a project whereby each county resident will be interviewed in order to build up the county's interesting history.

(9) The unveiling, in cooperation with the Ontario Archaeological and Historical Sites Board, of a plaque to honorize Capt. John Walden Meyers and the founding of Belleville.

(10) The continued collection of historical materials for our archives and future museum.

(11) Affiliation with the Ontario Historical Society. Indications are our plans for the coming twelve months. Help them become a reality.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the age of widespread display on the shoulder of the highway and a man down in the ditch, receiving only curious looks that had been flung out by motorists. Gingerly I took a large purse basket on the handle bars almost full of bottles. I drew up and walked back for a conversation.

He was a man of about fifty. He had the narrow face and big, solid eye of a man who would never make a second decision after a hundred questionable ones.

"Yes," he said tersely. "On Sunday afternoons I ride along the main highways and earn $3 to $5 worth of empties. That pays for all the meat my wife and I consume in a week."

He won't die rich. But he won't die poor.

Time Passes

Toronto Telegram

The Chinese have just celebrated their new year of 4697. This calls attention to the fact that different civilizations follow different calendars. According to Jewish reckoning, this is the year 5719. Moslems measure time from Mohammed's flight to Medina in 622, and of course Christians are in the year 1959. Whatever may be the point at which reckoning starts, the inexorable fact is that time is the same for everybody. We are all on our way to journey by it, and time and eternity meet and blend.

A BABY'S BEST FRIEND

By EDGAR A. GUEST

My Pa he thinks that he is smart
Because I'm here.
Now gladness overflows his heart
I know it clear.
"When you grow up," he says to me,
"We'll just be chums.
And you shall find the tree
With sugar plums.
"When you are five or six years old
We'll have some fun;
I'll let you be a pirate bold
With dirk and gun

This enterprising summer resort town in the heart of the Lake of the Woods, was originally called "Rat Portage" a name bestowed on it by the Indians. It came to be a thriving post over many portages to trade their wares with them.

Town officials thought this name most unsuitable and in the early part of the century a joint committee was set up consisting of residents of Rat Portage, Keewatin and Norman, two adjoining hamlets and the committee coined the word "Kenora," from the first two letters of Keewatin, Norman and Rat Portage. Although the final solution was a happy one, the committee took more than fifteen years in the settling.

BEYOND OUR KNOWLEDGE

Life! We were considering it yesterday — remember?

What is life? No one knows save that it is a vast bad vital force which pervades the planet on which we live, and, as we look out to other distances, we have the conviction that life is there also.

The thing we do know about life is that it comes from God. There may be a few atheists in the world, but they are few indeed. Most people have some belief in a Creative Power. Sensible people all assume that there is some source of power behind life. A Power creates it and a Power confers it.

Th Bible speaks frequently about being born of God. Rationalists may try to thrust this statement aside, but it is hard to move it out of the thinking of sensible people. God is the great giver of life. In the beginning it was a world He created, living creatures, the heavens, and last and greatest of all, Man. Now, the creation accomplished, God keeps on pouring life into His universe. Not only are people born physically, they are born also spiritually. They are also born mentally with their thinking suddenly taking on vitality and carrying them on to real achievement.

It is a marvellous thing to get the idea that life is going on around about us. The Creator God is still at work creating life. Our universe is a living universe. Our own dull lives are constantly being assailed by power which, if we so permit, will cause us to live abundantly.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

BODY DISPOSES OF EXCESS CALCIUM IN BODY

"Dear Dr. Molner: Had calcium deposit removed from arm. But still suffer from chronic bursitis in both arms. Was told I should forego milk and all kinds of cheese including cottage cheese. Is this correct? — I. K. H."

Who told you so? If you'd said, "My doctor told me so," that would be clear enough. But since you didn't say that, I presume somebody else told you. I question whether your doctor would say any such thing. He knows better.

Incidentally, I like your terse way of saying things. Very fine. But what you want is answers, not compliments.

Let me put it this way: If you had "water on the knee," would your doctor tell you to quit drinking water? Of course not! If I wanted to get rabbits, I'd pay no attention other comparable situations like "fatty tumors," which I'm told I'm capable of eating fats. And gout. It was long supposed to be caused by diet (it is), although dieting never seemed to bring about a cure, but it does, of course, appear to be of little significance.

I don't want to give the impression that a balanced diet isn't important. It is! And we want to avoid as with things to which it is not attached.

Calcium is a necessary and useful material in the body. It forms a part of the body's natural defenses. For example, Calcium deposits form in many areas of the body, including the lung, around any of the joints — as a result of irritation, infection or other injury. That is an instance of calcium doing its job. It does not mean, however, that the body has too much calcium.

CONFINED TO A CORN

Or you might compare the situation to either a scar or a corn on a toe. The corn — the thickening of the skin — forms as the best answer nature can find to protect the toe from excessive pressure or friction.

But while the corn is painful under pressure, that does not mean that you should eliminate from your diet the elements of which the (thickened skin) is composed.

Similarly, the same token, don't blame calcium deposits on "too much calcium in the diet," any more than you would say that is the "cause" of the a corn.

Those, mind you, contributing may have good (but not common) reasons for not drinking milk. For them, calcium must come from other foods. If you get more calcium than you need, the body will get rid of it. If you have too little, you will find other problems beginning to plague you. Very common samples of such problems are muscular twitching, bone aching, and cramps of the extremities, particularly legs and feet.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had polyps snipped out twice and now they are annoying again — removed the first time 15 years ago. Is there some other way of removing them, and if they are not in fact, cancerous? — M. A. C."

It is a nuisance when polyps recur. Most of the time removal ends the trouble. But if more develop — they develop! A polyp is a wart-like but usually benign tumor of a special shape (it often grows on a small "stem"). As tumors go, polyps are particularly easy to snip off. If allowed to remain, your doctor would be best able to judge whether it is time for action. It is highly important. In the nose they may interfere with breathing or with proper sinus drainage. If polyps are in the colon, they sometimes urge (rightly so) that they be removed at once, because in that location they are more likely to become cancerous at stake.

Vote to Miss I. M.: Pet polo strikes hardest in the "swimming season," but I do not believe that is the only pool spreads — because it affects those who only go swimming. Compare it to flu or the common cold, which spread in almost weather, but overcoats aren't the reason! Besides, we have gone (but not much) polio even in the dead of winter.

Hemorrhoids can be cured: If troubled with fissures, fistulae, itching and other rectal problems, write to me in care of The Ontario Intelligencer, P.O. Box 158, Dundee Ill., requesting a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

TODAY'S TALK

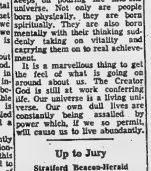
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR BANK OF EXPERIENCES

There are business banks, bold savings, and to bank exchanges, amusements, and to open them to the service of those for whom such institutions were created. For them, the Bank of Experience is where we put our ideas, and from it we draw them as we have drawn upon at any time. With the growth of these experiences, we keep on adding to learning and advanturing. I like the early part of the century.

We take our earnings to these physical banks but later we realize that we can't put in there. It's different with these experiences. They remain to present the life that we are. They never grow old. They remain vital to us for so long as we live. They keep us friendly and interested in all with which we have contact day by day.

In early life we live off our enthusiasm and energy that have been planted in most human beings. In later life, however, we draw on our experiences, send out our directions to invisible hope and courage among those to whom we have faith. To do this is to taste of the richest joys of earth. We can't encourage others without encouraging ourselves.



Let's make satisfactory persons I ever knew was "Bob" Lee. He knew the earth as few ever have seen it. Later, as a reporter, was as though I were a "local traveler." After you have owned a portion of this Bank of Experiences, sell out and start all over again.

We should learn to distribute ourselves by investing in others. We can't learn too much about the art of living.

Rightly Nervous

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Nowadays anybody who is reasonably nervous has a right to be nervous about it.

MAN COMING OVER — was the signal sent by Able Cadet and Able Cadet Peter Pye to Able Cadet W. Clare being sent across the harbor by breeches buoy in the seamanship displays held at the Sea Cadet barracks.

Bowling Notes

The women's section of the Lawn Bowling Club held a regular meeting on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Elsie Hamphreys presiding. The president welcomed the old and new bowlers and predicted an excellent season ahead.

Mrs. Thelma Fitzgibbon, secretary, gave a resume of the executive meeting and the appointments that had been made at that time. She stated that the fees would be the same as last year both for bridge and bowling. Mrs. Myrtle Smith was named convenor of the Tuesday afternoon games with Mrs. Laura Hyde assisting, while Mrs. Hazel Boyle will be in charge of Thursday afternoon games with assistance from Mrs. Irene Trudeau. Mrs. Fitzgibbon will handle the Monday night players. Tournament dates for the club are June 23rd, July 8th the Corbin Gold Cup and September 1st. Mrs. Joan Watkin and Mrs. Millie Wright will be responsible for the purchase of prizes. Mrs. Ann Watkin and Mrs. Laura Hyde will be a committee to classify the bowlers in the club.

Mrs. Helen Putnam, treasurer of the club, presented the financial picture and the outlook for the coming season, while Mrs. Lillian Mascaro is in charge of the telephone committee. Mrs. Mary Colling will be in charge of the Provincial Lawn Bowling games and requires members to enter the several competitions. Those wishing to participate are asked to place their names on the bulletin board before June 11th. The secretary, informed the meeting that some alterations could be made to the kitchen of the clubhouse and that $200 will be resented to the men's section for this work. A committee of Geneva Thurhouse convener, the president, Mrs. Helen Putnam and the secretary will meet with the executive of the men's section to talk over contemplated plans of buildings for the future. The members thanked their season's bridge game. Mrs. Eva Bland is in charge of this section.

Policy Change Approved by City Council

The city's complaint receiving department will save money during the next six months through a change in policy approved by city council last night.

For the next six months complaints regarding city services will be handled after working hours and on weekends and holidays by a telephone answering service instead of by an employee at the city barns.

At Monday evening's council meeting members were told that the complaint department in five months had cost the city $3,800 in wages, with roughly 1,000 calls being received.

The telephone answering service will provide essentially the same service for six months for $150. This cost would be on a basis of 400 calls per month and if the number of calls exceeded this figure, additional calls would cost five cents each.

Small Quantity Of Cash Taken

Safecrackers last night forced their way into the new warehouse and office of Arthur A. Sills and Son Ltd., on East Dundas Street and escaped with a small quantity of cash and cheques after siedging open the safe.

City police said the intruders apparently mounted a lumber pile at the rear of the building to gain access to the warehouse roof and then entered the store and office sections of the premises through a window.

The office safe was attacked with sledge hammers, bars and chisels found on the premises.

Police is in charge of this section.

Everyone is being made to feel at home and the committee looking forward to one of the best seasons in the club's history.

Presentation of Marksmen Badges were made to eight cadets by inspecting officer Commander Chance of Kingston. Here, Able Cadet Richard Dixon is congratulated by Commander Chance on achieving this distinction. Following these presentations at the Sea Cadet barracks luncheons were served for crew members and visitors by the Ladies' Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Donaldson.

Sea Cadets Given High Rating As Annual Inspection Held

"A very good impression . . . perhaps the best impression," was Commander J. Chance's description of the annual inspection of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" as he made his remarks following the formal inspection and seamanship displays which were held yesterday evening. Particular compliment was paid to the precision guard squad, which had been trained by W.O. 2 Bennett of the Hasty Pots, and their fine display of drill manoeuvres under arms.

The inspection, which was well attended by the public, was held in two parts. The formal inspection was held in the Bridge Street Armouries. Commander Chance, RCN, of the HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, accompanied by Lt. M. Davidson, RCN, assistant area officer from Toronto, Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and Lt. John Donovan, commanding officer of the "Quinte" formed the inspection party.

Followed by the formal inspection the precision guard put on their display, and an exhibition of target shooting by four of the corps' cadets was also put on at the Armouries. The inspecting officer complimented the marksmen on their shooting with two scores of 90 or better being posted.

The second part of the inspection, the seamanship displays, was held at the Sea Cadet barracks on South Front Street. Due to the lack of wind the scheduled sail past of the dinghies had to be cancelled and the main displays were the transporting of a cadet from the second storey of the barracks across the harbor to the Yacht Club jetty via breeches buoy. Unfortunately the damp line stretched and the protagonist in the display, Able Cadet Wallace Clare, was unceremoniously dunked into the water.

This incident was made use of however with a practical demonstration of the use of the naval issue inflatable life jacket and gave the stand-by crew a chance to demonstrate their rescue-at-sea training. During this demonstration a communications exercise between two parties on either side of the harbor was being conducted with the use of signal lamps. This later exercise received the complimentary remark by one of the viewing officers that "as a letter had been lost."

Following the success of the inspection it has been decided to allow for a increase in the complement of the corps and new recruits, between the ages of 14 and 17, will be taken on. As Commander Chance stated in his remarks to the cadets at conclusion of the inspection, Sea Cadet work and training teaches a person to be smart, both in conduct and appearance, and to have good manners. "These stay with a man through his life", commented the inspecting officer.

The next parade of the "Quinte" corps will be next Tuesday evening in the Armouries following which a Tri-Service drill competition will be held at the Quinte Secondary School in which the precision guard will be entered.

Will Retain 61 Employees In Department

Despite heavy spending of the year's public works budget as the result of winter mowplowing and sanding and also for early maintenance of roads in the newly-annexed areas, the Belleville public works department will do all possible to retain its present 61 employees.

Last week city officers temporary winter works program employees were laid off, and the City Engineer, Malcolm Turnbull told council last night that whether reduction of the works staff to 55 employees was dependent on what money would be available.

It was suggested that by paring capital cost outlays the present 61 employees could be retained on the public works sheet.

Mr. Turnbull noted that the heavy early season expending was the result of the abnormally heavy snow conditions, while he had felt that it would be advantageous to get roads in the annexed area in shape as early in the season as possible. DISCUSS BUDGET

Discussion on the city works budget was the result of direction from council a week ago that in view of the accumulated deficits in connection with the Memorial Arena and the McFarland's Hockey team that all capital cost expenditures for the year be reviewed.

Mayor Cecelia Hyde told the city engineer there was no question of cutting public works' normal maintenance, only that capital cost expenditures might be pared in some instances.

At the same time council turned down the request of Pire Chief Gerald Pierce for a new chief's car.

In view of the city's "belt tightening" policy, however, council decided to make the present department car do another year.

Council approved tenders for a 22,000 GVW truck chassis on which to mount a new asphalt distributor and at the same time voted to sell the city's present distributor to the town of Trenton for its offer of $600.

Plane's took an early 3-0 lead but Texaco had climbed into the lead by an 8-5 score after five frames. The winners got their four in the last two innings to register the victory.

Texaco collected six hits and committed five errors while Plane's had eight safeties and five miscues.

Fear Outboard Motor Shortage May Develop

Although the boating season has barely begun there is a growing scarcity of both new and used outboard motors in all models and sizes. Factories are working overtime, but it seems likely that they will fall far behind the demand when the season's peak is reached.

Good used outboard motors are always in demand, but with the shortage of new models they are becoming even more difficult to obtain. Prospective motor owners would be wise to buy now or risk disappointment this summer.

Booth Marina, 32 South Front St. in Belleville are fortunate in having a limited supply of used motors — as well as 1959 models. If you are one of THINKING about having a motor this summer, you would be wise to make your selection now . . . buy it away and pay later. Terms are as low as $1.00 a week. Wedding

MACKENZIE—BARTMAN

FRANKFORD — Immanuel Gospel Church was the scene of a very pretty spring wedding on Saturday, May 16th, at 2.30 p.m. when a double-ring ceremony took place with Rev. R. P. Spurrell, officiating in the marriage of Marjorie Diana, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bartman of Frankford and Garfield Mackenzie, youngest son of Mrs. J. Mackenzie of Kilsheelan, Ontario, and the late Mr. J. Mackenzie.

The church was tastefully decorated with daffodils and apple blossoms with a background of ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white lace over satin in Queen Anne style with a headdress of seed pearls and shoulder-length veil. She carried a cascade Bible centred with red roses.

Her only attendant, Miss Rita Loshaw, of Preston, Ontario, wore a street-length gown of shrimp lace over taffeta with matching headdress and gloves and carried a nosegay of white mums and yellow roses.

The flower girl, little Miss Judith Loshaw, niece of the bride, wore a floor-length dress of yellow brocaded satin with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of white mums and pink roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Rod Mackenzie of Kilsheenv, brother of the bridegroom.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Paul Spurrell, Frankford, and the soloist was Miss Mildred Towns of Preston, Ont., who sang "Because" before the ceremony, and "The Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the lower auditorium of the church where the bride's mother received. wearing a street-length graduated blue and white sculptured crepe with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations. The groom was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a street-length sheath dress of powder blue lace over satin with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For a wedding trip to Western Ontario, the bride chose a street-length powder blue linen dress with bolero and navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. On their return, they will reside at Kilsheenv.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Wellington, Picton, Preston, Kilsheener and Frankford.

Previous to her marriage the laneous shower at the home of bride was honored at a miscel- Mrs. Paul Spurrell, also at a miscellaneous shower in Preston, Ontario. The company at Kilsheener where the bride was employed presented her with a breakfast set.

Students Read Winning Essays At PTA Meet

St. Michael's P.T.A. held its regular monthly meeting, one of the most interesting of this term, in the Academy auditorium. A large number of parents was present.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Reverend Sister Mary Andrew, principal of the academy.

Various committee reports were heard and approved.

The highlight of the program was the reading of three prizewinning essays by the respective students to a captivated audience.

Miss Joan Shannon, on behalf of the Sodality of Mary, presented these students with their prizes as follows: Mary Adams, winner in grades 5 and 6, for her essay, "Why We Need Priests, Brothers and Sisters"; Brett Hanna, winner in grades 7 and 8, for his essay, "How to Recognize a Vocation and What to do About It"; James Murphy, winner in grades 9 and 10, for his essay, "The Value of Religious Vocation."

These excellent essays, not only showed great preparation and composition of material, but reflected a promising literary future.

In addition a timely essay, prepared and read by Martin Halloran, a grade 13 student at St. Michael's high school, was heartily received by a fascinated assembly of parents. In an eloquent manner he emphasized the need for everyone's wholehearted support to fulfil Christ's challenge, "Teach Ye All Nations."

Very Rev. Dean Gervin commended the parents on their splendid attendance and encouraged their participation in the P.T.A. programs. The meeting was closed with prayer by Dean Gervin.

Attendance plaques were won by Rev. Mother's Primary Tumbly; junior school; Rev. Sister Mary Avita, academy; and Rev. Sister Mary Donelda, secondary school.

Classroom inspection followed and delightful refreshments were served by parents under the convenership of Mrs. T. Flynn.

Monster Bake Sale Held by St. Thomas' P.G.

This morning's monster bake sale and coffee party was held in St. Thomas' Parish House under the auspices of the Parochial Guild. The ladies of the Guild feel that the early morning rather than the later afternoon is not only conducive to the early shopper, but it also lets the harried housewife have the afternoon free.

The idea for the morning sale originated last year, and was found so profitable that the Guild decided to try it again this year, with pleasing results. The proceeds are used for church work and anything that is essentially needed in the parish. It is a parish effort in which the women of the church participate, some in providing the baking, while others act as conveners and salesladies.

The Parish House was prettily decorated with sprays of fragrant apple blossoms, and varicolored tulips which occupied strategic places on stage, piano, windows and the coffee table with its cackling urn.

On the long "L"-shaped tables were many delicious confections of the housewife's art which included shortbreads, raisin-filled "melts," butterscotch cookies, layer cakes drenched with shredded coconut and cherry-topped, tiny jam tarts, chocolate and lemon squares, cup cakes with white and pink icing topped with whole nut meats, Graham wafers, lemon squares, pale cakes, a pink-iced heart-shaped cake, individual cranberry and cherry individual pies, lemon pies, pineapple chiffon pie topped with cream and whipped cream, raisin taffy tarts, little muffins, buns, almond loaves with white almonds and cherries glistening like honey, and some loaves of homemade bread that satisfy as well as jars of preserves and fruit relishes.

A fine display, worthy of commendation to the ladies who participated in the early morning venture.

Bride-to-Be Feted With Many Gifts

WELLINGTON — A bridal shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Alyea, on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Watt, whose marriage will take place on Saturday May 13th. The scrambled song and T.V. Special contest were played and pretty favors going to Miss Carol Marvin and Mrs. Donna Armstrong.

Following this, every one helped to make a bride's book. The bride-to-be, smartly dressed in a forest green wool sheath, was seated in a beautifully decorated chair, while Miss Carol Marvin read the address.

Many useful gifts were then presented to her and after opening them all she graciously thanked everyone present.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Beverley Alyea assisted by her mother, Mrs. Alyea, Mrs. Bob Armstrong and Miss Carol Marvin.

All departed wishing the bride-to-be much happiness in the future.

Other guests of honor were Mrs. Goodwin, John Watt, her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Watt and Mrs. Gordon Clarke, of Brantford.

Calgary Cellar Full of Relics Of Old West

CALGARY (CP) — The basement of Margaret Wood's home here is full of relics of the old West. In the "baby museum" there are several hundred arrowheads as well as bowls, scrapers, hammers, pieces of amber, fossils and petrified wood.

The collection was started in 1930 on her father's farm at Midland, Alta., northeast of Calgary.

"In the '30s out at Sibbald," she recalls, "you could almost smell the history of an Indian camp just by looking in the ground."

She used to see Indian rings where they had pitched their tents. Quite close to our home was the location of an Indian graveyard. As you rode along you'd see part of an arrowhead and finally some bones."

Friends and relatives send any interesting items they find and Miss Wood says she has difficulty in keeping her nephews who enlist on saving every rock they find. She doesn't mind, however, because "it's got them interested in history and that is the most important thing."

Woman's Role In Marriage

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Edward F. — I want to return to the old neighborhood.

Vera F. — He is afraid to live up to our income.

* * *

Edward F. — Until four months ago my wife and I and our three youngsters lived in a city apartment in a building owned by my brother-in-law. We paid a modest rent for a good apartment.

My wife wanted to move out for a long time because she felt that we could afford to give the children better advantages in a home of our own in the suburbs. So we moved. Our expenses have skyrocketed. Many things that I had said I figured on have come up to complicate the financial picture. Aside from that, I get home late and am so tired from travelling that I rarely get to see the children.

My wife's brother is willing to give us another apartment similar to the old one at the same rent if we like it, but my wife refuses. I feel that she has been false-principled about returning to the old neighborhood.

* * *

Vera F. — I don't know whether I have the pride or Ed his false humility. He has a very good position. Most men making as much as he does have their own homes than we bought. But he has always been nervous and afraid about moving away from the very poor neighborhood we were living in. The financial worrying is ridiculous. He is in the early 30's and his earnings go up each year.

My husband accuses me of always wanting to keep up with the Joneses, but it isn't really that. We shouldn't rear children to associate with children on the same economic level as we are? Why should they have to associate with children who can never become their mothers must work to keep up the family income?

It's true that Ed doesn't see as much of the children as before, but that's the way things are in the suburbs.

* * *

The Council: It isn't hard to be sympathetic with both sides in this case.

It is fairly evident that Ed feels inadequate and placed on an assembly line in the suburbs. He has been placed in a position where he must make sure his earnings continue their upward climb, where he is expected to uphold certain standards in a way of life he doesn't particularly enjoy. Many men do this for "the sake of the children" but eventually find the children receive profit from this situation.

It is certainly natural for Vera to want more space and a better way of life for the children. She has been left behind for on that, yet we do believe it is important to evaluate carefully which way of life is actually better.

If the old neighborhood is really very bad and overrun with children "running wild" we'd say that Ed is right. But the people who can have a better setting, and Vera is exaggerating the evils of the old neighborhood. She may be a bit dazzled by some of the material advantages she sees in suburban life. If that is the case, we hardly think that her husband's peace of mind is a fair exchange for a house, a car and a few trimmings in the long run it would probably not be to the best advantage of the children.

GOOD MANNERS

PROCEDURE OF DOUBLE-RING CEREMONY

Dear Mrs. Roscrman:

My prospective bridegroom and I are planning to have a double-ring ceremony. We have been to quite a few weddings where this was done, but it has been impossible to make out the exact procedure when you are sitting in the congregation. Will you, please, inform us about the double-ring procedure? Thank you.

Katherine E.

First, let me say that, before you and your bridegroom exchange vows, you handed your bouquet to your honor attendant, maid or matron of honor, who is standing at your left. The best man takes the wedding ring from his pocket and hands it either to your bridegroom or to the clergyman. (At the rehearsal the clergyman will explain to you his part of the ceremony, which includes also the regulation or custom of his denomination and church.) At the same time your honor attendant produces the bridegroom's ring. "With this ring I thee wed" the bridegroom says, as he places the ring on your finger. Then you, saying the same words, put his ring on his finger.

SHOULD MOTHER SHAKE HANDS WITH TEACHER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

An invitation was sent to us mothers to visit the school on a certain day and between the hours named. We three mothers went together, and we all were standing in the anteroom for the first time. One mother extended her hand to shake hands when she was introduced to the teachers. Was this proper? — Reader

Your question is one worse was entirely proper, though not strictly necessary. However, for this special occasion of parent meeting teacher, it would seem to me more natural, warmly gracious, for a mother to add a friendly handshake to her "How do you do, Miss Marsh. It is a very special pleasure to meet you today."

WHEN CHAMPAGNE IS CHARGED "BY THE CORK"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In several of the pamphlets we have been sent by hotels and other places which specialize in wedding reception service, there is a notation about charging for the champagne "by the cork." We realize it is correct by this phrase, Will you please tell us what it means? If it means what we think it possibly does mean, it might make a difference in our reception budget.

— Bride-to-be

If champagne, the traditional wedding reception beverage, is to be served, some hotels charge "by the cork." This means that they supply as many bottles of champagne as you figure you may need for the number of guests expected, and you are charged only for the number of bottles that are opened. A fair procedure.

While mixture is lukewarm, add the dissolved yeast. Mix well. Add flour gradually and beat till dough is smooth. Turn out on floured cloth and knead gently for 2 to 3 minutes. Add a little more flour if necessary to be able to knead properly. Place dough in greased bowl, cover with a double thickness of towel and let stand in warm place, about 85 deg. Then cut and roll out floured cloth, knead gently and shape into ring or bread or loaf. Sprinkle top with mixture of 1-3 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, and if desired 1-2 cup chopped nuts or glace cherries, allow to rise until light, about 1 hour. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes and reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for 10 or 15 minutes longer.

Question: . . . Am enclosing color bought at cash sale. If you have the recipe would you print it. . . Nance omitted by request.

Answer: The sample you mailed was too small and too stale for me to analyze correctly. However, I think the following is roughly similar.

ALMOND CUTS

Base: One and one-quarter cups all-purpose flour, 1-2 cup butter or margarine, 1-2 cup brown sugar, packed. Cream butter, add sugar and cream well. Add sifted flour in small additions to form a smooth, stiff dough.

Spread dough evenly in buttered 13 1-2" x 9 1-2" pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and cool. Middle Layer: One-fourth cup butter, creamed, 1-4 cup each chopped walnuts and plumped raisins, 3-4 cup of brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 2-3 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 cup milk, 1 cup sifted flour. Mix ingredients in order given and spread evenly on top of base. Bake in pan for 30 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. about 18 minutes. When cool, frost with decorator's icing: 1 egg white, 1-2 pound sifted icing sugar, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar beaten together until stiff. When frosting is set, add chocolate drizzle melted unsweetened chocolate over top or frost with thin chocolate butter icing. Place halved blanched almonds at even intervals on top. Mark, cut and serve.

Program Designed to Sell More Pork Being Promoted

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian housewives are going to hear and read a great deal about pork between now and next October.

A program designed to sell more pork is being promoted by the federal agriculture department. The agricultural stabilization board currently holds 70,000,000 pounds of pork. Some of this pork has been frozen and put into cold storage, but because of lack of space a large amount is being canned.

Most canned pork can be kept at room temperature, but the department urges consumers to read the labels carefully since a few products require refrigeration.

MANY USES

For easier slicing, chill canned pork for one or two hours. Served without further preparation, it is ideal for sandwiches, salads, snacks or cold meat platters. Heated, it may be served alone or in casseroles.

Smoke and cured cuts now are sold in smaller packages for the small family. Hams are available in whole, half or quarter cuts. Middges rolls from the ham section and pork cuts from the loin are on store counters, boneless, smoked and sold in casing.

Miss Lucy Campbell, luncheon here Ralph K. Bennett of the federal agricultural marketing service, present pork supplies could be used up if every Canadian family ate one extra pound of pork for the next three or four months.

VERSATILE COOKING

The department is aiming to show that pork is not only good value for the money, but is versatile in cooking and tops in nutrition.

The consumer section of the agriculture department tells housewives that pork of every quality is firm, a greyish-pink in color and has a good proportion of lean in it. Almost most of the fat is in a layer over the lean. It can easily be trimmed.

All cuts of pork are tender enough to be roasted. It should be cooked slowly to develop its flavor.

As for nutrition, pork provides protein that is essential to growth and health, and vitamin B, particularly thiamine, which is essential for healthy nerves and appetites.

A Gift for Any Man: The Power Tool

Looking for a gift for your husband? If you can't afford a hardware store (and if he runs true to form, he'd love it), settle for a power tool.

Some 11 million power tool owners keep basements, tool nooks and sacks buzzing these days. Any of them could use an extra bit or tool for their workshop. Or if they haven't become addicts in this do-it-yourself age, why not help start them on the habit.

There are more than a hundred different power tools and some 9,000 accessories (chains, bits) to choose from.

An expert on power tools, John Ulmer Jr., believes that women who buy complicated household appliances such as sewing machines are fully capable of buying tools.

APPROPRIATE TOOLS

But first, he says, "she must decide on the man's type." She should not spend a lot of money on a novice. He might lose interest in the idea. On the other hand if her man is an accomplished hobbyist, he'll need something more than what he would label "toy stuff."

A basic tool, a ¼-inch power drill which has more uses around the hc se than a screwdriver is a perfect choice for the less experienced, he says. Even a woman can use it. Attachments bore, saw, sand, buff, polish, shape, sharpen and grind.

Don't buy a ¼-inch drill thinking it is bigger, Oster says. It runs at a different speed and does a different job. The drill with pistol grip, is easiest to turn on and off. Most ¼-inch drills have a geared chuck and key making them safer as the drill maintains a firm hold on the drill bit.

CONSIDER POWER SAW

Dyed-in-the-wool hobbyists, who build furniture, repair the house or even add an extra room here and there might have their carpentry life made easier with a good portable power saw. It'll help an aspiring amateur build a backyard barbecue, repair the porch or panel the attic. A small investment will get him a saw table to hold his portable saw stationary.

The size of the saw blade is something to observe about power saws, says Oster. A 6 or 7-inch blade will have the "depth of cut" that will go completely through a 2 by 4.

Ball-bearings mean a better saw.

A complete power workshop as a gift will of course throw your man into a tizzy. Inexpensive shops combine popular tools in a single unit.

Such a unit complete is likely to comprise a bench saw, wood lathe, horizontal drill, vertical drill press, shaper and disc sander. A portable drill also is included in some.

WORK CLOTHES, A PROJECT and the proper tools — this is a sure-fire prescription for happiness for most men. If you are wondering about a gift for your man, try a power tool.

Caution Necessary When Replacing Burned Fuses

While the average homeowner is quite capable of changing a burned out light bulb or replacing a blown fuse, any changes or repairs to the electrical system of a house should be entrusted only to a qualified electrician.

This is particularly important if additional outlets are to be installed as each electrical circuit in the house is rated to carry only a limited power load. If extra outlets are to be provided it may be necessary to alter the circuits or instal a fusebox that will accommodate more circuits. In certain cases, lead-in-wires may have to be replaced with wires of a heavier gauge.

Proper precautions should be taken when work of any type is to be carried out on the electrical system. For instance, the main switch should always be thrown off before replacing a burned out fuse as accidental contact with any live part of the circuit could result in a severe electrical shock or even prove fatal.

The use of fuses of the proper rating is essential for over-rated fuses will cause the wires in the circuit to heat when too many appliances, or appliances which use a large amount of electricity, are connected. When electrical wires get overheated a real fire danger is created. This is especially hazardous when the wires are enclosed in walls and ceilings constructed of lumber or other inflammable material. Fires from this cause rank high in the number of Canadian homes damaged or destroyed by fire each year.

A 15-amp fuse is sufficient for most lighting circuits but higher rated fuses may be used for those circuits serving heavy appliances provided adequate wiring has been installed. Under no circumstances should a coin or other piece of metal be substituted for a fuse.

If the lights dim when an appliance such as a refrigerator starts, it is an indication that the circuit is overloaded. Another symptom is when an electric iron or toaster heats slowly or a motor seems to have trouble starting. Do not hesitate to call a qualified electrician if you are not sure where the trouble is. His experience is your protection.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THIS home is intriguing because it's designed in a sort of semi-circle. Its interior planned with two separate and distinct areas.

Two Wings

The Fairchild entrances is at center. From the triangular foyer, you can step left into the living area or right into the bedroom wing.

Looking into the living room from the foyer, the first thing you see is a large fireplace. The room is long—31 feet—and bright—there's a picture window at either end.

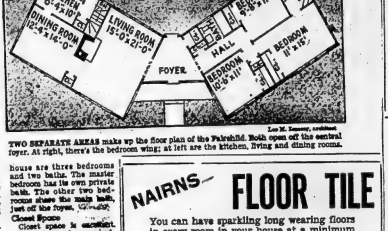
Dining Area

It's just a step into the dining room, which has two groups of windows, on adjacent walls, providing cross-ventilation.

The kitchen is close by. Appliances and cabinets are arranged in an L. An extra closet makes a good place to store away cleaning gear and also has pantry shelves.

The back door and a basement stairway are accessible from the kitchen.

On the other side of the house are three bedrooms and two baths. The master bedroom has its own private bath. The other two bedrooms share the main bath, just off the foyer.



Closet Space

Closet space is excellent. Each bedroom has a wardrobe-size closet. There are two closets, one of them for linens, in the hall near the main bath, and there's a clothing closet in the foyer.

Full Basement

A full basement, under the living area of the house, has space for a recreation room.

The Fairchild comprises 19,210 cubic feet; 1,975 square feet.

Lou M. Sauser, architect

Idea for a Closet Workshop

Over-stuffed closet dilemma can be resolved by removing the door and enlarging the opening to the width of the closet; then installing double doors. For result, see right.

Working out of a closet is exactly what the home handyman can do, when he builds himself a compact unit such as that shown here. Photo courtesy of the Cummins Portable Tool Division of the John Oster Mfg. Co.

If your cellar has been turned into a playroom, your garage is full of garden equipment, and every spare indoor corner occupied, you can build yourself a closet workshop as a base of do-it-yourself operations. With the aid of a few basic power tools, some inexpensive lumber and beaverboard, the average-sized closet can house an amazingly complete workshop which may include a large worktable, a generous beaverboard rack to hold hand tools, a catch-all for plans and patterns, a cabinet table, drill press and an impressive array of power tools.

The secret, as with all cramped storage space, is to utilize every available inch. For instance: a roomy collapsible worktable can be hinged to the closet door and fold flat, legs and all, against the door when not in use. A sturdy wooden frame can help support the table when folded.

Hanging Shelf Beneath Phone Creates Information Centre

THIS HANGING SHELF beneath the wall telephone solves the problem of where to write, and where to store telephone books. The addition of the bulletin board makes this corner a family communication centre.

By BOB GALLIMORE

Wall telephones are more popular than ever, but they can present a problem: where to keep the telephone book?

It's a problem easily solved by the do-it-yourselfer. The photograph shows how one home owner did it.

The materials: half-inch plywood for the two shelves and two lengths of 1-by-4 white pine to nail them to.

In this case the stand went into a corner, so it was made in the form of a triangle with a gracefully hypotenuse. The curve was produced by clamping the two shelves together and cutting both at the same time with a coping saw. It's a good idea to first make a cardboard pattern.

The lengths of 1-by-4 were used for the back of the stand. One screw in the back into each wall, both going through the plaster into the studding, holds the stand to the wall. For added support an ordinary 12-inch metal shelf bracket was screwed to the wall beneath the sand.

The addition of a bulletin board over the stand makes for a real family communication centre.

WOOD GRAIN

Grain patterns are to wood what prints are to fabrics. The many different species suitable for paneling, built-ins, furniture and flooring offer the homemaker an almost endless choice of texture, grain and color combinations.

Dividing a Bathroom Doubles Its Use

Dividing your bathroom into compartments is an inexpensive way to obtain the usefulness of a second, bathroom. When space permits, one compartment can enclose the toilet and another compartment the bathtub.

The addition of twin lavatories equipped and countertops and cabinets and sufficiently large mirrors will permit two persons to wash at the same time.

SANDING SCROLL WORK

Sanding scroll work is easy when the sandpaper is first wrapped around a heavy dowel. Of course the diameter of the dowel will depend upon the radius of the curve to be sanded.

Screening Makes Terrace or Patio 'Outdoor Living Room'

LUNCHING ON THE PATIO is fun for young and old alike, when it is enclosed and protected with screening. The new fiberglass screening is so easy to work with that the home handyman can usually complete the job of installation. Pittsburg Plate Glass Co.

Patios and breezeways are ideal extra rooms for summer entertaining and outdoor dining when they are enclosed and protected with screening. Unprojects, here is one that any weekend Mr. Fixit can do and do well. It doesn't require professional skill.

A special fiber glass screening, now available, will help simplify the job for the home handyman. The fiber glass material is easy to work with, cuts with ordinary household scissors, and can be either tacked or stapled to framing. If aluminum framing is used, the fiber glass screen is simply inserted into the grooves.

The work involved could probably be accomplished in a leisurely spring weekend, and once the screening is installed, there is no further maintenance. Fiber glass screens will not corrode, rust, sag, stretch, or ever need painting.

This durable material which has long been used for insulation and as a reinforcement will last a lifetime with proper application. Probably the most outstanding feature of fiber glass screening is that it is weather-resistant. Once the screens are installed, there is no need to take them down for storing in the winter months, a boon for the home repairman who likes to think a job is finished once it is.

Many homes have open patios where framing could be easily erected. There are do-it-yourself kits that give complete and easy-to-follow instructions for erecting aluminum framing. Arbor-like wooden frames are also becoming popular. Either type frame takes to fiber glass screening.

Six Canadian Sailors Serving On Royal Yacht Britannia Comment on Trip With Philip

PORTSMOUTH, England (CP) — Mel McConachy of Prince George, B.C., has taken a 29,000-mile trip with Prince Philip and, he says, "as far as I can see he's a pretty good fellow."

Able Seaman McConachy, one of six Canadian sailors serving on the royal yacht Britannia when the Prince made his recent round-the-world trip, also has admiration for Philip's ability at deck hockey.

"I won't say he is rough," says the 23-year-old engine mechanic "but he sure doesn't hold back—he's a tremendous player."

The ship's team, which also included Leading Seaman Ron Eldridge, 30, of Halifax, was defeated by the Prince's household squad as the Britannia steamed through warm south Pacific seas.

BEER FOR LOSERS

The Duke presented the losers with a case of beer.

"That's the way it is on the royal yacht," says Eldridge, a seaman on the boat deck, "you are treated very well and most of us have nothing to complain about."

The Canadians are the first of 17 to join the Britannia for the forthcoming Royal Tour of Canada. Two others have since joined the ship and nine more will go aboard about the end of May.

The first six, who went aboard in January, actually had little contact with their royal passenger during most of the 10-day trip. Occasionally he would roam over the ship and take an active interest in the sailors but now most of the Canadians had any conversation with him.

"But," says Eldridge, "it is not hard to tell the Duke is a very keen sailor and knows a lot about ships."

BRASS POLISHER

While the 5,700-ton Britannia plowed through southern seas, the 261 members of the crew worked continuously to keep the vessel gleaming. Able Seaman Agnes Parker, 21, of St. Thomas, Ont., was one of the men who looked after the shiny varnished decks.

He didn't have to use elbow grease on this job though. "Every day I covered my area of the deck with an electric polisher."

But he did work by hand when it came to cleaning the white superstructure. "And believe me," he says, "there's a lot of white paint to look after."

But even after the marathon cruise the tidy blue-bulled royal yacht appeared to be in fine shape.

Deep down in the Britannia Chief Petty Officer Bob Hinds, 32, of Victoria works with the engineering staff. He says that "there's hardly a spot down there where you can drive a motor car." But apart from this great emphasis on cleanliness, he says, the Britannia is a "very efficient" ship.

Leading Seaman Don Richardson, 23, of Dartmouth, N.S., in the Britannia's radio room handles the messages between ship and shore. "And I can tell you this much," he says, "We are far busier than we would be on any ordinary ship."

"FOOD IS EXCELLENT"

Although the Canadians speak highly about life on the Britannia, none of them raves about the food. Parker sums it up this way. "The food is good and we are Canadians and, well . . ."

The Canadian best qualified to talk about this is Able Seaman Harry Podwysocki, 27, of Vancouver who helps cook the food. But he picks his words carefully. "It's different that's all."

While in foreign ports the Britannia's crew usually has afternoons free and at sea the men have time to play bridge, bingo, deck hockey and other games.

The Canadians, all volunteers who were screened carefully before being assigned to temporary royal yacht service, are particularly impressed with the efficiency with which the ship is run. There is no shouting, no running and no unnecessary noise, they call it silent perfection.

"Nobody ever makes mistakes on this ship," says Parker, "If you were late reporting back on board you would be drafted off."

"Yes, it's quite a ship," adds Podwysocki, "I don't think any of us would prefer it to service in our own navy."

Ford to Boost Ownership in Canadian Co.

DETROIT (CP) — The Ford Motor Company of Canada announced Thursday it will pay about $151,500,000 to boost its ownership in the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited to 75 per cent from the present 37.2 per cent.

To do this Ford said it will make an offer early next month to purchase at $188 a share up to a maximum of 775 628 shares of Canadian common stock and all 30,208 shares of class B voting stock not owned by Ford Motor Company.

The price per share is aproximately 25 per cent more than the closing price of the stock on the American Stock Exchange Thursday and about 46 per cent above the average daily closing price during the A.L. 1959.

$138 IN TORONTO

Shares of Ford of Canada A closed at $138 on the Toronto Stock Market Thursday. The B stock is seldom traded.

The Ford offer works out to about $181 a share in Canadian funds, well ahead of about $145,000,000.

Ford of Canada's 1958 sales totalled $462,627,570 compared to $393,000,000 the previous year. Ernest R. Beech, chairman of the board of the U.S. company, said Ford wants to buy the stock to give it a more representative ownership in Ford of Canada.

He said the parent company is limiting the number of shares to be purchased "so that we will continue to be a substantial public company."

Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford of Canada, said in Toronto that Canadians will be the losers if the stock purchase is not made. "I can assure that we will continue to be substantial owners in this fast-moving industry."

LONGEST SOVIET ROUTE

LONDON (Reuters) — A 100-seat jet airliner Thursday opened the Soviet Union's longest regular passenger route, between Moscow and Khabarovsk, Moscow radio reported. The journey of about 5,300 miles will take just under 14 hours—nine hours actual flying time—with three stops, the radio said.

Arctic Problems Discussed by Four Eskimos

OTTAWA (CP) — Sheeoukluk, wiping his steaming Eskimo brow with a white handkerchief, says his mind thinks he might like it in southern Canada but his body doesn't agree.

He was one of four native citizens of the Arctic who twittered through a Thursday press conference a preamble to participation for the first time in the annual meeting of the Eskimo affairs advisory committee.

The meeting Monday is as historic as a session indicating the changing role of Canada's 10,400 Eskimos.

TWEEZER IN OTTAWA

In a temperature of 70 degrees and a humidity reading of nearly 90—the fourcome now Thursday about Arctic problems.

All indicated they feel education has been the biggest boon of ering hope of economic advancement.

They are: Abraham Ogpik, 30, of Aklavik; George Konnik, 29, of Fort Chimo, Que., John Ayaruark 52, Rankin Inlet, and Sheeoukluk, about 35, an foreman at North Rankin nickel mines, who came south on his own but is living in on the meetings anyway.

The four, neatly dressed in shirts, ties and suits, answered a variety of questions. George Kobayashi and Abraham Ogpik spoke English and the two older men answered through interpreters although they understand and speak some English.

"You don't want to live 200 years behind everybody," said Abraham, if he could get a job out Ottawa is mainly would like here, he said.

Mr. Sayark said he thinks education is fine but sometimes, along with other older folk, he wondered what would happen to the children if the whites left. The children would be in bad shape without knowledge of the old hunting skills.

The ideal situation they said was to have a job and be able to hunt too.

18 RCN Ships, British Frigate To Escort Britannia Into St. Lawrence Next Month

OTTAWA (CP)—Eighteen RCN ships and a British frigate will escort the royal yacht Britannia into the St. Lawrence River next month when the Queen begins her tour of mainland Canada, it was announced today.

Following the initial twoday visit in Newfoundland, the Queen and Prince Philip will board the Britannia at Sept-Iles, Que., June 30, sailing across the river mouth to Gaspe under escort by the Royal Navy's HMS Ulster — an anti-submarine frigate — and the Canadian vessels St. Croix and Restigouche.

The following morning the royal yacht and her escorts will be met off Gaspe by the destroyer escorts Gatineau, Kootenay, Crescent, Cayuga, Athabaskan and Micmac; the frigates Swansea and Fort Erie; the submarines Ambush and Alderney; and minesweepers Resolute, Fundy, Thunder, Chignecto, Quinte and Chaleur.

The two submarines and six minesweepers will drop out of the escort shortly after the royal yacht leaves Gaspe that afternoon, and that night the Fort Erie and Swansea also will leave.

On June 22, the Britannia will be escorted up the Saguenay and Ste Anne Rivers by the Ulster, St. Croix and Restigouche while the six other Canadian destroyers anchor at Tadoussac, where the Saguenay meets the St. Lawrence.

All nine ships will accompany the Britannia from Tadoussac to Quebec City, where the Queen will arrive June 23. The following day, the Ulster will be joined in escort by the Kootenay and Gatineau—the other Canadian vessels dropping out—for the trip to Trois-Rivieres and Montreal.

The United States navy destroyer Forrest Sherman, along with the Ulster and Gatineau, will escort the Britannia at the official opening ceremonies for the St. Lawrence Seaway near St. Lambert lock June 26.

During the rest of the royal yacht's passage through the seaway and the Great Lakes, escort duties will be shared by the Ulster, Gatineau and Kootenay, along with three U.S. ships joining in Lake Huron and Lake Michigan while the Queen is in American waters. She visits Chicago July 6.

Farmer Killed By Electrocution

KINGSTON (CP) — A farmer was electrocuted and another suffered shock Thursday following an accident on Howe Island, 10 miles northeast of here.

Elmer Walker, 49, died when a pipe leading from a pump which he was removing from a well struck a wire carrying 4,800 volts.

Jack Houston, 32, who tried to revive Mr. Walker with artificial respiration, suffered shock. He is in hospital here.

Another worker, Kip Winkle, 42, was thrown to the ground by the shock, but did not require treatment.

RESCUE TRAPPED HORSE

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—A horse trapped in an abandoned well since Sunday was rescued Wednesday in nearby Miramonte. Owner Clay Thompson found the horse after a three-day search. With the old of three state forestry men he pulled it out with ropes.

York University U of T Affiliate Opens in 1960

TORONTO (CP)—York University has been granted affiliation with the University of Toronto and opens to its first students in September, 1960.

This announcement Thursday followed a meeting with the University of Toronto's board of governors and the organizing committee for York University.

A joint statement issued by Dr. Claude T. Bissell, president of U of T, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chairman of York University's organizing committee, said:

"York University, a private and non-denominational institution of higher learning, will open its doors to its first students in September, 1960, as an institution affiliated with the University of Toronto."

FOSTER CHILD

The statement said affiliation will be for a minimum of four years and a maximum of eight. During that period, the university's academic program will be under the jurisdiction of the University of Toronto Senate.

Staff appointments will be made with approval of the president of U. of T. Degrees will be those of U. of T. degrees.

By 1965 the university is expected to be an autonomous, degree-granting institution.

York University begins its academic career by offering a three-year general course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. First graduation class will be in the spring of 1963.

U. of T. TEACHERS HELP

During the university's formative years, University of Toronto professors will assist with teaching.

Temporary quarters for the university will be in Toronto but plans are afoot to erect the first permanent building somewhere in the Metropolitan Toronto area. A site has not yet been decided on.

The idea of a second university in the Toronto area started two years ago with a group of business men interested in adult education.

Dulles Belongs to History, Its Verdict Will Disregard His Devotion, Others' Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Foster Dulles, from the moment he resigned as secretary of state because of spreading cancer, belonged to history. What will history say of him?

It can never deny that this 71-year-old man gave his country tremendous and tireless dedication. He quit only because of the illness that incapacitated him.

In his lifetime there have been appraisals of him, good and bad. In the long, cold and clinical view of history neither his devotion to duty nor the opinions of his contemporaries will count for much.

"DON'T BUDGE"

His great task was dealing with communism. If any whole policy in this regard were to be summed up in a single sentence, this could be it: "Hold tight and don't let them budge an inch."

This was exactly the "containment" policy of his predecessor, the Democratic administration of Dean Acheson. It called for military alliances all around the Communist perimeter and economic help to friends and neutrals.

The purpose was direct, obvious and simple: To keep communism from gaining more ground militarily, economically, or politically. It was essentially a defensive policy, not an aggressive one.

WHEN DULLES CHANGE

When Dulles became secretary he took over the Acheson policy, made it his own, even expanded it. He was militant about it.

Dulles, just like Acheson, was more defensive than aggressive. He reacted to Communist actions. He created no crises for the U.S. as many have charged the record some for the U.S.

RUSSIANS DETECT CHANGE

Yet Dulles had hardly taken office before Russia's policy changed, at least outwardly. Forty-four days after Dulles was sworn in, the old dictator, Joseph Stalin, died. Soon the Soviet dropped the needlessly savage Russian foreign policy.

His successors took a softer, less although their purpose, and they made no change in that was the same: Communist expansion. They managed to increase their influence beyond their borders but American military alliances and power remained strong and the Russians didn't gain an inch of new real estate.

But animosity between East and West was just as intense when Dulles died as when he took office six years ago.

In the years ahead he may prove to have been a hero of American history, or a very minor figure, or even an unfortunate failure.

No one now—and certainly not Dulles whose sense of humility was his sharp foil—can claim to know positively the answers to the questions raised. But no one can challenge this about him: He did his best as he saw it.

Canadian, S.A. Policies Alike, Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP) — The South African high commissioner to Canada today compared Canadian police towards Eskimos and Indians with South African policy towards Negroes.

Robert Kirsten said in a speech prepared for delivery to the Canada Women's Press Club here that apartheid, or segregation of races, is in essence "a policy of differentiation of the races."

He said this the policy successive Canadian governments have applied in regard to your Indians and Eskimos.

The high commissioner was unable to deliver the talk due to illness. It was delivered on his behalf by Wynand F. van Eyssen, information adviser.

Under the South African government's apartheid policy, whites and Negroes live and work almost entirely separately and only whites are allowed to vote.

Canadian government policy has been to allow Eskimos and Indians to live and work wherever and with whomever they please. All must live under certain circumstances.

Mr. Kirsten said:

"If it is necessary to differentiate, the relatively smaller number of Indians and Eskimos in Canada, how much more would it not be necessary if there had been 35,000,000 Indians and Eskimos concentrated in the 12,000,000 odd white Canadians by 3½ to one as the colored races outnumber the whites in South Africa?"

Detective Says No New Evidence In Oakes Murder

NEW YORK (AP)—Private detective Raymond C. Schindler said Thursday he has no new evidence in the 1943 slaying of Sir Harry Oakes in Nassau but he thinks it would be a good idea to open the case again.

Oakes, a multi-millionaire, was found bludgeoned to death on a fire-swept bed in his Bahamas home. His son-in-law, Count Alfred de Marigny, was acquitted of the slaying and the case since has been listed as unsolved.

The Bahama House of Assembly this week voted unanimously to ask Scotland Yard to renew an investigation of the Oakes murder. Cyril Stevenson, who introduced the resolution claimed Schindler had new evidence in the case but did not reveal its nature.

MIGHT CLEAR AIR

Schindler said Thursday that Scotland Yard "might be able to clear the air a bit."

"I've had no information since 1944 . . . when I offered to break the case. Then I was told by Government House' that if I investigated the Oakes case or interviewed anybody about it, I would be deported."

Schindler said he met with more deference after the Nassau Herald, in Florida recently at the latter's request.

"I told Stevenson I had nothing new to offer, and then he talked to me about some of his ideas. Then I told him not to tell anyone I was in Florida. But he went right downtown and ignored the request. And ever since then he's been relating his ideas about the case as coming from out of my mouth."

Mass Murderer Granted Stay Of Execution

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Mass murderer Robert Starkweather today was granted a two-week stay of execution a little more than an hour before the state was to administer with death in the electric chair.

Federal district Judge Richard Robinson of Omaha granted the stay to give Starkweather to appeal the denial Thursday of his plea for a writ of habeas corpus.

Meanwhile, Greenholtz, acting Nebraska penitentiary warden, gave first word of the development to newsmen gathered after they showed up at the prison this morning to witness the execution.

LACKED COUNSEL

Robert Conrad administrative assistant to Governor Ralph Brooks, said Judge Robinson found that Starkweather had been without his right to counsel in his habeas corpus efforts.

The 20-year-old condemned killer had sought the writ on grounds his constitutional rights had been violated.

Eleven knife and gun slayings were blamed on—and admitted by—the self-styled former garbage hauler following a murder rampage by months ago.

GIRL FRIEND WITH HIM

Starkweather, a five-foot-five, 140-pound redhead was accompanied by his 14-year-old sweetheart, Carol Ann Fugate, on the killing spree.

Starkweather was convicted specifically of the shooting of Robert Jensen, a high school student.

Carol, now 15, was convicted of murder on one count she aided and abetted Starkweather in the Jensen killing, and drew a life sentence. Her appeal is pending.

End of Manned Fighter Era Nowhere in Sight Report

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Although missiles are gradually taking over as Britain's chief air weapon, the end of the manned fighter era is nowhere in sight.

In fact, say defence ministry spokesmen in London, new manned fighter will be required indefinitely — "until missiles learn to make positive identification of aircraft." They also say manned aircraft are the only weapons that can hedge-hop into enemy territory without being spotted by radar.

British defence planners took a long look at the future of the manned aircraft before deciding that the new TSR - 2 fighter-bomber should be brought into production about 1965 at a cost of £200,000,000. They made the decision about four months ago.

It will be about 1967 before the RAF is equipped with a full complement of TSR-2s. Since defence spokesmen say the aircraft will be in service "for a good many years" this means that Britain's manned fighter planes whould be going strong until 1990, even if no additional models are designed.

The TSR-2 will be essentially low-level aircraft which Defence over missiles.

Minister Duncan Sandys has described as "highly suitable for limited war operations."

It will be capable of high-altitude all - weather performance and will carry air-to-air missiles. It will also have space for an atomic bomb and will take off from 600 - yard unsurfaced runways.

Defence spokesmen describe the TSR-2 as a "completely versatile aircraft, capable of doing any job."

The need for manned aircraft was brought out sharply at the time of the 1956 Suez action when British pilots were ordered to destroy military installations without striking nearby homes and factories, say the defence planners, could never accomplish such a mission without large-scale destruction.

Manned aircraft appear to be winning renewed favor in some other European countries because of their ability, by changing height at random, to sneak under enemy radar screens. British, French and West German defence spokesmen have publicly pointed to the advantages of aircraft

Wintermeyer's Wife Tells Of Phone Threat

KITCHENER (CP)—Mrs. John Wintermeyer, wife of the Ontario Liberal leader, said Thursday night that her home here was threatened with burning last weekend and she has been assailed by derogatory telephone calls.

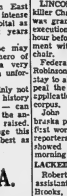
She told a meet-the-candidates gathering that some callers were using the name of Ross Morrison, Conservative executive candidate who is running against Mr. Wintermeyer, sitting member for Waterloo North.

Mr. Morrison told the meeting he had received similar telephone calls.

Mrs. Wintermeyer's comments came after Mr. Morrison said her husband should have resigned when the pipeline stocks issue.

"Mr. Wintermeyer acted improperly," he said, adding "I know Mr. Wintgmeyer personally and I have the fullest respect for him."

DIES IN MISHAP



ELLIOT LAKE (CP)—Joseph Richard, 48, a security officer at Rio Algom Quirk uranium, was killed Wednesday in a traffic accident on Highway 108.

RIDING ON AIR — Associated Press Automotive writer Ben Pihegar sits in a "Levacar" — an air-propelled vehicle which rides on air a fraction of an inch above a metal strip — as he talks with Dr. Andrew Kucher (centre), and George Walker (right). Kucher, vice president of engineering and research at the Ford Motor Co., pioneered the vehicle. He envisions the Levacar as high speed ground transportation between cities.

It would skim over flat rails at speeds of 300 to 500 miles per hour, he said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—As far as year," Leonard said as he golf's gold trail is concerned at the moment Stan Leonard has gone fishing.

That may be indifferent news for the fish, but it is noteworthy for the veteran Vancouver golfer's competitors in the Canadian Open in Montreal June 18-21.

Fishing, you see, is good for Stan's golf.

"I've never been one who could play more than four of five weeks at a time on the tour without losing interest in my game," Leonard said on return from a recent fishing trip to interior British Columbia.

"With too much golf you go punchy after a while."

NEEDS PERIODIC RESTS

That's the reason, Leonard said, for his periodic interruptions in his campaigning on golf's big-time money trail—and fishing gives him a break in which to renew his interest.

"I don't think it's age," he added. "I don't think anybody can play week after week without a break and keep his interest up.

Stan's age—he now is 44—has been a major topic of golf discussion in Canada, and elsewhere, since he announced in May, 1958, that he was giving up a job as professional at Vancouver's Marine Drive Golf Club where he had been 13 years to gamble on tournament golf.

He was 40 then, an age when many pro golfers retire from tournament competition and take a club job.

Leonard's gamble paid dividends from the beginning and it still is paying off. He's made two trips into the United States this year, played in 10 tournaments including the Crosby Open, the Masters and the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions, and he's picked up more than $6,000 in prize money.

He also has a two-year contract to continue taking part in the all-star golf series for television.

Last year was Stan's most successful on tour. He had $36,300 for 15 tournaments, including the $10,000 jackpot at Tournament-of-Champions winner in Las Vegas; but not including $13,000 in bonuses he picked up at that competition.

EYES CANADIAN TITLE

"I don't know just how many more tournaments I'll play this year," Leonard said as he awaited the Canadian Open. "Probably another 10."

He has passed up the U.S. Open in order to be well rested and in top shape for the Canadian tournament.

A six-time winner of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association title, Tournament of Champions winner and one-time Greensboro Open winner in the U.S., Leonard has inked the Canadian Open title in each of his eight or nine tries for it.

Last year in Edmonton he finished in a tie for fourth place, three strokes behind winner Wes Ellis, Jr.

This year, Leonard is pacing himself carefully. A little fishing — he didn't say if he is as successful at this as golf — a few rounds on the golf course and some practice.

In between, he was asked if winning the Canadian Open had become his major golfing ambition.

"It'd have to say," he understated, "that winning the Canadian Open is one of my goals."

Promoter Will Repeat Tour Despite Disappointing Fans

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Undismayed by disappointing crowds, the Swiss promoter managing the European tour of Boston Bruins and New York Rangers plans to bring over two more National Hockey League clubs next spring.

The promoter, Othmar Deinoe, blames unfamiliarity and unseasonable warm weather for the poor turnouts, which have ranged from 11,000 in Geneva to 500 in Antwerp.

Deinoe, who played hockey for European teams for 15 years before his retirement in 1951, is confident he'll do better on his next try.

"They play real ice hockey," he said. "We Europeans couldn't play two minutes against teams like these, their playing is simply unbelievable."

The promoter said the audiences were invariably appreciative.

BLAME HIGH PRICES

Members of the touring party, expressing disappointment at the small crowds, blamed poor publicity and high prices, ranging up to $7 for the best seats in Berlin.

Defenceman Jim Morrison of the Bruins suggested that more fans might turn out to see a local team play the visitors.

Morrison was puzzled by the comparative silence of the crowds.

"Europeans are very polite and don't react like crowds back home. The most enthusiastic were the Swiss. They were in the game."

Press comment has been friendly, although Der Sport of Zurich said the Ranger - Bruin performance "very often reminded one of a show rather than a real contest" and that the superior calibre of the play was "exclusively due to the physical condition of the players.

After watching two more games, the same newspaper added:

"Their speed, their fast starts, their technical ability and their 'puck control are probably the best we have ever seen in this city."

UNQUALIFIED PRAISE

Der Abend of West Berlin was unqualified in its enthusiasm:

"Many, many ice hockey games have taken place in the Sportpalast during the last 25 years. But they were all peanuts compared to the show that New York Rangers and Boston Bruins staged yesterday."

Similar reactions came from Paris where the sports daily, L'Equipe, said the tourists gave "a masterful demonstration of hockey technique."

The promoter said he has substantial advance bookings for the windup of the 10 - city tour in Vienna, including substantial blocks for Czech and Hungarian visitors.

Officials Say NBA to Blame For Ring Ills

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—An official of the National Boxing Association Thursday charged his own org anization is responsible for some of boxing's ills.

Anthony Macerol, first vice-president of the NBA appealed to his group to make its action stick against Sugar Ray Robinson.

"For years we have been wondering what is wrong with boxing, blaming everyone and everything," Macerol wrote in a letter to Dr. Ward Wylie, NBA president. "The blame is with us, for

Back Trouble Not Serious Says Challenger

NEW YORK (AP)—Aside from a brief interruption in his training program, boxer Ingemar Johansson doesn't think his aching back is serious.

"I had this happen to me before, training for a fight, and I feel a few days rest will cure it," said the Swedish heavyweight who will meet champion Floyd Patterson in a world title bout at Yankee Stadium June 25.

Johansson said he strained a seldom - used back muscle in training at Grossinger, N.Y., Tuesday. He visited a New York chiropractor Thursday and had a right sacroiliac joint put back in place. Later he trotted up and down a hotel corridor to show his trainer he was able to navigate without trouble.

Argonauts May Have Own Private Eye

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts waited two years for husky prospect Bob Lemon to finish his college anatomy course at Ohio State University. But when he did return to Toronto recently, he found the Metropolitan police force instead of Argos.

The Argonauts had kept the 23-year-old Canadian Rugby Union card in their collective pocket with visions of Lemon coming back to the fold.

But when he took up criminology in addition to anatomy at Ohio State, Lemon was planning a different future. Now he is training at the Metropolitan Toronto police college. But he has signed a three-year contract obligating himself to play for the Argos, just in case he decides to play in the big leagues at some future date.

Lemon was halfback in 1957 when Ohio State won the Rose Bowl game.

HODGE-PODGE

Last season after "Peeve" divorced the Dodgers, they plumb dropped to the cellar . . . Then he took on the Yankees, and was closer to them than a hand-aid to a split finger. And look where Casey's pets are now? . . . Note to Commercial Softball League managers and coaches: please telephone the score of your game as soon as possible the morning after the tilt. "Twill help a lot . . . Gene Kinlski says he is going to take Yukon Eric apart sliver by sliver tonight to see if he really has a lumberjack background . . . A Kitchener clipping: "Until more details are available no one can be sure how extensive has been the damage to senior hockey by recent events in Belleville. It seems likely, however, the McFarlands will be out of business. This would be a crushing blow to the Eastern Ontario League which has a doubtful starter in Cornwall. It may come the survivors will be looking for a link-up with Western Ontario teams. The crisis come at a bad time for Whitby Dunlops since their manager, Wren Blair, is in an Oshawa hospital suffering from nerve strain the past season when he ran two teams, one in Canada, the other in the Eastern U.S.A."

Cleveland's Cal McLish was the only one of his eight children his father was allowed to name so he made up for it with Calvin Coolidge Julius Caesar Tuskahoma McLish . . . A dozen Dodgers got $500 for appearing in an oriental motion picture. Probably qualified because of that Chinese home run scored in the Coliseum . . . June 7-14 has been designated as "National Golf Week" throughout Canada. Then men and boys will match their net scores against Canadian PGA champion Henry Martella's gross score and women and girls their net scores against Canadian Ladies' Open champion Marlene Stewart Streit's gross score.

At the recent OHA convention in Toronto Bob Lebel, retiring president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said in the press room that Edmonton was tabbed for Canada in the balloting for the venue of the 1962 world hockey tournament. That's the one Kitchener was bidding for . . . But a gent named Thurlow Fraser, Edmonton millionaire, bought it for the United States with a fantastic offer. Transportation and expenses offered to all competitors to play the series in his home town will cost him nearly $500,000 . . . In addition Tutt offered the teams a big split of a television deal which he claims will net $250,000. Lebel doubted some of the claims but said that it all in writing so I guess he is stuck, regardless" . . . Twenty-four nations are expected to compete . . . LaBel added only six or eight will take part in the Olympics next winter They'll include Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, West Germany, Canada and the United States. Assuming the European teams will practically be the same that played the Macs last season, the Kitchener Greenshirts had a team that could insert-it and their line-up. Those Russ and Czechs will be plenty tough, so will the Swedes with Johannsen and Nillsson back in harness.

The new name of the Trenton entry in the Belleville District Softball League is "Garret Appliances." Seems the Legion dropped the sponsorship . . . "Cuffer" Noakes has whipped himself together a neat little package of junior baseball and those kids will be heard from before playoff time. "Cuff" and Vic Morris are doing a yeoman job in looking after, training and coaching the younkers and from all reports they look like a well-balanced club. They defeated a South Hastings team 11-2 in an exhibition tilt last week, and the young fellows looked and played like veterans. They have secured entry in the SHBL and hope that league's seasonal activities tomorrow night at the Fair Grounds. Game time 6.30. From now on the juniors will play all their home tilts at the CNRA park.

Bob Temple's Bobcats, with one victory strike on their jackets, entertains the Trenton Garrets here tonight at CNRA Park. The Cats looked like a strong squad in their inaugural against Point Anne and if Cobourg and Trenton come up with teams of equal or near-equal or better calibre, there's going to be some great softballin' around these parts this summer . . . Tomorrow night the Pointers trek to Cobourg to take on "Sleepy" Dawe's 1959 edition . . . The Jacks boys are the feature attraction with the Lakefield Charltons this season. Ray, the speed demon of the mound, is back after a two-year stretch with Uncle Sam's army, and he brought along with him Cousin John Judd, a 215-pound stripling who does the receiving for his fireball relative . . . You'll probably see the duo in action at Point Anne if Bill Shaw's exhibition games plans materialize . . . Frank Cole softball juvenile "Phillettens," sponsored by Chief' Tabby Bob Temple of the bigbrother Bobcats are said to be an up-and-coming crew of ballchasers. Frank says he has a well-balanced club which with a little more experience, will give the best of them a run for the money.

Buc Skipper Shuffles Line Deals Cards 7-2 Setback; Gomez 4-Hits Chicago Cubs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh might be wondering why he didn't speak up sooner. His lecture on curfew and all didn't sink in until he shuffled the lineup, but then his sixth-place Pirates got the idea.

They heard the skipper loud and clear Thursday night, putting aside a slump that had draped them with four defeats in five games with a 12-hit, errorless 7-2 victory at St. Louis.

Murtaugh, who reminded his Bues' of the club's 2 a.m. curfew after they lost the Tuesday opener at St. Louis, shook up the lineup that they were whipped again Wednesday. Saturday night he replaced shortstop Dick Groat with Dick Schofield and made Rocky Nelson his first baseman in place of the slumping Ted Kluszewski and Dick Stuart.

Nelson, drafted from the International League Toronto Leafs at the end of last season, went hitless in four official trips in the cleanup position, but scored one run.

PIHLS FINALLY WIN

The worst skid of the year came to an end in the nightcap. No. 1 pitcher Ruben Gomez fourth official victim.

The Pirates ripped into Cardinal righthander Lindy McDaniel for 5 runs in the first inning, the 5 scored with two out and both against reliever Ernie Broglio. Don Hoak and Bill Mazeroski each drew a two-run double and Pirates, with Hoak scoring another double by Bob Skinner after doubling for his third hit.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix (3-2) and three relievers, Bill Henry (4-0), Elmer Singleton (1-0) and Clem Labine (1-0), held the Cards to six hits but didn't walk a man and Hoak struck out every batter in the starting lineup except pitchers for the second time this season.

Gomez, winning his first in three decisions with the Pirates, and Cubs rookie Dale Anderson both had a shutout duel going until the 8th when Don Hoak was hit by a pitch, stole second and scored on Willie Jones' single. Gomez struck out three in the inning before Roy Sparrow walked one, struck out three in Ann Arbor, Mich., Thursday for his first complete game of the season.

Blind Bowler Whips up 341 Triple

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 71-year-old man, blinded 20 years ago in a shipyard explosion, whipped up a three-game total of 341 Thursday to win the first Canadian singles blind bowling tournament.

Joe Pepper's score was well ahead of the 296 posted by Eastern champion Harold Millard of Hamilton.

Pepper took up bowling five years ago after languishing in his sightlessness for some 15 years.

Mitchell, 48, an industrial cafeteria manager from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, said later in an interview he was "proud" to have been defeated by someone of Pepper's age.

"I'm amazed that a man who has been bowling for so short time could show such strength," Mitchell said.

Pepper's total was well below his current one-game average of 156.

It was the first such national competition ever held on a face to face basis. Pepper won last year's telegraphic competition with a three-game score of 489.

Toronto will be host to next year's east - west tournament and the play will alternate between east and west after that.

Blind bowling, which began here in 1935 for the first time in Canada, has more than 2,500 adherents among the 24,000 sightless persons in Canada. A specially designed ramp here stretches the entire length of the ball track to the foul line, serving as a guide for the bowler.

Coaches help him put into position, direct his arm and tell him what pins remain standing.

"Golf is the last thing I want to think about for a few days," Mrs. Streit said. "I dreamed I was 2 down to the Queen. Also, competitor at the turn.

GOOD, EVEN MATCH

"It was a good, even match," Miss Milligan said afterwards. "We were both playing well."

Mrs. Streit moved into the final by defeating Margaret Masters, Australian woman's champion, 2 and 1.

In the final, Miss Milligan held a two - hole lead through the 11th hole. Then the Canadian Open champion stroked her rival. Mrs. Streit won three of the next four holes to go 1 up, her first lead in the match. Miss Milligan squared the game at the 16th but then went out of bounds on the 17th and on the 18th she put her drive into the rough as Mrs. Streit won both holes.

ENTERED IN OPEN

Mrs. Streit leads a list of seven Canadians entered in this year's British women's open tournament, starting Monday.

Cobourg Shades Trenton in Eleven In Error-Spotted League Opener

By GARRY ALEXANDER

TRENTON — Errors played a prominent role in the scoring last night as the Cobourg Maroons went 11 innings to shade Trenton Garretts 10-9 under the lights here as both clubs opened their Belleville and District softball league play.

Whether it was opening game jitters or just a bad night for the fielders errors totalled six at the end of the two hour and eleven minutes marathon with Trenton collecting seven of that total.

It was a see-saw affair all the way with first one club ahead and then the other. Trenton scored once to tie the score 8-8 in the bottom of the ninth, sending the game into extra innings.

Errors told the story in the 11th when Cobourg scored a pair of unearned markers. Chub McIvor singled with one out and a bad throw from the outfield gave him an extra base. Rolly Campbell, the winning pitcher, also singled to send load run and went all the way to third on another throwing miscue. He scored for a 10-8 score when second baseman Leroy Stevenson dropped Ken Campbell's pop on the outfield grass.

Losing hurler Ron Wanamaker got one back for Trenton in the bottom of the frame. He got on via an infield single, advanced on a glaring error and scored on Alexander's beat to centre.

Campbell toiled the distance on the victors' mound, permitting nine hits, whiffing five and walking three. Errors kept him in hot water.

Ron Wanamaker was the loser in 2-3-3 innings of relief. He gave up two runs off three hits, fanning one and walking another. Starter Gord Maroney allowed six safeties but a combination of eight free passes and errors led to his departure. He struck out half a dozen.

Cobourg jumped into a 2-0 first-frame lead on one hit, three walks and a hit batsman. Four Trenton runs in the fourth came on two walks, safeties by Maroney and Guy Austin and an error. The Marcmets tied it quickly with a walk, Jim Hart's triple and another bobble.

Trenton forged ahead again when Ernie Alexander singled, scored later on Bill Mitts' line out to deep centre. They made it 7-4 with the aid of another error and Alexander's queer - bouncing single in the seventh. Cobourg struck hard to chase Maroney in the eighth. Pete Boncardo tripled after a walk and error. Dick Turpin doubled to tie the score and pinch-hitter Rex McGahan drove him in with another base knock before Wanamaker took the mound.

Two Cobourg outfielders got mixed up and let Austin's fly ball fall for a double in the ninth. He advanced on a ground out and tied the score on a wild pitch by Campbell. Then came the extra innings and the Cobourg victory.

Dick Turpin led the winners at the plate with a double and 2 singles. Other hits were shared by Pete Boncardo and Bill Hart with triples, Rex McGhan, Leo O'Brien, Bob Mclvor and Rolly Campbell with one-bangers.

Guy Austin poked a brace of doubles and a single to lead the Garretts while Doug Alexander singled twice. Roger Drake hit a double with singles going to Bobby Burns, Ron Wanamaker and Gord Maroney.

Plate umpire Bill Hurst drew hasted comments from both teams for a number of questionable calls throughout the contest.

It was announced that Trenton's next home game against the Bobcats, scheduled for Tuesday, May 26, has been changed to Thursday, May 28.

Lineups: Cobourg — Turpin ss, Hendry cf, O'Brien 3b, Mclvor c, Campbell p, McSporran lf, cf, J. Hart lb, B. Hart rf, Boncardo 2b, Ford rf, McGahan lf.

Curling Problem Is Difference In Attitudes

WINNIPEG (CP) — Curling authority Ken Watson of Winnipeg says the Dominion Curling Association is "really not a form of responsible government."

He was commenting on a statement by Cliff Lee, retiring president of the Alberta association, that the DCA is in need of "major revamping."

Watson said the national association "adheres to the constitution—which is only proper."

Lee said the association was flooded down with "oldtimers" who "could create a great deal of despair with their trend of thought."

Watson a former junior champion of the executive, said the major problem was the difference in attitude between East and West curlers.

"In the West the average man on the street is a curler and doesn't particularly resent automobiles or refrigerators offered as prizes at bonspiels," he added.

"In Eastern Canada the ardent curler is the business or professional man who looks upon the game in a more exclusive light."

Lee, at the Alberta meeting, said the national body's suggestion that curlers of amateur eligibility were unrealistic and unacceptable.

Watson said new facilities being built in the East catering to Western-styled commercial curling would help to change the Eastern outlook on the amateur question.

Major Leagues Open Gates For Formation of Third Loop

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball's major leagues have opened the gate for the formation of a third loop with major league status.

Operating heads of the 16 National and American league clubs agreed here unanimously Thursday "to favorably consider" applications for major league status by "an acceptable group of eight clubs which could qualify."

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick says his personal belief is that such a league is "inevitable" and that it certainly will come within five years.

Frick's statement came at the windup of a hastily called meeting of the major league club bosses.

The statement said "there is no waiting line to expand the present major leagues." By that he meant expansion of the National and American loops to 10 or 12 club organizations.

"The approach is to a third league," he said.

The statement from the club bosses looked a flood of speculation.

One was—how about ball play-ers?

A third major league would need 200 players under the present player limit rule.

To that, Frick said, "The players will develop if you have the jobs for them."

He said there was no discussion in the meeting of baseball war or a possible "share the player" plan with a new league.

A new league would undoubtedly mean a wholesale realignment of the minor leagues.

Among the cities which have been suggested as possible members of a new major league are New York, Buffalo, New Orleans, Dallas-Fort Worth, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Montreal, Seattle, Mexico City and Toronto.

Minneapolis, St. Paul, Fort Worth and Dallas now have individual teams in the class AAA American Association. Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal are the class AAA International League.

Among the qualifications member of a new league would have to meet would be proof of financial responsibility, a park or a commitment for a park seating a minimum of 25,000 and a population not less than the smallest city in the present major leagues.

On this point, Frick said the club owners made no attempt to determine the minimum population for a city in the major leagues.

The majors determine population on a trade area basis which in some cases might include a 50-mile radius, he added.

An estimate of the smallest area population at present is about 600,000. The Toronto and Montreal metropolitan areas each have more than 1,000,000 each.

If Ray Robinson Loses Title He'll Go to Supreme Court

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson said Thursday he would go all the way to the United States Supreme Court if the New York Athletic Commission takes away his middleweight boxing title today.

"I'll take it right to the supreme state division of New York state and right to the Supreme Court in Washington if necessary," said the 39-year-old New Yorker.

"I've done everything in my power to make a title defence against Carmen Basilio. I got him a guarantee of a minimum of $225,000 to fight me in Philadelphia, Sept. 21. I've signed a Pennsylvania commission form of contract. What more can anyone want?"

NBA ACTED FIRST

The National Boxing Association stripped Robinson of the middleweight crown May 4 and the New York State Athletic Commission may follow suit today when it is expected it will up the bearings on the Robinson case.

The NBA vacated the title because Robinson hasn't fought since he regained the crown from Bhilla Maroh in 1958. Both the NBA and the New York commission have rules calling for title defences every six months.

MAD AT MOORE

"I'll never fight him. I don't want anything to do with Moore. Besides, he was in my home last December to get the fighter of the year award he came to my house. He begged me to get the fight. It would be a big payday for both of us.

"I got of a million and a half dollar deal with Matty Fox of Gladrun. Archie told me fine. The next thing you know he signed for $175,000 to fight (Yvon) Durelle again in Montreal, July 15.

"What kind of money is that for him? Here I'm offering a middleweight challenger a minimum of $225,000. I don't know what's the matter with people these days. Maybe it's the heat."

Brando Is Taking His Time Handling 'One-Eyed Jacks'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando is finally finishing the movie he began six months ago.

This appears to be something of a record for modern Hollywood times. In the old days, a Charlie Chaplin or an Erich von Stroheim might have spent a year on an artistic venture, but costs were considerably different then.

More recently, MGM took 8½ months to shoot Ben - Hur in Italy, sometimes employing three separate companies. Brando's One-Eyed Jacks may be the modern record-holder in Hollywood, at least it is at Paramount, where he has been shooting.

That noted long-shooter, George Stevens, took 71 days to shoot another western, Shane. C. B. DeMille's recent Ten Commandments totalled 117 days, including the Egyptian location.

Brando expects to reach about 120 days (with a five-day shooting schedule) and finish his directorial chore next week. If there is any panic about his overtime, the Paramount brass isn't showing it.

"We've got the Brando name in a class by itself," a spokesman said. "We feel that is worth the $4,450,000 the picture will cost. This will be our blockbuster of 1960."

Now did Brando seem concerned when I visited him during the last days of filming. Tired, maybe, but not concerned. Weight is always a concern of his, and I asked whether he had lost any.

"I've lost my mind, mostly," he said. "Some weight, too. I've been working from early morning until midnight every night." Nor will there be any rest for him. He's scheduled to start immediately in New York with The Fugitive Kind, along with Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward. When will he direct another picture? His reply: "When I'm old and grey and can't get a job doing anything else. . . ."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, May 22

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Inasmuch as you have so many very fine creative ideas of a practical nature, it is possible now to get in touch with almost any broker you desire and get immediate results. This applies also to talent in the artistic fields.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) It would be very wise to confer with experts today if you want to increase your income and advance in your line of endeavor. They will teach you the right methods to use. P. M. is fine for romance. Be tender and kind.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Make it your business to cement better relations with all partners and other persons vital to your life, whether in the business world or in personal affairs. Also, be very civic-minded in order to gain greater prestige.

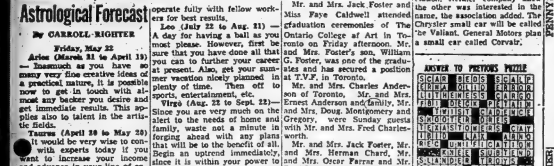
Most Children (June 22 to July 21) — Waste no time in getting down to important work that you have to do, or meeting obligations you have made, since you can accomplish a very great deal right now. Also, cooperate fully with fellow workers for best results.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — A day for having a ball as you most please. However, first be sure that you have done all that you can to further your career interests. Also, get your summer vacation nicely planned in plenty of time. Then off to sports, entertainment, etc.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Since you are very much on the alert to the needs of home and family, waste not a minute in forging ahead with any plans that will be to the benefit of all. Begin at once, if needed immediately, since it is within your power to do so now.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A conference with those important persons in your life whom you admire will result in the working out of a corporate plan that will be lucrative all around. Then, begin writing letters, blocking out, producing, etc.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — While you have caviar tastes, you sometimes do not put into your labors that extra something which will insure a comparable income. Also, you must think in larger terms today to get greater results.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Your better desires are sure of attainment today. You have but to get focused early and thereafter into the world of activity. See the right people and get quick results. P.M. have a good time, which you so richly deserve.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Fine day to ferret out that data which has been impossible to get before now. Then you are able to produce more and have greater abundance. See how you can be of assistance to needy persons, too.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Since you love people, this is an ideal day for you. You are able to make many new contacts that will prove very helpful in the near future, can be of assistance to others, and have a truly fine time as well. Be friendly, witty.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It is relatively easy for you now to get the respect of influential persons who will see to it that your talents are placed in some sphere most beneficial to the public and lucrative to you. Do not be shy. Expand.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today will never be afraid to speak out and be heard. The mentality is very great, too, and mental gymnastics, combined with nimbleness of fingers is remarkable here. So be sure you give the proper education and training to your young genius, as well as teach that whatever is once commenced must be completed before dashing off to something else, or you ruin a wonderful potential.

PREMIER FROST

Still referring to Mr. Reaume he said he was sure the voters of that constituency look at home and elect in his place a supporters of good government.

DEALINGS WITH MARTIN

The premier gave a politeness-by-politeness account of his dealings with Mr. Martin during the latter's term as Minister of Highways later. He said Mr. Martin sat "stone-cold" most of the time and did nothing.

He accused Mr. Martin of holding up the introduction of government hospital insurance because of his "unrealistic" demands requiring that six provinces representing a majority of Canada's population first enter the plan.

On the extension of unemployment insurance, Mr. Martin had resigned his cabinet post out of a "high sense of responsibility" on the issue on which every bit of evidence had been made public.

"I come here to tell you that his honor as a gentleman and as a politician is unblemished and that he deserves your endorsation."

ATTACKS PREMIER

Speaking to an audience of 1000 at Chatham, Mr. Winterwerp said the premier hid behind the "facade of postponement" when he failed to take action on the labor committee report.

Although labor relations was one of the most critical problems of the day the government "was afraid to do something at election time for fear it might upset the apple cart."

The Liberals proposed to set up a management-labor council to bring the two sides together on the chief problems of unemployment, pensions, job security and the dislocation of industry. The council would be there to bring about their solution."

Charging the Conservatives were begging for labor votes on labor question, he outlined his party's plans to implement suitable pensions and train personnel to develop more efficient conciliation services.

At present "we wait until a strike starts before intervening in a serious way."

SAYS CHANGE DUE

Earlier in the day he told 70 persons in the Lake Simcoe village of Beaverton that a change was due in Ontario's government.

"Historically, we have never had a change in government in Canada and Ontario after a subsequent election. There has always been a change at the provincial level at the first opportunity."

Mr. Winterwerp had another strenuous day hopping from one community to another. He lunched at Bowmanville with 20 local representatives of industry and labor, stopped for coffee and a chat with 80 party workers at Port Hope and had dinner with 40 persons at Whitby where he outlined the Liberal election platform.

Nominations Thursday reached a total of 277 and the Progressive Conservatives became the first party with candidates in every riding. The PC list rose to the maximum 98 with the nomination of Rev. A. W. Downer, Speaker in the last Legislature, to contest Dufferin-Simcoe again.

Liberals have been nominated in 93 ridings, CCFers in 74 and Labor-Progressives (Communists) in nine. There is also one Social Credit and two Independent nominations.

MAY BRING . . .

In protest, three labor members of the advisory committee resigned.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said there should be only one set of employment figures issued by the government. An estimate of the unemployed by the bureau of statistics and a report on unemployment insurance registrations by the labor department are put out now.

SEEKS BETTER SYSTEM

Mr. Starr said he is trying to work out a new system of estimating the number of unemployed—one that would provide more authentic and accurate information than now is available.

Both Paul Martin (L — Essex East) and Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, pounded away at Mr. Starr during the debate, trying to get him to state what plans the government has to meet unemployment next winter.

Mr. Starr said responsibility for acting to combat unemployment lay with the government, which would decide what to do and the appropriate time to do it.

Jack Garland (L — Nipissing) said last winter's works program provided employment—less than one per cent of the unemployed.

He said government policy should be announced before the end of this month to enable mayors and reeves to discuss it at their conventions at North Bay, May 31 to June 3.

FIRE SPACE CAPSULE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A model of the capsule that will carry the first American into space is scheduled to be fired aboard an Atlas intercontinental range ballistic missile this July, informed sources said today. They said launching of the 1,000-pound instrumented capsule will be a major stride for Project Mercury, the multi-million-dollar effort to put man in space.

Sunday School Lesson

Hunger Grows in World

By ROY L. SMITH

In the days when Benito Mussolini was riding high in Italy that writer had the privilege of spending a part of one summer in the land over which he ruled in the course of which he heard a story that was widely circulated among the people and which carries within it a very wise and bitter truth.

The small son of the dictator stopped in the midst of his breakfast, so it was told and asked of his father, "Daddy, what is this thing they call Fascism that I hear all the kids talking about?" To which the blustering chief replied, "Shut up and eat!" And no better description of modern totalitarianism has ever been put into words.

A MATTER OF TAXES

It is worth noting in this connection that the little Kingdom of Israel did not go to pieces wrecked on any rock of theology. It was taxes that split the state.

It is a fact, of course, that profound issues of religion and theology" were bruited about among the ancient Hebrews, but just a little way under the surface of almost every situation is an economic issue. And the great religious leaders of the nation were forever dealing with questions of taxes, injustice awarking conditions, welfare and the poor.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson is: May 24: "THE KINGDOM DIVIDED," I Kings 11:9 through 12:33.

Under Solomon, the father of Rehoboam, the nation had been taxed past the point of endurance in supporting a vast program of public works. The young man had inherited an administration that was bankrupt. At least 30 cities were forfeited to Hiram, king of Tyre, to satisfy a mortgage the old pagan held against Israel for funds he had loaned and labor he had supplied in carrying out that program of public works. And the farmers, upon whom the burden fell most heavily at last refused to pay.

MODERN REHOBOAMS

Kings such as Solomon were in the habit of pointing to the glories they had brought to their respective nations, assuming that the plundered poor would be satisfied — or ought to be — in contemplating the extravagances and magnificences which their hard-earned dollars had purchased. But human nature was much the same then as now. Hungry and impoverished men are in a poor position to appreciate splendor on empty stomachs.

This world of 1959 has about 15% less food per capita than the world of 1949 had. In spite of all the relief extended to the underprivileged areas of the earth, the total amount of hunger is greater than it has ever been in the history of mankind. We have established at least some measure of death control but there is no control of births, and the world population is exploding at the rate of 43,000,000 souls every year. At the present rate of food production there will be by 1975 not enough food to go around. And in the face of this tragic situation every government in the world is spending more millions for "defense" than ever before, in all history.

SINS OF THE FATHERS

There is probably no accredited historian who would not agree that it was the Russian Czars of Russia who forced the revolution upon the land in 1917. The times were right for revolt. The communists seized their opportunity; they did not make it.

The delicate situation that exists in the Orient today, with the forces of communism arrayed against the forces of democracy, is a product of 300 years of colonialism. That the European powers rendered the people of the Orient a great service must be admitted, but they rendered under conditions that fostered the uprisings of today. The children of the colonial powers now find themselves under the necessity of salvaging whatever they can out of a world that has gone to pieces in their hands.

The most determined opinion one meets in the Orient is the fixed purpose of the Orientals never allowed themselves to be subject again to any foreign power. The strategy of Russia is to govern through puppet governments that maintain the pretense of nationalism.

But one fact we must face with candor and courage. This world is required to pay for the sins of the fathers, and the next world will have to pay for any sins of which this world is guilty.

Michigan State Workers Paid

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Pay day meant what it said Thursday for Michigan's nearly 27,000 state-employed workers.

Contrary to the situation two years ago, there was insufficient money in the state treasury to meet the $5,100,000 biweekly pay-roll.

The May 7 pay day was bypassed in the state's cash crisis. However since then an increase in income tax receipts has closed the gap.

Auditor-General Frank S. Szymanski indicated a decision probably will be reached this week on whether policies of the state's three major universities — Michigan, Michigan State and Wayne State — to meet month-end payrolls.

Meanwhile, the Michigan legislature continued its debate on ways to meet the state's cash emergency.

Army Fights Bid To Cut Allocation For Nike Missiles

Senate Claims Weapon "Virtually Obsolete"

Will Cost $100 To Wear Flag As Panties

TALLAHASEE, Fla. (AP) The Florida House of Representatives has approved the "Confederate panties bill" and passed it along to the Senate for confederation.

This measure would prohibit misuse of the Confederate flag. It was introduced after tennis player Laura Lou Rumen showed up at a tournament in shorts with a Confederate banner on the seat.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy sponsored a bill to prohibit such use. The measure would provide a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail.

Twelve Charged As Arms-Laden Plane Seized

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Federal officers seized an arms - laden plane Friday and charged 12 persons, including a Dominican Republic official, with conspiracy to export the guns and ammunition to that island nation.

The Dominican government man—Augusto Fernando, consul at Miami—also was charged with conspiracy to bribe a United States officer to let the arms go through. He furnished $25,000 bond.

Admitted to $10,000 bond on the same charges was Joseph Luquet, a Miami policeman who once was bodyguard to Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo's playboy son, Rafael Jr., and accompanied young Trujillo on a west coast yacht cruise which ended abruptly in a gunfight with parties attended by Hollywood film beauties.

U.S. District Attorney James L. Gullmartin declined comment when asked about reports that rifles, automatic weapons and 7,000 cartridges were destined for eventual use in a counter-revolution in Cuba, whose former president, Fulgencio Batista, took refuge in the Dominican Republic last new year's day.

Nine persons, including a woman, reported to be Batista's relatives, who were taken from the four-engined transport at Miami International Airport, were released on bail.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Rain associated with a cold across Lake Erie into southwestern Ontario this morning will clear elsewhere this evening. Cool elsewhere most of the southern regions. The rain is expected to move slowly eastward, ending in western regions this afternoon and reaching the eastern part of the province late in the day.

A high - pressure area over Northern Ontario will cause fair but cool weather to continue there. Milder weather is expected Sunday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Army has spoken up sharply against a Senate committee's recommendation to slop off three-quarters of the money it hoped to use to expand its Nike Hercules anti-aircraft - missile system.

In addition, the army is stepping up its war with the U.S. Air Force—and specifically the Thunderer missile.

While the army went to bat for its anti-aircraft system the air force was reported to have made the Senate proposal that an air service strategic command be established to control all anti-ballistic weapons. This would include the navy's future missile-firing submarines.

CALLED NEAR-OBSOLETE

The powerful Senate armed services committee reported last week to recommend that a proposed $362,400,000 for nine rocket bases in the United States and Hawaii be trimmed to about $75,000,000. The Nike Hercules weapon, the committee said, is "virtually obsolete."

An army spokesman came up Friday with answers to questions by reporters.

If Congress goes ahead with the Senate committee's proposed amendment, the spokesman said, "serious gaps" in defences would be created. Besides the first model of the Bomarc has been put into the air defence system. The earliest date when a significant number will be installed is at least two years away. By then, the military need will be for defence against long-range ballistic missiles, not bombers.

CAPABILITY PROVED

3. The Hercules already has proved its capability to handle a 2,000 - mile - an - hour target at a height of 16 miles and a distance of a rocket-launched target more than 100,000 feet—about 19 miles.

The Nike Hercules can carry an atomic warhead for a range of 90 to 100 miles while the rival Bogurat will be limited to a range of 400 miles and also will mount a nuclear warhead.

The air force contends the Nike Hercules' range is too short.

Mom Whyte May Get $250,000 In Govt. Grants

TORONTO (CP) — "Bertha (Mom) Whyte's mission for children at Bowmanville will be available for up to $250,000 in construction grants if incorporation comes through next week.

Mom Whyte plans a $500,000 building project which will include two dormitories to accommodate 60 children, and an administration building and a chapel.

But "Whytehaven" must be incorporated as a mission before provincial grants will be forth-coming. It will need enough capital to get construction under way and the provincial grants will be forthcoming.

Under the charitable foundations act, Whytehaven can receive building grants of up to $2,500 per bed or 50 per cent of the total cost, whichever is less.

NATIONAL ENERGY BOARD CALLED STOOGE OF GOVT

Could Leave Cabinet With Wide Powers

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's proposed national energy board has been attacked in the Commons as a political stooge that leaves the cabinet free to wield arbitrary powers over oil and natural gas.

"The board is not a policy-making or administrative board at all; it is a political stooge of the government," Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said Friday.

Armand Dumas (L — Villeneuve) in a parliamentary aside asked to enact legislation but at the same time to authorize the government to exempt all the possible cases which could be covered.

SUPPORT PRINCIPLE

Mr. Dumas said the government seeks wide and arbitrary powers but said the Liberal party supports the bill's principle.

The members were commenting on aspects of the government's national energy bill which Trade Minister Churchill said seeks to protect public interest on the one hand and the healthy status of the oil and gas industry on the other.

The bill would give a five-man board wide control over import and export of gas and the export of crude oil, subject to cabinet approval.

Control of oil imports and exports would be exercised through cabinet proclamation if such step was considered necessary.

Regulation of traffic, tariffs and taxes on pipelines would be imposed under sole authority of the board.

Mr. Lisbert and CCF critics said that recommendations by the government-appointed Borden royal commission on energy have been dumped overboard by the bill.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the Borden commission had recommended that title to oil, gas and coal and resources a able return on the shareholder investment in the company. But the government would fail to make the basis a fair and reasonable one and would penalize investors.

Mr. Churchill said this was due to a desire to provide flexibility.

University Student Pickets Try to Put Premier on Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two university students put Premier Frost on the spot Friday on the issue of student aid.

They picketed an Ontario electric company rally at St. Thomas carrying signs reading: "Frost unfair to university students." And before the premier entered the hall they spent 10 minutes talking to him about the problem.

Inside, Mr. Frost told the meeting of 120 persons that his government was sympathetic to the growing needs of universities but was caught in a money squeeze between the needs of the universities and those of the students.

The problem was, he said, that student enrolment was expected to increase rapidly in the next 10 years. The universities were requesting more aid to erect buildings and equipment, but residents of the institutions had argued that if more money wasn't forthcoming they would have to increase tuition fees.

It wasn't possible for the government to do everything at once He inferred that the universities' needs would have to come first.

"Elsewhere in the campaign I have said that the Ontario universities were relatively quiet.

TORONTO TOUR

Liberal leader John Wintermeyer spent the day in Toronto rosings. He attended an afternoon reception and met 100 Liberal workers from five east-end ridings and spent an hour in a vigorous handshaking tour of three other ridings in the evening.

He visited a home for the aged and chatted with many of the residents. He was whisked from there to a supermarket in Toronto Eglinton where he caused a hectic jam in the aisles, then headed for a girls' softball game and a suburban shopping plaza.

CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald toured sections of his home riding of York South and spent the evening at his home preparing material for scheduled speeches in Sudbury and Elliot Lake today.

Premier Frost told his St. Thomas audience that one of the reasons for the current Liberal Progressive Conservative government's success was the municipal taxpayer's burden.

He was faced with the double problem of assisting the development and assisting the taxpayer. Much had already been done to improve school conditions and "assistance from now on in is going to give greater relief to the municipal taxpayer."

Education was "inseparable from municipal government and the only workable way of giving assistance to education was by increasing grants at the local level. Thus more of the education burden would be transferred to provincial shoulders.

Mr. Wintermeyer, who has been conducting the most vigorous of the three leadership tours, had a busy night in Toronto shaking hundreds of hands and getting lots of children's heads in his whirlwind travels.

At the softball game he delighted photographers by slugging out a pair of solid hits. He misjoined with an overflow Friday night shopping crowd in the store plaza and paused to chat with dozens of family groups.

The Liberal leader was still fresh-looking, however, as he finished his day at a coffee-and-cake reception at the committee rooms of Vernon Singer, candidate in York Centre.

Queen's Visit Alters Chicago Garbage Plans

Somebody noted that the site for Queen Elizabeth's garbarkation on her visit to Chicago July 6 is close — to garbage transfer station where refuse is put aboard rail cars for a trip to the city dump.

Friday, the city ordered the transfer point closed and cleaned up by June 15—two weeks before the Queen arrives.

Mayor Invites Department to Move North

NORTH BAY (CP)—Mayor Leo Del Villano of Timmins has invited the Ontario department of planning and development to move its headquarters to North Ontario.

He told the Northern Ontario Economic Development Committee Friday that Planning Minister Dick Nickle and his whole staff should settle in the north to bring them closer to the immediate problems of the mining area.

He criticized the structure of the Northeastern Ontario Development Association, and warned that the town's largest contributor to the plan, was considering withdrawing.

Mayor Del Villano also said that Ontario's resources are unformly scaled. He said they made Southern Ontario look richer as well as the whole northern region.

Gromyko Ready To Talk Outside Conference Room

Khrushchev Threatens East German Treaty

GENEVA (AP)—High Western diplomats reported today the Big Four powers today will take a series of recesses in their formal talks early next week to make way for secret negotiations.

A British source said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has advised the west he would be "agreeable" to a new phase of restricted exchanges provided they take place outside the Palais des Nations conference room where East and West German delegates are permitted to speak.

The British, U.S., French and West German foreign ministers will meet Monday to decide if and how this arrangement to allow certain exchanges can be worked out formally with Gromyko.

Russia and the West are putting heat on each other to come up with "flexibility" at the Geneva conference that could pave the way for a summer summit meeting.

Soviet pressure came from Premier Khrushchev who told Moscow, where he returned from a vacation cruise that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if there is no agreement at the Geneva foreign ministers meeting.

This threat, made to Ambassador Hans Kroll of East Germany Thursday, was being examined by Western delegations for its significance in relation to progress to the conference.

READY TO TALK

Pressure on Russia came in the form of a U.S. statement saying that after two weeks or more of recess the talks could be resumed. Gromyko in his speech when he said he wants the legislation, "by making the competition, to bring about the most effective allocation of resources and the highest possible standard of living."

Govt. Starts Fiscal Year In the Black

OTTAWA (CP) — The government started its 1959-60 fiscal year in the black, Finance Minister Fleming reported Friday.

In April, first month of the fiscal year, there was a small surplus of $1,000,000 after revenues of $299,900,000 and expenditures of $298,500,000, Mr. Fleming April to forecast a $959-60 deficit of $393 000,000.

In April, 1958, there was a deficit of $10,700,000 after revenues of $252,900,000 and expenditures of $263,600,000.

Operations of the old age security fund for April, 1959, not included in budgetary transactions, resulted in a deficit of $19,100,000 compared with a deficit of $17,000,000 for April, 1958. These deficits were covered by loans under terms of the Old Age Security Act.

April revenue from taxes especially corporation and excise taxes, increased by $46,000,000 from last year but this increase was offset by higher expenditures.

Biggest outlay, as usual, was for national defence. The amount in April was $61,200,000. Public debt charges came to $60,100,000 compared with $45,700,000 a year ago.

Marines Fire At Brazil Mob, Perhaps 12 Die

RIO DE JANEIRO (Ap)—One person was killed and between 10 and 20 wounded when Brazilian marines fired into mobs rioting during a political strike Friday, government sources reported.

But newspapers reported up to 12 killed and 64 wounded. The hospital at Niteroi, across the bay from Rio, said it counted 64 wounded.

Violence erupted when the commander of an army hospital provided to transport communists to a boat. Mobs burned the ferry dock, looted stores and destroyed automobile warehouses.

The government seized the Barcelera Ferry Company on grounds it had received federal subsidies but had not passed them onto its employees. The president also ordered the workers be given increases retroactive to May 1.

Judge Decides Fair Breaking Strain For Elastic in Panties Five Strips

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Under the dignity of British law and the wisdom of a bewigged judge, five summonses were issued to decide the fair breaking strain of the elastic in women's panties — five panties.

Filed before Judge Abraham of Hyde were 64 items of frilly ladies' dainties, including 19 pairs of assorted panties.

The judge whipped out a pocket magnifying glass and examined them. Then he tested them.

"One of the garments," he commented, "pulled off about five times would be subject to considerable strain."

After that, he said, the elastic joins would give way, "making them unfit for the purpose for which they were sold."

In the case before Judge Flint a firm of wholesalers made a store for 4.49 8s, the value of the garments.

The store claimed the dainties were not fit for sale as the elastic was sewn into the waists in the wrong way.

Judge Flint agreed they were rather poor quality, but he wasn't satisfied the defects in them were there before they left the wholesalers. He ordered the store to pay up.

ANTI-COMBINES LAW FACING GOVT. REVISION

Principle Behind Act to Be Changed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is working on a revision in the long-standing principle behind anti - combines legislation that business competition is, without qualification, always in the best interests of the people.

Well-informed sources said Friday that a revision is being framed that would put some qualifications on the type of competition that anti - combines law should maintain.

If Parliament at its present session approves the contemplated changes, these sources say, certain types of economic consolidating business mergers would become legal.

SELF-INTEREST

But arrangements designed to eliminate competition for selfish interests, such as a gain control of prices, or to restrain competition in trade, would continue to be illegal.

Some hint of what the government plans was given by Justice Minister Fulton in a recent Toronto speech when he said he wants the legislation, "by making the competition, to bring about the most effective allocation of resources and the highest possible standard of living."

DESIRABILITY IS KEY

Informants say Parliament is likely to be asked to approve a modification that would qualify the desirability test as useful, desirable and that which is not.

Other changes to be proposed include a provision aimed at penalizing businesses that engage in manoeuvres to advertising such as representing what are essentially retail prices as being wholesale prices.

Safety Factors Major Concerns Of Symposium

HAMILTON (CP) — Safety factors were the major concern of industry delegates to a symposium Friday at the annual meeting of the Canadian Petroleum Association of Canada.

Gas industry supervisors outlined safety factors used in industry to 350 delegates from all parts of Canada.

Technical advances and Alberta gas for Ontario have cut down the dangers of safety, said E. F. Bagley, Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co. general manager.

But Mr. Bagley said the most important factor lies in "application of safe operation methods covered in published codes and standards and of utility personnel as well as personnel of dealer, installer and pipeline contractors."

Councillor Lloyd Worrall Subject for 'This Is Your Life'

TRENTON — Councillor Lloyd Worrall was the principal party of "This Is Your Life" staged at the Trenton Country Club last night before a packed house.

The evening was a complete surprise to the councillor who had been watched during the afternoon and evening by Collin Crews to make sure he was present for the program. He and several other guests had supper at the Crews' home prior to the show at the Country Club.

Master of ceremonies for the night was Doug Bannon of Belleville and announcing the commercials was Flying Officer Ron Cripps of Trenton RCAF.

The entire program was based on the famous TV show and consisted of humorous and serious incidents in the life of Councillor Worrall from the time of his youth.

Brought from out of town to take part in the show were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worrall of Montreal, Mrs. Worrall's parents; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Cherrington, his sister and brother-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Sawyer, cousins of Mr. and Mrs. Worrall. They had all arrived during the afternoon and had stayed at a local motel and unknown to the councillor.

Special thanks were extended with a dance.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A letter from the United Counties asking the town for $1,000 or add a few hundred dollars over the one-half mill to the suburban road levy was received over by Councillor Vagn Lange, chairman of the finance committee. Mr. Lange told the council he felt the other council was most unlikely to give an answer but that he would like to have about two weeks to look into it. He told the council that in another week they will have a better idea of the town's own departments getting along in the financial field and this will be given consideration before any additional money is added to the county grant for suburban roads. O. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer, will also go into the matter with Councillor Lange.

IN GOOD SHAPE

Two representatives of an investment house in Toronto appeared before the Trenton town council at the regular meeting held in the board room of the municipal building and suggested that they (the councillors) employ the services of their office to handle the debentures the town has to offer on the market. They told the council the next debenture debt should be about $100 per capita, which is to be raised through taxation. They said this was a bit high but not out of line. They also told the town is in "dandy" shape, its credit good and its debentures very well received on the market. Last year's audit of town has a total of $463,000 in debentures to be sold. Councillor Vagn Lange suggested that the matter be studied at committee level because the other two members of the finance committee were not present, and they would report back to the council. Councillor Lange moved and Councillor Reed seconded and a report will be given at the next meeting of council.

URGED TO ATTEND

Members of the town council and the planning board were urged to attend a meeting of community planning to be held in Belleville on Tuesday, Wednesday, June 9 and 10. The councillors were told that the workshop on planning will cover many problems now being encountered in the overall planning scheme for Trenton.

Roller Skating Popular Sport At the Gardens

TRENTON — Roller skating is a very popular sport and recreation in Trenton and the attendance at the Trenton Community Gardens every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings proves it.

Regular skating is held from 8 till 10 p.m. on each of these evenings and the spacious arena floor is invariably packed with children, teenagers and adults during those hours.

However, noting that some of the regular skating enthusiasts are becoming very expert at the popular pastime, the Gardens' management has decided to introduce dancing on roller skates for the further enjoyment of their patrons.

Commencing immediately and until further notice, roller skating dancing will be held for an hour prior to regular skating and for 15 minutes after the normal skating hours terminate.

So, from 7 till 8 p.m. and from 10 till 10.15 p.m. skating and dancing enthusiasts can gather at the Gardens and have themselves a ball on the beautiful terazzo floor, ideal for the purpose.

New Families Made Aware of Centre Facilities

TRENTON — New families arriving in Trenton and district are made aware of the facilities and attractions of the Trenton Community Gardens soon after their arrival in this area.

Through the courtesy and cooperation of Mrs. W. R. Cody, official Trenton Welcome Wagon hostess, newcomers are advised of the entertainment and recreation available to all members of the family at the spacious and well equipped Gardens.

Each new family is provided with a free pass good for one couple and to any one event sponsored by the Gardens management, so they can become acquainted at first hand with the community owned Gardens.

The Trenton Community Gardens Commission takes pleasure in welcoming the new arrivals and appreciates very much Mrs. Cory's courtesy and interest in the matter.

Kid-Holding Up Traffic Was Billy Goat

TRENTON — Kids will be kids whether they be human or animal and residents of the Trenton Police Department found out last week when a goat, whatever they be, it apparently seems they love to play in the streets.

Last night Constable Sid Vickers on duty in the police station received a call from a kid was on King Street and holding up traffic. He immediately sent the police car investigate and the kid was brought back to the police station and despite protests that he was the market. They told the council the net debenture debt of the town of Trenton is now about $100 per capita, which is to be raised through taxation. They said this was a bit high but not out of line. They also told the town is in "dandy" shape, its credit good and its debentures very well received on the market. Last year's audit of town has a total of $463,000 in debentures to be sold. Councillor Vagn Lange suggested that the matter be studied at committee level because the other two members of the finance committee were not present, and they would report back to the council. Councillor Lange moved and Councillor Reed seconded and a report will be given at the next meeting of council.

Odd Fellows Bowling League Closes Season

The Odd Fellows Mixed League brought the current season with a free night of bowling at the Recreation Alleys, prizes being donated by the league and alley manager, Tom Pappas; and the annual banquet held again at the O.D.F. Hall on Front Street. A turkey supper was prepared and served by the L.A.F.M. The vote of thanks from the league to the ladies was expressed by Ray Hyndman, to Mrs. Margaret Reed which followed, the league president, Ray Scott, acted as chairman.

The president spoke briefly of the past season noting the attendance of several bowlers had been exceptional also thanking the team captains for their assistance throughout the year. The high average trophy, Doug Simpson, an earlier president of the league, and Mrs. Simpson, as well as MacDonald trophy to the team winning the playoffs. The Gilmour Bill Fraser accepted the trophy on behalf of his team, Rebekah Lodge and was followed by a length of fire hose and another volunteer fireman dressed the same, Bob Milne.

Mr. Worrall was also reminded of his love for pets during his early life and that one of his favorites had been a "Billy" goat which brought him by his father.

To make the councillor's memory more vivid he was presented with another live goat in a cage and was assured it was "apartment size."

Mrs. Worrall was also presented with a desk pen-set with a replica attached to remind him of the occasion.

The social evening was ended with a dance.

IN MEMORIAM

MOORE. — In loving memory of a precious mother, Isabella Moore, who passed away May 23rd, 1958.
Oft my mind it wanders back,
When a child I used to play,
All her loving care she gave,
Which I'll remember to the grave for me.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her daughter, Ada.
She is happy there to meet
Washing over those we love dear,
There we'll meet her some glad day.
Sweet is the memory of my mother Dorothy, son-in-law Merle and grandchildren.

NILES. — In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Charles Niles, who was drowned May 23rd 1957.
No one knows how much I miss you
Or how much I think of you,
I have suffered alone in silence
In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly sacred and true.
There is not a day, dear son,
That I do not think of you
Sweet to remember one who once was true.
And though lonely and sorrowful
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mother.

NILES. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charles Niles, who was drowned May 23rd 1957.

And his hand we'll clasp no more,

God has him now in heaven,
We have him in our hearts.

Two Industries Locate in Area Since February

Mayor John D. Burnet of Cobourg was elected as president of the Lake Ontario Development Association at the annual directors' meeti.g, held in Peterborough on Thursday, May 21. Mayor Burnet is past vice-president of the association and succeeds Mr. Elmer W. Banting of Bowmanville. He has served on the board of directors of the association for three years and was 1st vice-president and also past chairman of Zone Two. The association is an organization promoting the economic welfare of the area, extending approximately from Bowmanville to Napanee and north to Haliburton County.

Three new member municipalities have joined the association this year, bringing the total to forty-four volunteer member communities. The association is financially supported as well by the Province of Ontario.

It was reported that two new industries have located in the region since the general meeting in February. These are the Nash Aluminum Company of Oshawa who have located in Lindsay, and the Ford Manufacturing Company who have located in Port Hope.

Representatives of three industries have toured the municipalities in the area as well, with the association's officer, looking for suitable plant sites and buildings available as well as obtaining information on the various communities in which they showed interest.

The three Sportsmen's Shows attended by the association in 1959 provided the participating communities with over 2,700 written enquiries which were distributed to the various commercial committees, Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade, as well as tourist organizations and resort operators. 250 of these lists were distributed containing the names of the enquiries and the information they requested.

J.C. Lundberg, Veteran, Named Liberal Candidate For West Hastings Riding

Yesterday evening the Liberals of Hastings W. chose Jack Lundberg of Belleville as their standard bearer in the forthcoming provincial election. Three candidates were nominated, the others being Irvine "Mac" McGaughey and Roy Brown of Trenton. Both of these nominees withdrew in favor of keeping with the predominant policy of the Liberal party to present young and energetic candidates to the electorate.

Frank Follwell, in proposing Mr. Lundberg, well known citizen of this city for his activities in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans and union organization, commented that the Liberal Party, under John Wintermeyer, was forming a formidable front of new young blood which together with the enthusiasm he has noted in his campaigning across Ontario, will give the present Frost government a real battle for the reins of government on June 11th.

The Liberal candidate is a native of this riding born in Belleville some 38 years ago. He is presently serving the ANAF veterans organization as Dominion vice-president, following four years as Ontario provincial command president. Employed by the Canadian National Railways for the past twelve years he has been president of the Belleville local of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers for the past four years.

Upon accepting the nomination Mr. Lundberg stated that he would dedicate his best to serve the interests of the people of this riding and of this province. The D-Day invasion veteran, who for four years active service with the Royal Canadian Artillery, said, "I know that with the cooperation and support of my fellow party members we will win in this election." From the design to the gathering in the Kitawanis Centre came assurances and of the eagerness of the Liberal workers to go to work for their candidate in an all-out effort "to win back the Queen's Park".

The guest speaker for the nomination convention was Frank Follwell, one of the Liberal party's slate of selected speakers who have been campaigning on behalf of the party across Ontario. Commenting on a news item in the Toronto Sar con- cerning a threat to burn Mr. Wintermeyer's home, Mr. Follwell expressed his opinion that this action is indicative that some people are afraid that the Liberals are going to prove too powerful for the Tory government in the coming election. Commenting on Mr. Frost's recent effort to laud the former cabinet minister Mr. William Grenlinger for his part in putting through transactions involving the gas pipeline in northern Ontario, the former mayor of Belleville stated that Mr. Frost's "defence of the corruption" leaves no alternative but to turn out the present government in an effort to clean up matters at Queen's Park.

Accusations concerning the Progressive Conservative government's failure to utilize the entire revenues derived from gasolines taxes and licensing fees hardly justified the high cost of these items to the Ontario motorist. This immorality on the part of the Frost government is undoubtedly the reason why the Honorable John Foote and a former speaker of the provincial House have refrained from running for re-election on June 11th, suggested Mr. Follwell. The recent highway 8 scandal leaves much room for an investigation of the tax structure of the highway program in case the funds which have apparently been accumulated for from the aforementioned revenues are being used for paying overrun to favored construc- tors, felt the former federal candidate Hastings South.

MANY ISSUES CLAIM

Mr. Kenneth Ross, president of the local Liberal Association, indicated that there are many issues which may be contended in this election and reported that there are many encouraging indications of a turn on the part of the electorate to Liberal candidates and policies throughout the province.

Mr. Ross, president of the Ontario Young Liberals Association, stated that the Young Liberals will be working hard for the party's choice — Mr. Lundberg — in the election, and that they have planned a meeting for Monday evening to give those interested in the young Liberal organization a chance to meet the candidate.

A meeting of Jack Lundberg and the Liberal Association's executive is being held this afternoon to plan the campaign strategy for the next two and one-half weeks. Mr. Lundberg has indicated that he will name his campaign chairman following this meeting.

Outdoor Market Riot of Color, Prices Steady

Many people attended this morning's outdoor market, which exhibited a profusion of color and a variety of produce which hasn't been seen for some time. Potato prices were varying between 50 and 60 cents a basket but steady at $2.50 the 15-pound bag. A goodly display of apples was evident at several stands with prices holding steady — from 50 to 75c a basket, according to variety.

Rhubarb was available at 15c a bunch and asparagus at 33c for two bunches.

For those who enjoy cultivating their own gardens an early start could be obtained by purchasing any of the great variety of plants available. Nearly every type of vegetable and flower common to this area was displayed and prices varied between 35 and 50c for a small box. Raspberry plants were selling at $1.25 a dozen.

There were still a few jars of maple syrup for sale at 75c for 16 ozs.

Cut flowers were also in evidence, a representative price being 35c for a dozen tulips.

The indoor market was quite busy as well and vendors of home baking found a ready market for their wares. Egg prices were fairly normal with extra large selling at 47-50c the dozen and large selling at 42-43c. Chicken prices remained at 50c a pound.

The Salvation Army Guides held a bake sale on the indoor market to raise funds to acquire a tent for their summer camping. Cakes and cookies sold quite well, the supply being almost exhausted by 10.30 a.m.

BELLEVILLE CEMETERY COMPAN

Art Association To Hold Exhibit Of Paintings

Painting is a pastime which Sir Winston Churchill has described as "a friend who makes no undue demands". Recently, more and more people have made the acquaintance of this new and wonderful friend. A few years ago, under the sponsorship of the Belleville Recreation Committee, an Arts and Crafts Club was formed. The members interested in art have been painting together ever since that time and a short time ago formed a group, still a part of the Arts and Crafts Club, called the "Belleville Art Association".

The members are mostly busy housewives with young children, and some are equally busy business men and women. Whatever their occupation, all share an enthusiasm over their common interests, and spend as much time as possible painting as well as studying the work of well-known artists. They have had the benefit of lectures and demonstrations by skilled instructors, the most recent of which is Paavo Alvola.

Mr. Alvola has the gift of transmitting his knowledge and enthusiam to those who study under him, and while the work of his students show his influence, he encourages each one to paint in his or her own individual style.

How often we hear someone say, "I'd love to paint, but I can't even draw a straight line"! Many people have the desire to paint, but are too timid to start, feeling they will be a failure. Anyone who is even slightly interested in this fascinating pastime may see the work of the Belleville Art Association members have been doing when they hold their exhibit of paintings by Paavo Alvola and his students in Grenlinger Park on the new Recreation building on Pinnacle Street. There will be no admission charge.

Mr. Alvola's work has been receiving considerable attention and press coverage recently, and at present he is exhibiting in the Roberts Gallery, Toronto, the Shore Studio Galleries, Boston, Winnipeg Art Gallery and London Art Gallery.

One critic, Colin Sabiston, describes his work thus: "There is great joy as well as deep peace in such work. If one likes Alvola's paintings at all on first view, he probably will like them forever. The effect is like that of the most appealing of the Psalms in the King James Version: with the passing of years one may forget the exact text, but the warm glow of their poetry never fades."

Army Summer Course Liked By High School Students

JOHN COE

There is no doubt as to the popularity of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's Student Militia Summer Recruit Course.

Sixty-five students from 18 years and up will start the 1959 course which gets under way in the armories here on June 29.

Lieut.-Col. Angus Duffy, CD, commanding officer, said today the regiment has over 180 applications for the course. He regrets that regulations will permit only 65 student soldiers.

"The boys are screened very carefully—and everything about the applicant is studied and weighed before selection is made. It is an extremely hard job to select 65 from a promising group of 180," Col. Duffy said.

The successful applicants are uniformed, and regular force pay. For the 52-day, five days a week course each will receive $60.

The recruits will sleep at home, and train in the armories or the area.

Instructors of the course have been carefully selected for their ability to instruct. All are very capable men, the colonel said.

Included are: Captain W. O. Cochran; Lieut. R. Q. Laughlin, Lieut. H. Lawrence, CSM W. Bennett; RQMS H. W. Elder, Sergeant R. Burley, Sergt. S. McNeill and six qualified corporals who have had instructional experience on similar courses.

The aim of the course is to fit the students basic recruit training.

A similar course is being held at Port Hope where 20 students will be enrolled.

Last year the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was presented with a plaque for ranges.

Eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Coe, 162 St. George St., Brantford, Ontario, graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, with the degree of Batchelor of Science in chemical engineering. He is now employed by The Precipitation Company of Canada, Ltd., whose Canadian head office is in Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Coe and family were residents of Belleville for 17 years and are recently moved to Brantford.

conducting the most proficient summer course in the area, Brigadier Eric Snow, area commandant, made the presentation.

Today has been designated as "Army Day."

There will be no demonstration in the city by his regiment, Col. Duffy said, but the unit with others of the 13 Militia Group, will mark the day on Sunday at the Barrisfield

"Hell Drivers" Perform Before Capacity Crowd

A capacity crowd of thrill-seekers jammed the grandstand at the Fair Grounds last night to watch the 1959 edition of the world-famous "Hell Drivers."

The Hell Drivers' appearance in Belleville was sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club as one of their annual money-making projects.

The spectators came looking for fun and thrills and they got their money's worth last night as stunt-stars recruited from television and movie lots, stock car and auto racing circles presented a fast-moving production of race track entertainment.

The motor maniacs, equipped with $100,000 worth of new Fords, presented such daring stunts as auto acrobats with daredevils perched atop speeding cars, human Steeplechase races over elevated ramparts, precision driving contests in which three cars cross and crisscross their way down the track and over elevated ramps.

From the opening introduction of the "Parade of Champions" to the climatic aerial crisscross leap known as the "Space Car Canon Shot", performed by Bobo Canup and Buddy Young, the show is filled with two hours of action, thrills, comedy and of mile-a-minute spectaculars.

As well as thrills the crowd got a "belly-full" of laughs with a couple of hobo-type clowns, one with French-Canadian accent, attempted to perform some of the same daring stunts as the regular stunt drivers. Their crazy antics as they joked and cavorted their way through the show drew gales of laughter from the grandstand.

Also included in the show was the total demolishing of a couple of used cars which were rolled over several times. The climax of this part of the show came when one driver drove his car over a ramp and smashed into another car parked in the middle of the roadway. The driver was unhurt.

THEY SWITCH HORSES

If the stand of Lester B. Pearson, Nobel Peace Prize winner, on the control of nuclear tactical weapons for Canadian forces makes rather strange reading, it is because we have here an issue on which it is impossible to be right.

The manner in which Canadian forces are equipped is not a decision which rests with the Canadian Government, if these forces are to be capable of integregation with those of Canada's allies.

It would be quite feasible for the government to limit the equipment of Canada's army, navy and air force to conventional weapons, making these three arms of the services ideal for fighting a "brush fire" war. Perhaps that would be the most useful role Canada could play in the defence of democracy in today's world.

But if this is done, then we must relinquish the idea that Canada can play a part in any major conflict.

On the other hand, if Canadian forces are to be able to play a significant part in the event of war, they must be equipped with the type of weapons which will be used in such a war — nuclear weapons. There are two ways in which to obtain such weapons — by endeavoring to develop them ourselves, which would be enormously expensive, or by arranging to obtain them from either the U.S. or Britain. Since the U.S. is prepared to make such weapons available to members of the NATO alliance, the simplest meethod, is for Canada to accept similar aid. Then the U.S. though, while ready to place these weapons so that they will be instantly available to the forces of her allies in the event of war, is not prepared to relinquish control of them while the world is still at peace. This attitude is not only understandable, but we think desirable. In any event, agreement concerning it is beside the point. Nothing that Mr. Pearson or any other Canadian may say is likely to sway U.S. authorities on this point.

It follows that, unless a political party is prepared to advocate a drastic revision of Canada's defence aims and a limitation of its role to the fighting of "brush fire" wars, it is prepared to burden the country with the enormous expense of developing its own nuclear weapons, it must accept a situation in which Canadian forces are equipped with nuclear tactical weapons which remain under the control of the U.S.

Now Mr. Pearson says he does not like this situation and in this he will be joined by many. Certainly this is a limitation of Canadian sovereignty.

But consider the alternative - - a Canada controlling nuclear weapons. If Canada had them, other small nations would have a precedent for seeking similar arms. A world in which there were not three nuclear powers but a dozen or more would be a frightening one.

This seems to have been the reasoning behind Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement not long ago that Canada would not seek to manufacture or control nuclear weapons.

It seems to us that of the two alternatives both leave much to be desired. We are here faced with the choice of being a status symbol, a nation little more than to that of a satellite of the U.S., or of taking a step which might turn the world into a den of horror, booby-trapped with little countries any one of which was capable of starting a war which would end civilization.

It is ironic that, faced with this choice, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who is considered in most quarters to stand for sturdy independence and an avoidance of subservience to the U.S., should have chosen a limitation of Canadian sovereignty, while Mr. Pearson, the peace prize winner and a man more internationalistic in his outlook than the Prime Minister, should have come down on the side of national independence.

WHAT YARDSTICK?

The Commons broadcasting committee has called for a detailed accounting of the political balance of CBC public affairs programs and news commentaries.

After this accounting is received, it will still be necessary to judge the facts by a yardstick. Determining the yardstick is not going to be easy.

Should the time given to different political leanings bear a relationship to membership in the House of Commons?

Or should this relationship be to the popular vote at the last election, an altogether different figure?

Or should equal time be given to all points of view?

Or should the aim be to adequately explain all points of view, which might result in one viewpoint, because simple and well known, being dismissed in a couple of sentences, while another, more complicated or less familiar to the majority of CBC listeners, might require outlining at considerable length.

Who is the Solomon who will solve this problem?

THE SCHEME OF LIFE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

To laugh when a laugh would be clever
To comfort when comfort is sound
To refrain from the habit of sneering;
In a word, to do just what we ought,
To treat others the way we'd be treated,
Ah, this is the task that is ours.

We've wasted the best of our powers.

Not to laugh when a brother is crying,
Nor frown when a neighbor may smile,
To encourage when some one is trying—
Yes, that is the duty worth while.
To be kind and to be sympathetic,
To be brave in the hour of strife
And never to lose faith
In a word, live a well-balanced life.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer

by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE NO. 19

Deseronto was not to have a covered rink or arena in our day — nor even yet. But there was a time when a start was made. The same hangar which later was moved to Trenton to provide a covered arena there, was moved from Camp Rathbun to the Island location on Main Street, there, down on the water, the money to re-erect it, and so it was sold and shipped out of town.

About the time we write, the boys, who had been making a fine name for themselves in lacrosse during the summer, were deep in the throes of a membership drive and the suggestion was made to "hit" up Harry Hatch and Frank Deseronto, Toronto millionaire, for some money to help to finance the organization of a covered rink or arena.

BEAT THE GUN

Now it is supposed that among those present was one man who had other plans. He was a member, in another sporting connection, in town which had a debt of $350 to pay off, and he beat the gun by writing to Harry Hatch and in due course he received the cheque. So help-ed was he that he chased to our office with the cheque and the letter which came with it. What we can remember most about the latter is that the money was to be equally divided among various sporting organizations. But that was not done. Sufficient money was taken to pay off the $350 mortgage as mentioned before, the balance of $150 was split between hockey and tennis.

During that summer Mr. Hatch and his wife had been touring from an old friend he was told of the wonderful site of his dealings. He was reported as saying, "they may be after money again and of course they won't be any." And that turned out to be quite true when it was decided to hold a United Empire Loyalist celebration later, Mr. Hatch refused to donate. After all he had not been born in Deseronto but in Bloomfield. His father had brought the family to town when he entered the hotel business.

Deseronto was also for a covered rink or arena died right there and then and as far as we know, never heard of what a great pity, too, for despite the lack of a proper arena several town boys went on to big things in hockey in various centres where they were given proper facilities. "Buster" Whitton participated in Belleville and he cut Trent Valley League, as a player with Campbellford, if memory serves, in one playoff game in Belleville scoring the winning goal. Never mind for site the Deseronto boy turned out to be a well-round athlete of no mean ability.

However, getting away from lacrosse and baseball and hockey in winter there was one more sport in the winter time which was very much in demand, that was harness horse ice racing. Here, too, was the centre of town. And there was a driving club.

While we cannot recall a Deseronto horse in those races, there was one named the Ice Queen owned by Bill Maracle that was about as good as the best. However, there were many other good pacers and trotters in various parts of the district, east to Kingston, south to Picton, and races that drew large crowds.

As we recall it now Edmund Dowling and Herb Aylesworth, who farmed on the Napanee road east of Deseronto, were the owners of two fast pacers in races of those days, not as horse owners, but as officials for the driving club.

FEW SPORTS ATTRACTIONS

Other than that there was little for the Deseronto sports followers, other than minor hockey, between fall and spring. We recall writing a bit of dogeerel to instil more interest in a race between Bill Maracle's old pacer and a horse owned in Tyendinaga township. Our master effort was not taken too kindly by the Tyendinaga backers of their contender and we had to do some back-tracking. Not that it was to matter in the long run, for after all, it's hard no money on either horse.

There was to be some ice hockey but not to any great extent, and perhaps some fisherman caught a few big fish but was not for-us. Instead when Sunday came it was off to the Bay of Quinte for the day, possibly on snowshoes, maybe on skates, with Jimmy Hailey, later on a fire and a lunch. And of course our dogs must be along to get some much needed exercise and to share the companionship only to be found in such a manner.

Castro Faces Kiss of Death

New York Times

The tactic of the "kiss of death" is one of the most effective in the Communist armory. It likes variety in forms, such as announcing support for a politician and then, immediately thereafter, raising a man or movement, and claiming credit for a victory which the Communists had anything to do with it or not.

All these tactics have been used with great effect in the Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Cuba and the 26th of July Movement which he heads. The latest example is the glowing praise bestowed on Premier Castro and his movement by the Secretary General of the Chilean Communist party in a speech in Santiago on Sunday. Another effective move by the Reds is to attempt to identify Communist named Severo Aguirre with the Twenty-first Congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow a few months ago to indicate that the Soviet Communists (were in the forefront of the struggle to overthrow the Batista dictatorship.

This was a complete reversal of the facts, for the Communists a handful of North Americans and Latin American sympathizers, the truth algut the Reds in Cuba. The Communists were apdicted to the Batista power by Batista. Their hold on the Cuban underground was slight and came through General Batista's appointments. They were not credited by the dictator during the last critical two years which saw the murder of many thousands of peasants, students and professional men and women who were executed, tortured and killed.

While the abortive general strike of April, 1958, the Cuban Communists were of help to General Batista. But in January of 1959, the 26th of July Movement — a peasant revolt — did what they were doing. Only at the end, with victory in sight, did the Communists capitalize on the bandwagon.

Dr. Blas Roca, but if President Castro does not repudiate the services of the Communists he will be smothered by them. Neutrality is unachievable, as he must be realizing, is impossible.
